WITHOUT A QUORUM

But Little Work Will Be Done In the Senate This Week.

HOUSE WILL TACKLE TARIFF.

The Hawaiian Matter Will Then Be Ventilated.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—In accordance with its resolution of adjournment congress will reconvene on Wednesday next.

It is not probable that the senate will really get down to close business application during the week, and some of the most experienced observers of the course of the senate under circumstances similar to those which will surround that body when it shall reconvene freely predict that there will not be a quorum during any part of the present week, and that therefore no important business will be undertaken until Monday, the 8th.

Several senators will be absent in attendance upon Senator Faulkner's wedding, and many will not return from their homes or from other places to which they have gone for the holidays until the first of next week. The senators generally feel that there is little that the senate can do in the way of promoting legislation until the house shall act upon some of the measures before it.

The senate calendar contains 104 reported measures, but there are less than half a dozen of these that will require any great amount of time or consideration. There are a number of claims bills, of which the McGarrahan and Woodbridge are the most prominent, which in all probability will be disposed of at an early date, but whether this week or next, or later still, will depend altogether upon circumstances. The most important bill on the calendar is the federal elections bill, and it is possible that it may be taken up for speech-making during the week, though it is not likely that there will be an effort to pass it so soon.

In the House.

The program in the house for this week has not been definitely settled, but it is probable that the tariff and Hawaiian questions will both figure.

The tariff debate will begin as soon as the house reconvenes on Wednesday. The Democratic members of the ways and means committee have not yet decided upon the limit which will be set upon the debate, but the Democratic leaders seem to believe that it ought not to run more than two weeks, four days for general debate and the 10 days for debate under the five minute rule.

Whether Mr. Wilson, who is to open the debate, can speak on Wednesday will depend on whether the Republicans insist upon the full reading of the bill before the debate begins. Inasmuch as the formal reading was dispensed with when the McKinley bill was considered, the Democrats do not believe that the objections to dispensing with the reading of the Wilson bill will be interposed by the Republicans. In that case Mr. Wilson's opening speech will be heard on Wednesday, followed by that of Mr. Burrows, who will reply to Mr. Wilson's argument, for the Republicans.

The Hawaiian Muddle.

At the very outset of the tariff debate, however, it will be antagonized by the Republicans, who will come forward with the Hawaiian matter. Mr. Boutelle of Maine served notice that as soon as congress reconvenes he would call up the resolution which he introduced and which he maintained was of a privileged character. The question as to its provided ter. WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—Judge Lochren, commissioner of pensions, will again assume a judicial function ere half the term of the present administration has expired. CYPHRENES SUNK.

She Was In Collision With the Dutch Tank Steamer La Flandre.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Jan. 1.—The Dutch tank steamer La Flandre, Captain Schmyck, 17 days from Antwerp, for New York, in ballast, arrived here yesterday. Her port bow was crushed in and all her compartments were flooded with water. She collided on Saturday with the British steamer Cyphrenes, Captain Kelley, from Savannah for Liverpool, loaded with cotton. Both captains decline to tell how the collision occurred. The crews were also instructed to give no particulars of the accident.

The Cyphrenes had her bows driven right into the foremast and the water rushed in at a terrible rate. The ship was so badly damaged that she sank within three hours after the collision. The captain and crew of the Cyphrenes at first made every effort to save her, but found that her injuries were too great and launched the boats.

The Cyphrenes' crew of 27 men all got aboard La Flandre, and the vessel made for this port. Besides the other damage to La Flandre there are holes in her bottom and the plates on her port side were started for a great distance. All the port compartments were filled, and the crew was compelled to flood the starboard quarter to trim the ship.

BOSTON'S UNEMPLOYED.

Labor Men Think Police Did Not Take a Fair Census.

BOSTON, Jan. 1.—The labor leaders of this city are indignant over what they term "the farce of the police census of the unemployed." The police claim to have made a house to house canvass, and as a result the total number of unemployed was given out as 5063. Labor leaders ridicule the work of the police, and state that they have not made even a fair attempt to ascertain how many people were idle.

It is stated that at the meeting of Carpenters' union 33 last Friday night out of 214 members present 149 declared that the police never called at their homes to investigate. This, it is claimed, is the same story made at other labor meetings since the returns have been made. The Central Labor Union relief committee will hold a special meeting, when arrangements will be made for a new cen[illegible]

The Mystic Five Have Yearly Gathered at a Banquet.

A RECORD WITHOUT A PARALLEL.

Members Will Never Again Meet as a Club.

BOSTON, Jan. 1.—One of the most unique and remarkable clubs of its kind in history held its 50th annual session at Young's Hotel last night. It is composed of five gentlemen, all of whom formerly resided in Concord, N. H., who have met on the night before New Year's for the past 50 years. Every session has been complete, all of the members being present.

The club was formed in 1843 under the name of the "Mystic Five," the agreement of the members being that they should meet each year as the guests of some member of the club, and should attend the weddings and funerals of each other. It was further agreed that the wives of the members should also be present at the annual gatherings.

The members of the club are J. C. A. Hill of Concord, N. H., Dr. Charles A. Tufts of Dover, N. H., Joseph S. Abbott of Washington, D. C., Dr. William W. Hurd of New York city and George A. Blanchard of Concord, N. H. All of the members married, and for many years 10 plates have been set at each annual supper. For some years past, however, there has been one vacant chair, the wife of Dr. Hurd having died. The chair, however, decorated with flowers, has always occupied a prominent position at the table.

Business a Secret.

The greatest secrecy has always surrounded the meetings of the club preceding the supper, when the ladies are not present, and nothing has ever been known concerning the business transacted. Each member of the club wears a peculiar ruby pin, which is the only insignia of membership. On the formation of the club each member of the club agreed to abstain from the use of liquor and not to engage in games of chance, and wine has never been served at the annual banquets. The club members have, in all, six children.

The supper last night, rounding out the half century record with the possibility of more vacant chairs, it was decided to make it the last, and those present will never meet again as a club.

The supper was served in one of the most beautiful parlors at Young's and was a very elaborate spread. Mr. Blanchard was the host of the occasion.

The record of the "Mystic Five" has no parallel, the nearest approach to it being that of a club of 12 English gentlemen, who met annually for nearly 20 years, until death made the gathering impracticable. All of the members of the club, with a single exception, still enjoy good health, and all are very prosperous.

THE INAUGURAL of Mayor Hodges was, as expected, a thoughtful production, and grasps the situation as it is. He finds the debt of the city large, and without criticising any of the loans, he sees the necessity of economy. With this in mind, probably, he makes but one recommendation calling for an appropriation, and that is the widening of Sea street. It really seems a necessity and Coddington street should also have been included. His Honor's wish that harmony should exist between the two departments, is the wish of the citizens, and also that the welfare of the city shall be considered before ward or political party.

It is to be regretted that the finances of the city do not warrant the establisment of a sewerage system, but would it not under the rental system look out for itself as the water works will for themselves? Fair and equitable assessment of taxes are what we all want and the experience of the executive in this department warrants the belief that it will be attempted. The amendment proposed to the city charter providing that there shall be three commissioners of public works instead of one, is against the spirit of the charter, and there seems no good reason for a change. To secure Councilmen who will work for the interests of the whole city, it might be well to increase the number of members at large as suggested. There is an honest difference of opinion as to contract labor, with good arguments pro and con. The poor and the unemployed are remembered, and also the need of new industries. All will second the effort to keep the police out of politics, and not a few will endorse the Mayor's stand on school expenses.

Contrary to expectations there is no mention of Squantum, the wants of Norfolk Downs, grade crossings, etc. But there is a more important matter than all these and that is sidewalks. The city wants them and must have them, and we hope Mayor Hodges will see that we get them.

EX MAYOR Fairbanks will long be pleasantly remembered as a popular executive of the city. All, regardless of politics, will admit that he gave us an excellent administration, and that Quincy prospered.

INAUGURATION DAY.

The City Enters Its Sixth Year with Its First Democratic Mayor.

The Usual Ceremonies Take Place at Noon Today at City Hall.

City Council Organizes with the Re-election of President Bass and Clerk Spear.

It is a bright pleasant day for the inauguration of the new city government, and the people hope it is a favorable omen for Mayor Hodges who today assumed the reins of the city government. The attendance of ladies and gentlemen at the ceremonies this noon was much larger than usual.

Hon. Henry O. Fairbanks, the retiring Mayor, occupied the chair at the left of the new Mayor. The new councilmen were in the Council seats, and most of the heads of departments in their chairs. There was hardly a vacant seat in the hall.

Promptly at 12 o'clock City Clerk Spear rapped for order, and then administered the oath of office to Hon. William Allan Hodges, the Mayor-elect.

The roll of the Council of 1894 was called by City Clerk Spear, as follows: Charles F. Adams, 2d, Luther S. Anderson, Walter T. Babcock, Charles T. Baker, E. W. Henry Bass, John P. MAYOR HODGES' INAUGURAL.

Believes the People Demand an Honest, Impartial and Economical Government.

Amendments to the City Charter Recommended; Also Wide Boulevard to Houghs Neck.

The inaugural address of Mayor Hodges delivered today to the City Council appears full below. The proceedings in connection with the inauguration of the new city government will be found on the second page:

Gentlemen of the City Council:

In accordance with an established custom and one which seems to me entirely proper, I desire to address you briefly on affairs that will be brought to our attention for our consideration during the ensuing year, and I intend to speak to you as one should to those who are associated together to transact any ordinary business. We have been selected by the inhabitants of the City of Quincy to have charge of their interests, just as any corporation selects its agents. It has been said that one of the strong points of our charter is that we can see where the responsibility lies, if the public business is not properly conducted, and that the executive and the legislative branches are entirely independent of each other. Whether experience will verify this theory remains to be determined and I will not discuss it at this time. But it seems to me that in order to arrive at the best results for those who employ us, we should endeavor to have as much harmony as possible between the two branches of the government. The time we are here together soon pass away, but the record of our will remain to be scanned and criti- by those who succeed us, and it be- us to make a creditable and honor- ecord. It will be my endeavor to per- the duties which devolve upon the ive in such a manner as will warrant support of the legislative

The City's valuation in the past three years is as follows:

	Valuation.	Abatements.	Net Valuation.
1891,	$14,427,0 0	$173,215	$14,253 815
1892,	15,566,0 0	146,688	15,420,232
1893,	16,638,7 0	158,575	16,479,495
			$46,153, 542
Average valuation for 3 years,			15,384,514

Under recent legislation we have the right to raise money in one of two ways. First, we may assess not exceeding $12 per $1000 on the assessors' valuation for the preceding year less all abatements; thus, we may raise this year a tax amounting to $[illegible] 752.04. Second, we may assess on the average of the assessors' valuation for the preceding three years; this would give us $184,614.17.

Our limit of indebtedness is 2 1-2 per cent. on $15,384,514, viz. $384,612.85. From the above tables of city debt it appears that we have now an indebtedness of $339,730. In addition to this, we have assumed on account of the water supply of the city $54,000 for the extension of water mains, and $600,000 for the purchase of the water plant late of the Quincy Water Company. The city's debt, therefore, is almost one million dollars, of which the sum of $86,730 falls due this year.

Both in the raising and the spending of the city's money we must bear in mind that the sole desire of our citizens is that they should have a municipal government so honestly, impartially and economically administering their affairs that there will result the greatest good for the greatest number at the least expense.

City Charter.

It is well known to all that some objections to our City Charter have been raised. The chief one is that the election of a councilman-at-large means only the election of one more councilman from the ward in which he lives. Even if this view has no support in the facts, there can be no denying that it exists in the minds of many of our citizens, whose good faith cannot be questioned. This state of opinion should not be ignored, and it seems as if this, the sixth City Council, could silence these objections by making a record for economical administration. Although, for convenience, nominations are made by political parties, every one of you, like myself, received votes from both parties, and we ought for that, if for no other consideration, to put the welfare of the city before that of any ward or any party. Let the test of any measure be "Will the benefit to the whole city warrant the proposed action?"

I am of the opinion that the department of public works would be better managed by three commissioners, to be appointed by the mayor, than by one as at present. Such a board could take all the care and responsibility, which is sometimes too much for one man, could decide upon measures and could appoint a superintendent who would carry out their plans and attend to details. They could be selected from a class of our citizens who cannot give all their time to public service, but who would be willing to serve at a nominal or moderate salary.

I recommend that steps be taken to have our charter so changed that more councilmen shall be elected at large, and that three commissioners of public works be appointed by the mayor.

Assessment of Taxes.

One of the most important as well as one of the most difficult branches of the public service is to adjust and fix proper valuations on all property, both real and personal. Each should be placed upon a substantial basis. The basis for valuation of property for taxable purposes is the fair market value of the property at the time the assessment is made. A system of making strained or fictitious valuations is wrong and pernicious and will prove a great injury to any city or town in which it is adopted. Great care should be taken to equalize values and to see that justice is done to all. Excessive valuation is apt to lead to uncalled for extravagance and should never be permitted.

Fire Department.

The principal part of our fire apparatus has been moved during the year into the new central fire station on Quincy avenue. The building on School street, formerly used by the department is now unoccupied and should be either utilized or sold.

Water Department.

The purchase of the water works of the Quincy Water Company has been consummated and the City is now the sole owner. At the last election the special acts of the Legislature in relation to our public water supply, were accepted, and it now rests with the City Government to take the neccessary steps in furtherance of the decision of the citizens.

Sewerage.

The question of sewerage will without doubt have to be considered before long. But however desirable a system of sewerage may be, the financial situation of the City is such that we should not be justified in deciding the subject this year.

Support of Poor.

The support of our poor is a matter which should receive our careful attention. It may be said that too much charity breeds pauperism. To some extent that may be true but it depends entirely upon how charity is bestowed. While most cases of destitution are the result of some one's bad conduct, the sufferings usually fall on those who are innocent, and they should be dealt with kindly.

Police Department.

The City government having organized a police force, care should be taken that it should be composed of men who are well qualified in this line of duty. Their time should be wholly occupied in enforcing the laws and not be used for political purposes by any party. All laws should be energetically and impartially enforced. The voters having again pronounced against legalizing the sale of intoxicating liquors, care should be taken to see that it is not sold illegally either in some obscure kitchen or a gilded drug store. All officers should be instructed to see this law enforced, as well as the laws to prevent any felony or misdemeanor. When officers are found incompetent they should be discharged and others put in their places.

Work for the Unemployed.

The problem which is most exercising all our cities at the present time, is that of providing work for those who are in a condition of forced idleness. The last Council appropriated sums for the extension of water mains and for the widening of streets. I shall endeavor to see that the work is carried forward as rapidly as the weather will permit and in such a way that those for whom the appropriation was intended shall receive the benefit.

New Industries.

Our City is unfortunate in the fact that it depends almost wholly upon one industry. The granite business is our main stay, and whatever effects that affects all our interests. Owing to the troubles of 1892 and the depression of 1893, very little work is being done and the consequence is that all our tradesmen feel the effects. It is of the utmost importance that we should secure other industries. This subject has previously been brought before the Council, but I am not aware that any result was accomplished. If an energetic committee should be appointed, to offer inducements to manufacturers and others, and in various way to perform the duties which in some cities are the province of a board of trade, it would be one of the most important committees of the Council, and, if properly constituted, might exert very great influence for the prosperity of our City. Serious consideration might be given to the question whether the City could not, either independently or in connection with the Granite Manufacturers' Association take measures to promote, financially or otherwise, the granite industry. I recommend the appointment of such a committee.

Public Works Under Contract.

I am of the opinion that this City should, except in rare cases, avoid having its work done under contract. The following reasons bring me to this view. It has been the experience of many cities that work done under contract is apt to lead to abuses and corruption, and not to come up to the required standard. So well is the latter fact appreciated that it is the almost universal custom to have an inspector to watch the contractor. If the commissioner of public works has the capacity to make a contract, and has the courage and honesty to force a contractor to keep up to his specifications, he is then competent to be the contractor himself; that is, he is the proper person to perform the work and may dispense altogether with the services of the contractor. If I wish to build a house I think it wiser to employ a man to purchase material, procure workmen and oversee the work, than to let the job out. It is easier to look after my foreman than after a contractor. Furthermore, no man takes a contract unless he expects a profit. It is evident either that the City will pay more than the cost of the work or that the contractor intends to get the advantage in the material or workmanship. Again, in many cases a contractor lives in another place, brings with him his plant and often his men, and the money paid him leaves the City. If the commissioner of public works has charge of the labor, and own citizens have the preference, a great part of the cost remains in Quincy and the money circulates among our tradesmen. For these reasons I think that the business interests of our City would be best served by having all our public works carried on, whenever practicable, wholly by our own officials.

Houghs Neck.

Quincy is fortunate in its situation on the border of the sea. Houghs Neck is one of our most beautiful and enjoyable possessions. For a long time known only to a few of our citizens, it has of late been visited by throngs of people, old and young, and is now the part of the city most sought after in hot weather.

The old road as originally laid out, was very narrow, but for years answered well enough the uses for which it was required. Now, however, from one-fourth to one-third of its width is occupied by the tracks of the Manet Street Railway and is rendered practically useless for driving purposes. If this road could be widened and so built that carriages could go east on one side of the track and return on the other side, many of the annoyances which now attend the trip would be obviated. This widening can be done now at a reasonable cost before the adjoining land is built upon, and the city would then have a boulevard which could not be surpassed south of Boston, and one, of which it might well be proud. In view of the strong public demand for this improvement, I recommend that the Council take steps to ascertain the probable expense of such widening.

Public Schools.

All will agree that the children in our schools should be properly educated and that the public school system is one of the greatest safeguards of our free institutions. Quincy has never been backward in furnishing the money necessary for the support of schools, and I think that the interest taken in them by our citizens cannot be surpassed in any place in the Commonwealth. That very interest and the watchfulness consequent upon it have prompted a fuller investigation of the methods and management than has prevailed in other communities, and the parents of the pupils follow with constant care the progress and defects of this department of our municipal affairs. It is beyond dispute that for some years past many of our intelligent citizens, fully competent to judge, have thought that the results obtained did not justify the large expenditures. While I yield to no one in believing in the necessity of keeping the schools at the highest possible educational standard, and in acknowledging the conscientious efforts of our school authorities, I deem it my duty to call the attention of the Council to this feeling of dissatisfaction, which is more prevalent than is generally supposed, and I think that the appropriations for school purposes should be carefully scrutinized. Applause.

Sharp Criticism.

LONDON, Jan. 1.—The Chronicle, commenting upon Michael Davitt's letter in reply to the terrible charges preferred against him in some of the American newspapers, says that the fact that such language as that used against Davitt can be made with legal impunity by the press of America is a grave blot upon the laws of the United States and a foul digrace to the newspaper profession.

SIX MILLION MILES WE'VE SPED.

Once Again Old Mother Earth Has Rolled Around the Sun.

This is the beginning of a new year, and we have made a very long journey. Old travelers say that when a man gets lost in the wilderness he goes round and round in trying to go ahead, and he finds himself following his own tracks in a circle. I don't know wheither this is so or not, but I do know that today we are right exactly where we were a year ago, and yet we have traveled round and round nearly 6,000,000 miles at the rate of 1,000 miles a minute. Astronomers tell us that we are right exactly where we were a year ago.

This is mighty curious to me. Who is doing it? This world has been going on this grand round for thousands of years, maybe millions of years, and is still at it. What is it? for I want to know. Why doesn't it stop and rest? What did it ever start for? If this earth was made for us, why does it have to go round and round forever and forever? If it has to go round the sun, why wouldn't a circle do as well as an ellipse—why go at all? Couldn't the universe be still and every planet be independent? Why does the earth have to turn a somersault every day and whirl us round at the rate of a thousand miles an hour? Who is doing all this, and what is it done for, and when is the whole business to come to an end, or a focus, or a transformation?

I confess my ignorance and feel as humble as a dog when I contemplate the wonders and mysteries of creation. I don't understand how the corn grows, nor the flowers bloom, nor the birds hatch their young, and yet I realize that everything has been made for our good, our comfort, our pleasure.

I was popping corn last night for a little grandchild, and I know that in the grand design of Providence this little corn was created just to please the children and nothing else. I know that cotton grows to clothe the millions in summer, and the sheep were created to give us wool in winter, and the cattle to give us milk and butter and shoes. Even our complaints and ailments are provided for in nature's remedies, for we have quinine and calomel and castor oil and opium and turpentine [illegible] springs, and the best are the [illegible] All the best things are the cheapest [illegible] air and water and fire, the bread and meat and vegetables, and the fruits of the earth and the material for clothing.

The evidences of design and care and love are all around us everywhere and in everything, and I cannot understand how a thoughtful man can be an agnostic or an infidel. I want to thank somebody every morning for preserving me through the night, for I know that sleep is near akin to death, and I cannot keep my own heart beating. There is some great thing behind me, and I will trust him because he has been good to me and sustained me all my life. The best religion is to trust in the Lord and do good.—Bill Arp in Atlanta Constitution.

Queen Elizabeth's New Year's Gifts.

Henry III of England followed the Roman precedent in extorting New Year's gifts from his subjects, the practice being revived in the reign of Henry VI and continuing till the reign of Charles I. But it was during Queen Elizabeth's reign that this custom of presenting New Year's gifts to the sovereign attained its most extravagant height. These presents were made by every one in any way associated with the virgin queen, from the great officers of state down to her majesty's dustman, and included sums of money, ornaments for the queen's person or apartments, caskets studded with precious stones, necklaces, bracelets, gowns, mantles, petticoats, fans, mirrors, silk stockings and a great variety of other articles. Howell states in his "History of the World" that "Queen Elizabeth in 1561 was presented with a pair of black silk knit stockings by her silk woman, Mrs. Montague, and thenceforth she never wore cloth hose any more." The queen's wardrobe is said to have been almost wholly supplied by these New Year's gifts, in return for which she [illegible] presents of gold and silver plate.—Buffalo Express.

The Russian Feast of the Dead.

The Russians, at their New Year's, hold a feast called "The Feast of the Dead," or, in the Russian language, "Raditzli Sabol." The people, in accordance with old, traditionary customs that date back probably to the time when they were wandering tribes in Central Asia, visit the graves of their departed friends and place food upon them. The priests attend also and celebrate the mass, taking portions of the food left upon the graves. The Turks and Arabs begin the year from the 16th of July, the Abyssinians the 26th of August, and the Indians of America with the vernal equinox.—Selected.

BURNED ALIVE.

Four Deaths the Result of the Insane Rage of John Cummings.

OMAHA, Jan. 1.—On the marble slabs at the city morgue lie the charred remains of John Cummings. Father, mother, baby and grandmother are there awaiting the outcome of the inquiry which Coroner Maul has begun into the cause of the tragedy which startled the city this morning.

Cummings had been in ill health for some time, and according to 12-year-old Tommy Fox, who was present, he deliberately set fire to his own house and caused the death of his mother-in-law, his wife and his 1-year-old baby in the flames. The little boy tells a straightforward story, and when asked how the fire originated he said:

Cummings was sitting on the edge of the bed in a rear room, where Mrs. Cummings also was with the baby. Another person in the room was Mrs. Fox, the mother of Mrs. Cummings. Cummings put out the lamp and closed the door, commanding all the inmates to stay there. They all but he refused to let any of them go.

Soon after, a next door neighbor, noticing that he first saw the flames he shouted to Cummings trying to open the door. Cummings at the window of the bedroom. "My baby!" cried her cry out and say: he saw the lady on fire." Soon after John Stanley enveloped in flames.

The apartment of the who occupies the basement has a great deal of, says there had been overhead for arousing and lighting there was a scuffle nights and that out. The evidence as the fire broke Cummings started far shows that fire in a fit of insane rage.

A COMBINED ATTACK

Will Be Made by Piexoto's Fleet Against Insurgents at Rio.

PERNAMBUCO, Jan 1.—The new Brazilian cruiser America is reported to be off this port, and it is said that as soon as she is ready to put to sea again both the Nictheroy and America will sail southward.

During the last few days the Nictheroy is said to have completed her crew and to have made all the other arrangements necessary to sail for another port in Brazil with the America, and upon arrival at her next place of call rumor has it that the two cruisers will be re-enforced by other vessels belonging to Peixoto, and that this fleet will then sail for Rio de Janeiro.

Upon their arrival there the ships and forts will make a combined attack upon the insurgent vessels and endeavor to end the rebellion so far as Rio de Janeiro is concerned, with one determined engagement.

Of course, the usual startling rumors are in circulation, but as those from the government sources seem as inaccurate as those coming from the insurgents, not much faith is placed in any of them.

One report is to the effect that President Peixoto has succeeded in gathering two or more ships, supposed to be the topedo boats from Europe, in an out-of-the-way port, and that the Nictheroy and America are to join these vessels shortly, when the move southward will be commenced.

Only 40 men, instead of 60, as at first reported, have sailed for England with Lieutenant John J. Conway, formerly of the Nictheroy. Some of the men who left the Nictheroy are still in town and others have started for various points, some being already on their way to New York on board the Herschel it is believed, though it is understood they must have stowed away in order to do so.

BRAINS BLOWN OUT.

Principal of an Academy Kills His Bride Without Warning.

MEDIA, Pa., Jan. 1.—Swithin C. Shortlidge, principal of the famous Media academy for boys, while out promenading yesterday with his wife, who was a bride only a month, shot andinstantly killed her. The couple had been walking along the street arm in arm, when Professor Shortlidge, without warning, drew a revolver from his pocket and fired six shots into her head, killing her instantly and scattering her brains on the street.

After the awful deed, he threw himself on the body and raved in a terrible manner until removed a prisoner by a policeman. Professor Shortlidge has shown evidence of failing mental power during the past year. Recently he suffered from an attack of the grip, from the effects of which he has not wholly recovered. This had a depressing effect upon him, culminating in yesterday's sudden insanity and the murder of his bride.

How Bennett Robbed the Bank.

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 1.—No tidings have yet been received of missing Teller Bennett of the Globe National bank. It has been found that one of his schemes was to destroy original checks sent in for deposit, make out new ones for small amounts and draw a check in his own favor for the balance. He would credit the depositor on his pass book for the correct amount and would give him credit for a like amount on the bank's books. His stealing will not exceed $25,000.

Bodies Terribly Mangled.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 1.—Two persons were instantly killed by the New York express train at Patuxent. They were Thomas P. Varley and his wife and their 10-year-old grandson. Their carriage was struck with terrific violence at a crossing and smashed into kindling wood. The remains of Mrs. Varley were so cut to pieces that they had to be gathered up in a wheelbarrow.

Double Murder a Mystery.

BRIGHTON, Me., Jan. 1.—A letter to relatives of Loren Smith and Arthur Cross, the hunters who were supposed to have been murdered, states that they are waiting at the Northeast Carry, Moosehead, for the lake to freeze for them to cross and come home. Who the murdered men are still remains a mystery.

A Big Capture.

MORRISVILLE, Vt., Jan. 1.—The largest bear ever seen in this part of the country was killed in Lewis township by Luther House. The carcass weighed 650 pounds and the skin 50. It is estimated that bruin was followed 100 miles, but the lucky hunter will realize at least $90 by the capture.

Charge of Forgery Sustained.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 1.—The Call announces that in the case of Passed Assistant Surgeon Richard Ashbridge, charged with forging the signature of Secretary of the Navy Herbert, the court martial sustains the charge and recommends Ashbridge's dismissal from the service.

A CUT IN SALARIES

Necessary to Reduce Heavy Expenses of Railways.

ROADS WILL ACT AS A UNIT.

Earnings Do Not Justify High Pay For Services.

CHICAGO, Jan. 2.—In view of the business outlook, there is a growing feeling among railroad managers in the west that further retrenchment, as an offset to shrinking receipts, is necessary. Referring to the question of expenses, the general manager of one of the most successful lines said: "We have been steadily reducing expenses for months, but diminishing business demands still more heroic treatment than has yet been applied. The reform, however, can best be accomplished by a concert of action among all the leading roads, and the question will soon be brought before the General Managers' association for action."

All Must Act Together.

When asked if a general reduction in the wages of the employes was contemplated, he said that a move in that direction was necessary among the others, and that it would doubtless be made; but in order to insure success with as little friction as possible all the lines must act as a unit. Other managers express equally positive sentiments. Yet it is evident from the drift of their conversation that, while they appreciate the fact that they are paying more for services than the earnings of their roads justify, they are reluctant to make the reductions that justice to the owners of the roads demands.

It is evident, however, that the move must soon be made, as retrenchments have already been instituted in other directions to an extent that they cannot be pushed further. It is also useless to think of relief from advanced rates, as shippers would at once appeal to the state and national commissioners, who administer the laws for the regulation of railway charges.

Receivers' Salaries Too High.

The vigorous move just made by a portion of the stockholders of the Northern Pacific for the removal of the present receivers created no surprise in Chicago railway circles. In fact, the appointment of three receivers is deemed absurd by practical railway managers, as they deem one amply sufficient. The salaries asked are also considered out of proportion to the services they are competent to render the road. They also regard the situation of the Union Pacific receiverships in the same light.

In this connection it is proper to state that, although the Chicago railways are under the direction of the ablest and most practical managers known to the profession, few, if any, receive more than one-half of $18,000, the sum asked by the Union and Northern Pacific receivers, although the managers give their entire time to their duties, and the receivers, or at least a portion of them, are mere figureheads.

"Standing In" With Labor.

TOPEKA, Jan. 2.—Mrs. Mary E. Lease sent the following telegram to the state federation of labor, in session at Leavenworth: "I desire to join my voice with yours and tender time and money in denouncing the executive power that has recognized 'rats' and scoundrels and ignored the labor organizations. The principles of the People's party are eternal and unassailable. Through them we will triumph, but the crowd betraying the trust and cause of the people will pass out of sight by the laboring vote."

A Graduated Reduction.

WORCESTER, Mass., Jan. 2.—The Washburn and Moen Manufacturing Company, which is the largest wire manufacturing establishment in the world, yesterday issued a notice to the salaried employes that beginning today there would be a general reduction in salaries, as follows: All salaries under $2000, 10 per cent; from $2000 to $2500, 15 per cent; $3500 and over, 20 per cent. Another was sent to the stockholders, declaring a dividend of only 1 per cent.

Mysterious Dynamiter at Work.

NEWCASTLE, Pa., Jan. 2.—Shortly after midnight some unknown person threw a quantity of dynamite into an unoccupied house on Long avenue, owned by Mrs. Lizzie Shelar. The floors in the house were badly torn up and plastering was torn from the walls. The glass in all the windows was shattered.

Midwinter Show Opened.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 2.—The midwinter exposition was informally opened yesterday. The dedicatory exercises will not take place until the main buildings are completed and the exhibits in place. The only features today were band concerts and the unveiling of Sir Francis Drake's statue.

Foul Play Feared.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—The police have so far failed to find any trace of A. H. Howland, who was supposed to have jumped overboard from the steamer Pilgrim last Friday night. Inspector McLaughlin has detailed three of his best men to unravel the mystery. There are fears of foul play.

Giving the Governor a Chance.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 2.—The application for a writ of heabus corpus for the release of Mitchell and Corbett will be argued Wednesday. The postponement is to give the governor more time to file instructions, if he has any.

GLOBE THEATER GONE.

Disastrous Early Morning Fire In the Hub's Business District.

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—Fire broke out with a roar and a whoop in the Globe Theater shortly after 1 o'clock this morning. In half an hour the whole square bounded by Washington street, Hayward place, Harrison avenue extension and Essex street was threatened with destruction by one of the fiercest conflagrations that has come upon Boston since the fire in the same district four years ago.

So quickly did the fire travel that at 1:25 a second alarm was ordered. A third followed at 1:30. At 1:35 a. m. the flames burst through the roof of the playhouse with a crack and a roar that was heard for blocks around.

At 1:40 the peals of the fourth alarm, dreaded by every fireman, rang out, and every available piece of apparatus within reasonable reach was either at the scene of the devouring work of the flames or on its way thither.

The sight as the flames burst through the roof was a grand one. The light was visible for miles.

At 1:50 the surging mass of people that surrounded the blazing masses on the four streets were startled by a tremendous explosion, which fairly shook the ground beneath their feet. The crowd broke, and everybody ran for a place of safety.

Between this time and 2:13 a. m. there were five more explosions in which the same scenes were repeated. These explosions were caused, it was stated, by the presence of gas tanks stored in various portions of the building, and used for calcium light effects.

At 3 o'clock the entire center of the playhouse had been fairly burned out. The flames were still burning in the two top stories of the Washington street front. In the Harrison avenue extension of the theater the flames were still burning fiercely.

On Hayward place, engulfing billows of smoke and flame belched out. The ground floor had been entirely burned out and the apartments over...am Brock above were still burning.

The fire was quenched at daylight. The loss will reach $500,000.

A TEXAS TRAGEDY.

Guns and Pistols Used With Deadly Effect at a Dance.

COLUMBIA, Tex., Jan. 2.—Full accounts of a wholesale killing at Kedar have just been received. E. N. Williams was dancing and aroused the animosity of Lamon Gayle, who demanded that Williams surrender his place on the floor. Williams at first refused, but Gayle became boisterous and Williams entered the room when Gayle, his brother London Gayle, and Bob Ealey, began firing at Williams and others.

London Gayle shot through the window and killed a boy named Eli Waddy, when another boy, Isaac Scott, remarked: "London Gayle has killed Eli Waddy," whereupon London turned and saying, "What is that to you?" shot the boy, killing him instantly. Then a perfect fusilade followed from guns and pistols. A woman was shot through the breast and is now dead. London Gayle was shot through the body and will die. A girl was shot in the face near the eye, and another was hit in the middle of the head, the ball glancing and lodging next to the skin back of the head. One boy was shot through the arm and another through the right hand, and others have received various slight wounds.

After Lamon Gayle was shot, his brother London sprang up and stood over his prostrate body, Winchester in hand, and pumped cold lead into the panic-stricken dancers, who were unable to get out of the house in time to avoid his awful vengeance. Three are dead and a fourth fatally wounded, two seriously, and about half a dozen have minor injuries. London Gayle is in jail.

Express Train Hung Up.

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 2.—The Consolidated road officials issued an order to the Hartford superintendent that he was not to receive the noon express of the New England road when it arrived there yesterday afternoon, and when the train rolled into the depot the Consolidated road refused to accept it, and the train was hung up there. The New England people claim that the Consolidated road is under contract to deliver the train in New York from Hartford. It is believed that the Consolidated refused to take the train through to further cripple the New England.

A PLEA FOR FREEDOM

Stevens Gives Another Speech on the Hawaiian Question.

SAYS CLEVELAND DID WRONG.

Accuses Blount of "Stabbing In the Back."

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Jan. 2.—The Garfield Republican club held a brilliant banquet last evening. Covers were laid at the Alcazar for 200. Mayor Tiepke presided, and besides the special guests of the evening, ex-Minister Stevens and ex-Congressman Horr, there were many others prominent in public life.

After the banquet Mayor Tiepke introduced Hon. John L. Stevens. The ex-minister gave an exhaustive review of the resources and population of the Hawaiian Islands and their commercial importance to the United States. Treating of the present aspect of Hawaiian affairs he declared that monarchial restoration of the return of Queen Liliuokalani to the throne by any outside force, or intimidation by any diplomatic pressure or chicanery, would be a public crime by whomsoever perpetrated. It would make of Hawaii a second Singapore or Hong Kong. All very well for a British colony, but never adapted to American institutions nor intended for an American form of government.

Cleveland Charged With Hostility.

The executive of this great republic has assumed a hostile attitude to the American colony in the Hawaiian Islands. Why this unfriendly course of action towards people who never did us any harm? Why this annual threat of war against people who mean to bring untold wealth to our doors, for no where on the globe, except in the Northern Pacific, is American commerce so vastly in the ascendency as at Hawaii, which is as American in its sympathies, its hopes, its ambitions, as California, Washington or Maine? It is deeply humiliating to every true American to see this condition of affairs, and it makes a page of history at which all Americans must blush.

When Cleveland's emissary reached the islands last March there was no part of the United States more peaceful, for the monarchy was dead, and official corruption had been put an end to. This same emissary bore letters of credence to representative Americans, whom he subsequently stabbed in the back. On the secret testimony of enemies the respectable members of the provisional government were condemned as criminals, and insulted with the promise that when the grossly immoral Queen Liliuokalani was restored to the throne she would pardon them.

Annexationists of High Character.

Pardon such men as Chief Justice Judd and Attorney General Hatch, a son of New Hampshire and the superior legally and in every other respect of Secretary Gresham; pardon such representative men whose private and official character at no period in their past lives ever had a blot upon them. With sorrow and shame we look upon this sad picture to which we have been brought by the present administration.

In the name then of our common ancestry, in the name of freedom loving races, in behalf of all who love justice and fair play, in behalf of Christian civilization in the United States, let us do our duty in endeavoring to put a stop to this extraordinary usurpation of power and stamp out this outrage inflicted upon our patriotic, devoted and imperilled fellow countrymen of the North Pacific.

Ex-Congressman Roswell G. Horr of Michigan was next introduced, his address being purely political and a vehement denunciation of the Wilson tariff bill.

Brief addresses were also delivered by Attorney General Barbank, a native of the Hawaiian Islands, Professor Williams of Brown university and others, and the festivities were brought to a close shortly before midnight.

Messenger Is Missing.

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—It is rumored that the officials of the National Bank of Redemption of this city are much exercised over the whereabouts of their messenger, who, it is stated, left the bank shortly before closing time yesterday with some checks for the clearing house, and who had not, up to midnight, put in an appearance. There is much secrecy over the matter, and nothing definite as to the amount given to the messenger can be ascertained.

Cape Cod Travelers Meet.

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—The seventh annual banquet and business meeting of the Cape Cod Commercial Travelers' association was held in the American House last night. At the business meeting the officers elected were: President, W. B. Seignious; vice president, A. L. Baker; secretary, A. W. Thompson; treasurer, C. E. Hobbs.

A Fine Point.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Jan. 2.—R. P. Tapley, a lawyer, claims that the oath of office was illegally administered to members of the board of aldermen yesterday, inasmuch as only three raised their right hands. Several local lawyers say the technicality is too small and probably nothing will be done about it.

Discouraged by Poor Business.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Jan. 2.—Henry Scovell, a watchmaker, who has been missing for a week, was found dead in a room in the rear of his establishment yesterday by a searching party. He had shot himself in the head. Poor business is assigned as the reason for the suicide.

Farmer Reported Murdered.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Jan. 2.—A rumor has reached this city from Waterford that Henry Berper, a farmer of that place, has been murdered. On account of the absence of any means of communication with that town nothing definite has yet been ascertained.

Editorial Comment.

FROM SEVERAL sources previous to Inauguration day it came to our ears, that the LEDGER could not elect the President of the Council. That Mr. Bass was our candidate but he would get left. But how is it today? The LEDGER does not think Mr. Bass a model President, yet he has done very well the past year. But the LEDGER believes in fair play and is instinctively with "the under dog" when unfair means are being used. If the Republicans, who had the majority, desired a change, they could have secured it if they had set about it right, but after once making a nomination it should not repudiate it in any such way as was attempted. But a majority of the Republicans made a greater mistake when they allowed the Democrats to elect the President, as they practically did, for they were unanimous for Mr. Bass. The Republicans had sufficient warning, and it was not too late to change over when the roll call was begun. A Democrat headed the list and when he voted for Mr. Bass, the Republicans should have fallen into line and made his election unanimous.

Were President Bass vindictive he might make the Republicans uncomfortable throughout the year, but he is, as the poet of 1893 put it, a "true blue." Spurred by the recent contest he will put his best foot forward this year. He will be an impartial President rather than a partisan President, and so far as he is concerned, the harmony desired by the Mayor, will exist between the legislative and the executive departments. Success to President Bass.

THE LIMIT to which the city can go this year in assessing property for current expenses, is by the Mayor's address, $184,614.17, or $197,753.94. Last year the limit was $172,880 34, but only $160,000 was raised. The difference should easily provide for any necessary increase in current expenses, and perhaps the widening of Sea street as well, so that it may not be necessary to increase the bonded indebtedness this year.

MAYOR HODGES should feel flattered at the interest being taken in his administration. Never before was the attendance so large at the inaugural ceremonies and an extra large edition of the LEDGER with his message was exhausted early in the afternoon.

MAYOR WHIPPLE calls a halt in loans. In six years the debt of Brockton, outside of water debt, has increased from $57,000 to $946,420. There falls due this year including interest, $100,199.17. It looks as if Brockton had been even more extravagant than Quincy.

MANY ARE not very well acquainted with our city government, for they expected the department officials and boards would be appointed Monday. These do not change until February 1, and may be appointed any time this month.

THE GLOBE in its report of our inauguration ceremonies, pictured Mayor Hodges as a granite cutter, who has just succeeded in cutting the seal of the city on a block of granite. It is an excellent likeness of His Honor.

THE NEW city of Everett would be in excess of its debt limit, but for a special act authorizing a special loan. The need is also felt for one or two more school buildings. Why does the debt of cities increase so rapidly?

THE DEMOCRATS are shrewd politicians and were nearly successful in electing their candidate for City Auditor. Had another Republican been converted Auditor Hall would have had to close his accounts.

THE MAYOR of Chelsea says the water debt concerns the city but little as the sinking fund and interest is payable out of the receipts. It will be so in Quincy if the mains are not extended recklessly.

MAYOR PICKMAN of Lowell says three kindergarten schools have been opened in that city and their success is unquestioned. This is another good thing but it must wait.

GLOUCESTER WILL have a sewerage system as soon as its financial condition will admit. That's our situation.

THERE IS mail this morning at City Hall for Mayor Fairbanks. People forget that he has changed his address.

WARD THREE and the females have taken the lead in births this year.

GOING TO THEATRE.

Several Desirous of Being the Most Popular Clerk.

TWELVE CANDIDATES IN RACE.

Mr. Dixon of South Quincy Takes the Lead in Ledger Contest.

Probably the successful popular clerk in the theatre contest will not select tickets for the Globe theatre, as this amusement palace is in ruins, but by the start the contest has taken there are many young men who would really like to go to the theatre, and if the list of theatres is not large enough we may be able to add more. An extra large number of LEDGERS were printed Monday and we are now able to supply old papers at wholesale.

The clerks' contest starts with just a dozen candidates and in a modest way. It is not too late for others to drop in. Mr. A. I. Dixon takes the lead with five. The standing today is as follows, the polls closing at 9 o'clock:

A. I. Dixon, at W. H. Doble's,	5
James Allen, at F. Brewer's,	3

NEW YEAR'S PARTY.

One of Those Good Old Times Such As Scotchmen Have at Home.

From time immemorial Scottish men and women have celebrated the advent of the new year by family reunions and social gatherings.

Notwithstanding the fact that they are, proverbially, a wandering race, and have made for themselves homes in all climes and countries, they still cling to many of the old traditions and usages of their native country, and, wherever a number of Scotchmen live within a radius of a few miles, they will inevitably get together at the new year and celebrate as they were wont to do years ago in the land of Caledonia.

One of the most successful parties of this season was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. M. Craig on Adams [illegible] now year's evening. On the arrival of the guests who were received and welcomed by the host and hostess, the entertainment for the evening commenced. Dancing, to the inspiring strains of the violin and piano, was the most popular form of enjoyment, while at intervals songs were rendered very acceptably by several of the ladies and gentlemen.

In the course of the evening refreshments were served, after which dancing and singing were resumed and kept up until well nigh two o'clock Tuesday morning, when the company left for their homes, highly satisfied with their evening's enjoyment. Among those present were the following:

Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Soutar.
Mr. and Mrs. Wm. S. Murray.
Mr. and Mrs. George Chalmers.
Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Chalmers.
Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Smith.
Mr. and Mrs. James McAdam.
Mr. Fred and Miss Miller.
Mr. Wm. and Miss Sadie Thomas.
Miss M. Findlay, Mrs. Lamb, Mr. John Smith.
Mr. Wm. Duff, Mr. Robert Smith.
Mr. James Gillespie, Mr. Alex. McGregor.

MAIL CLERKS DINE.

Annual Banquet at the Greenleaf Election of Officers.

January 1, 1890, free postal delivery was established in Quincy and Monday evening the carriers celebrated the fourth anniversary of the establishment by a banquet at The Greenleaf, to which the only guests were the substitutes. During the evening the carriers association held its annual meeting and elected these officers:

President,—Francis P. Loud.
Vice President,—John D. Williams.
Secretary,—Elmer Baker.
Treasurer,—Andrew W. Gardner.

After the dinner cigars were passed by Landlord Fiske and stories and jokes aided the digestion.

At the start there were five carriers,—A. W. Gardner, G. H. Thomas, W. H. Willett, F. P. Loud and J. D. Williams; since then two others have joined their ranks,—J. S. Farrell and E. W. Baker. All have been faithful servants to the public, making their daily visits to us, unmindful of winter's cold or summer's heat, in storm as well as in sunshine, and travelling over some of the roughest roads in the city when duty called them from its smoother highways.

The carriers of this city constitute branch 129 of National Association of Letter Carriers.

Plea of "Guilty" Retracted.

Charles O. Parker, alias E. F. Sanderson, who recently pleaded "guilty" to indictments charging him with conspiracy and cheating by false pretences, appeared Saturday before Judge Blodgett in the Superior Criminal Court and retracted his plea and was held in the sum of $3000 upon each indictment.

There is no change in Mr. Armstrong's condition today.

Who will get the New Year's presents at the disposal of Mayor Hodges.

Miss Ida Cameron of South Quincy, has resumed her duties as teacher in the Leicester school.

The convention of the Norfolk county W. C. T. U. is held in Wollaston, today, commencing at 10 A. M.

The physicians report considerable sickness. The joke of it is, the sick people don't want any newspaper mention of themselves.

At a largely attended meeting of the Irish national federation of America, held in the Parker house, Boston, Monday evening, T. B. Fitzpatrick in the chair, resolutions of respect to the memory of George Cahill of Quincy were adopted.

There are many more applicants for work under the $10,000 appropriation for the unemployed than can be accommodated. It has been found necessary to divide them into gangs, some working two or three days a week. About 100 are at work on an average.

The Neighborly club held its fortnightly meeting Monday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Edwin I. Beal, on Washington street, where the hours intervening between 8 and 12 were passed in a pleasant manner with games, etc. Ices and coffee were served during the evening.

The Norfolk club of Atlantic held its first social Monday evening at Music hall. H. T. McGovern was floor director, T. A. Whalen, assistant, and J. H. Cunningham, J. P. Fitzpatrick, T. J. Golden, P. J. Chisom and F. J. Granahan, aids.

Cyrus Noble of Atlantic is having considerable trouble with his right hand. He was setting a pane of glass when he accidentally cut his hand. Shortly afterward he was using some green paint, part of which got into his hand causing blood poisoning. It is now feared that he will lose his hand.

It is understood that there will be a strong movement this year to have a steamer and hose wagon located on Hancock street, half way between Wollaston and Atlantic to cover those two places and also Wollaston Park and Norfolk Downs. By doing this the city will dispense with two companies—the Atlantic and Wollaston, and give all of this section better fire protection than they have heretofore had, as well as placing another steamer in reserve for second alarms from other parts of the city.

THE LATE GEORGE CAHILL.

Funeral Services This Morning Very Largely Attended.

The funeral of George Cahill, who died last Saturday, was held from St. John's church this morning at 9 o'clock, and was largely attended by many of his friends among whom were Mayor Hodges and ex-Mayor Porter. St. John's C. L. & A. A., of which the deceased was a member, attended the services in a body and escorted the remains from the house to the church and afterwards to the cemetery at West Quincy. There was also present a committee from the board of curators of the Quincy Historical society, of which he was a charter member.

Solemn High mass was celebrated by Rev. F. A. Friguglietti, assisted by Rev. Frs. Cuffe and Roche. Rev. D. J. Reardon of Boston, formerly of this city delivered an eulogy. A quartette from the church of the Immaculate Concepton of Boston, rendered the music.

There were many floral tributes as silent tokens of esteem of his fellow citizens.

After the services at the church the remains were escorted to the West Quincy cemetery.

The bearers were Ex-Councilman William H. Warner and Mr. Patrick Driscoll, representing St. John's C. L. & A. A.; Mr. William Faircloth and Mr. John Cavanagh of the Quincy branch of the I. N. L.; Mr. James F. Burke representing the Democratic city committee; Mr. Peter J. Williams of the Ward Three Democratic committee; and Mr. Cornelius Moynihan and Mr. William Parker representing the family and friends.

Not Authorized.

The following letter from Congressman Everett is self explanatory:

QUINCY, JANUARY, 1894.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

Paragraphs have appeared in various newspapers purporting to give my views on the Quincy post office, and my intentions respecting the person I prefer for postmaster. I desire to say, through your columns, that all such statements are wholly without authority, and calculated to mislead the citizens. No one is authorized to say that I shall take any steps to secure any appointment.

Your obedient servant,
WILLIAM EVERETT

A Big Steer.

H. Curtis, Jr., writes: A steer, which weighed 3200 pounds and intended to be exported to England alive was crippled in transportation from Chicago to Boston and was killed at Brighton. He was of such immense size as to break down the trucks and killing gear, and had to be dressed on the floor. He was sold by W. W. Chamberlin & Co. His fore quarters weighed 1100 pounds and his hind quarters 1250. His meat was almost all solid fat, except the end of the rib which had a piece of lean about one inch square. The dressed meat weighing 2350 the largest steer ever killed but one, in this country. Seven years ago a steer killed at Chicago weighed 2210 pounds dressed.

THE NEW CITY COUN[illegible]IL.

Only Five Quincy Born, But Over Two[illegible]ds Are Massachusetts Men.

A still smaller number of this Council were born in Quincy, only 5 of the 23. In 1893 there were 6 Quincy born. At the same time only 6 were born out of Massachusetts, viz: 2 in Maine and 1 each in Vermont, Nova Scotia, Scotland and Ireland.

Councilman Bass is the oldest in point of service as he entered his fifth year. Messrs. Moxon and Holden entered their fourth year, and Mr. Federhen his third. Ten entered their second year, while the new members are Messrs. Babcock, Bigelow, Clark, Lamb, McKeon, O'Brien, Snow, Sullivan and Waterhouse.

The oldest and youngest Councilman of 1893 were both reelected and will retain the honors another year.

The total age of the members of 1894 is 998 years and some months, which will make the aggregate over 1000 years, and the average age 43 years. There are men in their twenties, in thirties, in forties, in fifties, in sixties, and one in the seventies.

Here is an interesting summary giving the list of Councilmen-elect alphabetically, the constituency they represent, the year of service, birthplace and age:

New Year's Reception.

The Y. P. S. C. E. held a very successful reception to their friends Monday evening. The Congregational chapel was arranged as a drawing room, and looked very prettily. The first part of the evening was given to a book social, in which everybody became acquainted. After a social time a very pleasing entertainment was given by the following talent:

Guitar duett, by Miss Sweester and Miss Dadmun of Neponset, finely rendered.

Violin solo, by Mr. Hood, which was enjoyed so much he was obliged to give another selection.

Soprano solo, by Miss Grace Isaac, was much enjoyed. She kindly responded to an encore.

Mr. Virgil Fuller of West Quincy, teacher on the guitar, gave some very pleasing selections.

After the musical part of the programme, different people in the audience were asked to draw certain pictures on the blackboard, representing some song and the audience was to guess what they were which caused much merriment. During the evening chocolate and crackers were served.

The New Officers Elected--Record of 1893—Hospital Needs.

The Hospital Aid Association closed 1893 with a good record. In summer a meeting held at Mr. G. W. Morton's resulted in efforts in a new and needful direction. The Hospital grows and we must grow to its needs. The lady directors in the various wards have been trying, and as successfully as hard times will admit, to increase the one dollar membership. Prominent men in our city are soliciting for larger sums, perhaps to be subscribed annually. The Hospital finds friends, kind hands and feet and willing hearts. There is room for more work and for an extended influence for the aid.

Many questions raised as to the working of and for the Hospital, show the interest felt in it. The secretary has taken time and pains to investigate all these, and reports that in the estimation of those whose experience constitutes them, best judges, that while our trustees and medical men are open to suggestions and glad to co-operate with any and all in their work, the very best methods are in operation in the care of our Hospital.

The "Aid" was formed by the trustees to raise the money to carry on the Hospital. The ladies work well and the money comes in from many little streams, yet the call upon the Aid is steadily growing. There are generosity and means sufficient to meet this. Last year the corporators did not, many, attend the annual meeting called. The meetings of the Aid are generally small, throwing the responsibility upon a few. Let all, who can, attend the monthly meetings in 1894. Forty-three ladies were present at the last meeting and the following officers were elected. Reports of various committees were also accepted.

Weather For January.

The following forecast of weather for Quincy and adjacent regions is from Cather's Weather Chart for 1894:

First week, below freezing temperature (low). A touch of zero temperature second and third weeks, after which zero will be closely hugged until close of month, with a tendency of the temperature to bob back to the freezing point the last few days.

Cloudy days dominate, with variable conditions. Snow and snow squalls each week, more continuous last of month.

A GRAND SHAKE-UP.

Mayor Rutter Gives Lawrence Citizens Something to Think About.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Jan. 2.—Mayor Rutter gave the police department a shaking up last night. Inspector Remick, for six years at the head of the liquor squad, was summarily removed and has been assigned to night duty. The mayor claims Remick has protected illegal liquor dealers since May 1, and says he will force prohibition until next May, even if he has to raid places himself.

Liquor, which could be had in 300 places all along, cannot be had anywhere today and "speak easies" are closed for the first time in years. Inspector Remick's reduction was a sensational surprise, as he was a Democrat and backed for retention by party leaders. Startling developments in connection with his removal are expected.

Excitement in liquor circles equals that of 1892 when the boodle aldermen were indicted by the grand jury. Yesterday was a field day for the mayor, who, besides recommending the reduction of city laborers' pay and the changing of the liquor squads, placed three-fourths of the day police on night duty, and caused a deadlock between himself and the board of aldermen over the appointment of a fire engineer to fill the vacancy caused by his election as mayor.

QUITE A DIFFERENCE

Between Statistics Gathered by Labor Unions and by Police.

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—The relief committee of the unemployed appointed by the Central Labor union are indignant over the alleged census of the unemployed taken by the police which gave the total number as 5063. At a special meeting of the committee held last night the secretaries of the various labor organizations reported unemployed 500 cigarmakers, 10,000 in the various building industries, 1500 piano workers, 2000 laborers, 1700 clothing workers, 1000 machinists, 1400 sailors, 250 iron workers, 300 clothing cutters, 125 hoisting engineers and 150 coremakers.

It is estimated that fully 30 per cent of other trades are also idle. It was voted to request Mayor Matthews to appoint a man to take the census in every precinct, and to put the matter in the hands of Chief Wadlin of the bureau of labor statistics for compilation. The committee also decided to send a circular to the mayor, informing him that $225,000 had been appropriated for the building of several schools, which have not been started, and requesting him to move in the matter.

A VERMONT TRAGEDY.

Derby Man Almost Instantly Killed by His Brother-In-Law.

NEWPORT, Vt., Jan. 2.—One mile east of Derby Center, George Davis and family have lived many years. Seven years ago a daughter married Charles Kenniston, and they have since lived with her parents. On Sunday Kenniston went to Derby Line, and at night returned intoxicated. He had some trouble with the women, and Mrs. Davis called to her son, John, for help. Kenniston seized a double-barrelled shotgun, and threatening to kill Davis, started toward his room, but Mrs. Davis intercepted him.

Soon John Davis appeared, and then went outside the house and fired through the window at Kenniston. Both barrels were discharged, the contents lodging in Kenniston's shoulder and breast, causing almost instant death. Town authorities were summoned and Davis taken into custody.

Noted Baptist Minister Dead.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 2.—Dr. David B. Cheney, D.D., one of the best known ministers of the Baptist church in America, died yesterday in Chicago, aged 73 years, the remains being shipped to this city for burial. He was one of the oldest members of the board of American Baptist Missionaries union and prominent in nearly all the leading Baptist educational institutions. He served pastorates in Philadelphia, Boston, San Francisco, Chicago, and in 1849 was the only Protestant minister who stood at his post during the cholera scorge in this city.

Bynum Was Absent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—The Democratic members of the ways and means committee met last night to finally decide upon the income tax question and the internal revenue features of the tariff bill. Mr. Bynum was the only member absent. His absence prevented a vote on the income tax question and after a session of three hours the committee adjourned until this evening.

Child Dead and Mother Dying

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—A candle on a Christmas tree in the rooms of Magnus Ahlberg last light set fire to the clothing of Mrs. Ella Ahlberg, who was alone with her 4-months-old infant. The woman, crazed by fear, snatched up her child, ran to the window and leaped four stories to the ground. The baby was instantly killed. The mother is dying.

The total gate receipts aggregated $20,000.

White City Is No More.

CHICAGO, Jan. 2.—Jackson park, with its relics of the fair, came into the possession of the public yesterday. The wagon gates were thrown wide open, turn stiles were taken down and the Columbian Guards retired to the buildings. Thirty thousand visited the grounds, and everything movable was carried off as relics.

POLICE KEPT BUSY.

Wholesale Raids on Anarchists In Many French Cities.

INCENDIARY DOCUMENTS SEIZED.

Bombs and Cartridges Found In Prisoners' Houses.

PARIS, Jan. 2.—The police seized the forms and copy for yesterday's edition of the anarchist journal, Pere Peinard. In this city they also searched the residence of Elise Reclus, a brother of Paul Reclus, who has been missing since the throwing of the bomb in the chamber of deputies.

At Havre the police searched 11 houses, seized a lot of correspondence and recovered stolen bonds for 1500 francs. For the theft of these bonds three anarchists were imprisoned some months ago.

Five anarchists were arrested in raids in various towns of the department of Seine-Inferieure, including the city of Rouen. Thirty houses in all were visited. The most prominent anarchists arrested were Jules Martin at Elboeuf, 13 miles southwest of Rouen. He was taken to Rouen handcuffed. A number of documents were seized.

A picket of gendarmes with fixed bayonets surrounded the house of an anarchistic lecturer on rue Verge, Brest, and arrested a well-known anarchist named Meunier and three others, together with three women companions. Meunier had already suffered imprisonment for fomenting strikes.

Five anarchists were arrested at Treyes and a quantity of explosives was seized.

Five more anarchists were arrested at Montlucon. Altogether 53 domiciles were visited in Paris and several hundred elsewhere.

Ordered by High Authority.

The minister of the interior ordered that the searches for anarchists should be made simultaneously throughout France.

A charged bomb was discovered at Grenoble and 450 cartridges were found at Allier. Of the cartridges 63 were charged with dynamite and 273 with grisontine. The remainder were gunpowder cartridges.

Fifteen militant Italian anarchists, all with criminal records, were expelled from Nice. Up to this writing there have been 34 arrests of anarchists in Paris and its suburbs and 24 at Lyons. The total number of arrests is not known at present.

Much incendiary literature was seized.

Anarchists' Poor Satisfaction.

GENOA, Jan. 2.—A few men, apparently excited by the Aigues-Mortes verdict at Angouleme, gathered in front of the French consulate and hooted the escutcheon over the door. The formal regrets of the municipal authorities at the occurrence were conveyed to the French consul.

Batch of Anarchists Taken In.

LYONS, Jan. 2.—The police searched the domiciles of 50 anarchists and made 24 arrests.

SHIP CANAL OPENED.

Manchester Made a Seaport by the Enterprise of Its Citizens.

MANCHESTER, Jan. 2.—The Manchester ship canal was opened to general traffic yesterday, and Manchester thereby becomes a port of entry, with all the benefits that accrue to such a port. The weather was fine, and, being a holiday, the banks were lined at many places by thousands of spectators anxious to witness the passage of ocean-going vessels to Manchester. Fifty thousand tickets had been issued, and these admitted the shareholders and their friends to points of vantage near Manchester.

The procession started at an early hour from Warrington, on the Mersey, 16 miles east of Liverpool. At the head of the procession was the steamer Norseman, conveying the directors. She was followed by other steamers bearing the members of the corporations of Manchester and Salford. A number of seagoing vessels, decorated with flags and bunting, joined these steamers at the Mode wheel locks. The procession was greeted with hearty cheers as it passed along in the direction of Manchester.

The first vessels arrived after a three hours' passage, and were cheered by over 100,000 people.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtenances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

IN A PITIABLE PLIGHT.

Sailor Hendrickson Found Almost Frozen to Death In a Cellar.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—In the cold and foul smelling cellar of an unused and dilapidated barn in the rear of 635 West Fifty-second street a starving man was found last evening by two young men named Treadwell and Weber. The man was lying on his back on a heap of rubbish and old wheels.

His face bore signs of suffering, and he was so weak he could hardly lift his arm. When he saw he was discovered he raised his head from a wheel on which it rested and moaned, "Water! Water! Give me water."

It was found that his feet were frozen as well as part of his legs, since where he lay cold water trickled from the roof above him in a small but steady stream.

He was removed from the cellar to the next house. After a cup of hot coffee, which he could scarcely swallow, and a piece of bread, soaked in milk, he recovered sufficiently to say that he was Charles Hendrickson, a sailor, and that he had entered the cellar 11 days ago, having been chased there by whom he did not know.

"Such water as I have obtained," he said, "was that which leaked through the roof." Why he stayed there he could not say. "Today," he said, "is my 42nd birthday, but by 8 o'clock tonight I expect to be dead."

After that he lapsed into silence and to all questions he just shook his head. No money was found in his pockets, but from papers on his person it was found that he was discharged on Dec. 13 from the ship J. H. Macy of Maine.

Hendrickson was taken to Bellevue hospital, where his condition is critical.

A KANSAS MYSTERY.

Two Persons Found Dead and Two Dying at Independence.

INDEPENDENCE, Kas., Jan. 2.—A horrifying discovery was made yesterday when Al Brown, son-in-law of George W. Read, manager of the Long Bell Lumber company, broke into the home of the latter and found Mr. Read clad only in his night clothes sitting dead in a chair before a hot stove fed by natural gas, his body in an advanced stage of decomposition. Edith Scott, a domestic of the family, was lying dead on the floor of her room, and Mrs. Read and her 5-year-old son were in bed, the boy dying and the mother unconscious.

The terrible tragedy is shrouded in mystery. Many theories are current as to the cause, one being asphyxiation, another accidental poisoning and another foul play. The fact that two gas stoves in the house were burning at full force practically exploded the theory of asphyxiation, and the fact that no bruises were found on either person renders the murder theory almost incredible, leaving accidental poisoning as the most probable cause.

None of the family were seen later than Saturday evening, leaving no doubt whatever that Mr. Read and the domestic had been dead 36 hours before discovered. Every room in the house was intensely hot, and there being no ventilation the fumes from the badly decomposed body of Mr. Read were stifling.

OLNEY FOR SUPREME JUDGE.

It Will Make Quite a Change In Cleveland's Official Family.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 2.—A Republic Washington special says: It is stated in administration circles that the president will withdraw the nomination of Mr. Hornblower of New York for an associate justiceship of the supreme court. A man high in the councils of the Democratic party and very close to the president says:

"The president has concluded that Hornblower cannot be confirmed. In consequence he has decided to withdraw his nomination and substituted Olney, the present attorney general, for the vacant judgeship; put Bissell, the present postmaster general, in Olney's place, and put Josiah Quincy, late assistant secretary of state, in Bissell's place as postmaster general.

Vets Elect Officers For 1894.

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—The Grand Army club of Massachusetts last night elected the following officers for 1894: President, George H. Innis, Boston; first vice president, Charles S. Clerke, Boston; second vice president, C. S. Anthony, Taunton; treasurer, J. E. Hunt, Boston; secretary, L. G. Stone, Charlestown. The club voted to hold a campfire Feb. 7.

Prohibition Gaining Ground.

TORONTO, Jan. 2.—A plebiscite on the question of prohibition was taken in connection with the annual municipal elections throughout the province of Ontario. Reports so far show a majority for prohibition in nearly every county heard from, with the exception of the large cities, where the Prohibition party also showed great strength.

New Road to New York.

LITCHFIELD, Conn., Jan. 2.—The projectors of the old Ridgefield road have had surveyors at work in this vicinity, and it is believed that the road to New York will be built as a substitute for the New England. President McLeod is said to be interested. The surveying commenced since the trouble of the New England began.

A NEW YEAR REUNION

"What comfort is my son Jack! His treacherous mother left no trace of her in him. He is all mine! Another year will see Jack through his medical college. Then, with my son my partner, I can look outside of business and perhaps can love again."

Dr. Stielson's sister entered—Miss Sue.

"A man is down stairs, brother, with a box for you. He is sinister and mysterious and will not give his name, but must see you."

"No subject peddler? I have got over that. Let him come up. Stand, sister, outside the door and listen."

A man like a robber, with swelled features, came in with a parcel.

"Well?"

"Is that your name or initials?" asked the man, producing a surgical instrument of silver.

"Undoubtedly. How did you come by it?"

"I took it in trade from a young man, I think I see his picture on that mantel."

"Slanderer! Deceiver!" exclaimed Dr. Stielson. "That is my only son."

"Take your hand from my throat, doctor. I am afraid of you. If I should cry 'Murder!' what would become of that young man? See here!"

He opened his package, and it contained a full set of costly surgical instruments in Dr. Stielson's specialty, of late not much used, but he recognized every article.

"Your reputation," said the illicit dealer, "is such that I put the clew upon my bargain at once. I asked the young man for a receipt when I paid him the money. I swear that I see his photograph there. Can you swear this is not his handwriting?"

The doctor looked and groaned and sank into his chair.

"Sue, settle with this person. O my God!"

The sister did as she was bidden, dismissed the fence shopkeeper and came back.

"Jack is a thief, Sue. He has robbed his father. What is to be done?"

"Nothing. It is bad enough already."

"I can never trust him again—never recommend him. Our ways part from this moment. Let him never see me!"

"Brother, it is New Year's eve."

"The night I married his accursed mother. Have I toiled and spent the hours of sleep in storm and midnight consultation to gain a national fame only to come to this pang—I have no son?"

He fainted, who had a nerve of steel and could cut to the very membrane between life and death. His sister was experienced and gave him restoratives and heard him continue to moan and rave.

"Be still!" she said at length. "Do you suppose this afflicts me not? What have I to love but Jack? If you throw him off, I will go with him. Now beware!"

"Oh, if he had killed some one in an affray! If he had set the city on fire! If he had been anything but a thief!"

"Enough. He is a thief. That is all of it. A thief was forgiven on the cross, where you and I are now. I shall forgive him."

"I never will."

"Then you are a bad man. Perhaps you have stolen yourself some time. Look below your hard heart, Pierce Stielson, and reflect!"

She heard a key in the door below and left her brother, sick herself of the misery which had come upon that house.

"New Year's eve!" exclaimed the doctor, and he threw himself upon the floor, not for the first time in his life, to know the ache of the broken heart.

He had come to Philadelphia from Delaware, out of an apothecary's shop, to study medicine. Excessive ambition from boyhood on had annealed his real sensibilities with the fire of energy till he was like a boiler full of fire, his rivets of life ever screwed up, his leisure nothing but cold exhaustion. His was a name of fame now without personality.

All knew that he had separated from his wife soon after their marriage and was soured, but his son seemed to fill the vacant place. His own integrity was everywhere understood, and a very few knew that this man of indifferent manners and hurry and intensity had a second nature beneath the first that was like an undeveloped childhood.

Pure misery he felt now, the little thing he had not watched—filial truth—taking him like an assassin upon his own threshold.

He could not cry; he could not reason. His absolute nature and faith had been for the second time destroyed.

There were bottles on his mantel which could kill. They had often occurred to him as instant reliefs from so much living and so little resulting. He felt like dying now by his own act. No fear of the grisly had he, but he was deterred by pride.

If he could almost wish his son would read of his father's suicide and become penitent, there was a woman who might think the love of her had caused it and exult!

How honorable, he thought, had been his life; the uniform meeting of his bills, the apprehension of debt, the fidelity of his contracts, his disregard of avarice while accumulating prosperity. And yet his sister had but now thrown it up to him that he might once have been a thief.

He a thief? Now he did weep in indignation!

"Never, never"——

Oh, memory!

He faltered to say "never" again, for there crept into his mind the memory of two distinct acts of dishonesty committed in childhood, which he had forgotten for 30 years.

He had played truant from school in his parents' absence and meanly put the excuse for it upon his orphan cousin, a helpless ward in his father's house.

There also arose before him a moment when he had taken a quarter of a dollar twice from his employer's till to buy his way into a circus.

Could those deeds be now called villainy? Pshaw! They were the raw acts of an unformed animal, a mollusk, a timid, wistful child. He had put temptation under his feet long ago and resolved never to lie nor evade nor to take mean advantage, and had lived up to his second life till frankness and courage were as natural to the great surgeon as to his faithful mastiff dog.

Yet he was not giving anybody else the chance to reform. His son was the offspring of that earlier life—not this second and better birth of the upright man in the slippery lad.

Could he say that his were not the traits which had descended to his child?

Could he again lay upon a woman's, an erring woman's, head all the weak traits of his boy and reserve to himself a rectitude he had this instant found three exceptions to?

All at once a feeling of pity for the erring boys or women came into Dr. Pierce Stielson's perception, peeped into his heart and lingered there.

He began to feel glad that he had committed two thefts and one dastardly mean act, else he would be above magnanimity. As a blameless father he could not forgive his child.

As a thief, a thief upon the cross of pain and woe, he could look over into the kingdom of thieves and almost think, "Ye poor Robin Hoods of the world, enter into my paradise."

As a recreant cousin to his older playmate, he now could forgive Peter, who denied his master like a perjurer till reproved by the crowing of the wanton bird.

Dishonesty might be congenial, hereditary, but it was the most general of offenses. How had he dared to liken it to Cain spilling his brother's blood, or the fell incendiary's destruction of house, city or one's country?

He, the anatomist, the materialist, who had traced the folds of the brain, the exact workshops of motion, memory, speech, love, ecstasy, felony—was he to drive his son away for an act he would forgive his dog?

The weaker the son, the greater should be the father's love.

The gnawing torture of the doctor's heart seemed to feel the sedative comfort of this counsel, and far beyond his son's offense he almost felt forgiveness for that one which had done Norfolk fowler blow. [illegible] first social [illegible]

"Oh, man! C[illegible] I [illegible] fellow laborers and coveters upon the planet!" the doctor thought, like prayer. "Forgive each other! Let me by charity become a god and cast out every hate!"

His sister entered—a grim woman, disappointed in love. She took his head in her lap and sat upon the floor.

"Pierce, I am ashamed of myself to have called you a thief. You are all I have left; Arthur has gone."

They sobbed without hope. It was long before the doctor could even repeat, "Gone?"

"Yes, he admitted it all. A woman had fascinated him. To make her a present for Christmas he took off that old case of tools. He says he cannot look you in the face."

"Why not? I have remembered, sister, when I was no better than Arthur."

"I remember, my brother," spoke Sister Sue, "when you were no example to his mother, nor an example for my lover, whose follies you would not forgive. If I had my lover back, God knows I would forgive him! We drove him away. Arthur has been as weak. If I live life over again, I shall not strain to find everybody perfect and be the only perfect one, left desolate and alone."

"A woman infatuated Arthur? Why, that is the commonest case in the world. Young fellows are hardly responsible at such times. I don't think it is so very bad. I'll give Arthur an allowance and call him home."

"That was your mistake before, Pierce. He had no money. You questioned him too closely!"

"He shall have an allowance—a large one. What else do I live for?"

"Brother, listen! That is his key?"

"My son! Come, come to me!" loudly cried Dr. Stielson.

The son appeared. His handsome face expressed woe. He stood awhile silent, looking to the floor.

"I have one regret, father," finally said Arthur. "You will be unhappy. Like all who are dishonest, I suppose, I thought to return my stolen goods before they could be missed."

"It's all right, my boy. I so far forgive you that I will invite the young woman you like to our New Year's dinner."

"Sir, I love you dearly, and my aunt also I love. And yet there is a dearer one. I must eat my New Year's dinner there."

"Oh, infatuated son! I thought you pure as crystal."

"The lady I love, my father, loved me first. She cannot live without me. Sir, I am without offense, except that I took your tools and sold them. No one can know this lady I speak of and not be pure."

He now raised his eyes and looked at his father. He dropped tears of real emotion.

"Pierce, you have suspected him where he is blameless," Miss Sue said, trembling.

"Oh, they all think that. Our medical students think all these happy widows of their predecessors to be pure—mere victims of circumstance."

"Is not that as well as to believe nobody pure?" cried Aunt Sue, kissing her nephew's lips.

"She would eat alone if I ate my New Year's dinner away from her," faltered the boy's words, with a fresh flow of tears.

"She shall not," cried Dr. Stielson. "She shall eat it here, and if it must go so far she shall be my child."

He took his son in his arms. He spread his office safe wide open and gave Arthur the keys.

"Take all you want, my son, and dry your tears. I have not any bond or mortgage worth one tear of pain you shed."

"Father, she is at the door waiting for me. The love I bear her is sincere pity, nothing more. Motherless myself, I found a heart that was like a mother's. She asked me for my picture for New Year's day. I could not refuse her. She forbade me to tell you of it. I put it upon her breast. With her now is the gentleman whose house she cares for. His character will justify us all."

"Command them both to come in, dear Arthur, and be welcome," spoke Dr. Stielson.

Two persons soon came in. There was a long, strange pause, which alarmed the son.

Miss Sue was the first to speak, averting her eyes from the strange, tall man who had entered.

"Arthur," said Aunt Sue, "I see your portrait set in gold upon that lady's breast. I kiss her as I would kiss you, my last and only precious thing, because, Arthur, she is your mother!"

"Dr. Stielson," the strange man spoke, arresting all by his but half welcome presence, "hear me once more. We began our careers together as medical students in this city of Philadelphia. For 20 years we have never acknowledged each other, though of equal medical rank. I loved your sister. You judged me too hard by our boyish trespasses and forced her to give me up. Yet, Susan Stielson, first and last of my true loves, I have for you lived a bachelor life."

"Have I lived false to you, Dr. Layton?" was Aunt Sue's reply.

"I hated Dr. Stielson, as all comrades hate a discrimination made between their families against two hearts. In turn—meanly revengeful—I played upon his ever rigid nature and drove him from his wife. Since then she has been the housekeeper of my bachelor home, and I swear to you a true and faithful wife and mother. The beauty she yet bears is the fruitage of that inward peace and submission which keep old age away."

Dr. Stielson's eyes were full of tears again.

"Even at home your wife, Pierce Stielson, saw not many, but saw at last her son. I made her promise me to hold the secret back till time could somehow work this scene."

"I felt that I must have the picture of my child upon my breast, where he had so oft[illegible] the wife, with sweet expres[illegible]. "Oh, Pierce, what instru[illegible]s, such as he took to buy me this, could give disease so much relief? I wait for all things, even for your reason to come back."

"It has come too late," Pierce Stielson sighed. "Could it have ever come but for the memory of some early sin that pricked my memory when I condemned my son?"

"There is nothing late about it," observed Aunt Sue. "Let Arthur's mother come here and take my place. I will go over to Dr. Layton's and take her place. I'm not as young looking as Mary, but I can keep Tom Layton just as comfortable."

"Why, there is a magistrate next door," exclaimed Arthur. "He can marry anybody. Father, can you forgive us all?"

"Forgive?" said Dr. Steilson. "Oh, friends, I can forgive all except him who has no errors to remember. Conscience has made me a husband again and given me a son—and I hope a brother in-law."

"Call in the magistrate, Arty," cried Dr. Layton. "I see only my Susan's heart of faultless beauty."

CHANGES IN TARIFF.

Individual Income Tax Decided Upon by the Committee.

AN INCREASE ON WHISKY TAX.

Beer, Cigarets and Cheroots Receive Attention.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—The advocates of the individual income tax proposition were triumphant at the meeting of the Democratic members of the ways and means committee yesterday afternoon. The 11 members were present when the final meeting was held at the treasury department at 4 o'clock.

Comparatively little time was lost in discussion. The ground had all been argued and fought over time and again, and the issue was joined on two propositions, one to levy a tax of 2 per cent against individual incomes over $4000 and against the incomes from corporations—that is, the difference between the gross income and the operating expenses, or, in other words, the net income—and second, a proposition offered as a substitute by Mr. Cockran of New York to tax incomes from corporations 1 per cent and inheritances 5 per cent, to place a tax of 10 cents on whisky and to restore sugar to the dutiable list at half a cent a pound.

The vote on Mr. Cockran's substitute proposition, which was taken first, resulted in its defeat, 7 to 4.

The original proposition was then submitted and carried by a vote of 6 to 5.

Whisky Tax Increased.

It was also decided in connection with the latter proposition to increase the whisky tax 10 cents a gallon; that is, from 90 cents to $1, to be levied against whisky in as well as out of bond. Upon the representation that this increase would work undue hardship to the owners of whisky in bond, it was decided to extend the bonded period from three to eight years.

The tax on playing cards, at one time fixed at 6 cents a pack, was reduced to 2 cents, and the contemplated tax on perfumes and cosmetics was discarded.

No increase was made in the tax on cigars, but the increase on cigarets, $1 per 1000, was allowed to stand.

The committee estimate that the tax on the incomes from corporations and individuals, corporations being treated as individuals, will raise $30,000,000 revenue—$12,000,000 from corporations and $18,000,000 from individuals.

The increase in the whisky tax, it is estimated, will give an additional revenue of $10,000,000 per annum. The proposed tax on inheritances, which was to be levied in case the proposition for an individual income tax failed, was not deemed necessary.

In a Nutshell.

Summarized the internal revenue features of the Wilson bill are: A tax of 2 per cent on individual incomes over $4000 and net corporation incomes; a tax of 2 cents a pack on playing cards; $1 a gallon on whisky; $1 a barrel on beer; $1.50 per 1000 on cigarets, and $3 per 1000 on cigars and cheroots.

These features of the bill were presented to the full committee today and will be formally introduced in the house later in the week.

The tariff debate begun in the house today, and the general debate will continue until Monday night, Jan. 8. Nine days will be allowed for debate under the five-minute rule, during which time the bill will be open for amendment. The evenings of these nine days will be devoted to general debate. The final vote is to be taken Jan. 17.

The necessity for prompt action on the tariff is deemed as of such importance that it is not expected now that the Hawaiian matter will be allowed to interfere with the tariff. The latter will have the right of way until disposed of.

They Want Their Pay.

ROCHESTER, N. H., Jan. 3.—The employes of the Commercial Street and Power company have placed attachments on the city of Rochester for the non-payment of their wages of the last two months. Many of the large lumber concerns were represented and vigorous remonstrances were made against the bill as it now stands.

Cutting Down Expenses.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Secretary Carlisle has discontinued the services of Samuel W. Gould, assistant inspector of hulls at Cleveland, and Andrew Burnham, inspector of hulls at Boston. The reason assigned is that there is no business requiring the services of these persons during the remaining winter months.

A Chicago Sensation.

CHICAGO, Jan. 3.—A story was in circulation here to the effect that two attempts had been made to poison Associate Prosecuting Attorney Scanlan. It was stated that the poisoning occurred when the attorney was making his opening speech, which was interupted by his consequent illness.

RACINE, Wis., Jan. 3.—Miss Charlotte Davis has treated Racine society circles to a sensation by running away with J. R. McGann, a Chicago business man. The bride is an heiress, and it is said her marriage was opposed by her relatives, she being but 17 years old.

INQUIRY RESUMED.

Missionary Emerson and a Mr. Jones Tell What They Know About Hawaii.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—The senate subcommittee on foreign relations engaged in the investigation of the Hawaiian matter held another meeting yesterday.

Senators Morgan, Frye and Gray were the only members of the committee present.

Rev. O. P. Emerson, who testified at the last meeting of the committee, had reduced his testimony to writing, and after being asked one or two unimportant questions he was requested to sign his evidence, which he did before leaving the committee.

P. C. Jones of Boston, a member of the firm of Brewer & Co., which has a large branch house in Honolulu, and who was minister of finance in the so-called Wilcox cabinet, was next called before the committee.

Mr. Jones was before the committee for about two hours, and when he emerged from the committee went direct to a train for San Francisco en route to Hawaii. He had been sworn to secrecy by the committee.

He represented St. Albans in the Fortieth, Forty-first and Forty-second sessions of congress, and served as representative to the state legislature in 1863. He was state senator in 1864-65.

Death of Bishop McNierny.

ALBANY, Jan. 3.—Surrounded by the clergy of the city after the last sacraments had been administered, Rt. Rev. Francis McNeirny, bishop of Albany, died shortly after 8:30 last night. A solemn mortuary peal from the tower of the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception announced the tidings, and all Albany, without respect to creed, mourns the loss of the dead prelate. Bishop McNeirny was born in New York city on April 25, 1822.

May Result Fatally.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Jan. 3.—A stabbing case, with probable fatal results, occurred here last night. During the row Perry stabbed Silvas in the neck with a knife and inflicted a dangerous wound. The assailants have been arrested.

SHOCKING CRUELTY

Practiced Upon Russian Catholics by Cossack Troops.

AWFUL MASSACRE IN A CHURCH.

Survivors Are Driven to Suicide or Knouted.

BERLIN, Jan. 3.—A controversy has been going on between the German papers concerning the accuracy of the cruelty of the Cossacks at the Roman Catholic church at Krosche. The Cologne Volks Zeitung has investigated the subject and repeats the original statement with additional damaging charges.

The quarrel between the Cossacks and the villagers, who are Catholics, caused a detachment of 300 Cossacks to be sent from Kovno to Krosche. The Cossacks were armed with rifles, lances and knives, and a terrible whip, the ends of which were twisted with wire and with eight small pieces of iron. The Cossacks rode their horses into the Catholic church, and the massacre of the people inside began.

Prayers of No Avail.

The unfortunate Catholics threw themselves on their knees in a corner and prayed to God for help, but the Cossacks shot and speared right and left until, according to the story told by The Volks Zeitung, the floor and walls of the church were drenched with blood. The infuriated Cossack cavalry men are said to have acted like demons, smashing the crucifixes, candlesticks and images of saints, and then throwing the vases into a cesspool.

The people fled in all directions while the massacre was going on and were pursued and captured or badly wounded by the Cossacks of the second detachment, which was detailed to surround the town and to prevent the escape of any of the inhabitants. A number of the latter are said to have been so panic-stricken that they committed suicide, many of them jumping into the river, where they were drowned. The rest of the unfortunate inhabitants were surrounded by the Cossacks, who, lance in hand, drove them before them to the market place in front of the town hall.

Survivors Flogged.

When this round-up was completed every man, woman and child of the town were ordered to be punished by being flogged with the knout. A doctor prescribed the number of lashes from the knouts which each person, young or old, male or female, could bear. The victims of this Cossack fury then had their clothes torn off them or were compelled to take them off themselves and were made to lie, completely naked, between two rows of Cossacks, who flogged them until many of them were almost dead.

The number of people killed is not definitely stated, but report places the number at all the way from 70 to 100 with a large number so severely injured that they have since died of their injuries or have been marked for life.

Caprivi Is "Solid."

BERLIN, Jan. 3.—The gracious reception accorded to Chancellor von Caprivi at the palace is much commented upon. The emperor and empress descended from the dais and warmly shook hands with the chancellor as if to show that the reports circulated to the effect that he was no longer in favor were baseless.

Tourists Frozen.

TURIN, Jan. 3.—A party of nine men started from Alagna to climb the mountain, intending to greet the new year from the summit of Gnifetti peak. The party was overtaken by a storm. One of the five, Lieutenant Giani, succumbed. The other four were rescued alive, but they were all badly frozen.

Home Rule's Prospects.

DUBLIN, Jan. 3.—John Redmond says that the government's compromise arrangement with the opposition, by which English measures will be passed, will enable them to postpone home rule to the end of the year 1894; or, at the latest, to the beginning of 1895.

Bradley's Great Scheme.

ALBANY, Jan. 2.—Senator Bradley introduced a bill yesterday providing for expending in the next few years about $20,000,000 on the canals. The object is to provide employment for the workingmen and to improve commerce.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Joseph C. Wilson, John J. McCook and Joseph W. Reinhart have qualified as receivers for the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad company. Bonds for $10,000 each were furnished.

Editorial Comment.

OUR CORRESPONDENT today, "Citizen and Taxpayer," who is a well known business man, has anticipated an editorial on this very point of the Mayor's inaugural. He does not show just how a committee of the Council can accomplish just what he recommends, but if after conference with the Granite Manufacturers' Association the scheme is found practical perhaps it can in some way take the initiative in forming such a corporation. Anything the city can do in a legitimate proper way to help the granite industry should be attempted. It is doubtful if much can be done in establishing new industries in this city, as no exemption from taxes can or should be offered by the city. It would be more consistent to reduce the valuation on what industries we have. The scheme as outlined by our correspondent is not a new one but seems practical if our granite manufacturers will endorse it.

IN WALTHAM the Mayor is, ex-officio, the chairman of the school committee. The Mayors of our city have all felt that they have no control over the finances of the schools and have deplored the fact. Some such arrangement as in Waltham might overcome this breach, but would have other disadvantages. The salary of the superintendent of schools is the same in Waltham as in Quincy.

MUCH HAS been said elsewhere in favor of local ownership of street railways, water works, electric light plants, etc. The Quincy & Boston Street Railway, a flourishing corporation in our midst, offers dividend-paying stock for sale and it should be controlled by Quincy capital.

CITY CHIT CHAT.

Items of Interest from All Parts of Quincy.

The sleighing for this trip is about gone.

Colder tonight.

The stone sheds about South Quincy present a deserted appearance.

The City Council will not meet again until Monday evening, Jan. 15.

The explosion at Roxbury on Tuesday forenoon was plainly heard and felt at Wollaston.

The old fire station on School street is utilized for storage of the street watering carts, etc.

Ex-Councilman Roberts of Wollaston, has been confined to the house by sickness for a few days.

Mr. A. L. Baker has sold to Mr. Richard Polson of Wollaston, the Gardner block, opposite the Wollaston depot.

Mr. George L. Gill, who was confined to the house over a week with the grippe, is again at his duties at the Savings bank.

Mr. Michael McGrath drove a party of lively young Wollastonians over to Milton on Tuesday evening, in Lord's large sleigh.

"Joseph in Egypt," Chadwick's beautiful opera postponed from Monday evening will be given tomorrow evening in Hancock hall.

A New Year's party was held in West Quincy Methodist church Monday evening. There was an entertainment for the children consisting of singing, readings and games.

Skating parties are in order now and every evening scores of young ladies and gentlemen can be seen with skates in their hands wending their way toward some of the numerous ponds.

The young men connected with the West Quincy Methodist church have charge of the entertainment to be given at that place this evening, and they have secured an array of talent that cannot fail to please all who attend.

Mrs. George G. Crockett of Pleasant street, was recently surprised by many of her friends who came to pass a social evening and presented her with a large and magnificent crayon of her mother.

The late George Cahill was storekeeper at the Boston Custom house under the first administration of President Cleveland, but was removed by the Republicans. He died Saturday noon, and by the evening mail came a reappointment to his old position.

Down Comes Gas.

On Monday the citizens of Malden, Medford, Everett and Melrose were furnished gas at $1.60 per thousand, instead of $1.80, as before. Why are we obliged to pay one-third more in Quincy for our gas? No doubt there may be some good reason, for we know the stockholders of the Quincy Gas Light Company have never received large dividends.

THE CALICO PARTY.

Pretty and Striking Effects as Well as Comical.

MUSIC HALL WAS THE SCENE.

And the Social Club Adds Another Good Time—Those Present.

The much talked of calico party was given in Music hall, Atlantic, Tuesday evening, by the Social Club, and it is safe to say, was one of the most jolly parties ever given by them. Calico abounded on all sides, and while some of the effects were comical, others were extremely pretty and striking. Nearly every one on the floor made a showing of this material. The dance orders were enclosed in calico folders and were in perfect harmony with the dress of the merry dancers. A large delegation of young people were in attendance from Dorchester.

The company was plenty large for comfort and the music was of a high order. Refreshments were served by the Neponset caterer, Mr. Thomas, and the large punch bowl was supplied with lemonade throughout the evening. Names of those present as far as the reporter was able to collect them, are given below:

BAY STATE SOLONS

Gather on Beacon Hill and Prepare to Go to Work.

BOSTON, Jan. 3.—The members of the legislature convened today to qualify, elect officers and put themselves in readiness for the inauguration of Governor Greenhalge.

The Republican members of the lower house met in caucus at 10 o'clock to choose a speaker, and at 11 o'clock Clerk of the House McLaughlin called the lower branch to order, and designated Thomas P. St. John of Haverhill, the senior member, as temporary chairman.

A committee was then appointed to wait upon the secretary of state to ascertain a correct list of the members-elect, after which another committee was appointed to wait upon the governor and notify him that the members were ready to qualify.

The governor, preceded by Sergeant-at Arms Adams, then entered the house, and the members, after having been sworn and declared qualified, then proceeded to elect a speaker, a sergeant-at-arms, a clerk and chaplain.

In the senate Clerk Coolidge called the members to order, and, as there is no member of that body for 1894 who can claim a priority of membership, Clerk Coolidge presided until the election of Senator William M. Butler of New Bedford, the only candidate for the presidency, was decided upon.

The governor was then announced by the sergeant-at-arms, the members were sworn and qualified, and they immediately proceeded to organize the branch by the election of a president, a sergeant-at-arms, a clerk and a chaplain.

A committee was then appointed to prepare rules for the government of the body, and another committee was appointed on the part of the senate to prepare joint rules.

Both branches then appointed committees to canvass the returns of the votes for governor and other state officers, and an hour for the meeting of both branches each day was fixed upon.

Senator Butler was chosen president of the upper branch, and Representatives Meyer was elected speaker of the house, despite the fact that Representative Wellman of Malden opposed him as a candidate in the caucus.

OUR PROSPERITY.

The Paramount Idea in Inaugural of Mayor Hodges

AS SEEN BY A BUSINESS MAN.

Strengthen Our Granite Industry by a United Push.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

In reading Mayor Hodges' inaugural, one part of it struck the writer as paramount to all others—where he recommends that a committee be appointed to induce new enterprises to locate in Quincy, or, perhaps, to co-operate with the Granite Manufacturers' Association to strengthen the great industry we have. In the opinion of the writer great results could be achieved in this direction by a united push of our Quincy granite. Let our citizens be imbued with that idea as the people of Barre, Vt., are. If the readers of this letter were to go to Barre, one of the first things they would notice would be the sentiment of the people for their town, and its only industry—granite. You talk with the storekeeper and he at once begins to tell you of the vastness of the output of the quarries and its beauty. How it is superseding all other granites. You enter the banks and they tell you of the amount of money that is employed and the great benefits to the town. You would fairly breathe it in the air.

The citizens of Barre took hold and built a railroad that runs the cars under every quarry derrick and to every manufacturing yard on the plain below, thereby reducing the cost of handling stone one-half. How has it been in Quincy? Any movement made to strengthen or increase the business has met with opposition or no encouragement from the capitalists of our city.

A company was formed to encourage and control the paving business but they had to look outside of Quincy for the buyers of their shares. They have run but one year and a half yet they have greatly increased the output of Quincy paving. Wages have increased and it has been a good investment for the money.

Another company, the Quincy Quarry railroad, had to seek large parts of the funds required without the city. Yet our moneyed men, have their funds invested in western railroads that they know little or nothing about, and where the prospects of dividends are poor indeed in comparison with home investments. It has been the same in every western or southern wild cat scheme. Quincy has furnished her share of the lost money.

Now what Quincy granite wants is more direct advertising. The Manufacturers Association did one of the grandest things that has ever been attempted in that line, when they placed the fifteen thousand dollar exhibit at the World's Fair for the people of the whole world to look at and admire.

This should be followed up by thousands of the very best designs that can be produced, to show the Quincy granite to its best effect, salesmen should be sent out to talk and sell Quincy granite from Maine to California.

Now, how can this be done and be the least burdensome, and the most beneficial to all? I answer by forming a strong corporation. The stock should be taken by every manufacturer and quarryman, by our storekeepers, our lawyers, and in fact by all our citizens who have the prosperity of our old Quincy at heart. The company so formed should at once prepare designs of the most modern monuments and send out their salesman fully equipped to talk and sell Quincy granite. The orders so taken would be let out to the manufacturers, in competition. The balance between the manufacturer,s price and the selling price would be the company's profits. Then the Manufacturers' Association ought to take a stand and not to sell any of their products to the Boston jobber that has no more interest in Quincy granite than in Concord, Barre or any foreign granite. Then the dealers throughout the country wanting Quincy granite would send to this city for it, instead of sending to the jobber in Boston, New York or Ohio. It would then be Quincy granite from Quincy people.

I believe such a corporation would be a good investment for our people; perfectly safe, and that the number of men employed would be increased one-third in two years. Now, cannot we pull together, and form such a company, to give Quincy granite such a boom as it never had before. One that will pay the investors, increase employment, make more demand for houses, more families to consume the groceries and to be clothed, more sick for our physicians to heal, more people for our street railway to carry, thereby making general prosperity for all our people.

In conclusion, if any one has a better plan let us have it. Let us do something, and not wait for something to push us.

Arrangements have been made that the production of "Adonis" which begins Monday, Jan. 8th, next at the Park shall be a distinctly new and Boston production with new costumes, new features, new music and new people in the company. As usual Mr. Rice will surround this star not only with very clever artists but with a bevy of pretty and shapely girls.

Mr. Dixey in addition to his famous Henry Irving impersonation and others, has some new ones that are said to be equally successful.

The sale, which opened at the box office last Thursday morning has already been very large, ensuring a brilliant Monday night opening.

The committee to solicit funds for the Hospital, in Ward Two, Quincy Point, did not attempt to secure any large subscriptions but rather a little from each and all. They report most of the contributions to have been in ten and fifteen cents, and their grand total is $326.09

HATTERS ARE ANGRY.

A Social Boycott Placed Upon Deserters From Unions.

MANUFACTURERS ARE SURPRISED

At the General Unity Displayed by the Workmen.

DANBURY, Conn., Jan. 3.—The locked-out hatters are beginning to get mad. The strong hand of leaders is the only thing that prevents the showing of personal violence and perhaps bloodshed. The reason of the belligerent attitude of the men is the knowledge that some manufacturers have emissaries at work trying to induce men to go back to work and forsake unions. The leaders have beguiled spies by throwing men in their way for the purpose of fooling the manufacturers.

Yesterday the executive committee of the trade took action on the matter of spies and gave to the press a long resolution the last three clauses of which read:

Whereas, all persons who attempt to debase and debauch fellow members of our association by soliciting them to desert our ranks at this time prove themselves to be shorn of all honor and unfit for association with honest men and women; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we will not speak to nor associate with any such persons from the day that the executive committee of our association publicly announces that it has positive proof of guilt of such persons, and be it further

Resolved, That while living within and not breaking any of the laws of the state or of the United States, we will endeavor by all proper means to make the lives of such persons in this town so unpleasant that they will seek their abode elsewhere in a place filled with their own kind.

The above shows one side of the temper of the men. C. H. Merritt, a leader of the manufacturers, was surrounded by locked-out hatters on Main street and escaped personal violence only by tact and discretion. To prevent further exhibitions of temper the leaders have men watch manufacturers when on the streets for their safety.

A feature of the situation is the announcement that John W. Green will assume charge of the factory recently conducted by W. H. Green & Co. and will run it as an independent shop. He advertises for his former help to make application for their old positions.

Mr. Green said: "It depends on the applications received when we start up. If we cannot secure help in this city we will bring it here from other districts. The factory will be run clear of all associations."

Hatters will not respond to the advertisement. The fight, they say, is against independent or foul shops and not the manufacturers' association. They think the advertisement a thin subterfuge.

The unity of the hatters is a surprise to the manufacturers. "Their strength," said one manufacturer, "is remarkable and is a hindrance to a compromise. For we know their power for the first time and we are afraid of it. For self protection we must have independence."

As many of the firms are anxious to open, something may happen within 10 days to bring matters to a crisis. It is said that several firms will move to Yonkers, where they can employ non-union help, if the trouble increases.

Three Workmen Killed.

BOSTON, Jan. 3.—Careless handling of dynamite sent three souls into eternity yesterday and caused injuries to a fourth workman which may cause his death. The accident occurred at the ledge at the corner of Townsend and Washington streets. Those killed are: Thomas Hardeman, aged 50; Thomas Black, 35; Patrick Hughes, 38. The injured are: Cornelius Leary, aged 45, probably fatally; Angus McDonald, 18; James Gately. Thomas Black was torn to pieces where he stood.

Cadets Shot by Peixoto's Troops.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Captain C. B. Anderson of the steamship Portuguese Prince reports that 10 days before the Portuguese Prince left Pernambuco 12 cadets were shot by the soldiers of Peixoto. The cadets were on board the guardship Parahyba, and were charged with an attempt to turn the guardship over to Admiral Mello.

Companies Have Been Losing Money.

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 3.—A committee of New England fire underwriters met here and decided to increase the rates of fire insurance in this state, which becomes necessary in consequence of heavy losses which have been sustained by large fires in Connecticut. The increase is to be made in other states soon.

Year's Losses Were Heavy.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—As a result of the examination of the state bank examiner the Holland Trust company has decided to go into liquidation. Assets amount to at least $16,000 more than liabilities. The heavy losses during the past year, however, caused the stockholders to decide in favor of liquidation.

A Generous Gift.

MONTREAL, Jan. 3.—The Royal Victoria hospital was opened yesterday for the reception of patients. The hospital is the finest building of the kind in Canada. It cost over $1,000,000, and was a gift to the city from Lord Mount Stephen and Sir Donald Smith.

Cranky Prendergast.

CHICAGO, Jan. 3.—Prendergast is daily growing more sullen. The guards treat him the same as they do other prisoners, but the assassin appears to expect more attention than the ordinary criminal.

Sheriff Badly Beaten.

GREENVILLE, Ills., Jan. 3.—Four prisoners escaped from jail here last night, after beating Deputy Sheriff Wright so severely that his life is despaired of.

Two Persons Suffocated.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Fire broke out in the second floor of the building 74 Pearl street last night, Florence Mullally, a 2-year-old child, and Martin Moore, 60 years old, were suffocated.

The "Boss" at the Head.

BROOKLYN, Jan. 3.—John Y. McKane was elected chairman of the board of supervisors by a vote of 18 to 15. The proceedings were turbulent.

Was Once Mayor of Detroit.

DETROIT, Jan. 3.—Captain Stephen B. Grummond, ex-mayor of Detroit, an extensive vessel owner, died yesterday after an illness of several weeks.

DEATH IN THE QUICKSAND,

A Hunter's Effort to Secure a Brace of Ducks Costs Him His Life.

Charles A. Lindberg, 40 years old, foreman of James J. Hill's farm near White Bear, met with a terrible death yesterday afternoon. About 1 o'clock he left home, telling his wife he was going to Mud lake on the western boundary of the farm to shoot ducks.

Two hours later one of the farmhands, passing along the edge of the lake, heard the faint halloo of some one out on the water. Peering across the lake he saw near the middle of the sheet of water an overturned boat and could dimly discern the outlines of a human being struggling in the water. There was no boat near in which the farmhand could go to the assistance of the drowning man, and he hurried off to Mr. Hill's residence and spread the alarm among the other employees. When finally a boat was secured and rowed to the spot where the overturned hunting boat floated on the surface of the water, nothing could be seen of its former occupant.

The boat was recognized as the one Lindberg was accustomed to use, and search was made for the hunter's body. It was found within three feet of where the boat had been capsized, in about four feet of water. The bottom of the lake is an oozy mass of mud and treacherous quicksand, out of which shoot thousands of water lily stems. Evidently Lindberg had shot a couple of ducks—the dead birds were floating near by on the water—and in attempting to pick them up had capsized the frail boat. His feet became tangled in the web of water lily vines, and he could not extricate himself from the quicksand, into which he sank inch by inch until he was drawn under the water and drowned. The body was nearly buried in the mud when the searchers recovered it.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

THE PARLIAMENT OF RELIGION.

Some of the Things It Accomplished of Especial Interest to Christians.

Now that the parliament of religion in Chicago has ended, it is pertinent to ask what it has accomplished. The inquiry is a difficult one to answer, for no tangible results were to be looked for from such a gathering. It recorded no vote on any of the questions discussed, and to all outward seeming it left things just as they were before. Nevertheless the plain and unbiased people of the country who have read of its doings have formed some sort of opinion as to the points at issue. And that opinion, whatever it may be, is the exact measure of what the parliament accomplished.

We believe that because of the parliament American Christians have come to recognize more clearly than ever before the fact that there are other religions than Christianity. It makes no difference whether these other religions are regarded as wholly or only partly false. In either case they are still religions, by means of which hundreds of millions of people find some sort of consolation and hope, and which at least attempt to give a rational explanation of the problem of life and destiny.

We may go even further and say that the parliament has proved the other world religions to be at one with Christianity in many essential points of belief and practice. And it has also shown that some of the popular conceptions of "heathenism" are grossly inaccurate.

But while Christians have thus gained a truer knowledge of what is good in the other religion, and we hope a larger charity, they have seen nothing in them which will in the slightest degree weaken their preference for their own religion.—New York Tribune.

Great Lumps of Light.

Those who were at the bicyclers' rest on the Playstead during a part of last evening witnessed a most peculiar and beautiful sight. A huge decayed tree had succumbed to the gale, and suddenly at its uprooting and fracture the ground all around it blazed up in luminous phosphorescent light. The trees and shrubbery all about were filled with gem-like shining particles of the flying phosphorus charged decayed wood. There were lumps of it lying around bigger than the famous Kohinoor, and as a scene it really looked as though a diamond mine had suddenly been unearthed by the uprooting of the tree. Many people took specimens home with them, which all night remained luminous, but this morning the luminosity had almost entirely passed away. The scientific reason for all of this can probably be explained by the theory of decay, but the sight was one that it is not likely those who witnessed it will ever in a lifetime again behold.—Boston Transcript.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securin foreign patents.

Three Points of View.

When a modern maiden marries
In delightful dreams she tarries,
As her fancy surely shifts
To the thoughts of wedding gifts.
"Every friend who would be pleasant
Must," she muses, "send a present.
All acquaintances must pay
Tax upon my marriage day.
Fans and fur and rare old laces,
Gold embellished dressing cases,
Rings and brooches, silver mugs,
Entree dishes, claret jugs—
Tables will with these be laden
When I marry," gloats the maiden.

When a modern Celebs marries
In his heart grim fears he carries.
"With," thinks he, "our income small
We don't want such gifts at all.
There's that grand piano—gracious!
That involves a house more spacious.
Then that dressing bag, alas!
That can only go first class.
Silver center dish, and cup, too—
How can we such things live up to?
Every present of pretense
Means for me increased expense.
Would that I such gifts could ban
When I marry," thinks the man.

When a man and maiden marry
Hearts of lead their friends all carry.
Custom, as you know, demands
Costly presents at their hands;
Ostentation, too, coerces,
So they empty out their purses,
Fearful lest their names be missed
From the always published list.
But in private, in a passion,
They denounce the sordid fashion,
Crying, in most bitter strain,
"Only fancy—fleeced again!
Bah! 'tis an event to dread
When a man and maiden wed."

An Animal Worth Having.

"Tom, to look at that dog you'd think he didn't know nothin, but he's worth more'n a dollar a day to me during crab season. He'll just go an lay in the water an purtend that he's dead, an when he's covered with crabs wot come to feed on him he'll run ashore, an I kin fill my basket in less than no time. He's lost his tail an one o' his ears, but he sticks ter bizness."—Life.

A Self-Confessed Liar.

CHICAGO, Jan. 3.—During the cross-examination of Mortes, in the Coughlin trial, the witness maintained the truth of his testimony, but admitted that he had told Judge Wing when not on the stand "A pack of lies." He said he did not feel constrained to tell the truth when not under oath.

MITCHELL "CRAWLS."

Indications That He Desires to Avoid a Meeting With Corbett.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 3.—Charley Mitchell has shown the white feather, or something that very much resembles that article. Developments seem to indicate that the Englishman is ready to squeeze through any loophole to escape meeting the champion of America.

That, and not the alleged knockout of the Duval Athletic club by Governor Mitchell in the courts here yesterday, is the real sensation of the day in sporting circles. The club managers yesterday began casting about for ways and means to "pull off" the affair in spite of the governor. Harry Mason went to St. Augustine to see Mitchell and induce him to sign amended articles of agreement. The original articles, at Mitchell's suggestion, provided that the fight should occur "within two miles of the city of Jacksonville."

The club wished to change this clause so as to have it read that the fight should occur "Within the state of Florida." When the situation was explained to Mitchell he flatly refused to sign the amended articles.

It looks as though Mitchell, taking advantage of the difficulties under which the club is laboring, desires to crawfish.

The managers of the athletic club are roasting the Englishman in sulphurous style. Manager Bowden said that he would go over to St. Augustine and force Mitchell to sign the amended articles or brand him to the world as having shown the white feather.

Corbett signed the amended articles without the slightest hesitation.

MANY KILLED.

Military in Sicily Unable to Cope With the Mobs of Rioters.

ROME, Jan. 3.—The newspapers report more serious news from Sicily. It is stated that during renewed riots many soldiers and civilians have been killed.

At Pietra-Perzia there was a serious tumult. Several public offices and public houses were burned by the rioters. There was a conflict between the military and the rioters. The mob invaded the tax offices, burned the books and attemped to storm the prison. The mob also burned the town hall and several adjacent buildings in spite of the efforts of the soldiers and policemen.

At Campobello the town hall and tax bureau were burned.

At the cabinet council yesterday Premier Crispi made a detailed statement of the recent disorder in Sicily. According to The Tribuna the ministry authorized Signor Crispi to invest General Morra with full power to suppress the disorders.

Honduras Insurgents Winning.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—A Herald special from Managua, Nicaragua, says the Honduras insurgents have invaded Honduras from Nicaraguan territory, captured Yuscaran and organized a provisional government. Twenty-three men were killed and five wounded. Honduras troops will now invade Nicaragua and war will then be in full swing.

Four Killed Outright.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Jan. 3.—A Rock Island train crashed into the rear of a Union Pacific freight 10 miles east of Lawrence. The Union Pacific caboose and a passenger coach, a carload of lumber and a carload of hogs were burned. Four persons were killed and four injured, two probably fatally.

A Distressful State of Affairs.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Jan. 3.—Affairs at Red island, Placentia bay are pitiable beyond description. Typhoid fever is raging, and the people are in a distressful state. In one house the two parents were found dead, and their children lay around on the floor stricken with disease, with no one to help them.

A Victim of Epilepsy.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

A MAN'S ADVERTISEMENT FOR A WIFE AND ITS SIGNIFICANCE.

Why Lucy Stone Never Voted—Foulke on Woman Suffrage—The Spotted Veil Habit—A Promising Career Ended—Timely and Interesting Subjects Discussed.

WANTED.—A wife, humble, handsome, accomplished, amiable, stylish, entertaining, a thorough housekeeper, finished cook, graduated seamstress, skilled nurse, a painstaking collector of masculine bric-a-brac, including tobacco ash, cigar stumps, old shoes and other debris left over from the wedding. In addition to these trifling qualifications she must possess a knowledge of the fine arts, be a sweet singer, brilliant instrumentalist and have such exquisite mental mechanism as to enable her to analyze the subtle niceties of thought governing the varying moods of her would be master. No propositions will be favorably received unless the applicant can pass a satisfactory examination on any or all points specified. She will also be given opportunities to exhibit her skill in speedy, scientific, cold snap fire building. Apply in person to BACHELOR.
1313 Washington street, Boston, Mass.

This is no imaginary advertisement. It is a veritable statement of what one retiring man hopes to find in his life partner—a frank, outspoken summary of what he considers indispensable to happiness. He didn't say anything about what she might expect in return, beyond intimating that he would be willing to keep her in coal and kindling, let her have a new gown now and again and give her ample opportunities for athletic development in bringing order out of his chaotic surroundings.

There was one point on which he was very firm, stern even, and that was, "No questions!" He said he'd spend his money as he liked, come and go when he liked, stay out as late as he liked, and come home when, how or in what condition he liked, without putting in an excuse with his appearance. He gave his audience to understand that he could say sweet things if he wanted to, but wasn't going to depreciate their value by lavishing them. The melting mood came on in the glow of the fire kindled by her fair hands.

Among those who listened to this one man's wants was a woman—a timid, tearful, humble mortal, who didn't dare say anything, but some way her thoughts turned to a tombstone she had seen in a city cemetery. It was a rather pretentious slab, and across the top was blazoned a man's name, and down below, as if shrinking away even in marble, a woman's Christian name, with the further inscription, "Wife of the above mentioned." He wasn't dead at all—such men generally do survive—but he couldn't let her have even a tombstone to herself, so he put her away down in the corner and filled the public eye with his own personality. That was the end of a truly humble woman. Fortunately Nemesis in the form of a second wife overtook that man, and let us hope it may in this other case, where so much is expected in return for "board and keep." It would be amusing to go into details on each requirement, but it couldn't be done in less space than 100 pages, so we must content ourselves in following up the first.

Now, it sometimes happens that a woman who is all humility and deference before marriage develops startling self assertion immediately after, and the man who started out with the intention of addressing her as "You there!" finds himself saying, "Ma'am," a month after the ceremony. He gives up every penny he earns and gets his tobacco money doled out, carries coal, runs to the grocery, shakes the rugs, sifts the ashes, peels the potatoes, and crawls off to business with his erstwhile haughty spirit limper than his linen. When a half hour late on the home run, it is pitiful to contemplate his mental agony as he cudgels his brain for excuses and finally concocts a fairy tale that very properly collapses under a scathing, "Now, Tom, don't tell me!"

And he doesn't tell her—he just hooks his heels in the rung of a chair to brace himself, pulls himself together and takes it, registering a mental vow to knock down the first fellow who talks of humility as a fetching feature in woman, lovely woman.—Mary B. O'Sullivan in Donahoe's Magazine.

Why Lucy Stone Never Voted.

Mrs. Luck Stone Blackwell, the great apostle of woman's rights and the champion of the ballot for woman, never voted.

This declaration will no doubt astonish many persons, and may perhaps be denied by some, but my authority for the statement is none other than Lucy Stone herself.

About a year ago, on the day, or one of the days, on which the suffragists were holding their annual convention in the Park Street church, Boston, I called to see this famous woman on business connected with the work. Incidentally some remark drew from her the declaration that she did not vote.

"Why?" was my very natural and instant reply, serving the double purpose of expressing surprise and inquiry.

"Oh, they will not let me vote, because my name is not on the voting lists."

"But why do you not register?" I asked.

"I have tried to register, but the board of registrars will not put my name on the lists. They wish to put my name down as they say it should be. They wish me to swear that my name is Lucy Stone Blackwell, and to sign it that way, but I cannot do that, you know, as that would not be right. I believe I know my name, and how it should be written, but they think they know it better than I do. So, you see, unless I will sign my name as they direct they will not permit me to vote."

So Mrs. Blackwell was deprived of her right of suffrage because three men, drawing $3,000 each per annum, set themselves up as judges of her name. Rather than yield what she considered a vital principle, she declined to exercise the great right of suffrage, for which she had fought all her life.

I am told, however, that she did frequently sign legal papers with the full name—Lucy Stone Blackwell. I do not know whether or not this is true, but I presume she would have to sign deeds and such documents with that, if any, if she signed at all.—Boston Herald.

Foulke on Woman Suffrage.

"I have believed in woman suffrage for many years," said William Dudley Foulke of Indiana, the prominent civil service reformer.

"Certainly if suffrage be a right every argument which justifies it for men is equally strong for women. They have property to protect. They are subject to the laws and may be punished for breaking them in the same way that men are. Why, then, should they have no voice in making the laws? A representative government ought to represent every phase of thought which exists in the whole body of the people. It ought to reflect the opinions of women as well as of men. A government derives its just power from the consent of the governed, yet women are governed without their consent."

"Would any considerable number of women vote if they had the right?"

"Yes, within a short time I think they would vote almost as generally as men do. As soon as the right of suffrage is conferred it brings along duty with it, and if it was conferred on women they would feel that they ought to vote, and they will not fail to give their suffrages to those things which they believe will benefit their country. Where woman suffrage has been tried, as in Wyoming, and for a short time in the state of Washington, it has been found that women take an active interest in elections. Women are not less patriotic than men are, and the lack of interest which they have shown has been rather the result of exclusion from suffrage than from any lack of aptitude for political affairs."

Mr. Foulke said he believed general female suffrage will be established some day.

The Spotted Veil Habit.

"The spotted veil habit will have to have its asylums or gold cures or something," said an oculist lately. "Its victims increase constantly, and they seem to be as devoid of will power to resist the mania as is the devotee of any evil practice. Intelligent women come to me to be treated for eye troubles that in some cases are wholly produced by the use of the spotted veil, and in others seriously aggravated. The harm is more perceptible now than formerly, for women wear veils almost incessantly. At the theater, at social afternoons, at church, everywhere almost, you will see the covering film of lace. I've questioned my wife, who is as bad as any of you, and she says it is positively necessary; that one's hair flies and various disagreeable things happen if the veil is left off, so I suppose it will have to be worn, eyes or no eyes. At least, however, wear one without dots, or with them so far apart that one need not come within eye range."

To which caution another may be added—to lift the veil, whatever its texture, when reading in transit. It is a common sight to see women in the elevated cars and suburban trains absorb themselves in a book or paper for a 40 minute trip without raising their veils. The motion of the vehicle and the shifting uncertain light are in themselves a serious tax upon the sight, to which it is unnecessary to add the further burden of even a plain veil.—Her Point of View in New York Times

A Promising Career Ended.

No more touching story of hope and ambition cut short can be found than that of Miss Mary Yeargin who was drowned in Cayuga lake, New York, recently. She was a self made woman, and the story of her struggles for an education is well known here. Her father is a one armed ex-Confederate soldier and a farmer of Laurens county. He was unable to send his daughter to a college, but she was determined to obtain an education. He owned a gin and had been employing a colored man as an engineer. Miss Yeargin asked him to let her run the engine and to give her the salary given the colored man. He consented, but with some doubts of her ability to fill the position. He was soon gratified to find that she was fully capable of acting as engineer. She soon accumulated enough money to attend the Methodist college in this city, from which she graduated. After teaching in the college for some time she went to Leesville, S. C., where she taught about a year. She wanted to go higher, however, and managed to obtain the means to go to Cornell university to take a special course. While teaching in the college here she educated a younger sister.—Columbia (S. C.) Letter.

A White Dressing Table.

A very pretty toilet table seen recently at one of our large shops and intended for a young girl's room was finished entirely in white, the entire frame being covered with double faced white canton flannel. The mirror was a large square one. Across the top was a broad band of finely plaited dotted swiss muslin, caught at each corner with rosettes of white grosgrain ribbon. The side draperies were trimmed with narrow ruffles of the muslin and the lower part with the muslin laid in large box plaits, finished at the upper edge with a quilling of ribbon. Over the top of the table was a cover of the muslin lined with white silk and finished with five rows of narrow white ribbon. This was made as a sachet and perfumed with orris powder. The pincushion which was to accompany this table was a large one of white silk and muslin.—Ladies' Home Journal.

It is said that when M. Worth wishes to create a new fashion he does not make designs on paper, but takes the materials and drapes them around the models until he has either developed his idea or hit upon something new.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

WILL SURELY FIGHT.

Mitchell Affixes His Signature to the New Agreement.

THE DUVAL CLUB FEELS HAPPY.

A New Battle Ground Will Probably Be Selected.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Jan. 4.—Mitchell has signed the articles which he previously refused to put his name to. If the governor interferes with the original plan, the battle ground will be changed, the exact location being unknown until the morning of the fight.

Unless something of a most unexpected nature turns up the Corbett-Mitchell battle will surely take place.

It is probable that the original plan will be fully carried out, but if it is found impossible to pull the fight off in the arena in this city, a secret battle ground will be selected somewhere within the limits of Duval or St. Johns county and the contest will go on as though nothing had happened. This is the gist of the arrangements that have been made within the last few days.

The only change suggested by Mitchell when he signed the amended articles was the limitation of the ground to the two counties above named. This was agreed to by the Duval people, and Mitchell signed. The articles were the same as those given to Corbett, with the difference mentioned, and were again signed by him. Under these new conditions each man will furnish his own gloves.

Club Expects to Win.

Within a short time legal proceedings will be instituted by the Duval club testing the legality of the contest. Exactly what these will be it is not stated by the club people, but as it is a notorious fact that no jury can be possibly found in Duval county to decide against the battle, it is pretty certain that the outcome will be favorable to the club.

If Governor Mitchell then sees fit to step in and interfere, all plans for a fight in Jacksonville will be dropped and a new battle ground selected. The location of this will, of course, be kept secret until Jan. 25. It will puzzle the governor to know what course to pursue to prevent the meeting.

A license will be applied for which, under the new city ordinance passed over the mayor's veto, must be granted.

Militia Scare Has Died Out.

For the first time the Corbett party really believe that the fight will take place. Local sporting men are happy, and say that it is now doubtful that the governor will interfere. Lawyers, however, think that he will, but say that it will amount to nothing, as he has no ground upon which to act. The scare about the militia being called out has now died down, and those who were most fearful are loud in their statements that nothing of the kind will happen. Altogether, it seems as though the champions of England and America would at last come together and the question of supremacy be settled.

In Congress.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—The impression gains ground that the present week will not be productive important results in the senate, and probilities seem quite strong that very little of consequence will be undertaken. The majority of the senators who went away for the holidays have not returned, and it is probable many of the absentees will not be here until the beginning of next week. Careful inquiry develops that there is not a quorum of senators in the city, but many who are not here now will arrive by the time for assembling.

Senator Faulkner Weds.

FORT MONROE, Va., Jan. 4.—The marriage of Senator Charles S. Faulkner of West Virginia and Miss Virginia Whiting of Hampton was solemnized at St. John's Episcopal church last evening. The bride is one of the most popular young ladies in society. She met her future husband while on a visit to the mountains last summer, and it was a case of love at first sight on both sides.

A Chicago Episode.

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—A mob of 150 men chased a negro named George Washington through Forty-Sixth street and Indiana avenue and aided in arresting him. The man was charged with attempting to assault Mary Hoges, a 12-year-old girl, and narrowly escaped a lynching.

Stubborn Contest In Prospect.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 4.—The strike of the railroad coal miners on the Wheeling division of the Baltimore and Ohio is now complete. About 3000 men are interested and the struggle will be a stubborn one. The men are determined to stay out until the 60 cent rate is paid.

Modest Western States.

WASHINGTON, Jan 4.—A bill to reimburse the states of California, Oregon and Nevada for money expended in suppressing the rebellion has been introduced. Under the bill California is to receive the sum of $3,951,915; Oregon, $335,152, and Nevada, $404,040.

Wholesale Drug House Burned.

DETROIT, Jan. 4.—H. Hinckman & Sons' wholesale drug house was destroyed by fire last night. Other places adjoining were damaged. Loss, $165,000.

Buried by a Falling Wall.

CHATTANOOGA, Jan. 4.—Eight negroes were buried in the debris by the falling of a wall of the old Windsor hotel. All were badly injured

LEWELLING AND LEASE.

A Batch of Stories Which the Governor Brands as False.

TOPEKA, Jan. 4.—Governor Lewelling returned from Leavenworth yesterday. Upon his arrival at his office he was besieged, and after numerous requests for an audience he sent out the following:

L. D. LEWELLING.

"This talk about Mrs. Lease and Governor Lewelling is getting to be a chestnut. The people don't know very much about individuals. No man or woman is greater than the party he represents, and Populists in particular are looking for good government more than to uphold any man or woman. Half that is published about current politics in Kansas is false and made out of whole cloth.

"Now, the statement that an armistice had been declared, or any kind of an understanding arrived at, between Mrs. Lease and myself, is false. The numerous reasons assigned for her removal are batch No. 2. That I had telegraphed a member of the Federation of Labor to come to Topeka so we could go to Leavenworth to influence the action of the federation for or against anybody's interest, is falsehood No. 3.

"The statement that Mrs. Lease has employed Judge Doster is lie No. 4.

"Lies are too abundant; life is too short. Who goes up or who goes down in politics makes very little difference if the heaven-inspired principles of truth still go marching forward. The leader of today is the follower of tomorrow. The pilot is easily replaced. The ship is the same and moves on."

GOING TO PARLIAMENT.

Nova Scotians Are Kicking Against the Whitney Coal Syndicate.

MONTREAL, Jan. 4.—There is every evidence of trouble brewing for the new Whitney syndicate which secured control of the principal coal mines of Nova Scotia and Cape Breton. Emissaries from the discontented section of Nova Scotia have been in Montreal testing the feeling here and endeavoring to work up an agitation against the sydicate. The idea is when parliament meets to bring in a resolution questioning the right of the legislature of Nova Scotia to turn over the mines to the Whitneys. The Montreal members have been asked to support such a resolution, and the majority of the members from New Brunswick and Nova Scotia are said to be pledged to it.

The syndicate is now said to have an option on the North Sydney mines, which are owned by English and Scotch capitalists, principally the Cunards. If the syndicate secures these it will have the entire coal trade of Nova Scotia in its hands.

Much opposition is developing toward the syndicate among the laboring men in Montreal on account of the new discharging machines which the syndicate introduced here, while there is also the fear here that with free coal the Pennsylvania mines will drive the Nova Scotia coal out of the Montreal market. In any case there is likely to be a fight over the matter at the next session of parliament.

Bank Directors Set Free.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Judge Barrett overruled demurrers in the case of five of the indicted Madison Square bank directors, Seloner, Krusheldt, Kalischer, Frankel and Ottenburg, and discharged them. Steps will be taken to indict them on other charges.

Mortgagees Will Foreclose.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—A decree has been signed by Justice Lawrence for the foreclosure of the mortgage on the Hoffman House, in the suit brought by the Farmers' Loan and Trust company. The full amount due the Trust company is stated to be $451,208.

Not Acceptable at Boston.

HARTFORD, Jan. 4.—The hands of the New England road at East Hartford were a few days ago paid off by checks on Boston, which the East Hartford merchants cashed as usual. The checks have all been returned from Boston protested.

A Sensible Conclusion.

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—The Hamilton club, one of the prominent social and semi-political organizations of Chicago, has decided to forego its annual banquet and devote to charity the amount that would otherwise have been raised for the event.

Street Railway In Trouble.

ATLANTA, Jan. 4.—The Journal says: The Atlanta Consolidated Street railway company has defaulted in the payment of interest on its bonded indebtedness. The amount of the bonded indebtedness, $1,833,000, is held mostly in eastern cities.

Our Postoffices.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—The total number of presidential postoffices in operation Jan. 1, 1894, was 3424, an increase of 301 during the year. The number of all offices on Jan. 1 was 68,806, an increase of 1092 during the year.

Two Wives Too Many.

BOSTON, Jan. 4.—Daniel A. Leport was arrested here on an indictment warrant charging him with polygamy, having married Annie Harvey of Allston, Mary Doherty of Dorchester and Grace Vernon of Worcester.

Crespo Is Popular.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Private advices from Venezuela state that the election of General Crespo as president was orderly and almost unanimous. He will be inaugurated in February.

Hiram Mower of Old Orchard, Me., has brought suit for $2000 against Dr. C. L. Pikey of Saco, Me., on a charge of malpractice, it being claimed that Dr. Pikey was negligent in setting the plaintiff's broken arm.

LAWRENCE EXCITED

Over the Removal of Officials by Her New Mayor.

LIQUOR SELLING HAS STOPPED.

Mayor's Friends Expostulate, but Without Success.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Jan. 4.—Political and liquor circles are still talking over the removal of Inspector Remick from the head of the liquor squad. The no-license law has not been enforced since May 1, and up to Jan. 1 over 300 "kitchen barrooms" and "speak easies" were selling, and every man who had a license previously kept selling with only occasional visits from Remick and the liquor squad.

The grip the liquor dealers had upon city officials was rudely broken by Mayor Rutter, but not until the liquor dealers had made a desperate fight for the retention of the old liquor squad. When all other attempts had failed to alter Mayor Rutter's intention to change the squad Maurice Curran and John Joyce, the leading liquor dealers of the city, accompanied by John J. Donovan, registrar of deeds, one of the mayor's closest friends, visited him and made an attempt to have him retain Remick.

The mayor indignantly resented this visit as an insult to his honesty, and a stormy scene resulted. The mayor was determined, however, and the visit was a failure. The new inspector, Timothy McCarthy, had the reputation of being a fearless officer and a determined opponent of illegal selling. The carnival of whisky and lager selling has come to a sudden halt, and it is now difficult to obtain a drink anywhere.

The mayor yesterday removed the last three Republican officials in his power to reach.

The Poor Suffer Greatly.

PARIS, Jan. 4.—The cold weather prevailing here is killing the old and poor and is causing numbers of suicides. Several destitute persons have been picked up in the street lifeless. One old couple living on the boulevard Declichy were found dead in their room. As they had no means to keep them from starving they had committed suicide by burning charcoal in a stove.

Judge Charged With Assault.

BANGOR, Me., Jan. 4.—A warrant was sworn out for the arrest of Judge L. B. Waldron of Dexter municipal court. Complaint shows Waldron guilty of assault upon Morrill Jordan, proprietor of the Dexter house, and Jordan's appearance when he arrived in town bore out the accusation. Sheriff Reed has come to Dexter to arrest Judge Waldron.

Alleged Burning For Insurance.

LEWISTON, Me., Jan. 4.—The candy and fruit store kept by Mrs. Ahern caught fire yesterday. The officers found suspicious circumstances and arrested two sons of Mrs. Ahern, who allege that their mother hired them to burn the building to get the insurance. She was arrested and all were arraigned and bound over in $2000 bonds.

Couldn't Stand Pain.

BUFFALO, Jan. 4. — Sherman Jewett Williams, aged 19, grandson of two Buffalo millionaires, and a young man of much promise, committed suicide by shooting himself through the heart. He was suffering from neuralgia, and excessive pain probably prompted the act.

They Want to Get Out.

BOSTON, Jan. 4.—Warden Bridges has sent in his resignation to Governor Russell, but the probabilities are that he will remain at the head of the state prison for some time. Louis Weissbein has also resigned from the board of prison commissioners.

Revenue Steamer Disabled.

BAHIA, via Panama, Jan. 4.—The United States revenue steamer Grant, en route from New York to Puget Sound, arrived here with her machinery disabled. It is thought it can be repaired with but little difficulty.

Editorial Comment.

MAYOR WARDEN'S suggestions as to the finances of Waltham are good advice to Quincy. In justice to the administration of Mayor Fairbanks, we would say, that the city tax of 1893 was but $160,000 while the limit was $172,880.34. We quote from Waltham address:

"The time is at hand when the leading question should be, not how much money is available for us to expend, but rather how much of the available fund can be saved, and yet provide for the indispensable wants of the city. Few cities in the State have incurred so large a per cent. of indebtedness; but this has come principally in the line of great public improvements, which have been imperatively demanded; and we have our compensation in the great and lasting benefits which have been secured. It is our duty to provide for the payment of this debt at the earliest possible date.

"It is not only possible but probable, that following this season of financial depression through which we are now passing, valuations will be greatly reduced. Such was the experience which followed the panic of 1873, when the depreciation on real estate alone exceeded one million dollars and not until the year 1884 did the appraisal of real estate in Waltham reach the same valuation where it had been ten years before. If we are to learn from the history of the past, will not the lesson be, that financially we should move with great caution.

"Hence, in calling your attention to the various needs of the city, I am not unmindful of the fact, that it will be impossible the present year, to enter the successful completion of all necessary improvements, and that great responsibility will rest with the gentlemen of the Board to determine which shall receive their favorable consideration. Entrusted with the people's money we have no right to appropriate one dollar except for their necessities. Let us apply this test to every expenditure."

On general principles it would be better to go to the limit on the city tax and avoid loans, but in a year of depression like this when the increase in valuation will be small, the tax for city purposes should be kept down to the lowest notch. It is not necessary to remind Quincy that the debt should be paid at the earliest possible date, for we are doing it. Debts for ordinary expenses may run over ten years, but instead of paying one-tenth of $339,730 this year, there will fall due, $64,730.

THEATRE CONTEST.

Another Clerk in the Lead Today With a Good Start.

There are new candidates in the clerk's theatre contest today and an increased vote for others. Every day there seems to be a new leader and today we find one of G. F. Wilson's clerks well in advance.

The demand for old papers has not yet begun, but a limited number can be had at wholesale at the LEDGER office.

The coupons are being gathered in by enterprising clerks and their employers, and the grand total for some of the candidates will doubtless exceed 100 when the polls close next Monday night.

Particulars of the contest among the female clerks to be inaugurated next Monday will be found on the first page today.

—A clergyman was much surprised one day at receiving a basket of potatoes from an old woman in his parish, with a message saying that as he had remarked in his sermon on the previous Sunday that some "common taters" (commentators) did not agree with him, she had sent him some real good ones.

CITY HALL NOTES.

The Ledger Representative Has a Pleasant Chat With the New Mayor.

It seems natural to see Mr. Hodges at work again in City Hall. The building has changed somewhat since the town government, when his office was in the front corner near the cemetery. The Mt. Wollaston bank has been removed and its rooms are now occupied by city officials. Ex-Mayor Fairbank had a little "den" built out of the ward room, with an entrance from the City Clerk's office. Here Mayor Hodges was found this morning, and it is his intention to have his office hours in the morning every day, probable from 9 to 11 o'clock.

Morning hours will be appreciated by those having business with the executive. Former Mayors have been in business in Boston and have not found it convenient, and considerable of the business has been done evenings, requiring the presence of some of the department officials both day and evening; longer hours than is really necessary or should be required.

Mayor Hodges says most of his appointments will probably be made public at the next meeting of the City Council, which will not occur until Monday, Jan. 15, although he has not yet decided on who some of the officials will be.

He intimated that one of the weak points of the charter was the holding over of the department officials, although it was at a season of the year when little was being done. However a month was lost in getting down to work. He would much prefer to have men of his choice associated with him from the start. Any new Mayor would make some changes and he would generally like to make them right away. In the old town government the new officials came into office on election day and organized on the following day. Now the election is held nearly a month before the Mayor takes the office, and the department officials should change at the same time as in other cities.

Speaking of the widening of Sea street, His Honor said he had simply opened the question and had formulated no plan. He desired it should be done by a special loan. It was his intention to include Coddington street as well,—the whole Houghs Neck road—as he believed it was imperative that Coddington street should be widened at its entrance from Washington street.

KNIGHTS AND LADIES.

Installation, Visitation and Initiation of Maple Lodge of Quincy.

Maple lodge, No. 313, Knights and Ladies of Honor, held one of the most enjoyable meetings of the year, at G. A. R. hall, Wednesday evening. There were one hundred present, from Boston, South Boston, Wollaston and Quincy. John R. Fairbairn of Cambridge, the new Grand Protector, made his first official visit to the lodge, and spoke words of praise for the progress that Maple lodge was making. W. S. Pierce of Wollaston, Grand Deputy, with suite were present, and installed the following officers for the ensuing six months:

Past Protector,—Isabelle Souther.
Protector,—William W. Penniman.
Vice Protector,—Mary A. H. Crane.
Chaplain,—Lizzie A. Monk.
Guide,—Anna J. Blaisdell.
Secretary,—Angie D. Loud.
Financial Secretary,—Francis P. Loud.
Treasurer,—Harriet W. Tirrell.
Guardian,—Charles Crane.
Sentinel,—Albert J. Shackley.
Pianist,—Mother.
Trustees,—Quincy Tirrell, Charles Crane and Ellen M. Miller.

Three candidates were initiated and three new applications were received. Speech making and social intercourse was enjoyed. At the close of the business a fine collation was served under the directions of Anna J. Blaisdell, chairman of the committee on good of the order. The next meeting will take place January 17, at which time, all members are requested to be on hand, as another good time is in progress, and initiation is to take place. Come and see the new degree team.

AT WEST QUINCY.

Young Men Score a Success as Entertainers at Church Sociable.

The young men connected with the West Quincy Methodist church, had charge of the entertainment given at that place Wednesday evening and established for themselves a life long reputation in that line.

The young men believed in advertising and the result was what was expected, the church well filled with a large and enthusiastic audience who were generous with their applause. The entertainment consisted of selections by the Hancock orchestra; piano duet, Misses Grace and Bertha Turner; comic solo, J. Phalen; harmonica solo, Prof. Hugh Paquet; vocal, A. W. Loud, and selections by the Albion quartette composed of Messrs. W. Warmington J. Simmons, J. Pierce and A. J. Birnie.

There were two other numbers on the programme but one was sick and the other disappointed the committee.

Special mention should be made of the Albion quartette, which so captivated the audience that they were obliged to respond to several encores.

After the entertainment a supper was served.

The committee in charge of the affair were A. W. Loud, C. Bayard, F. E. Lowe, F. Leavitt.

THE ASYLUM TRUSTEES.

Another Resigns and Charges Gov. Russell With Electioneering Extraordinary

Now Frederick S. Risteen has resigned as a trustee of the Medfield Insane Asylum because of Governor Russell's interference. In an interview he says:

"And my only regret is that I had not resigned from the board, as I had long ago expressed to the Governor my thought of doing. Because I have felt from the first that the board was badly organized, and that remaining on the board could not, under the most favorable circumstances, redound to the credit of the Trustees."

The pith of the whole matter appeared to lie in this, in Mr. Risteen's mind, that as the statutes expressly provided that the Board of Trustees of Medfield Asylum should elect their own Building Committee from their own number, that they had done so as free agents and that the Governor had no right to interfere and dictate whom they should select nor interfere to upset the result of a fairly cast ballot and the election of a committee chosen in accordance with the statutes made and provided. He feels that he has been treated pretty meanly by his associates on the board.

A SMART OLD MAN.

George Washington Gerry, Aged 93, a Guest at Wollaston.

Mr. George Washington Gerry of Pembroke is paying his first visit to Wollaston, a guest of his daughter, Mrs. C. D. Mann of Farrington street. Mr. Gerry is a fine old gentleman with long white hair and big blue eyes. He is only a little deaf and speaks with tolerable distinctness. He has had 9 children, 40 grandchildren and 22 great grandchildren. His companion in life died in 1885 at the age of 83. He delights to tell that he never has seen a day too hot or too cold to work, and adds, "When I was 91 years old I cut my cord of wood in a day. At 18 I cut and piled my cord in an hour. I have chopped a great deal of wood." Mr. Gerry steps off with surprising sprightiness, and seems cheerful and clearheaded. He bears his years and honors well.

WEYMOUTH.

East Weymouth has lost another of its prominent citizens, Mr. John P. Burrell, who died Wednesday evening, aged 69 years. He has been member of the board of assessors of Weymouth for a number of years and was one of the board of selectmen in 1891. During the civil war he served as 2d Lieut. of Co. A. 42d, and was a member of Reynold's post 58, G. A. R. For 48 years he has been a member of Crescent lodge of Odd Fellows and was also identified with Orphans' Hope lodge, F. A. M.

He was for a number of years engaged in the manufacture of boots and shoes but retired from business a number of years ago. He leaves a widow and a son and daughter.

Arthur V. Powers another prominent citizen of East Weymouth died Wednesday evening aged 36 years. He leaves a widow and one daughter. He was a member of Wessagusset Colony 111, U. O. P. F.

January Magazines.

The most fully illustrated article in the New England Magazine is that on the city of Springfield, Mass., by Mr. Clarence E. Blake. It is one of the best articles on New England towns and cities which has appeared in the magazine; the sections devoted to Dr. Holland and to Samuel Bowles and the Springfield Republican being especially entertaining and valuable.

The leading article in Worthington's Magazine, "Forests of California," by Chas. Howard Shinn, is superbly illustrated, giving the reader a good idea of these magnificent coniferous forests, the like of which is found nowhere else upon the earth. Another remarkable article is that entitled, "A Celebrated Escape," which gives for the first time a reliable detailed account of the digging of the famous Libby Prison Tunnel.

"Some comments on babies," in the Overland Monthly is full of amusing bits of child lore, and illustrated by a profuse display of striking child pictures, covering many types and many nationalities,—such a "baby show" as has never before been given by any great magazine.

The three Lothrop magazines for January come together, making a charming and attractive trio, and containing a large amount of interesting matter prepared expressly for little readers. Babyland opens with a frontispiece in eight colors. "The Christ Child." Lovely pictures, large and small, will shed a New Year's greeting about the nursery, Our Little Men and Women is suggestive throughout of Christmas good cheer and a "Happy New Year" greeting. A new feature begins in this number, "Our Kindergarten," under the charge of Miss Sarah E. Wiltse. Pansy opens with a story by its editor, Mrs. Alden, and there are shorter stories and other poems, all up to the standard.

Women as Watchmakers.

The Waltham watchmaking establishment employs 1,800 women among its 3,000 work people. The superintendent of the Waltham exhibit at the World's fair said of them, "In many lines of the work women are superior to men, and in all lines of the work women are more faithful than the men." Yet if that very superintendent needed a foreman for one of his departments he would select for the place some stripling of a boy and put him up over the heads of the oldest and most faithful women in the works and give him twice the pay of the best salaried among these excellent work women. It is so in every department of industry, such is the power of the sex superstition. This is the most discouraging feature of woman's attempt to rise industrially.—New York Herald.

A Famous Swimmer.

If English women do not learn to swim, it will not be the fault of the National Physical Recreation society. This organization has instituted a series of rewards, a diploma being given to any who shall prove herself capable of swimming 100 yards, a bronze medal for a quarter of a mile, a silver medal for a half mile and a gold medal for a mile. At the first contest Miss Lemabel Campbell carried off at one fell swoop the diploma and all four of the medals. The tank was 18 yards and 1 foot in length, and Miss Campbell swam this 100 times.

Princess Beatrice In "The Scrap of Paper."

The queen, always appreciative of a good play, immensely enjoyed both the amateur and professional performances prepared for her entertainment at Balmoral recently. Princess Beatrice fairly surpassed all her previous efforts as Susan Hartley in "The Scrap of Paper," as played to the admiration of the members of the Garrick company, to whom the queen had given an invitation to witness the performance. The princess acts with real vivacity, and has, moreover, an excellent stage presence.—London Correspondent.

Lady Jeune's Impediment.

It is said that Lady Jeune, who has written so much on the "con" side of the society question, can seldom stray beyond the limits of a short sentence without endangering her grammar. She has written a preface for a new volume about women, and unfortunately suffers some of her worst literary shipwrecks in trying to express her appreciation for the work of women authors and journalists.—Exchange.

Miss Willard's Sister.

Miss Frances Willard has published a biography of her sister, who died at the age of 19. Mary Willard seems to have been a gentle, amiable girl of delicate health and pious mind. In spite of her religious tendencies she had an inordinate fear of death. The critics seem to be puzzled that so gentle a character should have been so keenly loved and missed by a woman of Miss Willard's caliber.

To Plant a Liberty Tree.

The Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution is arranging to plant a liberty tree at the opening of the California Midwinter fair. Members of the Washington branch of the society have sent small quantities of earth from the grave of Mary Washington, Mount Vernon, Bladensburg and the Washington monument, to be used in the planting.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Studying Politics.

At Westfield, Mass., on election day Miss Gaylord of the normal school faculty chaperoned about 50 of the normal girls while they made a thorough inspection and took copious notes on the Australian method of balloting. When young women are thus trained in practical politics, they will soon wish to be voters.—Exchange.

Pinafore Gowns.

"Pinafore" gowns are the latest evolution of style in the English capital. They consist of a blouse and sleeves in some contrasting color to the overdress, cut around the neck and armholes like a pinafore and sometimes edged with fur, and are suitable for young people only.

Women Eligible.

Women as well as men are eligible for the vacant professorship of French just advertised by the University college of Wales—Aberystwyth. By the college charter women are competent to serve on the board of governors, council and senate at Aberystwyth.

DISCIPLINE WAS POOR.

Alleged Reason For Sending the Cruiser New York to Rio.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—The controlling reason for ordering the cruiser New York to Rio was not so much to strengthen the American fleet of warships there as to get the big cruiser away from the New York navy yard, where, it is said, her crew were becoming demoralized and inefficient in their duties because of the lack of proper drills.

The report of the inspection board on the trial of the ship, preparatory to final acceptance, shows that the discipline of the vessel was not up to the standard maintained in the navy, and that the regular naval routine on board was being greatly interfered with by two many visitors received by the officers and men.

The report of the board has not been made public, except that part of it which relates to the performance of the vessel at sea, but in a supplemental report the board makes some pointed criticisms of the condition in which it found the vessel, and particularly the lack of discipline prevailing, more for want of opportunity for drills than negligence.

The guns were found to be in poor working order, and there were several other parts of the equipment which did not work properly, which fact had been discovered and reported by the officers. Secretary Herbert is said to have been greatly provoked when he heard of this, and he issued peremptory orders to prepare the vessel for sea at once.

Following this order came a message from Captain Picking representing that additional vessels at Rio were required, and it was then decided to send the New York to Brazil. The board discovered that there was a great difference in the uniforms of the crew and that most of them dressed according to their own ideas of what was proper.

The board states that the crew was not satisfactory in any of the details of drills, and showed want of proper exercise in them. It was admitted at the department yesterday that, while it was believed more ships were needed at Rio, the primary reason for ordering the New York to sea was to get her away from the demoralizing influence of remaining tied up at a navy yard dock.

Boy's Fright Caused $100,000 Loss.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 4.—"Le Roi S'Amuse," a masterpiece by Jules Arsene Garnier, valued at $100,000, was irretrievably ruined while being moved from La Cede building. The picture was too large for the elevator and caught on a projection of the wall. The elevator boy became frightened and pulled the lever the wrong way.

Fraud Alleged.

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—Charges of fraud are made in connection with the recent failure of the Henry Dibblee company. It is charged that fraudulent judgments were entered in favor of stockholders; that the Chicago Title and Trust company was improperly appointed receiver, and asks that it be removed and another receiver appointed.

Pennoyer Was Wrong.

PORTLAND, Or., Jan. 4.—At a special meeting of the chamber of commerce in this city resolutions were introduced condemning the statements contained in Governor Pennoyer's letter to President Cleveland. The resolutions show that greater destitution prevails in many states and cities than in Portland and Oregon.

INAUGURATION DAY.

Frederic T. Greenhalge Duly Installed Governor of Massachusetts.

BOSTON, Jan. 4.—Frederic T. Greenhalge of Lowell was today inaugurated governor of the commonwealth, and Governor William E. Russell put an "ex" to his name, and goes back to his law briefs.

This interesting ceremony took place at noon at the state house, amid all the pomp, tinsel and gold lace characteristic of such an occasion.

The legislature met at 11 o'clock, and the committee to canvass the vote for governor and state officers made its report. Then a committee was appointed by the senate to inform the house thas it was ready to qualify the governor. The house sent a similar committee to the senate.

There being no difference of opinion on this point, the senate and house agreed to meet in joint convention, and the senate solemnly marched into the representative hall, the president taking the chair. A committee of the convention was next sent to the governor to inform him of the situation, and that his pleasure was awaited.

At this point the justices of the supreme court and the other judges were announced, and were martialled in by the sheriff of Suffolk county, who wore a blue swallow-tailed coat, a cockade on his hat and a sword which is about 100 years old. Then came other dignitaries and invited guests, who crowded every vacant place.

All being seated, the governor, escorted by his staff in full uniform, entered. He ascended to the speaker's desk, took the oath, which was administered by the president of the senate, and read his address.

They are Rear-Admirals Thomas O. Selfridge, Samuel P. Lee, Joseph F. Greene and Henry Walke and Commodore Henry Bruce. During the last five years death has removed of this class Vice-Admiral S. C. Rowan, eight rear-admirals and six commodores.

Expedients to draw people to church are not always successful. The Rev. Walter Walsh of Newcastle, England, abolished creed-subscription for membership in his church, inviting all who wished to live like Christ. No increase of working-folks was visible. Then he put the pulpit away, and put in a platform, and made worship only incidental, while all topics of social interest were treated. This, too, was a failure, and Mr. Walsh now says: "After all, congregations are more interested in the permanent truths of religion."

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

Motherhood.

Ah! little bird upon the nest,
What is it trembles at thy breast?
What is it thrills the tiny round
With pulsing, faint, reluctant sound?
What muffled stroke of fate draws near
The eager sense is strained to hear?

Oh, mother bird, a quivering part
Of every vital throb thou art;
The tap that shakes the brittle shell
Must shake thy being's walls as well,
For that which wakes to life wakes thee.
It is the call of destiny.

What strange, new self has seized thy life?
Is care thy portion, timid wife?
For this alone the sticks were laid,
For this the hallowed nest was made,
That at that tender heart should lie
Earth's deep unfathomable mystery.

Earnings of Authors.

It is stated that for the serial rights of "Treasure Island" R. L. Stevenson received about £120. Ten times that amount would not purchase a tale of equal length from his pen today. For the serial rights of "She" H. Rider Haggard got £300, and a similar amount was paid to Hall Caine for "The Deemster." For short stories Rudyard Kipling is still first, though J. M. Barrie is running him close, and it is predicted will take the lead.

But the totals for both book and serial rights received by novelists today are far below the princely sums that were paid to Scott, George Eliot, Dickens, Thackeray, Reade and Wilkie Collins. For "Romola" George Eliot received £7,000 and might have had £3,000 more but for her conscientious regard for art. As there are many versions of that famous transaction, we may give the facts. This novelist agreed to write a story for The Cornhill, for which she was to be paid £10,000. It was, however, to run through 16 numbers instead of the usual 12.

Of this arrangement she did not approve, and all the arguments of her friends could not overcome her objections. Finally she threw £3,000 off the price to carry her point, a rare instance of self sacrifice for the sake of art. Lord Beaconsfield, it should be mentioned, received princely terms for "Endymion."

"He wanted money," writes Mr. Froude in his biography of Beaconsfield in the "Queen's Prime Minister's Series," "and it brought him £10,000."—Publishers' Circular.

ORDER IS RESTORED

In Most of the Principal Towns Throughout Sicily.

SHOPS COMPELLED TO CLOSE.

Late Reports of the Work of Furious Mobs.

ROME, Jan. 4.—At a meeting of the cabinet yesterday Prime Minister Crispi announced that a report had been received from General Morra saying that order had been restored in almost every part of Sicily, but that owing to the numerous centers of agitation that existed, re-enforcements of troops would be necessary to avoid a repetition of the late scenes of bloodshed.

The leaders of the agitation, General Morra said, had already in their possession several thousand rifles. An attempt would be made to disarm the disaffected peasants by legal efforts, but should this fail, a recourse to force would be necessary.

Telegrams from Palermo state that in the riots at Pietra-Perzia eight persons, including a child, were killed by the fire of the soldiers, and 15 were wounded. Twelve soldiers were injured, one of them seriously. The streets of the town are deserted, and all its outlets are patrolled by troops.

Incendiaries Busy.

At Salemi on New Year's day the building occupied by the Buoni Amici club, the offices of the notary Badiera, the People's bank and many private houses were set fire to by the rioters and burned, the flames being visible for miles distant.

At Mazzara all the shops are closed, and the place appears as if deserted.

At Gibellina there is still serious trouble. The rioters threaten to burn the residence of the mayor and a force of troops surround that building to prevent the carrying out of the threat. A priest who was exhorting the mob to desist from further disorder was killed. The troops thereupon fired a volley at the rioters, who fled in wild disorder. It is said that five rioters were killed and five wounded.

Due to Famine.

Signor Colajanni, a member of the chamber of deputies, who has just returned from Sicily, says it is not politics, but real famine, that has induced the masses to revolt.

In connection with the troubles in Sicily the following incident which occurred in the village of Terrasini is related: The people rebelled against the communal authority and burned the tax bureaus. Lieutenant Bersaglieri, who was in command of the troops, ordered his men to prepare to fire, when a woman rushed forward, holding up a portrait of the queen and asked the lieutenant to kiss it. At the same moment the rioters, men and women, fell on thair knees in front of the soldiers, crying "Kill us; we are dying of hunger."

The lieutenant ordered the soldiers to retire and the riot was ended.

AN AWFUL DISTINCTION

Claimed by Anarchist Salvador, Who Is Now Under Arrest.

MADRID, Jan. 4.—Salvador, the anarchist, who was arrested yesterday in Saragossa, contends that he was the sole author and executor of the plot to blow up the Lyceo theater and kill most of the audience.

He says that he, alone and unaided in any way, made the bombs and threw them, not from the gallery, but from the pit. He escaped in the panic, he asserts, hid 20 days in a house near the cemetery in Barcelona and then went to Teruel, Aragon, where he publicly told the true story of his deed.

Everybody regarded him as insane, he says, and did not heed his words. After repeated examinations by the police, Salvador reiterates this story as he first told it. His condition is serious and he wishes to die, although very eager first to prove that he was the sole author of the Lyceo theater explosion.

He comes of good family, but he ran away from home at 14 and got no education. A few years ago he was arrested as the leader of a band of brigands. He has been known for years as an anarchist.

Heavy Punishment.

PARIS, Jan. 4.—A widow named Millescamps was yesterday sentenced to the Rustrum prison for 10 years, to banishment from Paris, to pay a fine of 1000 francs and to espionage after her release from prison. A secret service agent of the government had lost in the woman's house certain plans, and the woman, instead of restoring them to the government, had handed them to third parties.

Talk of a Truce.

BUENOS AYRES, Jan. 4.—A rumor has reached here from Rio Janeiro that if the revolution is not ended by an immediate and decisive naval engagement, it will shortly be terminated by an arrangement between the two parties.

Changed Their Minds.

PERNAMBUCO, Jan. 4.—The crew of the Nictheroy struck for higher wages, and steps were taken to send them ashore and fill their places with Brazilians. Then the men weakened and agreed to remain at the old rate.

Boston's Smallpox Cases.

BOSTON, Jan. 4.—Another case of smallpox was reported yesterday in Jamaica Plain, making 28 thus far in Boston.

A "BLUFF" THAT WORKED.

How a Little Man Avoided a Fight With a Blustering Big One.

The big man was just drunk enough to be spoiling for a fight. That was apparent to every one in the cafe. He hadn't been there 10 minutes before he picked a quarrel with a man three sizes smaller, who had been quietly minding his own business in a corner of the room.

"Sir, you've insulted me!" exclaimed the big man.

"You are mistaken," quietly responded the other.

"You're a liar!" thundered the big man, "and if you know what that means you'll fight."

"Certainly," was the rejoinder, without a tremor of perturbation, "but it must be after I've finished eating. I never allow trifles to interfere with my dinner. Waiter, hurry up that porterhouse steak! Never mind if it is a bit rare."

The big man, nonplussed for the time being by such a display of coolness, sat down at a table near by and glared at his prospective victim. We all felt sorry for him, but the big man looked dangerous, even if he was "three sheets in the wind," and we decided not to interfere.

When the little man's steak came in, he said something to the waiter. Two minutes later the waiter said something to the big man. It was noticed that he didn't look quite so fierce after that, and soon afterward, remarking with assumed carelessness that he would be back in a minute, he left the room.

Then some of us ventured to suggest to the little man that it was a good opportunity for him to "skip," which, considering the discrepancy in size between him and the man who had forced a quarrel upon him, would involve no disgrace.

"Much obliged for your good advice," said he as coolly as ever, "but there is no necessity for that. The other fellow has run away already."

When 15 minutes had slipped by and 'the other fellow" hadn't shown up, we concluded that the little fellow was right and wanted to know, of course, what had caused the stampede.

"Oh, just a little bluff," he replied. 'I wasn't any more anxious to fight with that brute than the rest of you were, though. I knew he was a coward, or he wouldn't have picked out a man so much smaller than himself to fasten a quarrel on. I just told the waiter that it would be worth a dollar to let him know that I was Tim McCool, alias the Kilkenny Cat,' lightweight champion of Ireland, just landed and anxious to get on a match with somebody. I knew that would work. I never get into a scrape when I can bluff my way out of it, and as I keep a cool head on my shoulders I generally succeed.

"Thanks, but if you'll excuse me I'll content myself with a cigar."—New York Herald.

Kissing.

In the old time men and women who were mere acquaintances exchanged kisses in public, and with a certain amount of ceremony, and a visitor to whom it was desired to show special civility was always received with a kiss.

The mode of salutation has changed greatly with the times. Haste and high pressure have contributed to render the form of greeting as brief as possible. Not only have we given up the quaint, familiar ways of our ancestors, but we have also parted with much of that elaborate etiquette which in the last century played so large a part in social life.

The changed habits of society, the greater mingling of its various grades, have brought a simplicity into the form of intercourse which strikes oddly upon the senses of people accustomed to old fashioned ceremony. "I always kiss the lady's hand when I take my leave of the hostess after a party," said a German lady, a descendant of one of the oldest families in what used to be called Prussia. She was commenting rather severely on the habits and customs of her adopted country.

The offhand manners of girls toward their mothers and of all young people generally toward all older people drew forth her reprobation. Kissing is now confined to state ceremonies and to a few old world lovers and gallants who have retained the ways of their great-grandfathers. — Notes and Queries.

Fog Signaling.

A method of fog signaling has been introduced on several branches of the North London system of the Great Northern railway of England which obviates much of the unreliability and complexity of the systems hitherto used. A wire is laid in a pipe from the signal box to the various signals, at which brushes of copper project some four or five inches above the side of the rail nearest the signal. A similar brush, which connects with an indicator and bell on the engine, is fixed to the engine foot plate. When the signal points to danger, the two brushes come in contact, and the ringing of the bell and the warning of the driver by a miniature signal on the engine that the line is not clear are the result. The arrangement can be readily switched off in fine weather so as to become inoperative. This electric device seems to be the most simple as well as the most efficient means yet resorted to for fog signaling, and the Great Northern railway intends to adopt it over the whole of its lines.—Chicago Record.

The Largest Snake In the World.

Naturalists say that the largest serpent of which accurate measurements have been taken in modern times was an anaconda which Dr. Gardner found dead and suspended in the forks of a tree in Mexico. It was dragged out into open ground by two horses, and a careful measurement with a tapeline proved that it was 37 feet in length.—St. Louis Republic.

SCHOOLBOY FIREWORKS.

Somehow They Wouldn't Work Properly and the Consequences Were Unpleasant.

I have in my mind a display of fireworks given by myself when 12 years of age or less. Dr. Adam Norris, my schoolmaster in those days, knowing that I was a past master in chemistry and an adept at the manufacture of colored fire, directed me to organize an entertainment. The old gentleman is gone now where there may or may not be fireworks, but to his dying day he never appreciated my efforts on his behalf. It was proposed to illuminate the playgrounds with colored fires and lanterns, to invite the parents of the 30 scholars and to regale them after the display with cake and wine—I mean, of course, the parents.

I was let off my evening lessons for a week and allowed the run of the school laboratory. There I reveled in preparations. Not content with mere red, blue and yellow fires, I arranged Catherine wheels and Roman candles and rockets. I felt the instinct of a Brock and a Pain rising in me. I even asked Dr. Norris for additional money, telling him that I had an idea for a splendid novelty. He trusted me, taking the word of our chemistry master that I knew what I was doing. My novelty, which I kept as a grand surprise, consisted of a "set piece," with the words: "God bless Dr. Adam Norris."

This benign wish would come out in red fire and subsequently change to green, if all went well. The night arrived and the company. The preliminary illumination was not entirely successful, as my assistants did not understand their business, but the first Catherine wheel went around several times and appeared to be well liked. Owing to some unfortunate miscalculation with the materials, my rockets would not soar. The spirit was willing; the chemical compound was weak. So they tore about the ground, like snakes, and hissed in among the company, and one let off purple stars under the petticoat of a lady. A solitary rocket really went up a considerable distance, and the stick fell through the hothouse of a man next door, who had always been unfriendly toward the school. I pass by the hot air balloon. It soared all right, but I forgot to tie on the magnesium light, so nobody realized what a fine thing was being done. The Roman candles passed off without adverse comment, and then I lighted the "set piece."

You will not believe what happened. Nobody has ever credited the story, though I have told it to thousands. The facts, however, are these: Owing to unforeseen circumstances, the first two words of the display—those asking God to bless our good master—did not light at all; the next word, "Doctor," fell off altogether; the "A" in Adam also failed, and the whole of our preceptor's surname, excepting the initial letter, blew up. What was the result? Why, against the black night, raised on supports some 20 feet above the heads of the bewildered assembly, there blazed forth a solitary colossal "Dam N."

It burned red, and then in a silence that could be felt turned green. The "Damn" and I turned green together. That ended the entertainment. People never believe this story. Indeed at so great a distance of time I should be inclined to doubt it myself, but I cannot forget the subsequent interview with my dear old master in his study. We had a little private display of fireworks all to ourselves. Thus do most improbable effects result from remote causes. The Chinese by inventing fireworks were doing a thing which, after long generations of time, rendered it impossible for me to sit down with any comfort for a week.—Idler.

Poisonous and Harmless Snakes.

There is a certain physiological difference between the poisonous and harmless snakes, which exists very plainly in their manner of dentition. All snakes are objects of aversion and dread to mankind, so much so that to be bitten by a snake has at times been so fearful to the victim as to have produced death, although the snake was harmless. Such is the instinctive dread with which these reptiles are thought of that it may be desirable to have some easy mode of distinguishing the one kind from the other. This distinguishing characteristic is afforded by the teeth. In all poisonous snakes there are only two rows of teeth, the fang or fangs being arranged either within the two rows or outside of them. The harmless snakes have four distinct rows of teeth, and when the bite shows this kind of wound and not any single deeper or larger puncture there need be no apprehension.—New York Times.

The "Second Samson."

Richard Joy, who died May 18, 1742, at the age of 67 and is buried in the St. Peter's churchyard, isle of Thanet, Kent, England, was known throughout Europe as the "Kentish Hercules," or the "Second Samson." When but a youth of 17 years, he was invited to London by the king to give an exhibition in remarkable feats of strength. Among the feats of his more mature years was that of breaking, with his hands and feet, a rope with a tensile strength of 35 hundredweight and the lifting of 2,200 pounds. The following is a copy of his epitaph:

Herculean hero! famed for strength,
At last lies here—his breadth and length.
See how the mighty man is fallen!
To death the strong and weak are all one;
The same judgment doth befall
Goliath great and David small.
—St. Louis Republic.

Stagnation Is Death.

The sun would be consumed by its own ardor if it did not shine. Nature knows nothing of hoarding. The sun gives away its gold without ostentation. The ocean gives its vapors to the clouds, the clouds return them to the earth, the rivers to the sea. There is a constant exchange between lungs and leaves. Stagnation is death. Give to get; get to give.—Ram's Horn.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

FOREIGN COMMERCE.

Exports of Merchandise In 1893 Show a Falling Off.

GOLD SHIPMENTS WERE LARGE.

Labor Disturbances Transferred to Financial Matters.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—A voluminous report on the foreign commerce of the United States for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1893, has been made to Secretary Carlisle by Worthington C. Ford, chief of the bureau of statistics.

The report shows that the total imports of merchandise during the year were valued at $866,400,922, of which $421,850,711 was dutiable and $444,544,211 free. The imports of merchandise in the fiscal year 1892 were valued at $827,420,426, of which $629,402,804 was dutiable and $453,999,658 free.

The imports of gold during 1893 were valued at $21,474,381 against $49,699,454 in 1892, and of silver $23,193,252 in 1893 against $19,955,086 in 1892.

The exports of merchandise in 1893 were valued at $847,665,194, and in 1892 at $1,030,278,148. The exports of gold in 1893 were $108,680,844, and of silver $40,737,319, as compared with exports of $50,193,327 gold and $32,810,559 silver in 1892.

The tonnage during the year was 19,581,816 tons, and the number of immigrants arrived was 502,917, a falling off of 120,000, compared with 1892.

Mr. Ford notes that the values of the imports of merchandise attained the highest mark in the commercial history of the country.

Movement of Gold and Silver.

The exports of gold reached a higher figure than ever before attained in a single year since the foundation of the government. In 1893, however, the net exports of gold were less than the net exports in 1864. The imports as well as the exports of silver coin and bullion reached an amount greater than is recorded in any other year in the history of the country.

In 1873, which will be remembered as the year of panic and important monetary legislation, the exports of silver reached $39,751,859, a point that had never been attained in previous years, and has never been touched or exceeded in subsequent years until 1893, when the exports were $40,737,319.

The year 1893, the report says, also marked one step down in the relative importance of the American merchant marine in the foreign carrying trade of the country. There was an actual decrease from 1892 in the percentage of imports and exports carried in American vessels 12.2 per cent, being the lowest point this feature of our commercial history has touched.

Labor Disturbances.

The report states that the opening of 1893 was marked by a number of serious and extensive labor difficulties, affecting production and transportation and accompanied by acts of violence and destruction of property. Fortunately these strikes and consequent disturbances were localized, and proved to be of a temporary nature.

The center of disturbance was soon transferred to financial rather than industrial matters; but the effects were long felt in many of the leading lines of production and transportation, inducing an element of uncertainty, always injurious to undertakings involving large capital.

The one dark feature of the iron situation was the shrinkage of prices, due to an excessive production, and the same general drift of affairs has continued into 1893.

The report mentions a number of circumstances that combined to make the trade of 1893 an interesting study in the general laws governing international commerce, which include the enormous grain crops of this country in 1891 and a partial failure of similar European crops.

Caucus Tonight.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Judge Holman has issued a call for a Democratic caucus at 7 o'clock tonight. The purpose is to consider the tariff bill, not only as to the means by which it will be acted on, but also as to the merits of the bill itself. This movement is the first open demonstration of the Democratic side of the house in opposition to the Wilson bill in its present form.

Not a Bad Showing.

BOSTON, Jan. 5.—According to the annual report of the assessors of the city of Boston for the year 1893 the total assets were $5,881,547 and the liabilities $56,908,148, showing the amount of assets over liabilities as being $18,973,399. The total debt for 1892 was $56,003,997 and for 1893 $56,908,148, showing an increase of debt for 1893 of $904,151.

A Satisfactory Test.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 5.—The United States cruiser Montgomery had a trial trip of 50 miles down Chesapeake bay and back yesterday. The trip was made to test the new machinery which has been placed in the vessel since the accident which occurred by running on the rocks off New London, Conn. The test was satisfactory.

AS FIRM AS EVER.

Provisional Government of Hawaii Will Maintain Its Position.

AUCKLAND, N. Z., Jan. 5.—Advices from Honolulu to Dec. 22 have been received here by the steamer Almeda, which has just arrived from San Francisco:

The officers of the vessel stated that the excitement in Honolulu over the political situation was growing in intensity. The provisional government was as firm as ever in its determination to maintain its position, and was continuing its preparations to resist any effort that might be made to restore the monarchy.

The members of the police force of the island had been notified that they would be expected to take arms in defense of the government, and a number of them had been dismissed from the service for refusing to obey this order. The officers further stated to the interviewer that the minister of the United States had written to the provisional government requesting that they surrender, as the United States government had decided in favor of the restoration of the queen.

The minister in his communication informed the government that Liliuokalani had agreed to grant amnesty to all those who had taken part in the revolution, to ratify the obligations of the present government and to govern faithfully in accordance with the present constitution. The government was preparing a long reply to the minister.

The Commercial Advertiser of Honolulu, in an article supporting the government, declares that the United States congress has taken the matter out of President Cleveland's hands by calling for the papers in the Hawaiian correspondence and asserts that the provisional government will not retire from power unless it is compelled to by force, and says that this is not likely to be employed.

The railways on the island of Corsica are blocked with snow. The mail steamer from Marseilles for Corsica encountered a tempest, and was for many hours in danger of foundering.

Several persons are in the hospital at Vienna suffering from frostbites. Many deaths have resulted from the frost.

At Fiume and neighboring ports no ships can enter. Ropes are tied from lamppost to lamppost in the streets to prevent people from being blown away by the fierce wind. Many vessels have been damaged.

EXHIBITS ARE SAFE.

World's Fair Management Not to Blame For Delays.

CHARGES OF A LONDON PAPER

Corrected by Exposition President and Directors.

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—The management of the World's fair takes exception to the statements made by the London Truth and cabled to this country. Summarized, the complaints are that chaos prevails generally in the management of the fair; that exhibitors are unreasonably delayed in shipping their exhibits; that the Columbian Guards have been withdrawn, leaving the exhibits unguarded, and that exhibitors stand a good show of losing their property.

President Higinbotham, Director General Davis and Director of Works Burnham were interviewed regarding the above charges. All three met them with an indignant and sweeping denial. They could not understand how the London papers could have been so misinformed, and were disposed to think that some one who had had trouble with the fair management had imposed upon Truth.

Exhibits Cannot Be Harmed.

An investigation at Jackson park showed that the bulk of the charges certainly are baseless. Chaos does not reign in the management, but on the contrary strict business principles appear to prevail among a force evidently large enough to do the work. The Columbian Guards were largely withdrawn from Jackson park Jan. 1, 1894, but all the exhibits are protected by special officers, and the public is not admitted at all to buildings wherein are any exhibits. That the exhibits can be harmed is impossible, in any event, for they are under custom house protection, and the customs authorities are responsible.

It does not appear that Truth is warranted in saying that exhibitors have been needlessly delayed. They have been delayed, but it does not appear that the fair management could have prevented it. It has been occasioned mostly by a too small force of custom house officers. The United States government would not increase this force, which was inadequate to do the work rapidly. The railroads have also been negligent in not providing cars enough.

A Plain Statement.

President Higinbotham, regarding the situation, said specifically this: "There is no doubt that every British or other foreign exhibitor will get his goods home safe, if he labels them or pays the freight. There was delay in getting packing cases to the exhibitors after the fair, because of the physical inability to deliver several hundred thousand boxes in a day. In accordance with the wish of 70,000 exhibitors, practically all of the British exhibits have been shipped, and adequate fire department and guard service have been maintained since the close of the exposition. There is a large number of guards now protecting the remnant of exhibits in machinery hall and in the manufactures, fine arts and mines buildings. The exposition company has $1,700,000 in its treasury, and holds itself responsible for the custody of exhibits remaining in the buildings.

Editorial Comment.

THE INAUGURAL of Governor Greenhalge was a remarkable document. It spoke in no uncertain tone upon all the issues of the day and betokens a strong administration of State affairs for 1894. Retrenchment and economy are the watchwords for the year, and he thinks that the State tax, which was the largest in 1893 for ten years, should be much smaller. Taxpayers will agree with him that "next in importance to economy is the fair and equitable adjustment of taxation in which every citizen of the Commonwealth, rich or poor, is interested—first, make the burden of taxation light, and, secondly, distribute it by a just and equable method, avoiding oppression or prejudice toward all members of the community."

The Governor considers education of all, by all, for all, the corner stone of the commonwealth and would have it possible for the humblest child in any part of the State to obtain in the public schools the preparatory instructions necessary for admission to the best universities.

How true his comments on the labor question when he says:

"What is needed is a better understanding and a more cordial feeling between employers and employes—mutual confidence, mutual respect and mutual consideration. Everything that inures to the benefit of the employer is not necessarily an injury to the employe; nor is everything that inures to the benefit of the employe always an injury to the employer. It is well for the employe that his employer should be prosperous. It is equally to the advantage of the employer that his employe shou'd attain to the highest degree of comfort and prosperity compatible with the successful prosecution of business. The higher the standard of the workman, the greater his capacity of production. As the improvement of machinery has benefited the employer, so the improvement of the human machine will be to his advantage also. It is true that what is asked in the name of labor is not always for the best interests of labor, and sometimes what is asked or withheld by the employer is not wisely asked or withheld. There is no occasion for any conflict between these two parties, if intelligence and mutual confidence should be exercised in the settlement of controversies."

The temperance principles advanced are sound. In the prison department he finds a divided responsibility and recommends larger authorities for the warden. In improved roads a beginning has been made which should be further developed.

He also would enact laws to prevent stock watering. Coming to commissioners he fails to see the necessity or utility of some of the existing commissioners. He compliments the militia highly. Some changes are suggested in the election laws, and he would relieve Superior court judges from their excessive burden of work.

Other matters considered are legacies and successions, lunacy and charity, board of health, Fast day, real estate transfers, decennial census, the free system, medical practitioners, the referendum, suffrage, naval and military historian, rapid transit, and in conclusion, the industrial situation which is a criticism on the proposed change in the tariff.

The whole message should be carefully read by every voter. It is full of meat, thoughful and instructive.

THE LABOR letter on the fourth page today, being a symposium of opinions from prominent labor leaders, will be read with interest by workingmen. It will be continued tomorrow.

Pleasing Concert.

An excellent programme was presented Thursday evening at a grand concert given in Faxon hall, Quincy, for the benefit of the Episcopal mission at Mayflower park, Braintree. There was a good attendance of Braintree and Quincy people.

The cornet solos of Miss Kittie Rankin were grand. and Fraulein Seiler, the soloist, had a beautiful voice. The readings of Miss Agnes Hyde captivated all, and Prof. Gomez came in for liberal applause as a guitar soloist. Mr. Gutterson is an accomplished pianist, and Mr. Babbit a good singer.

A sociable with dancing followed the entertainment, and ice cream and cake were for sale.

Altogether it was one of the best entertainments that has taken place in the city this season, and it is rumored that the talent will shortly appear again in an operetta.

A NEW LEADER.

Johnson Bros.' Clerk Comes to Front with Over One Hundred.

A great rivalry has sprung up between the market clerks in the theatre contest, and Wilson's man who lead yesterday is put in the shade by the friends of John Mason at Johnson Bros.' who gained over 100. Davidson made a good gain and others a less amount. There are also new candidates.

Tomorrow the male clerks' coupon will appear for the last time, and on Monday the young ladies' contest will be inaugurated. All coupons in the male clerks' contest must be in before 5 P. M. next Monday and the result will be announced Tuesday. The tickets will be good for the week beginning Jan. 15.

It is said the young ladies are working for Mr. Mason, and that if he is successful it will puzzle him very much which one to take to the theatre.

There are some dark horses in the race who may not be heard from until the final count.

CITY HALL NOTES.

How Will the Standing Committee of the Council be Made Up.

They say City Hall looks deserted evenings now. One of the principal reasons is, that there are no committee meetings. The standing committees of the City Council have not been appointed and will not be until Jan. 15.

There is much speculation as to how these committees will be made up and some of the Republicans are said to be more anxious than usual. Among President Bass' most active opponents were the chairmen of many of the important committees: Chairmen Moxon, Holden, Johnson and Robbins all voted against him.

The following list will show the reelected members on each committee and the vacancies. Those marked with a * are reelected:

Finance, etc.—*Moxon, Adams, Baker. (2 vacancies).

Streets, etc.—*Holden, Anderson, Johnson, Robbins, Moxon, (2 vacancies).

Public Buildings and Grounds—*Shackley, Baker, (1 vacancy).

Water, etc.—Anderson, Federhen, Shackley, Holbrook, (2 vacancies).

Fire Department and Police—*Federhen, (4 vacancies).

Ordinances, etc.—*Johnson, Lennon, (1 vacancy).

Legislative Matters, etc.—*Robbins, Rooney, (1 vacancy).

* Chairman reelected.

It is the general opinion that President Bass would be very magnanimous if he gave the plums to Councilman Moxon, Anderson, Holden and Johnson, yet Mr. Bass will, it is said, bury all personal feeling, and appoint men on committees for which they seem most fitted. He is a Republican, was elected as a Republican, and is under no promises to the Democrats.

Much of the trouble this year is said to have arisen from the fact that one of the Councilmen was not appointed upon a certain committee last year.

New arrivals at the Greenleaf are : Mrs. Thomas Wainwright and Miss Wainwright, W. G. Bigelow, H. M. Metcalf, of Boston ; G. M. Fogg, Bangor, Maine ; W. H. Delano, Sharon ; H. S. Thomas, New York ; W. L. Orne, Freeport, Maine ; John G. Parmer, Middleton, Conn.; C. S. Alexander, Fitchburg ; Mrs. R. P. Woodman, Dorchester.

—The Sunday service of the Fall River Line Steamers has been discontinued for the winter months. Ample provision on that day will be afforded passengers between Boston and New York on the 5.00 P. M. "Gilt Edge" and 12.00 mid-night Shore line trains.

CIVIL GOVERNMENT.

An Able Address by Mr. Edward Southworth at the Young Men's Rooms.

The Young Men's Christian Association parlor was filled with young men last evening on the occassion of the first talk on civil government. The speaker, Mr. Edward Southworth, began by describing the old-fashioned town meeting, which was the event of the year, when everybody turned out to discuss the matters pertaining to the welfare of the town, and to partake of molasses candy and town meeting buns. For a couple of weeks preceding the meeting, the town warrant, issued by the board of selectmen, was posted in public places, particularly in the churches. Every voter had the right to express his opinion on town matters at this time. After a town becomes a city, caucus take the place, in part, of the town meeting, hence it is very important that every voter should attend the caucus and use his influence in securing the nomination of the best men.

When a place becomes a city, its business is transacted by the mayor and members of council, who have been elected. In Quincy three councilmen are elected from each of the six wards, and five are councilmen-at-large, making twenty-three. The mayor appoints heads of departments in Quincy, hence his position is a very responsible one. In Boston there are two legislative departments, the board of aldermen and common council. The nominations of the mayor are confirmed by the former. There are twenty-five wards in Boston and each elects three councilmen. The twelve aldermen are not elected by wards, but each party nominates seven candidates so that it is impossible for one party to have more than seven candidates elected.

Voters who are desirous of having the best men conduct the state government should attend the primaries. The legislative department of the state is divided into two departments, senate and legislature, known as the General court. At the first meeting there are called together by the senior member, the one who has served the longest term. The first appointments are the speaker, clerk, chaplain and sergeant at arms. The first meeting on the first Wednesday in January. The first business after election of officers is the appointment of committees. There are in the House ten standing committees and the Senate six. There are thirty joint committees. The speaker has the appointment of the committees hence his office is a very important one. The speaker gave two amusing incidents which occurred in the House in the sixties, when members were each presented with quills and a jack-knife.

The legislative bodies of the nation are the House of Representatives and the Senate. There is at present one Representative to every 174,000 inhabitants. In the beginning there was one to every 30,000. Massachusetts is entitled to thirteen. The origin of the term "gerrymandering" was given and created considerable amusement. Each state has two senators, according to the Constitution. In four states, Delaware, Rhode Island, Ohio and North Carolina the governor has no veto power. The original purpose of the Constitution has been perverted in some things. It was the original intention that the state legislature should elect the best man available for the United States senate. Now men are frequently elected to the state senate in order that they may use their vote and influence for a certain person.

The same is true of the Presidential electors. At first they were expected to elect for president the best man, according to their judgment. Now the electors are elected with the distinct understanding that they are to vote for a certain person.

The next talk will be given on the 18th by Mr. C. A. Foster, who will speak on the Executive Department.

"JOSEPH IN EGYPT."

The Opera Largely Attended and a Grand Success in Every Way.

"Joseph in Egypt" was the attraction at Hancock hall Thursday evening, and a large audience was present. The rendition was by the young people of St. John's church, under the direction of Rev. Francis A. Cunningham. The story of Joseph's bondage, his desertion and subsequent triumphant deliverance is an interesting story, and Mr. Chadwick in his opera has developed the character and situations with commendable results. The opera was a success in every way and the director and participants may feel proud of their efforts. Special mention must be made of Miss Mary Doran as Prince Aida, and Master Michael Walsh as Joseph (as a boy).

The cast was as follows:

King Pharoah,	Mr. John Phelan
Princess Aida,	Miss Mary Doran
Jacob,	Mr. Michael Hartney
Joseph,—as a boy,	Master Michael Walsh
Joseph,—in Egyyt,	Mr. Andrew Mischler
Reuben,—butler,	Mr. Frank A. Mahan

A Reminiscence.

The will of New Brunswick's late lamented Governor, Hon. John Boyd, bequeaths all his real and personal property to Mrs. Boyd, on condition that she shall pay all his personal indebtedness. One clause in the will reads: "Other bequests I intended for friends and public institutions in this city, I have to omit, as my property has been so largely lessened by those who returned me evil for good, and but for whose sad doings I would have been able to live a happier life, and to have given largely to many persons and objects that I had in view."

The above item has been going the rounds of the daily papers, and in connection with it a little incident in regard to Gov. Boyd may be of interest to our readers. Gov. Boyd was an earnest member of an Evangelical church, but was broad enough in his views to take an active interest in other churches. Rev. Mr. Philbrook of Quincy enjoyed a close personal friendship with Mr. Boyd and when his new church in Calais, Me., was dedicated in 1870, received from him, unsolicited, the gift of an elegant pulpit Bible.

St. Mary's Christmas.

The Christmas tree of St. Mary's Sunday School was held Tuesday afternoon in St. Mary's hall for the children. They were all remembered by their reverend director. In the evening views and a lecture on the World's fair was given by Mr. G. W. Penniman. At the close of the lecture Mr. Grignon, on behalf of the Sunday School teachers, presented Fr. Roche with a beautiful silver service of six pieces. Each piece was engraved with an old English "R." Mr. Grignon presented it as a token of the esteem and regard in which Fr. Roche is held by the teachers. Fr. Roche was completely surprised. Fr. Francis, Fr. Cuffe, Mr. J. W. McAnarney and Mr. John H. Dinegan were among the invited guests. The proceeds of the lecture were given to the Charitable society.

CAN'T GET MARRIED AT HOME.

A Situation Which Is Causing Betrothed Couples Considerable Annoyance.

A young man and a young woman came over the line from New Brunswick the other day and were married here, says a Calais correspondent of the Boston Herald. They had no difficulty in finding a minister to unite them, although they very frankly explained that they couldn't have got married in their native place in New Brunswick.

The reason for this seeming anomaly lies in the fact that Governor Boyd of New Brunswick is dead, and that every marriage license must be signed by the governor to be legal. It is true that it was Governor Boyd's custom, as by statute he was authorized to do, to sign quantities of these licenses in blank and to distribute them to the various officers throughout the province whose business it is to attend to such things, to be filled in as circumstances required.

Now, there is a very fine legal point involved. The question is whether, during the interregnum caused by Governor Boyd's death and until the Dominion government appoints his successor, these marriage licenses signed by Governor Boyd are good. Can they be used until a new governor is sent down, or are they useless as not bearing the signature of the actual governor of the province?

This is what is agitating the minds of the New Brunswick lawyers, and especially of the betrothed couples. They may indeed adopt the old fashioned method of calling the banns, but that takes time, and time counts when the wedding day is set and the invitations are out.

Perhaps they had best do as the aforementioned couple did—go to Calais, and thus make assurance doubly sure.

BIMETALLISM IN ENGLAND.

Lord Salisbury's Recent Speech and What It Is Thought to Forecast.

Lord Salisbury's speech in the upper house during the debate on Indian finance is regarded as a definite pronouncement in favor of international bimetallism. It is possibly destined to have momentous consequences. Sanguine bimetallists predict the early inclusion of their currency scheme as a plank of the orthodox Tory platform, but that is scarcely probable until the numerous Tory monometallists have been converted.

The subject acquired considerable prominence in the Accrington election contests, but that is scarcely to be wondered at, because Lancashire has long been the stronghold of bimetallism. Even the Liberal newspapers of that county are compelled, owing to the pressure of local opinion, to keep an open mind on currency matters, and some of them at present are giving considerable space to the discussion of the silver problem.

The Liverpool Post, an influential Liberal organ, gave prominence the other day to a letter advocating the adoption by England and her dependencies and the United States of a second, or silver, international standard, without relation to the first, or gold, standard, "all contracts made through gold currency being settled by gold currency and all contracts made by the international dollar currency being settled by the international dollar currency, the latter being the silver dollar divisible into 100 cents."—New York Sun's London Letter.

Drained a Lake by Boring Holes.

In Florida Life is an article from the pen of B. W. Partridge of Monticello with the above title. In it he describes the effect of the drought of 1891 on Lake Miccosukie, one of the largest lakes in middle Florida, when about 6,000 acres of water became dry land for a spell. The rainy season of 1892 filled it with water again.

Mr. Partridge conceived the idea that the lake could be drained by boring holes in its bottom and organized a company to try it.

Experts were engaged to examine and report on the plan, and the result was that the company has bored a number of holes in the bottom of Lake Miccosukie, and the water is rushing down through them via a subterranean passage to the gulf. In a few months they expect to permanently drain the lake and thus recover 10,000 acres of valuable land.

An Artist In Snow.

A young artist of Boston, after the recent snowstorm in that city, made a snow model in one of the public squares that attracted much attention. It represented a girl dressed in the height of fashion, standing with her arms folded. At her feet crouched a bulldog. The image was modeled in elaborate detail, and though the thaw destroyed some of the fine lines succeeding cold weather preserved the figure. A young Swede, John Jepson, was the sculptor; he spent about three hours on the work. He is hoping for another snowstorm to enable him to put up a snow statue of some prominent Bostonian on the Common.—Boston Correspondent.

Mixed the Brides.

While two wedding processions were fighting for the road at one of the gates of Hankow the chairs holding the brides got mixed and each lady was taken to the wrong bridegroom. The gentlemen never having seen their brides before, according to Chinese custom, knew no mistake until the mothers of the brides came to call upon them. Then it was found that one of the brides, who was rich and intended for a rich husband, had fallen into the hands of a very poor man. The problem remains unsolved.—Hankow Correspondent.

John J. Ingalls.

Ingalls looked more attenuated than ever when he made his address in Kansas City the other day. His long frock coat, closely buttoned, accentuated the gauntness of his figure, and this, with the streaks of white in his hair, made him appear to be "a compromise between an illuminated spook and an animated moonbeam." The ex-statesman is said also on this occasion to have resembled his cartoons more than his portraits.—New York World.

IN CONGRESS.

The Tariff Bill Is Delayed by the Lack of a Voting Quorum.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—There was signs of activity upon the floor of the house even before the hour of meeting. The whips had been at work, and the deputy sergeant-at-arms reported that a quorum of Democrats were in town. There was some doubt in the legislative mind as to the status of Mr. Boutelle's Hawaiian resolution, and it was not clear whether it was still the pending question before the house, or whether the motion to take it up had elapsed with adjournment Wednesday.

The question was soon brought to a test, for immediately after the reading and correction of the journal Mr. McMillin, representing the element desirous of taking up the tariff bill, demanded the regular order. The speaker directed the call of committees for reports, holding that Mr. Boutelle's resolution had lapsed. Mr. Boutelle sought to renew it, and the speaker promised to recognize him after the call.

This formality over, Mr. Boutelle called up his resolution declaring against intervention in Hawaii, and Mr. McMillin raised the question of consideration, desiring to take up the tariff bill. The speaker put the question, and on a standing vote the house declined to take up Mr. Boutelle's resolution. The vote stood 58 in the affirmative and 128 in the negative. The yeas and nays were then ordered.

Here was the opportunity of the Republicans to test the strength of their adversaries, but they sat mute. The result was that the vote on considering Mr. Boutelle's resolution stood, yeas 0, nays 150—no quorum, and at Mr. McMillin's instance a call of the house was ordered. The call showed the presence of 229 members, and again the yeas and nays were called on Mr. Boutelle's motion to consider his resolution.

The rollcall resulted—yeas 4, nays 150; again no quorum; but the point was not made, and the house at 1:40 p. m. adjourned.

A resolution calling on the secretary of the treasury for a statement of the sums paid to Mr. Blount as commissioner to Hawaii, and the orders and laws under which such payment was made, was offered in the senate by Mr. Hoar, and, on objection by Mr. Gorman, it went over without action.

Mr. Gray gave notice that on Tuesday next he would move to proceed to the consideration of the house bill to repeal the federal election laws.

At 1:10 p. m. the senate adjourned till Monday next.

ACTIVE PREPARATIONS

For Carrying Out the Fight Between Corbett and Mitchell.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 5.—The touts in this city say the Duval Athletic club cannot be beaten, and judging from the rumors that are floating around town it now looks as though the officials would go to almost any length to defeat Governor Mitchell's opposition.

According to the stories, which seem to come from good authority, arrangements have been perfected whereby the fight can be pulled off in the face of any opposition, though at the expense of many who are anxious to see it. It is a new plan entirely, and the work which is now being pushed at the Arena, it is said, is only meant to bluff the governor.

The new arrangements include the chartering of a train, which it is understood will be placed at the disposal of the club 48 hours previous to the fight, and the same length of time after the contest has been scheduled to begin.

The spectators will be given the tip and hurried on to the train, which will carry them to the battleground, leaving the governor, militia and the rest of the opposition, it is hoped, far behind.

WHIDDEN IS DEAD.

A Woman Bit Him In the Leg and Blood Poisoning Resulted.

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 5.—Policeman Abel G. Whidden died yesterday afternoon from blood poisoning, the result of being bitten by a woman seven weeks ago. He tried to arrest Emma Hall, a notorious woman, who had cut the throat of Ambrose Ward, her employer. She attacked the officer with a knife. He disarmed her, they fell down a flight of stairs and she bit him in the leg. Since Dec. 8 he suffered intensely. The woman is now in prison for assault on Ward.

Jury Said Not Guilty.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 5.—James M. Dowling, the ex-cashier of the United States mint, who was accused of having embezzled $25,000 and starting a fire in the vault to cover up the crime, was acquitted by the jury in the United States court. The acquittal caused a good deal of surprise.

Judge Long Gets His Pension.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The pension office has decided that in view of the act of congress of Dec. 21, 1893, the department no longer has a right to withhold the pension of Judge Long of Michigan, and has directed that he again be placed on the pension rolls.

An Infant Murdered.

CHELSEA, Mass., Jan. 5.—The body of a week old infant was found on Division street yesterday afternoon. The skull was crushed evidently by repeated blows from a blunt instrument. The police have no clue to work upon.

Short of Money.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—The Louisville, Evansville and St. Louis Railroad company have defaulted on their first consolidated fives. The amount of these bonds listed in the Stock Exchange is $3,795,000.

For Killing His Wife.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Jan. 5.—The trial of Daniel M. Robertson for the killing of his wife Mary on Sept. 9, by stabbing her with a case knife, has been assigned for Feb. 5 at the courthouse in this city.

High Taxes Worry Them.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—The story is revived that the Goulds are to remove from New York city to avoid the payment of heavy taxes. It is reported that George will build a mansion at Lakewood.

The Smallpox Scare.

LOWELL, Mass., Jan. 5.—Another scare of probable smallpox has been discovered in Centralville. Harry Gordon, a milk collector, is thought to have contracted it in Methuen.

Died From Smallpox.

WINSTED, Conn., Jan. 5.—James Dillon of this place died yesterday from smallpox. His case was discovered 10 days ago.

LOST HIS CASE.

Elder Garland Had a Town Constable Brought Into Court.

ELLSWORTH, Me., Jan. 5.—Elder G. D. Garland, who lost his pastorate in Wolfboro, N. H., many years ago on charges of having corrupted the morals of several young men of the parish, and who has been dismissed from many pastorates in Maine and other New England states since then, has suffered another mortification.

Garland was dismissed last January from the pastorate of Ellsworth's Free Baptist church on evidence given by mothers of two young men before the church council, to the effect that Garland had been indecently familiar with their boys; also on evidence of other young men to whom the elder had made improper advances. Garland's family left him then.

He then went forth among small straggling villages of Maine's east coast preaching and praying for all who would listen. He was frequently welcomed by Adventists, but many towns passed him coldly by. Among the 250 inhabitants of Eastbrook were some who cared not to hear Mr. Garland, and he was notified to keep away from church. On Dec. 20, 1893, Mr. Garland defied the warning and was arrested as he was entering the church. He was released and opened opposition prayers in the schoolhouse near by.

Then Garland swore out a warrant for assault and battery against Eastbrook's town constable, Mr. Lowrie, and the trial came off yesterday in Ellsworth, the city where Garland held his last regular pastorate. The crowd was great and the interest intense. Garland lost. Lowrie was acquitted. Garland still believes virtue will triumph.

DANBURY'S POPULATION

May Be Greatly Reduced by Removal of Hat Factories.

DANBURY, Conn., Jan. 5.—The public statement of the Hat Manufacturers' association shows that they are in precisely the same position now that they were when the lockout was inaugurated. The factories are now open as independent shops to receive applications for employment. The men will not return to work under this arrangement.

The manufacturers are arranging to make a big move if the men do not soon show a disposition to give in. This will be the removal of all members of the Manufacturers' association, 20 firms, to Yonkers, N. Y. A committee went to that city Wednesday and nearly completed arrangements that have been under way for a couple of weeks, for the transfer of their business there.

The people of Yonkers are interested and are putting forth extraordinary inducements to make the location of this enterprise there a certainty. Those firms who propose to consolidate have been to Newark, N. J., and looked about, but have decided that Yonkers offers superior facilities. The move would result in reducing the population of this city one-half.

TIMOTHY PORTER'S CASE.

Millionaire's Son and Relative Give Some Interesting Testimony.

STAMFORD, Conn., Jan. 5.—The hearing as to the sanity of Timothy H. Porter, a wealthy paralytic of this place, whose relatives object to his marriage with Miss Mabel Earle of Bridgeport, was commenced in the probate court yesterday. The court was crowded and the evidence submitted was startling.

Schuyler Merritt, a near relative, said that Mr. Porter was very erratic in his ideas; that he had written love letters of a racy and flowery nature to young ladies in Stamford, New Haven and Bridgeport; that Porter had erected a massage establishment in his cellar, and had kept a young son in the cellar for days at a time until his health was impaired. He also stated that just prior to the death of his wife Porter had made her sign a codicil to a will, turning over $250,000 to him, and that the wife objected, and when at last she agreed to sign, Dr. Geid, the attending physician, was obliged to guide the pen.

Louis Porter, son of the paralytic, declared that his mother had been killed through the brutality of the father. At this point Judge Stoddard applied for a postponement of the case for a week, which was granted.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" ystem. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

NEWS FROM HAWAII

Kept Secret by Officials of the State Department.

POSSIBLE FIGHT AT HONOLULU.

Activity Aboard Uncle Sam's Boats Off California.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The state department last night received in cipher form dispatches forwarded from Minister Willis to the authorities in this city by the revenue cutter Corwin which arrived at San Francisco yesterday. The officials of the department refuse absolutely to make any statement regarding the contents of the advices received and are even reticent in acknowledging that they have yet secured any telegraphic news since the Corwin reached San Francisco.

The dispatches reached this city about 7 o'clock and were immediately translated. It is generally accepted that they fully confirmed the cable received from Auckland, N. Z., a day ago. Since the receipt of this cablegram from Auckland, those who are best informed on the Hawaiian situation have been carefully studying Minister Willis' latest instructions, and are now inclined more strongly to believe that the situation at Honolulu is exactly as reported in the news from Auckland.

A theory which gains most support is based on the belief that the last instructions sent to Minister Willis contemplated further action by the administration. It is thought that the queen, finally seeing that her cause would be lost unless she accepted the terms imposed by Minister Willis for her restoration, accepted them as contained in his published instructions, and notified him that she would grant amnesty to members of the provisional government if she again became queen.

Dole Wouldn't Yield.

Minister Willis thereupon carried out his instructions and notified President Dole that it was the desire of the United States government that the provisional government should surrender in favor of Liliuokalani. President Dole promptly refused to accede to this request.

The advices sent from time to time by Minister Thurston to President Dole no doubt strengthened the provisional government in its stand, and the arrival of Mr. Thurston at Honolulu probably occurred before Mr. Willis asked President Dole to surrender, and his presence, with his thorough acquaintance of the public sentiment in this country on the Hawaiian question, has cemented the determination of the provisional government to hold out against every attempt toward restoration.

It can be stated definitely that the Corwin sailed from Honolulu on Dec. 23, which is one day later than the Alameda departed. The cable stated that Mr. Dole was preparing a document, and it is believed now that this statement was his reply to the request of Minister Willis to surrender. The reply having been completed and forwarded to Mr. Willis the next day, the latter immediately dispatched it to this country by the Corwin.

Secretary Gresham said last night that he would receive Mr. Willis' report by mail, and that it would probably reach here next Wednesday evening. It is believed that this mail document is the reply of President Dole to Minister Willis.

Willis' Instructions.

In connection with the Hawaiian news from Auckland the language of Secretary Gresham's instructions to Minister Willis by the Corwin may be recalled. These were dated Dec. 3, and contained the following:

"Directed that should the queen refuse assent to the written agreement, he was to inform her that the president would cease interposition in her behalf, and further efforts at restoration would depend on her unqualified agreement that all obligations created by the provisional government shall be assumed and pledges that would prevent the adoption of any measure of prosecution or punishment for what has been done by the provisional government."

Minister Willis was also to inform the queen that the president could not use the force without the authority of congress. Should the queen accept the conditions and the provisional government refuse to surrender, he was to be governed by previous instructions.

It will be seen from this that if the provisional government has refused to yield without force, Willis' latest instructions prevent his going further. In the event that the queen should accept conditions, however, the instructions are to be "governed by previous instructions."

The previous instructions were to notify the provisional government, which had not yet been done, if the queen acceded to the conditions. So far as the public is informed there is nothing in the instructions to preclude Minister Willis from having proceeded on these lines towards the provisional government.

Excitement on the Pacific Coast.

VALLEJO, Cal., Jan. 6.—Several messages were received here from Washington last night, each addressed to Commander C. E. Clark, all prefixed with the admonition, "Rush." The dispatches were immediately sent over to the navy yard and delivered.

Half an hour later Commander Clark's cutter was called away, and Lieutenant Waden, executive of the Mohican, was hurried ashore. Preparations are being made to load nearly 100 tons of coal on the ship's deck. It is thought that dispatches are in response to those brought by the Corwin.

The captain of the steamer Sunol, which arrived last night from San Francisco, reports the revenue cutter Corwin anchored off Red Rock, opposite San Quentin. The officers at Mare Island are in a great state of excitement. They firmly believe there has been trouble at Honolulu and look for interesting developments.

Whatever dispatches have come the one significant fact remains that the navy department apprehends trouble. At the marine barracks excitement was at fever heat when it was said that the Corwin came for a detachment of marines. If required, 400 sailors and 150 marines could be sent within 24 hours.

DUVAL CLUB'S ARENA.

Rapid Progress In Building Indicates That a Fight Is Assured.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 6.—So certain are the members of the Duval Athletic club that the Corbett-Mitchell fight will be pulled off in this city that another gang of men were put to work on the arena, which is now over half completed. On Monday the officials say they will issue a statement in which their plans will be disclosed. These plans are said to be so perfect that there will be no way by which the fight can be prevented. The club people are now more positive than ever that the fight will take place.

The betting here so far has not been of a very fast nature. Even money is being offered that Mitchell will not respond in the 21st round. Some of this has been taken, but the general opinion is that the Englishman will make a longer fight.

FIFTY-SIX-HOUR BILL

Pending In Massachusetts Legislature Favored by the Textile Workers.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Jan. 6.—The state textile convention held here was very largely attended, all the leading textile centers being represented. Factory inspectors and their work were discussed at length. It was the sense of the convention that they be given more power of office and that their testimony be made final and conclusive under oath against corporations found violating laws.

Several drafts of particular bills were rendered for consideration. Shorter hours were discussed, and Secretary Ross said that Massachusetts could easily reduce hours of labor and successfully compete with Rhode Island. It was resolved that the delegates assembled declare in favor of the 56-hour bill now on the table of the Massachusetts legislature.

Sensitive Amesbury Folks.

AMESBURY, Mass., Jan. 6.—Sam T. Jacks' aggregation of Creole beauties, now traveling over the New England circuit, are not wanted here. This fact was made apparent yesterday, when the mayor, acting upon a petition, ordered the advance lithographs covered with blank paper. The exposed charms were thus hidden, but no orders have yet been issued prohibiting the show, which is due here this evening. There was a large advance sale of seats, and as a result of the order the indications are that standing room will be at a premium.

A Prosperous Association.

BOSTON, Jan 6.—The New England Commercial Travelers' association elected as officers the following: President, Albert Pitts; first vice president, E. C. Hall; second vice president, J. A. Morse; secretary and treasurer, W. P. Tilton; directors for three years, E. J. H. Estabrook, S. P. Martin, F. M. Bickford, G. C. Irvin, C. D. Whitehouse; trustee reserve fund, three years, M. H. Bush; trustee one year, W. H. Bush. The association has a treasury balance of $4500 and a reserve fund balance of $20,397.84.

Will Fight the Mayor.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Jan 6.—Chief of Police Douglass has declined to submit to Mayor Brownell's request for his resignation. In his reply to the mayor, he said: "Under existing legislation of our commonwealth relating to the tenure of office of the police force, which has been accepted by this city, I am constrained to refuse compliance with your request." The chief has retained counsel and an interesting legal fight is expected.

Pugilistic Youngsters.

LEWISTON, Me., Jan. 6.—George D. Files, principal of the high school, and F. W. Chase, principal of the grammar school, found their boys with black eyes and bruised faces yesterday morning. Allen Howe and Will Talbot were severely injured. The two schools had a fight, the result of bad feelings of long standing. Fifty in all were engaged in the fight.

Used His Revolver Freely.

LONDON, Jan. 6.—A stranger entered the jewelry store of Mrs. Rachel Myers in South London and asked Mrs. Myers for assistance. THE TARIFF CAUCUS

Ended In a Manner Satisfactory to Chairman Wilson.

SPEECH MADE BY HIM IN 1884

Brought Out to Aid General Wheeler's Argument.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The Democratic caucus met in the hall of the house of representatives last night to consider the Wilson tariff bill. Judge Holman was chairman and Mr. Alderson secretary. It was estimated that there were 147 Democrats in the house, and a caucus quorum is 108. As soon as the roll had been called, on motion it was decided to limit the speeches to five minutes each.

General Wheeler, who was one of the prime movers in the caucus project, took the floor and made a vigorous speech against the proposition to place coal and iron ore on the free list.

During General Wheeler's remarks he quoted from a speech made by Hon. William L. Wilson on the Morrison bill on May 5, 1884. General Wheeler said the principles which should govern were illustrated by the speech which Mr. Wilson made then. The quotation was as follows:

Wilson's Views In '84.

"As I have said, I favor a bill for the reduction of taxes. Where this bill departs from its general scheme of merely reducing taxes and seeks to enlarge the free list, it bears unevenly, and, as I believe, unjustly, upon some of the interests of my own state. To take any one great interest and transfer it suddenly to the free list is to hold it tributary to all the rest, while depriving it of any share in the common protection.

"Whatever reduction is made should be made so gradually as not to wreck, to disturb or alarm any of our great industries, and this return to a peace tariff ought to be made by even progress and on a scale of justice to all. This bill would permit reciprocal free coal with Canada, a provision I think little apt to be carried out, and free coal from England. Coal is not free, so far as the foreign and coastwise trade is concerned, having otherwise a duty of 72 cents per ton, which is less than 20 per cent ad valorem, under a tariff whose general average is over 40 per cent.

"Should we proceed to the consideration of this bill by sections? I shall present to the committee such facts and figures as will bear fully upon this question, and I have every confidence—indeed, I may add, I have every assurance that can now be given—that this inequality and discrimination will be corrected, and the interests of my own state share in the general fortune of all."

Crisp's Appeal.

Speaker Crisp followed. He offered a resolution declaring that it was the duty of every Democrat to vote for the consideration of the tariff bill, and also that it was the duty of all Democrats to attend the sessions of the house and maintain a quorum until the tariff bill is disposed of.

In a ringing speech the speaker took occasion to sharply reprimand Democrats who had been responsible for the inaction of the house during the past three days. He said that the proper way to act for those who were dissatisfied would be to take the bill up and have it considered. They would be given an opportunity to offer their amendments, and these amendment, under the terms of the resolution of the committee on rules, could be voted upon. The majority could decide. No member would lose any of his rights, and it would be to the honor and credit of the party to go forward and legislate.

The party had been given a commission from the people and it was his duty to carry it out. The spectacle of the past three days had been a disgrace to the large Democratic majority in the house, and he sincerely hoped that it was not to be repeated.

The words of the speaker were loudly cheered.

General Sickles of New York, Mr. Sperry of Connecticut and Mr. Sibley of Pennsylvania opposed Speaker Crisp's resolution, and it was supported by Messrs. Outhwaite, Dewitt, Warner and Robertson of Kentucky, the latter creating great surprise, because for two days he acted against the Democrats in the house and is opposed to free sugar.

Crisp's Resolution Adopted.

After further debate the Crisp resolution was adopted without a division. It is as follows:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this caucus that it is the duty of every Democratic member of the house to vote for the pending resolution providing for the consideration of the tariff bill in order that the house may have an opportunity to redeem the pledges of the party respecting tariff reform.

Resolved, Further, that it is the duty of every Democratic member of the house to attend its daily session, and we hereby express the opinion that these members who are absent owe it to the party and those of us who are here to immediately return in order that pressing public business may be attended to.

Another resolution was adopted that it is the sense of the caucus that, if a proposition was reported from the committee, two days additional should be given for debate.

Mr. Harter and Mr. Robertson introduced amendments providing for a duty on sugar, but before a vote was had Mr. Black moved an adjournment, which was carried with a rush. After adjournment Chairman Wilson said the caucus was entirely satisfactory to him.

A Shortage of $2700.

SALEM, Mass., Jan. 6.—At the annual meeting of the Salem Mutual Benefit association it was found that assessments have been collected on which the death benefits have not been paid. The secretary has been carrying members who should have been dropped, and on each call the association has been paying out more than it received. The deficiency amounts to over $2700, and the secretary will be expected to make it good.

A Sudden Death.

John Brooks, father of Richard E. Brooks, the sculptor who modeled the bust of ex-Gov. Russell, died suddenly at his home in South Quincy Thursday night, from heart trouble, aged 68 years.

Mr. Brooks was a resident of Braintree for a number of years and as a jack spinner in Morrison's mills. He was born in England and came to this country when about 30 years of age.

Mr. Brooks had for many years been the gate tender at the South Quincy railroad crossing, but for the last three years has been stationed on West street, West Quincy.

He leaves a wife, two sons and two daughters.

He also leaves brothers and sisters in England and two brothers in this, one of whom, Robert lives in East Braintree.

CITY HALL NOTES.

Prominent Officials Notified That Changes Will be Made.

The terms of the department officials and boards does not expire until February 1, but it was understood that changes would be made, and some of the prominent officials have already been notified to this effect by Mayor Hodges. The step was taken in justice to the gentlemen that they may not suddenly be thrown out of employment.

City Clerk Spear is one of those who must retire, although generally regarded as a model clerk. He has held the position ever since the city government was inaugurated, which was Jan. 1, 1889, and had a previous record in public affairs. He was on the Board of Selectmen in 1882, 1883, 1884 and 1885, serving each year as secretary. In connection with the office of City Clerk he has given good service ex-officio as a member of the Board of Registrars, and on the Board of Trustees of the Woodward Property and Fund. He has also been elected each year as clerk of the City Council, and was on Monday reelected to this position for 1894. If he retains this position it is probable he will be elected to the new office of Clerk of Committees. The salary of the two positions, however, is but $500. Mr. Spear is a graduate of our High school and at the time of his appointment as City Clerk was in the gents' furnishing business. At the time of the war he served in the infantry and navy.

Commissioner Ewell has also been notified of a change. He was appointed by Mayor Fairbanks during his first term and has served the city faithfully and well for three years. It is a universal comment that the improvement in our streets was never so marked as during his administration, and it is a fact that they never were in as good condition as at the present time, if an exception may be made for this soft weather. One evidence of the appreciation in which he was held was the advance made in his salary, which is now $2000 per year.

Mr. Ewell is a Quincy boy, born Oct. 15, 1849. At the time of his appointment he was an insurance agent. His first city position was that of Ward Councilman in 1890, one of the committees on which he served being the Committee on Streets, of which he was clerk. His excellent work in that capacity first directed attention to him as one well qualified to fill the office of Commissioner.

Young Men's Christian Association.

Mr. Walter B. Abbott, General Secretary of the Salem Association, will address the men's meeting Sunday at 3.30. Mr. Abbott is one of the most popular secretaries of the state. The music will be in charge of Mr. T. B. Emery.

As the week of prayer begins next Sunday, it has been decided to adjourn the quarterly meeting until Thursday the 25th, the date announced for ex-Governor Long's talk. Mr. Long has been obliged to postpone his talk to a later date. An interesting entertainment will be given the 25th.

The interest in the physical department increases. Wednesday evening there were eighteen on the floor. Dr. Johnson is again on duty. Boys under sixteen years of age, whether members or not, will not be allowed in the rooms in the evening, except for the boys' meeting from 7 to 8 o'clock Monday evening.

A number of the boys are talking about attending the boys' conference at Woburn, Friday and Saturday, January 26 and 27.

The following persons from Quincy are expected to take part at the district conference at Whitman, January 18, 19 and 20. Mrs. Geo. A. Litchfield, president of the Women's Auxiliary, Mr. J. M. Nowland, Mr. R. S. Elliot and Secretary Colton.

—The fines and costs received at the December term of the Norfolk Superior Criminal Court at Dedham amounted to $907.49.

LOSS IN ACREAGE.

Blue Hill Reservation Extends Well into Quincy.

WILLARD STREET CITY LINE.

Quite a Loss in Taxable Property—The New Line.

Randolph is no longer an adjoining town of Quincy, and in fact it is quite a distance off—a mile or two. And the city no longer has jurisdiction over the old Randolph turnpike for which it has in years past been indicted. In fact it has lost a large slice of its territory and a great many acres of taxable property, and the city is not as broad from east to west as it was by some two or three miles.

It is said that the Blue Hill reservation extends well into Quincy, including part of the "Quincy wood lot," most of "The 600 acre lot," Owens field, and Babel pasture, etc.

It will cut off a very large acreage of Quincy, (some 800 acres it is reported) and a portion of Willard street is the western boundary of the city. Starting from the Braintree line where Wood street enters Quincy, the new line follows Wood street to Willard, Willard to the junction of West street, and thence in an irregular line in a westerly direction across Bunker Hill lane leaving most of the Quincy wood lot in Quincy.

RAILROAD DISASTER

Serious Accident Friday at South Braintree.

NO LOSS OF LIFE REPORTED.

But Several Were Injured—One Well Known in Quincy.

The inward Brockton accommodation train due at Quincy at 2.55 P. M., locomotive 138, Clinton Baker, engineer, and locomotive 31, T. Mildram, engineer and George Williams, fireman, bringing out the accommodation train from Boston to South Braintree, due somewhere about 1.52 P. M., came into a head-to-head collision at a point about forty rods to the south of the South Braintree station yesterday afternoon, making a fearful racket which was heard all over the village, creating quite an excitement, and damaging both locomotives to a frightful extent.

Fortunately there were no lives lost, only five being injured and none seriously. Among them were Mildram, the engineer of locomotive 31, and his fireman George Williams, Miss M. E. C. Barnon, teacher of the Mayflower Park school, a passenger aboard the Brockton train, a Boston lady whose name we did not learn and another person. The rest of the passengers aboard the Brockton train received a sharp shaking up, and were greatly excited. Engineer Baker and his fireman did not receive a scratch and went about their business as if nothing had happened.

Charles Albe of South Braintree, the brakeman on the train, was thrown thirty feet, and when found was still holding a portion of the brake in his hand.

The baggage car on the inward bound train was damaged to the extent of about $80. Engine 138, had a large hole stove in the boiler, the cowcatcher torn off and the cylinder bent. Engine 31, after being struck was carried about fifty feet, leaving the front trucks at the point of collision. The boiler on this engine had the front left-hand portion completely torn away, the headlight and the cowcatcher were also knocked off. The loss on the engines is unknown, but probably will be heavy.

Traffic was somewhat delayed for several hours, but by using a cut-out at Mayflower Park, trains were able to pass by the accident. By 6.30 the wreckage was removed and traffic was again resumed.

While the accident was severe yet it might have been worse. If the engine 31 had been a few seconds later and the passenger train heavily loaded a terrible accident would have occurred.

How the collision happened was in this way, as far as we could learn. It appears that Engineer Mildram arriving at South Braintree and going no further, had gone around the "Y" and had backed the empty carriages on to a side track, this accomplished he was in the act of coming out again with his locomotive, and had got so far when the Brockton train came along, and before he could move back and get out of the way, the two locomotives crashed into each other with fearful violence and damaging results; derailing both locomotives and presenting a sad disheartening spectacle.

Of course an investigation of the cause that led to the accident will be made, so as to place the blame where it belongs

Thayer Academy.

The second term opened Wednesday There was one new student admitted, a boy, who is a most welcome addition to their ranks.

The writer in the Boston Budget must be mistaken when he says that only four girls received marks of "A" in all studies of the last term. It is generally known that Arnold '95, also received "A" in every study.

The senior middle class will give a dance very soon.

The work on the new buildings are progressing rapidly. The walls on the ells are almost ready for the belt of brownstone, 15 inches in width, that will run entirely around the building; above this there will be a brick wall 4 feet, 9½ inches in height, and then another belt of brownstone.

The light in the gymnasium is going to be very poor. On a sunny day it is not too bright, but on a rainy day it is almost impossible to see. The basement on the girls' side will be worse than the boys', because the boiler room will shut off almost all of what little light comes from the rear.

—The question whether women may legally sit in a liquor saloon in New York and drink intoxicants has been decided in the affirmative by Justice Ryan. A police captain caused the arrest of fifty women on Thursday night week on a charge of disorderly conduct, having found them drinking in licensed saloons. The magistrate dismissed the prisoners, and in doing so said sharply to the police captain: "I am desirous of helping the police all I can, but I'm not going to send anybody to prison on insufficient evidence. These people have as much right to sit and drink in saloons as you have. They are discharged."

DARK HORSES IN CONTEST.

Five New Candiates Today—One With Over 100 Votes.

Mr. Mason leads again in the clerks' theatre contest, but there are five new candidates who may be dark horses in the race. Major Dorley, one of the new men is a very promising candidate, and is second today. Messrs. Davidson, Morris, Munroe and Dixon also make good gains.

The last coupon appears today and the above contest closes at 5 P. M. on Monday. A few hundred old papers with coupons may be obtained at the LEDGER office at wholesale.

Is everybody ready for the contest which begins on Monday among the female clerks and employes in the Quincy business houses? They want the help of the young men, or else they will take their sister to the theatre. Contestants should enter the first day and let people know they are candidates, so that assistance may be given by friends.

BRAINTREE.

It is always a pleasure to record the enjoyment and happiness of young people, and we think the young gentlemen and ladies of Braintree have not had a more delightful and jolly time at any party given this winter than they did at that given on Monday evening of this week, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Morrison on Adams street, for their daughter, Alice.

D. D. G. M. Tupper and suite of Braintree installed the officers of Neponset Lodge, I. O. O. F. of Neponset last Monday evening.

Mr. Edward Haile, freight clerk at South Braintree has had quite a severe attack of the grip. Everybody seems to be victims of the same disease.

Seven persons are to unite with the First Parish Congregational church for the first time in the celebration of the communion tomorrow afternoon, at 2 30 o'clock.

Collector N. F. Hunt has collected taxes to the amount of fifty-two thousand dollars. The amount to be collected is somewhere about seventy-seven thousand dollars.

Thomas A. Watson was drawn to serve as a juror from Braintree, during the trial of civil cases, now being disposed of by the Superior Judicial court, holding at Dedham.

D. D. G. M. Frank Bump and suite of Brockton will install the of Puritan lodge, I. O. O. F., next Thursday evening. A collation will be served by Past Grand L. M. Hobart.

Mr. Wallace Eldridge has returned from the Cape where he has been spending four weeks, under the care of his family physician.

Messrs. George and Louis Arnold are enjoying their Christmas vacation to its fullest extent. On New Year's night they gave a card party to several of their friends at their home on Middle street.

Mr. Thomas A. Watson has resigned the position of manager of the electric plant and only holds the position until his successor is appointed. Mr. Watson, as is well known, has been the backbone and indefatigably active spirit of our electric lighting system, from its inception up to the present, asking not a mill for his services rendered the more valuable because of the fact that he is a practical electrician. Mr. Watson's resignation is quite a loss, and now the difficulty will be to get one to worthily fill his place.

On Thursday evening the First Parish church voted to observe the week of prayer next week. The following programme, with the leaders:

Monday,—"Humiliation and Thanksgiving," Deacon Hollis.

Tuesday,—"The Church Universal," F. A. Woodworth.

Wednesday,—"Nations and their Rulers," Deacon Keith.

Thursday,—"Foreign Missions," Pastor.

Friday,—"Home Missions," Deacon Sampson.

On Thursday evening the meeting will be in charge of the Christian Endeavor, and Mr. Woodworth, as president, will lead.

—The gold mining industry seems to be thriving, at all events. From California comes the report of a substantial increase in the gold yield, the output for last year in that state being $13,000,000, a gain of about $2,000,000. From all indications gold mining will have a big boom this year, as hundreds of mines that have not been worked for ten years will be reopened and new properties developed. The same tidings come from Colorado and all the other states where gold is found.

THEY ALL SAY RALLY.

Robert Pyne, editor of the Hartford Examiner, believes the great strike should be at the polls, but while we are getting ready for that other things must be done:

Jos. R. Buchanan:

I hasten to add my humble indorsement of your suggestion as to reorganization of the forces of labor for the achievement of industrial emancipation, and I thank you for the honor and privilege of being permitted to offer my suggestion on a matter of such profound importance.

I would, as you suggest, first advise all membership of the Knights of Labor—or similar organizations if existing—to seek fellowship in their respective trades unions where organized in their localities, leaving the aforesaid organization to hold and to gather in those who had no trades unions to go to. Then there should be another organization for political work where all could fraternize—membership in the industrial orders implying allegiance to the political body. The reason for this is evident. There can be no complete salvation for the industrialist save through intelligent action at the ballot box, for the power that controls the politics of a nation controls the purse strings of its people—aye, their very lives and death. And in this nation at this time, and likely to continue for all time if permitted, our politicians of both dominant parties are controlled by the powers directly interested in the exspoliation of the workers. Therefore, to realize the purpose for which trade organization is designed—to secure to the worker the full fruits of his labor—independent political action away from all monopolistic influences is essential. Trades organizations, as now conducted, are serviceable only in part—they are as brakes to the wagon to keep it from running headlong down the hill, but can never pull it upward.

In the meantime, pending preparation for the great strike and victory at the polls, the fraternization and co-operation of the different organizations—as a trinity in one—employing the silent weapon of the boycott where need was found to "enjoin an oppressor," would have a marvelous potency on the greed or rapacity of the despoiler, as a weapon defensive or offensive, if needs be. With the organizations pulling in different directions, holding different sympathies and pursuing different policies, as at present, this bond of union and fraternity that would consider the "injury of one as the concern of all" can never be realized.

Should not a conference of the several officers of the national organizations, together with others whom they might invite, be the first step in the programme? If so, I would suggest that the new G. M. W. of the K. of L. be the man to call it. His freedom from the bickerings and animosities of the past ought to make him acceptable to all. Trusting that success may crown your efforts in this noble undertaking, I remain, fraternally yours,

ROBERT PYNE.

True to his record, Samuel Gompers testifies to his faith in trade union methods, but he is for united action. Writing from Chicago, where he was attending the convention of the American Federation of Labor, he says:

Jos. R. Buchanan:

I am with you heart and soul with the general sentiment and purpose of your letter, although I must dissent from the thought you imply—that the trades unions will not be able to cope with the new conditions of industry which will present themselves with a revival of industry. I maintain that the trades unions possess the greatest qualities of elasticity. They are broad or narrow in the same degree with the intelligence, or otherwise, of the wage earners. We can make of them whatsoever we will—to right wrongs and acquire rights.

I feel certain that the American Federation of Labor would favor a fair scheme for the co-operation of all labor and reform organizations, but there must be no attempt to interfere with the right of the trades unions to regulate their own affairs. The treaty of peace offered in 1886, and frequently repeated since, is still the basis for peace in the ranks of those who struggle to secure the realization of true "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness"—labor's emancipation. SAMUEL GOMPERS.

Eugene V. Debs has given positive evidence of his position by his active leadership in the formation of the American Railway union, of which he is the president. That he believes in further concentration of the forces he here testifies:

Jos. R. Buchanan:

In reply to your note of the 5th inst., I have to say that I am in hearty accord with every movement contemplating harmonious relations between every branch of organized labor. More than a year ago I suggested in an article published in The Locomotive Firemen's Magazine the propriety of calling a congress of representatives of all labor organizations for the purpose of discussing ways and means for such unification as would make the labor army invincible. I am still of the opinion that such a meeting of the representatives of labor would be of incalculable value, and I further believe that the times are eminently auspicious for the assembling of such a deliberative body. Yours, fraternally, EUGENE V. DEBS.

Joe Labadie sees difficulties ahead, but he has faced them before and is ready to tackle the job again. He writes from his Detroit home:

Jos. R. Buchanan:

I thoroughly sympathize with the effort to form a great movement for united action by the useful classes against the useless and marauding classes. No existing organization can do that which is desired because of the wounds torn open afresh by the thoughtless and narrow.

Delsarte gives us this as the fundamental principle of physical grace and elegance, "Control at the center, freedom of the extremities." Why not adopt this as the guiding principle of the new organization?

A difference in the two schools of social-industrial reform will be met at the start—viz, government control versus antigovernment control. The difficulty will be to harmonize these elements.

The objects of the new movement should be radical and should demand free access to the land, free trade, free money—i. e., a circulating medium based upon the wealth and credit of those voluntarily co-operating—the abolition of the patent right system so as to give the workers the benefit of inventions, liberty, equity and justice. Go ahead. I am with you. Fraternally, JOSEPH A. LABADIE.

Frank K. Foster of the Boston Labor Leader has crowded as much experience in labor matters into the past 15 years as any man in the movement, but Frank may be wrong about the Knights of Labor. That organization can be built up and made powerful for good, but of course changes of one kind or another must clear the way for progress. Foster is clean cut in his trades unionism:

Jos. R. Buchanan:

One of the most eminent of Massachusetts jurists said to me not long since, "Your friend Buchanan writes with quite a fine old abolitionist spirit."

That spirit was one of the most worthy ever shown among men, and is not out of place when applied to the antislavery cause of today.

I yet believe that you do underrate the scope and breadth of trade union possibilities. The trade union is the most scientific form of organization for labor sellers. Its fitness to survive has been demonstrated past the need of argument. There is no reason why all trades and callings of wage earners should not federate under the A. F. of L.

Your analysis of the influences which worked the downfall of the Knights of Labor is in the main accurate. You should have added that the order was also structurally weak in its methods of handling labor difficulties.

I do not think that the Knights of Labor can be resuscitated. The men who were most largely responsible for the Richmond policy control the executive board today.

I should be in favor of a new organization for educational work, on lines broad and flexible enough to contain all social reform advocates. FRANK K. FOSTER.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

A Man of Leisure Creed.

I live, I live to fill up space
No other substance fills up;
I live to carry round my face;
I live to run my bills up.
I live to fill up time between
Last evening and tomorrow;
I live to keep my memory green
And see what I can borrow.

I live for one who loves me
And dowers me with pelf,
Through pleasant places shoves me,
My one true love—myself.
I live that I may still exist
And still keep on existing;
I live the dinner bell to list
And still keep on a-list'ning.

I do not live to toil and seethe
As other folks are seething,
But 'cause it's easier to breathe
Than to refrain from breathing.
I live, I live to wear my clo'es
And get myself admired,
To hold myself from work and woes
And keep from getting tired.

I live, I live to daily get Whatever I am getting
And sit and sit and sit and sit
Because I'm fond of sitting.
I live because it's work that kills—
The world owes me a living—
And while my good wife pays my bills
I render up thanksgiving.

Fractured Skull Caused Death.

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 6.—Giovani Putcelli, the Italian who was assaulted in Johnston Tuesday night, died at the hospital last night from a fracture of the skull. Putcelli's assailant was Petro Augusta. He dealt Putcelli a blow on the head with a gunstock. He has escaped.

Killed by Her Husband.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—A coroner's jury in the case of Mrs. Mary Freeholder, who was murdered on Dec. 27, found that she met her death at the hands of her husband, Christian Freeholder, now under arrest.

Got Even With the Preacher.

A lawyer of this city tells a story of how he got even with a preacher. It was on the occasion of his second marriage. After concluding the ceremony the minister took advantage of the privilege accorded him by custom of kissing the bride. While so engaged the groom suddenly imprinted a resounding kiss on the cheek of the minister's wife, who was standing immediately behind the wedding party.

The lady was indignant, and the minister asked for an explanation. Coolly enough and in a few words, the groom expressed the opinion that it was a poor rule that would not work both ways and that he had as much right to kiss the preacher's wife as the former had to kiss the bride.—Louisville Post.

Her Scheme Failed.

The latest instance of crime bringing its own punishment comes, on the authority of Dr. Leonard Guthrie, from Italy. An Italian woman had a husband, and the husband had the dropsy. But the dropsy did not work quickly enough. The woman put a toad into her husband's wine to poison him. But the poison which the toad's skin secretes has an active principle—phrynin—which much resembles digitalis, which is the best possible remedy for dropsy pending on heart disease. So, instead of killing her husband, she restored him to health.—San Francisco Argonaut.

STILL IN THE DARK.

The Business World Waiting For Action on the Tariff.

A HEAVY DECREASE IN TRADE.

But Little Change In the Industrial Situation.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says today: The cloud of uncertainty does not lift as yet. Strong confidence is expressed in nearly all markets that trade must improve with the new year, but it is yet too early to expect important change, if it is really on the way. The proposal of an income tax is not calculated to inspire confidence, nor does it encourage hope that uncertainty about revenue laws will be speedily terminated.

The whole market is 3-4 of a cent higher because of diminished western receipts, and corn is unchanged. Western receipts of wheat for the week have been 1,954,545 bushels, against 4,686,450 last year. The receipts of corn are extraordinary, 4,065,978 bushels for the week, against 3,277,178 last year. Cotton receipts have lessened a little, and the price has suddenly advanced 1-4, a movement probably on a par with others which have made this season a trying one to traders.

It is questionable whether the working force in the great industries has increased as yet, though about the first of the year considerable increase is expected. The number of mills starting and stopping work is about the same.

Wool, Cotton, Shoes and Metals.

Sales of wool for the week amount to only 2,494,800 pounds, against 4,453,200 for the corresponding week last year, and since May 1 the decrease has been 49.6 per cent. Prices are somewhat weaker, and few works report satisfactory orders. Prices of cotton goods are further reduced to encourage purchases. Most of the shoeshops are moderately employed, and the decrease in shipments for the week is 17 per cent against 20 per cent for the last seven months of 1893. Still lower prices are recorded in iron and steel, both at Pittsburg and Philadelphia, without increase in volume of business. It is believed that the output of pig, though 40 per cent less than a year ago, exceeds the present consumption.

The volume of business represented by exchanges outside New York is 18.2 per cent less than for the same week last year.

In various branches of business during the last half of 1893 actual sales have been reported by 1117 houses or companies aggregating $213,409,626 this year, against $304,460,103 in the same month last year, a decrease of 29.7 per cent.

What Percentages Show.

In textile manufactures the decrease is 41 per cent, over 47 per cent in all woolens, 43 per cent in silk and 37.1 per cent in cotton manufactures, 29.2 per cent in hosiery and 25.6 in mixed textiles. In dry goods the sales decreased only 19.2 per cent, stocks previously held having been much reduced, and the reported decrease in sales of clothing is only 12.3 per cent. In iron and steel manufactures the decrease is 39.8 per cent, but in hardware only 18.5 per cent. In boot and shoe manufacture the decrease is only 16.6 per cent, but in retail trade only 11.6 per cent. The decrease in furniture is 27.2 per cent, in jewelry 24.8 per cent and in sales of hats only 18.6 per cent.

It is an interesting and encouraging fact that sales of groceries are slightly larger than last year, though a little less at the east and west, but greater at the south.

The final classified returns of failures for 1893 are not yet complete, but the reports received for the latter part of December have swelled the aggregate of commercial liabilities to $338,493,461, of which $167,545,985 are of manufacturing failures, $123,716,960 of trading failures and $47,230,516 of other concerns.

For the past week the failures reported have been 511 in the United States, against 323 last year, and 41 in Canada, against 17 last year.

No Irregularities.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The naval committee of the house heard the testimony yesterday on the inquiry proposed by Mr. Holman as to alleged irregularities in granting premiums to naval constructors for building warships. All of the witnesses agreed that the plans for warships were in the hands of so many different persons that it would be impossible to have collusion.

Descendant of a Famous Woman.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 6.—Mrs. Mary A. Shoemaker, a granddaughter of the famous Charlotte Est, who notified General Washington of the projected attack on his army by the British at Germantown, died here last evening. Mrs. Shoemaker was born Sept. 20, 1810.

The Reading Row.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 6.—Samuel Dixon, attorney for the Reading Railroad company, says that the petition of Mr. Rice for a postponement of the annual meeting of the company has been refused. The matter will probably go into the courts.

GREATER CONFIDENCE

Among Sicilians on Account of Proclamation of a State of Siege.

ROME, Jan. 6.—The decree proclaiming Sicily in a state of siege is prefaced by a report of the ministers to the king, which says that the deplorable neglect and growing evils of recent years have led to a serious situation requiring exceptional treatment. The ignorant and deluded populists, led by individuals addicted to every kind of crime, have fomented pillage, incendiarism, murder and rapine.

It is evident that an organizing committee exists which is responsible for the disorders which have occurred, and which is abusing the constitutional guarantees. The committee, it is stated, meets daily at Palermo.

A dispatch from Caltinestta says that there was a demonstration there last evening under the auspices of the Fasci de Lavatori which wound up in a conflict between the troops and the peasants. One of the soldiers was wounded by a peasant, and when this was learned the troops fired a volley into the crowd of rioters and killed 10 and wounded several others.

Private dispatches from all parts of Sicily say that the proclamation of a state of siege has produced a feeling of greater confidence among the people.

General Morra di Lavrian has issued a decree forbidding the assemblage even of unarmed people under pain of arrest.

Marlboro's Shoe Troubles.

MARLBORO, Mass., Jan. 6.—The situation in this city relative to the proposed reduction of 10 per cent in the shoe industry tends to an amicable adjustment of the matter without a strike or lockout. An agreement has been made between the manufacturers and the executive committee of the men for a series of conferences, when each branch of the trade will be discussed, and the prices now obtained will rule until the conference makes its decision. Should no decision be arrived at, the matter will be referred to arbitration.

Uggla Wins His Case.

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—The full bench of the supreme court handed down a decision in favor of Charles Uggla, a herdic driver, who was awarded a verdict of $6666 from the West End Street Railway company, for injuries received by being struck on the head with an "ear" from the trolley. The decision says in substance that no one but the company was responsible for the safety of its apparatus, which failed to support the strain which was made on it by the company.

Jails Well Patronized.

AUGUSTA, Me., Jan. 6.—The report of the inspectors of prisons shows the number in state prison to be 135. Convicted during year, 45; discharged, 43. Maine's county misery in bulk as told by the jail records is as follows: Commitments for vagrancy, 562; poor debtors, 100; drunkenness, 1913; selling alcohol, 352. Reports show no increase of crimes during the year, but great increase in the number of tramps and poor debtors.

Lothrop Company Fails.

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—The D. Lothrop company, book publishers, has made an assignment. Liabilities estimated to be $250,000. The assets consist of outstanding bills, plates and copyrights of 3000 books and machinery valued at $6000. In May, 1893, their assets, as returned to the state house, amounted to $460,101, but the real value is very uncertain at present.

Family Row Settled.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 6.—The suit which commenced Nov. 1 by C. Spreckles, charging his father and two brothers with attempting to defraud him of his interests in the Hawaiian Commercial company, has been dismissed. The Spreckles family have settled, and it is arranged whereby C. A. Spreckles still retains his interests in the company.

Fighters Are Plentiful.

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—Over 160 men of "military qualifications" made application yesterday to Captain Rhodes, the enlisting officer for the Brazilian government, for the opportunity to fight under that flag. The men will not be enlisted until further orders have been received, when they will be sent from New York to a point near Rio Janeiro.

The End of It.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 6.—The corps of engineers to survey the New York, New England and Northern route, intended for the New York city terminus for the New England road, have closed their office. This resulted from the appointment of a receiver for the New England road. It was a pet scheme of President McLeod's.

A Good Investment.

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—Prophecies of ruin in the World's fair district, to follow the departure of the great show, have not been fulfilled. Families have been moving by the hundreds into the flat buildings into which the erstwhile hotels have been transferred.

A Murderous Lover.

Deeply In Debt.

Absorbed by the Missouri Pacific.

Pendleton Wants Free Coinage.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Representatives Pendleton of Texas introduced a bill for the free coinage of silver.

IN CONGRESS.

Democrats Find Themselves Unable to Muster a Quorum.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The strong arm of the committee on rules was invoked yesterday to break down the obstruction in the path of the tariff debate. An iron-clad order was brought in setting out the program for the tariff debate, and fixing Jan. 25 as the day for taking the final vote. This resulted only in sidetracking Mr. Boutelle and his Hawaiian resolution, as when the vote came to be taken on the adoption of the order the Democrats lacked nine votes of a quorum.

At least 20 Democrats at the Capitol either absented themselves from the hall, or refused to answer to their names when called. For four hours the Democratic leaders tried to bring their men into line, but instead of gaining, they lost votes on each successive rollcall. The Populists, with the exception of Mr. Bell of Colorado, also declined to aid the Democrats to get the tariff bill before the house, giving as the reason for their action the short limit it was proposed to set on the debate. Their votes would have made up a quorum.

The day's proceedings were therefore of additional importance as marking the first time in the history of either branch of congress since the organization of the third party that its members have held the balance of power.

Well Known In New Bedford.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Jan. 6.—Edson C. Chick, who has caused a sensation at Lakeville, N. Y., by his demands from the Gould family, is well known here. In 1888 he visited this city and undertook to revolutionize its newspaper workings. He also was identified with a Cottage City paper, which was short lived. He was locked up in the central station in New Bedford, and was afterward sent to Taunton asylum. He is a graduate of Brown university.

Other Cases May Crop Out.

BANGOR, Me., Jan. 6.—M. D. Willey, now in Ellsworth jail, left Ellsworth Thursday morning with 200 ill-gotten dollars. He forged the endorsement of A. R. Hooper of Ellsworth to a check of $24, and had it cashed. Then he borrowed $5 more from Hooper's cash drawer and left town. Hooper overtook him at Millbridge and induced him to come back. Willey is suspected of other forgeries.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

THE TARIFF BATTLE

Will Go on With Increased Vigor During the Present Week.

DEPUTIES ARE AFTER ABSENTEES.

Federal Elections Bill Will Occupy the Senate's Attention.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The tariff will occupy the entire attention of the house during the present week, or if not the bill itself, then the row over the attempt to get it before the house. After four days of fruitless effort to secure the presence of a voting Democratic quorum, the house adopted, just before adjournment Saturday night, the extreme expedient of ordering the arrest of all members absent without leave. Warrants were issued for the arrest of 40 members.

Deputies were sent out in all directions to serve the warrants on these 40 members. Of these 40 members 21 are Democrats and 19 Republicans. As some of them live at long distances they could not all get here today. From the Republican absentees of course no aid is expected. They can be brought here under duress, but they cannot be made to vote. This applies to some of the Democrats as well as Republicans, and if the opposition within the ranks of the Democratic majority can be organized, as some of them, like Mr. Sperry, desire, enough Democrats might refrain from voting to prevent the consideration of the bill in its present shape.

Privately, some of the Democrats do not hesitate to admit the gravity of the situation. The possibility of defeating the consideration of the bill strikes terror into their hearts, and some of them, like Colonel Oates, openly advocate a resort to the parliamentary expedient utilized by the Fifty-first congress of counting a quorum.

Crisp Is Confident.

Speaker Crisp asserts most positively that they will not be forced to this resort. He thinks a voting quorum will be here certainly tomorrow at the farthest. If it cannot be obtained then, another Democratic caucus will be called. This is what those who are dissatisfied with the bill are aiming at. They declare that as soon as they can demonstrate that not a sufficient number of Democrats will vote to consider the bill the leaders will be obliged to make material modifications which disgruntled members will propose. Some of the eastern Democrats who are fighting the income tax proposition are willing to go to almost any length to eliminate this feature of the Wilson bill. Altogether the prospects are good for a very interesting contest in the house during the coming week.

Of course, if the quorum is secured tomorrow, the special order will be passed, modified probably to recompense the house for the two days lost since the order was reported, by lengthening the time of the debate to that extent. Once the debate is under way, under the operation of this order, it will proceed to the exclusion of everything else, with the night sessions devoted to general debate.

Mr. Tarsney, member of the ways and means committee, said that if a voting quorum was not secured by tomorrow he would favor the adoption of a rule empowering the speaker to count members to make a quorum. "We must meet revolution with revolution," said he. If the Democratic members are driven to this resort it is believed that the Republicans, for self vindication, would be compelled to support it.

Senate Forecast.

The principal item of the senate program for the week has been agreed upon. It is to be the consideration of the federal elections bills, which is to be taken up after the conclusion of the morning business tomorrow. This program, it is believed, will be practically observed, except in one contingency. It is barely possible that the affairs of Hawaii may again demand the attention of the senate to the exclusion of all other subjects for at least a portion of the week.

If the government should fail to give explicit denial to the report that Mr. Willis has asked the Dole government to retire in the interest of the queen, there are sure to be a number of resolutions of inquiry introduced and several very pointed speeches may be expected. There will in any event be some discussion of Hawaiian affairs over Senator Hoar's resolution inquiring into the expenses and salary of Mr. Blount while on his special mission, and there is a possibility that the Frye resolution, declaring that until the congressional inquiry is completed this government should suspend all efforts at interference in the affairs of that country, may be called from the table. The whole matter depends very largely upon the color of the news from the Pacific and the attitude assumed by the administration.

Lively Contest Probable.

If the federal elections bill is allowed to hold its place on the calendar and to be taken up it will doubtless give rise to some partisan speeches on both sides of the chamber. While it would seem probable that there will be almost, if not quite, a solid party vote against the repeal of the existing laws, there are a great many Republicans too indifferent to the question to exert themselves to the extent of making speeches against it.

The opposition will be led by the New England senators, and in this Senators Hoar, Frye and Chandler are expected to take a leading part. It seems probable that there will be an effort to keep down speech-making on the bill on the Democratic side. Senator Gray will lead the fight for the bill and Senator Hill will be among its most zealous supporters.

THREE MASKED MEN

Hold Up a Train, but Retire Without Securing Much Booty.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 8.—The Mississippi Valley passenger train that arrived here at 8:05 yesterday morning was held up at the crossing of the Vicksburg and Meridian road, south of Vicksburg, at 1:05 a. m. The train was waiting for the Vicksburg and Meridian train to pass, when it was boarded by two masked men. A third man was standing guard on the track. Conductor Morris said:

"We had just reached the Alabama and Vicksburg road. The train always stops at this point and the engineer waited for some one to come and flag the train. I was in the second car with Mr. Dorsey, the baggage master, when I heard a man yell 'Hold up your hands.' I then saw two masked men marching the porter down the aisle towards us. They had us covered with pistols and, of course, our hands went up. One fellow kept us covered while his partner, a small, nervous fellow, went through our pockets. Dorsey was searched first, but nothing was taken from him. Then they turned their attention to me. They left a $10 bill in my vest pocket and other little articles which I had in other pockets.

"They then marched us to the express car and ordered me to open the door. I told them the door was bolted. 'Then kick it in,' said one, and I kicked. I was still kicking on the door when the porter leaped from the train and rushed to the rear. The two men jumped out and a moment later disappeared in the darkness.

"The robbers evidently became frightened when they saw the porter jump off and run to the rear. All the time we were being searched the engineer kept blowing his whistle for some one to come and flag the A. and V. crossing. It is the porter's business to do this. We were stopped eight minutes at the crossing."

A SENSATIONAL MURDER.

Prominent San Franciscoan Killed by the Mother of a Wronged Girl.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8.—Harry G. Pool, a young man well known about town and of a well-to-do family, was shot and almost instantly killed yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Shattuck, the aged mother of Estrulia Shattuck, a young and pretty chorus girl at the Tivoli Opera House, who severed connection with the Tivoli company Saturday night and was to have left the city today with Henderson's Sinbad company.

Young Pool was summoned to Miss Shattuck's home on Stevenson street yesterday, where the girl's mother met him and demanded that he marry Miss Shattuck at once. Pool refused and Mrs. Shattuck put a pistol to his temple and shot him dead. The woman was arrested for murder and is now a raving maniac at the city prison. The girl is also in hysterics and unable to talk.

Speaking of Miss Shattuck's appearance with the Tivoli company as leader of the Amazon march in the spectacular "The Island of Jewels," The Examiner this morning says: The pleasing young person, with a sword, who leads this march, is perhaps as much entitled as any one to wear the title, "The California Venus," as she was the model of the crowning figure in the Midwinter fair fountain in the Sunset city, and her face and smile will stand amid the falling drops of water in front of the Administration building as a sample of what California can produce in the way of female beauty.

WHITECAP OUTRAGES.

Lash and Rifle Freely Used In a Kentucky District.

HARRODSBURG, Ky., Jan. 8.—About 50 whitecaps went to the home of Joseph Mitchell at Leesburg, and dragged him from his house. Mitchell broke away and started for his house, but his body was filled with buckshot and he fell dead on the doorsill. Leaving Mitchell's body, they next visited the home of Brock Bottoms and dragged him out and gave him 50 lashes on his bare back, badly lacerating the flesh. A rope was placed around his neck, but the entreaties of his wife and children caused the men to relent. Several others were badly whipped, and ordered to leave the country. Whitecaps have been terrorizing the people hereabouts for some time.

One Was a Draw.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Jan. 8.—A large number of sports yesterday attended two 10-round three-ounce glove fights at a place 10 miles from here. The first was between Cronin of Boston and Mehan of Baltimore at 140 pounds. Mehan quit in the 10th round. The second was between Conley of Salem and a Gloucester man at 130 pounds. The referee declared this a draw, although Conley could not have lasted another round.

No Dissension.

LYNN, Mass., Jan. 8.—In an interview last evening President Coffin of the General Electric company flatly denied the reports of dissension in the company and the rumor that an effort was being made to withdraw the Thomson-Houston interest and form an independent company. He stated that only a small part of the works here and at Boston and New York are to be moved to Schenectady, N. Y., and it will have but little effect here.

The Usual Way.

BOSTON, Jan. 8.—Endicott Greenwood Putnam, a banker's clerk and son of Dr. A. P. Putnam of Concord, has left this city, leaving debts behind to the extent of $9000. Not content with the small salary he received as clerk, he began dabbling in stocks. At first he was very successful, and in one day cleared $1400, but was latterly overwhelmed

DA GAMA HOLDS OUT.

Expects to Win a Decisive Victory When Reinforcements Arrive.

SHARP BATTLE AT ENGENHO ISLAND

Results In the Loss of Many Government Troops.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—The Times today prints the following dispatch from Rio Janeiro:

Admiral Da Gama still holds out, stating that he expects the Aquidaban and Republica with reinforcements tomorrow from the south. He appears confident of the ultimate result, and received 12,000 pounds sterling on Saturday from sympathizers in order to pay his men.

The diplomats have refused to recognize the belligerent status of the insurgents on the ground that the provisional government has not a sufficient standing.

Admiral Chavas, the minister of marine, resigned his office on account of a difference of opinion with President Peixoto, especially regarding the imprisonment and general treatment of naval officers suspected of sympathy with the insurgents. His successor, Admiral Netto, is considered honest, though he has no special ability.

Government Waiting For Aid.

The past week has been uneventful. There was some skirmishing in the vicinity of Mocangue, and occasional firing along the shore front of the city. The forts at the mouth of the harbor, which have been silent for the past week, fired again yesterday. The cruiser Tamandare fires a few shots daily at the batteries of Nictheroy, the latter replying. The government continues mounting artillery on the heights within the city limits and is awaiting the arrival of the new warships before attacking Admiral Da Gama.

The news from Desterro states that there is some divergence of opinion among the insurgent leaders on account of the appointments of the provisional government.

Several cases of yellow jack have occurred on board merchant vessels and also in the city and it is feared that a continuance of the intense heat will bring a severe epidemic later on.

Victory For Insurgents.

On Wednesday morning the insurgents attacked Engenho island, opposing fire from the ships. At 7 o'clock they landed 200 men, and for half an hour there was sharp fighting. After a light check, they captured a Krupp field piece and a 70-pounder Whitworth. The government loss was 13 killed and five wounded, and five officers and 63 men and 25 civilians were taken prisoners. The insurgents' loss was two killed and five wounded.

"SICILIAN MARTYRS"

Have Friends Who Continue to Create Riot and Bloodshed.

ROME, Jan. 8.—A crowd of workmen last evening formed in the Transleve quarter bearing two red flags and shouting "Long live socialism," "Long live the Sicilian martyrs."

The police ordered the crowd to disperse, but the latter opened fire on the police with revolvers, and during the riot which followed a policeman was stabbed. Finally the police succeeded in dispersing the crowd and in capturing the two red flags and two anarchists.

Handbills were thrown Saturday night from the galleries of the theaters inscribed, "Down with the people's sweaters and taxes," "Live the Sicilian martyrs." Several anarchists who threw these handbills were arrested.

A mob last evening attacked and disarmed a corporal for refusing to join in their seditious cries, and afterward brutally beat with cudgels some gendarmes who intervened. A sharp conflict followed between the police and the rioters, ending in the dispersal of the mob. Four arrests were made and two gendarmes were wounded.

The police of Naples have arrested several agitators suspected of organizing riots which were anticipated yesterday, causing the shops to be kept closed and spreading a general feeling of alarm throughout the city. There was no trouble, however.

Hangman Commits Suicide.

MELBOURNE, Jan. 8.—Jones, the public hangman of Victoria, committed suicide by cutting his throat, because he was not willing to execute Mrs. Knorr, a woman sentenced to death for causing the deaths of infants whom she received at a so-called baby farm.

Gain For Republicans.

PARIS, Jan. 8.—The triennial elections for a renewal of one-third of the senators took place yesterday. The results show that 78 Republicans, nine Radicals and seven Conservatives have been elected. This is a gain of 30 Republicans thus far.

Head of a Famous Church Dead.

PARIS, Jan. 8.—Abbe Legrand, priest of the Church of the Saint Germain L'Auxerrois, whose foundation dates back to the time of Charlemagne, and vicar general of Paris, is dead.

Matabeles Are Now For Peace.

CAPE TOWN, Jan. 8.—A dispatch has been received from Dr. Jameson saying the natives are tired of fighting and desirous of peace.

Blew His Brains Out.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 8.—Cornelius O'Connell, 46, committed suicide by blowing out his brains. He had been despondent since his wife's death two weeks ago, and had once before threatened suicide.

Death of Dr. Cavendish.

GALVESTON, Jan. 8.—Dr. Clinton Cavendish, the noted English traveler and scientist, died at San Antonio after a brief illness. He had spent the past six years in Mexico.

Editorial Comment.

THERE ARE only thirty-four persons, firms or corporations paying a tax of over $20,000 to the city of Boston. John Quincy Adams of this city is one of these, paying as trustee of the Boston Real Estate Trust, $45,642. But ten pay more, and among those paying less are the Fitchburg R. R. Co., Boston & Providence R. R. Co., New York and New England R. R. Co., and Old Colony R. R. Co. The Adams Real Estate Trust also pays $17,079.

CITY HALL NOTES.

Chief of Police Langley Also Notified of a Change.

Mayor Hodges has also notified Chief Langley that it is his intention to make a change in the office of Chief of Police. Mr. Langley has been at the head of the police department for several years. A permanent police force was not established until Jan. 1, 1893, but previous to this Mr.

Langley was "Deputy Manager of the Police Force," the Mayor under the City Charter having the "appointment, control and direction of the police force." Previous to the inauguration of the city government Mr. Langley was for many years a constable and for two years chief of police. He has been connected with police matters in the town and city for 14 years. Mr. Langley was born in Durham, N. H., in 1848, he learned the carpenter's trade in Portsmouth and settled in Quincy in 1872, and 16 years ago established himself as a contractor and builder.

CAMPAIGN EXPENSES.

The Democrats Appear to Have Spent More Money Than Republicans.

The Republican and Democratic committees have filed their returns of receipts and expenditures of the municipal election, with the City Clerk as required by law.

That of the Republicans shows the receipts, including a balance of $327.24, to have been $465.73.

The total amount of expenditures, which were for hall rent, carriage hire, printing, etc., were $443.55, leaving a balance on hand of $22.18.

That of the Democrats shows the receipts, including a balance of 40 cents to have been $329.50, of which amount they have paid for printing, stationery, rent, carriages, $320.94.

This return also shows the committee to have liabilities of $98.35 for printing, hall rent and stationery.

The Ward One Democratic committee report having received $174.50 in various small sums and to have expended for printing, stationery, etc., $169.30 leaving a balance on hand of $5.20.

Young Men's Christian Association.

Mr. Walter B. Abbott, the popular general secretary of the Salem Association gave an interesting talk Sunday afternoon, on "Sowing and Reaping."

Rev. Walter Russell Breed, rector of Christ's church, will address the men's meeting on Sunday, January 14.

The Young Men's Congress will convene Tuesday evening, after a month's recess. While the special services in the churches will interfere with the attendance this week, it is hoped that the machinery will get well started for some lively meetings during the remainder of the year.

—The midwinter fair at San Francisco will soon be opened. It has outgrown all expectations, developing from 40 acres to 160, with a remarkable number of interesting exhibits. From January to June is the best part of the year in California. It is a prolonged springtime. The rainy season being over, bright weather prevails, with moderate temperature, and an almost tropical luxuriance of flowers and foliage and general vegetation. The exhibition is in about fifty buildings.

OUR SHADE TREES.

Wollaston People Object to Having Them Disfigured and Destroyed.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

The Quincy Electric Light and Power Co. has aroused the indignation of the residents of Brook street, Wollaston, by the ruthless manner in which it has lopped off the branches of the shade trees which border and beautify that thoroughfare. Brook street, since Mr. Corthell and a few other citizens have taken hold, has become one of the most beautiful residential sections of the city, and now to have the linemen of the Electric Light Co. step in and partially, if not wholly destroy this avenue of trees, on which the old Village Improvement society wisely expended so much money and time, deserves more than passing censure. The Massachusetts Railroad Commissioners saved one of Cambridge's historic avenues from this species of vandalism a few months since, but unfortunately it is imposible to invoke their aid in this instance.

Mayor Fairbanks' attention was called to the matter a short time ago but he claimed that nothing could be done except for the parties interested to request the Electric Light Co. to desist. Mayor Rantoul of Salem, took a different view of the matter recently, and went so far, when a street railway company began cutting off the limbs of trees, to declare that he would have their charter revoked. The company did not argue the case further and Salem's majestic elm trees were saved.

Quincy, is proud of its beautiful shade trees. Mr. Charles Francis Adams' earnest efforts in this direction, are now beginning to be realized. It is a pity to have this realization destroyed by corporations which care for nothing that is beautiful or anything that adds to the attractiveness of the city.

The trimming of the trees on Brook street is only one of several cases and should be checked at once. Rather than to have these trees destroyed, there is but little doubt but what the abuttors on that thoroughfare would prefer to have the incandescent lights replaced by gas lights.

Chapter 196 of the acts of 1890 should be rigidly enforced in this city.

This act provides that "The mayor and aldermen of the cities within the Commonwealth are hereby authorized to designate and preserve, as hereinafter provided in this act, trees within the limits of the highways for the purpose of ornament and shade; and to so designate not less than one such tree in every thirty-three feet where such trees are growing and are of a diameter of one inch or more.

"Said mayor and alderman shall between the first day of September and the thirty-first day of December in each year, designate such trees as are selected by them for the purposes set forth in this act by driving into the same, at a point not less than four nor more than six feet from the ground on the side toward the centre of the highway, a nail or spike with a head with the letter M plainly impressed upon it; said nails or spikes to be procured and furnished by the secretary of the state board of agriculture to said mayor and alderman as required by them for the purpose of this act.

"Whoever wantonly injures, defaces or destroys any tree thus designated, or any of said nails or spikes affixed to such trees, shall forfeit not less than five nor more than one hundred dollars, to be recovered by complaint, one-half to the complainant and one-half to the use of the town wherein the offence was committed."

And further more the Public Statutes provide that whoever negligently or wilfully breaks down, destroys or injures a tree standing for use or ornament on a highway, shall be subject to an action for damages at the suit of the owner or tenant of the land in front of which the tree stands.

The growing tendency on the part of street railway, electric light, telegraph and telephone corporations is to ignore public sentiment on the tree question and to cut and "trim" the trees until they are brought up by the stern hand of law backed by public indignation. Let Mayor Hodges, backed by the Council the Park Commissioners and influential citizens, take the initiative steps and abate this vandalism before any more of our shade trees are disfigured or destroyed. Mrs. C. W. Lapham of the Hancock house is very sick with the grip. Her son George who has also been sick with the same disease is just recovering from it.

A five-story brick building at 74 Summer street, Boston, owned by Henry H. Faxon of this city and occupied by Cushing, Olmstead & Snow, wholesale clothiers, was damaged $1000 by fire Saturday night.

Mr. Samuel Brown of Wollaston, master painter of the Old Colony system, N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., has severed his connection with that road after twenty-eight years of service. Mr. Brown now represents the well-known paint and oil firm of Wadsworth, Howland & Co. of Boston.

A Narrow Escape.

There came very near being a serious runaway accident at West Quincy, Sunday afternoon. It seems that James White had harnessed a pair of horses to an extension top carryall in which were seated his two children.

He left them for a few moments, and while away the horses started for some unknown reason and dashed up Copeland street and turned into Willard street. They dashed along Willard street as far as the sheds of the O. T. Rogers Granite Co., under which they ran, smashing the top of the carriage somewhat and throwing the children out. This stopped the horses and the crowd that had gathered soon picked up the children who were found to be uninjured save for a few bruises. It was a very narrow escape.

Birthday Party.

On Saturday evening passers-by No. 12 Greenleaf street, looking into the brightly illuminated home of Mr. W. H. Fay, were made aware of an unusual activity by the presence of a happy company of yonng people making merry as only young people can who have a copyright upon the method.

The occasion, it seems, was Miss Fay's eighteenth birthday, and the company having enjoyed an inspection of the pretty gifts bestowed, assembled, to the number of eighteen, in the dining room where a table of delicacies awaited them. Many kind wishes were showered upon the young lady.

Mr. Fairbanks in accepting the office of chairman said : I am very grateful for the hearty support you have given me for the past three years, and am now ready to enter the ranks and help the Republican party. Our step must be onward and we must work for the future. He should insist upon frequent meetings of the chairmen of the ward committees, in the future to talk over matters. A suggestion was also offered that an out and out Republican daily paper be established.

The other officers of the committee were then elected as follows :

Treasurer,—John Shaw.

A BRAVE WOMAN.

How She Rescued Her Husband From the Vengeance of a Puma.

Jabez English, a sheep herder of this neighborhood, was engaged in building a cabin home, his former one having been destroyed by fire a week or two ago, and was busily at work on its roof when he saw an animal steal out of the woods hard by and fling itself upon the pail containing his dinner of cold boiled bacon and bread.

He recognized this animal as a puma, or mountain lion, but thinking he might frighten it away threw his plane at it. The tool struck the animal on the head, cutting it badly and rendering the creature furious. It rushed at the structure on the peak of which the herder sat and tried to leap up to him. But this was not to be done, and after several attempts the lion abandoned it and proceeded to patrol the spot, growling furiously and showing its teeth.

The man, having no weapon and being out of reach of any one to whom he might call, could only sit still and wait for the puma to become tired of the watch or for deliverance. Night at last came on, and still he did not dare venture to quit his perch, though it was so cold that he feared that he would freeze before morning. In the meantime his wife, who was in Santa Anna, a little mountain hamlet of the valley, grew uneasy about him, and with a lantern started to look for him. It was too dark for English to see her, but the lion did, and made for her with a scream of rage.

As the great beast came leaping at her out of the darkness she dashed the lantern full in its face. The puma, startled, gave way, and English, guessing who the newcomer was, shouted to her to run back to the village. She turned to do so, but the puma was after her, and she was obliged to wheel about every few feet and shake the lantern in its face again. The animal would recoil at this, and each time gave her a few moments to run on.

In this way she made her way to Santa Anna, screaming as she neared it, "A lion! a lion!" until some of the men of the village, hearing her, armed themselves and came out in time to see the lion break away to run back. They pursued him and killed him and then went on for the half frozen herder. His wife, a bright eyed, chatty little Mexican woman, claimed the skin of the puma, saying that it was rightly hers, as she alone had brought the lion into the village, and it was presented to her for the new home in the valley.—Tombstone (A. T.) Special.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHPLACE.

The Government Improving and Making Accessible a Historical Spot.

A contract has been awarded for the erection of a $10,000 wharf on the Potomac river, near Wakefield, Westmoreland county, Va., General George Washington's birthplace, and the steamer Sue will probably make it a landing place. The house in which Washington was born was destroyed by fire during his boyhood, but in 1815 a stone with a suitable inscription was placed on the spot by George Washington Parke Custis. It was while living at Wakefield that Washington attended the neighboring schools, where instruction did not go further than reading, writing and spelling, with the addition, which must have been somewhat exceptional, of bookkeeping and surveying.

In after years, while Washington was surveying the vast estates of Lord Fairfax, the birthplace was burned, and the family moved on the Rappahannock river, near Fredericksburg. The new wharf will be built by the government as a means of access to the ruins of the burned house, and congress is to mark the place with a monument. A steamboat landing will make the historical spot, now somewhat difficult to reach, of easy access for tourists.—Baltimore American.

Death Among the Dukes.

Including the Duke of Leinster, whose death was recently announced, eleven dukes have passed away within the last three years—the Dukes of Buckingham, Cleveland, Devonshire, Leinster, Manchester, Marlborough, Roxburghe, Somerset, Sutherland and two Dukes of Bedford. Three years ago there were 29 dukes apart from those of the royal blood, and it will be seen that more than a third of the number have died. As on result of this mortality the dukedoms have been reduced to 27, the titles of Buckingham and Cleveland having become extinct. Only 24 dukes can vote, however, as the new Dukes of Leinster, Manchester and Roxburghe are minors. —London News.

Girls as Pallbearers.

Six young ladies, each wearing a white chrysanthemum, created much comment by serving as pallbearers at the funeral of Mrs. James McGiven, manager of a local shorthand school. The girls' study class of St. Leo's Catholic church had charge of the funeral services, and the pallbearers were members of it. On the way to the church the young lady pallbearers walked behind the mourners and continued in charge of the remains until after the interment.—Tacoma Letter in Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Hanged Himself to Live.

A Paris beggar has been living very comfortably by hanging himself. He would choose a tree near where young children were playing, string himself up and groan to attract their attention, so that they would run for help. He would be cut down and restored, and a letter in his pocket would explain his attempted suicide by a statement of his destitution. He knew how to attach the noose so as to avoid strangulation.—Paris Correspondent.

Buried Under His Snow House.

Charles Prendergast, aged 11 years, was playing recently in a snow house near his residence, 116 St. Martin street, Montreal, when it collapsed, and he was buried in the snow. His companions ran away and left him. When he was dug out, after lying there for eight hours, he was nearly frozen, and besides a broken leg he was injured internally. He died from his injuries.—Toronto Globe.

VIGOROUS LANGUAGE

Employed by Mr. Fulton in His Denunciation of Catholicism.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8. — "Financial Depression: Rome Caused It; Will Americans Cure It?" was the title of Rev. Justin Fulton's sermon yesterday afternoon at the Twenty-fifth street Free Baptist church. Dr. Fulton said the financial depression had been brought about by the conspiracy of the Romanists to defeat Benjamin Harrison for the presidency and then stand on the division of the school funds.

Among other things, he said: "Cardinal Gibbons is a boss liar. Sounds rather strong, but gentle terms when I speak plain are cast aside, and I call him what I believe him to be. His utterances on the school question should arouse every anti-Catholic."

Speaking of President Cleveland, Dr. Fulton said: "A nice spectacle; the president paying his price to a nunnery. You all know to what I refer. The Romanists heard something drop last November. The Republican party should cast off the chains of allegiance to Rome, and, joining the Democratic party, make a grand fight in a common sause—first of all obstruction to Romanism.

"How many of my hearers believe the Romanists are conspirators?" asked Dr. Fulton. Out of a large number of people present, 10 held up their hands in reply. The preacher looked disappointed.

HEAD ALMOST SEVERED.

An Italian Murdered by a Fellow Countryman at the Hub.

BOSTON, Jan. 8.—A cold-blooded murder was committed in the Italian colony of this city at 11:45 last night. Pasquale Sacco, 29 years old, living at 9 Salutation street, was gashed across the neck, nearly severing the head, with a razor in the hands of another Italian named Vincento Carchidi, 30 years old.

Sacco was a boarding house keeper, and all of his boarders being in the house he went to the end of the alley to lock the gate before retiring. It is thought that Carchidi was hiding behind the gate waiting for a man with whom he had a quarrel earlier in the evening, and thinking that the landlord was the man he dealt the deadly blow. Sacco, after receiving the wound, crawled back to the door of his house and then fainted from loss of blood.

The murderer washed his hands at a pump in the yard and ran into the next house into one of the upper rooms, occupied by Mareana Palona, who, when she saw him, called for her husband, who had the police come in. On the way out of the house the murderer tried to drop the razor behind an ash barrel, but was caught by Patrolman Brown.

The blade of the weapon had a large hole snipped in the center, and the missing piece was found on the spot where the crime was committed.

PRISON IS PARADISE

Compared to the Journey Siberian Exiles Are Forced to Make.

BOSTON, Jan. 8.—Prince Galitzin of Russia, who has been traveling eastward from St. Petersburg since May, 1891, as a representative of the Imperial Geographical society, arrived here last night. He was the first Russian to make the trip through the mountains from Chinese Turkestan to India, and he is the only man who has explored certain plateaus in northern Thibet. At the request of the czar he made reports on the condition of Siberian exiles and prisoners. Regarding these he said last night:

"There are two things to be described in the life of exile, one is the journey and and the other the prisons or mines. The journey of the convicts is terrible, being a walk of three years at least, and after this the prison is paradise. The food, light and arrangements are good, but the quarters are badly overcrowded. At Sackalin a prisoner usually has a home of his own after the first year.

"On the other hand, the exiles sent to Yakutzk find themselves in a little village without money and without work to do to earn it.

"Siberia is a very rich and fine country, and it is a bad thing to spoil it by sending convicts there that might be imprisoned in Russia. Work in the mines is not so terrible as you suppose. Of course it is dangerous, but the men work only from 6 in the morning until 1 in the afternoon."

In regard to his impressions of this country Prince Galitzin said: "If you mean by the United States, Emerson and Longfellow and the town-meeting and your beautiful constitution, which is the life of all this people, and the comfortable lives of your middle classes, I am a great admirer of the United States.

"I did not come here to study and criticise the horse show and afternoon tea and terrapin, which a young Russian has recently been speaking about in Boston and New York."

About the European situation he said the times seemed good for peace, but it was no use to predict about the war.

The prince will live for three years in Washington, doing literary work for Russian and American magazines.

YOUTHFUL DETECTIVES

Vindicate the Injured Characters of the Boys of a Maine Town.

FOXCROFT, Me., Jan. 8.—For months past F. Barrows, a printer, has missed money from his cash drawer, and do what he would he could neither find the thief nor trust to his money drawer. He suspected his office boys and had hired and discharged nearly all the available youth of the town. Mr. Barrows began to think there was not an honest boy in town.

Two of the boys he had discharged went about doing detective work on the case, and were given permission to hide themselves one night in Barrow's office. Armed with revolvers, they waited, and at about midnight were rewarded by the advent of the thief through a scuttle, leading from the cellar.

He was taken prisoner and Mr. Barrows was called. Then a light was turned on, and to the astonishment of all they discovered the thief to be none other than George Ham, who had always stood as an honorable business man and had the respect of the community.

Ham's store is in the same building with the printing office. The matter was settled by Ham paying Barrows $225, but there are stories of like doing which may be traced to Ham. The shock to the community is intense.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

A NAIL IN HER BRAIN.

Kansas Furnishes What Is Said to Be the Most Remarkable Case on Record.

For six weeks Mrs. Frank Roadson of Abilene lived with a sixpenny nail in her skull. Remarkable as this story may seem, it is nevertheless true, and Mrs. Roadson, who is in her fifty-ninth year, will recover from this terrible ordeal.

About eight weeks ago a physician was called to see her, she being apparently suffering from paralysis or some kindred trouble. One side seemed deadened, and no amount of will power on her part could cause normal action. Electric batteries were applied repeatedly, and efforts were made to induce the paralyzed nerves to act once more, but with little avail, until the physician, thinking perhaps better results might be attained, ordered her thick hair cut off.

She objected, but it was done, and on examination a sore spot was discovered with the head of a nail imbedded therein upon the very crown of her head. An operation was performed, and to the surprise of the physicians present a six-penny nail 2 inches long was removed. It had penetrated straight into the brain its full length, and an abscess had formed upon the brain because of its presence there. Two days later another operation was performed, the abscess was removed, and the patient is getting along well, apparently about to regain full control of her muscles.

The most remarkable part of this strange story was the discovery of the cause of its being there. At first she stoutly denied any knowledge of it being there, but at last admitted that she had herself driven the nail into her skull, pounding it down with a stone, for the express purpose of ending her life. Physicians say this is the most remarkable case on record.—Topeka Special to St. Louis Republic.

John B. Lennon, national secretary of the Tailors' union, treasurer of the American Federation of Labor and an old Knight of Labor, gets right down to business and suggests a programme. He is for the main object, though, above everything:

Jos. R. Buchanan:

Your letter regarding consolidation and unity among the organized toilers of America at hand. I have ever regretted since 1886 that all labor organizations could not or would not act together for mutual protection and advancement. I have favored and do today more strongly than ever desire that some method shall be adopted whereby we can pull as one man for industrial liberty. My plan would be for the trades unions to have entire control of their proper sphere of activity, and all trades unions now organized under the jurisdiction of the K. of L., or any national or international union, shall affiliate with the American Federation of Labor, all mixed Federal Labor unions now affiliated with the A. F. of L. shall join the K. of L., and all trade unionists shall so far as possible form mixed assemblies of the K. of L. and make of it what it should be, the great educator of the masses on economic questions, and not as in the past and at present fritter its power away on strikes and boycotts that can only be handled by the respective trades interested. With such a combination of labor's forces the emancipation of labor would surely follow. I am for unity and harmony. If the above plan be not satisfactory, then on some other that is satisfactory. I am ready to acquiesce in the will of the majority and will do all in my power to further the accomplishment of the ends your letter has in view, and if any one in or out of labor's ranks stands in the way of success, he must be treated as an enemy of the workers. Wishing you success in your efforts, I am, fraternally yours, JOHN B. LENNON.

Though at times feeling a trifle discouraged because of past failures, Robert Schilling of Milwaukee says we should keep on trying, and to try with Bob means to shake things up, even if success is not attained in full:

Jos. R. Buchanan:

From years of experience, I have come to the conclusion that the unification of labor is a present impossibility. And the rock in the pathway of this consummation devoutly to be wished is the giant Selfishness. In my annual address as president of the Industrial congress at Rochester in 1873, which at that time occupied the same position the American Federation of Labor does now, I took the position that there was but one means of salvation for labor, and that was to have only one united organization. For years the leading members of the Industrial congress had tried to accomplish this object, but without success. The sum of my experience in that line was laid down by me in the address, in saying that the officers of the various national and international unions prevented united action because they were afraid of losing their positions with the salary attached. And I fear this same obstacle will prevent union now. My remedy would be to keep on trying, but in the meantime cultivate harmony between the various organizations looking toward united political action, as that must be the ultimate means of redemption. When, as chairman of the first committee on constitution of the Knights of Labor, I proposed the declaration of principles that was adopted, I held there was but one way to carry it into practical operation, and that was by political action. While Mr. Powderly held a different opinion for years, we agreed to disagree, and he never found fault with me for favoring such a plan even in the assemblies of the order.

ROBERT SCHILLING.

Chris Evans, as secretary of the American Federation of Labor, has had exceptional opportunities for observation, and he says we must close up the ranks:

Jos. R. Buchanan:

The mistakes made in the past should serve as a valuable guide in the future. The large army of unemployed at present, together with the large percentage of unorganized workers, presents a sad picture to look upon, and one that gives plenty of food for thought and reflection.

While organized workingmen have been arrayed against each other in the past through too many organizations, the employers of labor have profited by the mistakes made and as a result are much better equipped for an emergency than their less fortunate employees, who have been made helpless through a division among themselves. The trade union principles as advocated by the American Federation of Labor have been fully tested during the late depression in trade, and the present standing of the unions affiliated is one of the best proofs that the platform is broad enough for all the skilled and unskilled workers of every trade to stand upon. Trade matters to be made successful must be carried on by trades unions and on trade union lines. Labor cannot afford to antagonize itself by a division of its organized forces. A movement to close up its ranks for future preservation is necessary. A solid federation of all trades will be the connecting link for future success. The emancipation of wage slavery can only be brought about by unity of thought and action, and upon these lines we hope and trust that all wage earners will unite. CHRIS EVANS.

Sam Leffingwell of Indianapolis, one of the old guard, asks himself if he will live to see the realization of what has been the dream of his life:

Jos. R. Buchanan:

I am fully in line with the sentiments expressed in your late letter on reorganization. It is no time now to quibble and cavil over past differences. Conditions are upon us which demand the earnest thought, reflection and consideration of every true friend of the toiler in whatever branch of labor engaged. There can be no harmony, no union of sentiment for good, no benefit derived where may exist any species of antagonism. "Concert of action, conciliation, confidence!" "One for all, all for one!" My whole life has been devoted to the consummation of such a realization. Will I live to see it? There will be no difficulty in its accomplishment if the individual wills it. The fates are not inauspicious, and let us hope that all our actions may be guided by such judgment and discretion as will demonstrate the sagacity and wisdom of the object in view.

SAM L. LEFFINGWELL.

George F. Murray of New York, member of "Big 6" and one of the pushers in "Old D. A. 64," believes in a broad platform, but he wants it hot:

Jos. R. Buchanan:

Little drops of water,
Little grains of sand,
Make the mighty ocean
And the mightier land.

Thus nature itself, with its magnificent organization, points the way. The universe is atomic, only cohesion preventing chaos. Mighty Gibraltar, impregnable in the concrete, crumbled again to impotent atoms might properly typify the unorganized toilers, each individual unit in a helpless struggle against organized forces. The money kings know nature's lesson by heart and have so far withstood the puny assaults of the unorganized masses. When will the workingmen realize that in universal and cohesive organization they will mold the lever with which they can move the world? Make it plain—so plain that he who runs may read; but hot—so hot that it will burn indelibly. That is the lesson, I take it, you are trying to teach. Keep at it. Teach it so well that action—prompt, vigorous and lasting—will be born, and on a platform so broad that all may stand. We want all the atoms, and then the labor problem will solve itself. Every toiler should aid you in the effort.

GEO. F. MURRAY.

Robert Bandlow of the Cleveland Citizen believes the trade union basis broad enough and does not want to see that organization suspended. Let us give it more power, Robert. Here are his timely suggestions:

Jos. R. Buchanan:

On the question of extending the organization of labor so as to make it more potent in support of the toilers' rights, I wish to say, in my opinion, the trade union is founded upon a basis broad enough to embrace the demands of the time. To me it seems clear that any attempt to form another body to supersede the present trade union form of organization will be a dismal failure. Guided by the experience of the past, make the trade union what it is intended for, form the local organizations into central bodies, central bodies into state organizations and the state organization into a national federation, hold international labor congresses, discuss in each of the branches the evils of capitalistic production, reason together, trust one another, subject the bodies to progressive discipline, and a political movement will be set in motion which will overcome every obstacle in the path of the son of toil. ROBERT BANDLOW.

What can I add to the words of counsel given by these brave champions of the toilers of America? Nothing. Others will be heard from as opportunity is presented, and let us hope there will be more than words. Are you not ready now for work? Take up the cry, "Rally, Labor, Rally!" Let it be heard in the cities, the villages and the fields. Labor must emancipate itself.

JOS. R. BUCHANAN.

EXHIBITS HIS HEART.

This Is What the Subject of a Peculiar Surgical Operation Does.

Physicians of this city are receiving visits from an unfortunate citizen of Buffalo who has had a peculiar experience. Recently he called on a professor in the College of Physicians and Surgeons, who explained to a reporter yesterday the condition of his visitor as follows:

"The man had a disease of the chest some time ago and was operated upon by a physician in Buffalo, who found it necessary to remove a part of the chest on the left side, exposing the heart. The wound healed, but the opening remained, so that now there is a considerable hole in his chest. There is of course some covering of skin over the heart, otherwise the man could not have survived, but the action of the heart is observable, and one can put his hand through the opening in the chest and feel the heart at work."

The professor was unwilling to say much about the case, which he said was of special interest only to medical men. He said it was an extraordinary case and was worthy of being made the subject of a medical treatise. He understood that the man was traveling about the country exhibiting himself to physicians for a small consideration.

"He came to me," he added, "and I examined him and gave him a small sum. He then went away, and I do not know where he is now."

Another physician said that the hole was about 3 inches square and that three ribs had been cut in the operation. He said also that an opening similar to the one in the chest existed in the man's back, under the heart.—New York Sun.

A Chinese Exodus.

Prominent Chinamen on the Pacific coast are predicting a big exodus of their countrymen from this continent and all other lands to the Celestial empire within a year or two. They will go to be present at the big fair which occurs there once in 60 years and at which every subject of the great emperor tries to be present. "Hundreds of thousands, maybe millions, of Chinese from all parts of the empire and the world will be there," says Interpreter Pon Se of San Francisco. "All nations will be invited and everybody ought to go, for it will be the sight of a lifetime." The fair, he says, was founded many centuries ago and has been held regularly since. He is not sure of the exact date, but it is within two years. Great preparations are being made for it all over the empire, and announcement of it will soon be made to the world.—San Francisco Examiner.

What Was It?

A dispatch says a curious phenomenon was seen in the heavens by citizens of Wilmington, N. C., from 6:30 to 7 o'clock the other morning. It made a grand sight, but no one seems able to determine just what it was. Some describe it as a meteor and others as a comet. One eyewitness says it had the appearance of a large star with a tail, which to the naked eye seemed about 100 yards long. The end of it finally burst, leaving a trail of fire of many beautiful colors.

A colored astronomer says he saw the letters "W. W. W." distinctly outlined, while another avers that the word "Prepare" was there as plain as day.

Business Depression In Berlin.

The Berliner Zeitung enlarges upon the present condition of starvation in German industries. Workshops which usually furnish employment to 20 men have been obliged to reduce their forces to two. The depression is felt most severely in the building trades, including carpenters and cabinetmakers, but it also extends to others. The Christmas sales are reported by the shopkeepers to be small beyond parallel, only the cheapest goods finding buyers.

Fall of the White City.

Fifty carloads a day are now being moved from Jackson park by various lines, and at this rate three months more will be required to remove the World's fair exhibits. The railroads derive no revenue from this traffic, having agreed that exhibits brought to Chicago at full rates should be returned free of charge.—Chicago Mail.

Willey Confesses His Crimes.

ELLSWORTH, Me., Jan. 8.—Manton B. Willey, for larceny and forgery of the check of A. R. Hooper of Sullivan, was bound over in the sum of $600 and committed to jail in default of bail. Willey confessed his guilt and also confessed to breaking and entering the store of Hooper & Haley in Sullivan in company with Frank Clark. Willey's accomplice is under arrest.

The Crew Saved.

HALIFAX, Jan. 8.—Schooner Eliza H. Parkhurst is ashore at Liverpool, N. S. The crew were saved. Assistance has been sent to the stranded vessel. The Eliza H. Parkhurst was built at Gloucester, Mass., in 1892. She was of 115 tons register.

MUNGER STILL MUM.

One of His Seamen Says "Hell is Popping" at Honolulu.

STATESMEN BECOMING EXCITED.

They Are Eager to Obtain Definite News From Hawaii.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8.—The attitude of Captain Munger of the revenue cutter Corwin toward the representatives of the press and public in general is without precedent in this port. From the moment the Corwin arrived the men on board have been as inaccessible as if they were in mid-ocean, save for the brief interview that a reporter had with Captain Munger Saturday evening when the captain went ashore. The captain saw fit to go ashore with letters himself rather than to trust a messenger, who might let some iota of news drop by accident or otherwise under reportorial pressure.

It was, when on shore, that the Corwin's captain talked with a reporter and verified the correctness of the Auckland cablegram. He also stated that the Corwin left Honolulu Dec. 24. The reporter quotes Captain Munger as follows:

"I can tell you no more than came in that Auckland dispatch. It is no pleasure for me to hold news from the people, but then you must remember that I am powerless in the matter myself. Even if I knew the contents of the secret dispatches, as an officer and gentleman I could not reveal them without permission. Here I am within 20 minutes of my home and cannot get away. Its no pleasure, I assure you. But I will have to stay here for three or four days or may be a week."

When asked directly whether any revolution had occurred at Honolulu and whether the provincial government was still in power, Captain Munger would only reiterate his statement that he could tell no more than was contained in the Auckland dispatch.

A Sailor's Statement.

The cutter Corwin is still lying 10 miles from this city. So far as getting any news from her is concerned, she might as well be in Behring sea. Once the officers were caught unawares and a seaman started to talk. A reporter asked him the latest news from Honolulu. "Hell is popping down there," was the decidedly expressive reply of the sailor, but he was allowed to say no more, for an officer appeared and ordered him below. People here generally believe that there have been stirring times in Honolulu. San Francisco papers are bristling with severe criticism of the authorities responsible for the suppression of the news.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—There is a feeling of much expectancy on the Hawaiian question and congressmen familiar with the subject say they would not be surprised if President Cleveland sent another message to congress at once. Should the president adopt this course, congress and the public will receive official information within a few hours ahead of the arrival of steamers at San Francisco and Vancouver, bringing full information of Minister Willis' latest move. A steamer left Honolulu on Jan. 1 for Vancouver, and allowing eight days, the usual time for her voyage, she will be in on Tuesday.

The City of Peking also left Honolulu on Jan. 2 for San Francisco, and although she sailed later her trip is shorter, and she will also be due tomorrow. These are the first two boats in nearly two weeks. The information brought by the revenue cutter Corwin cannot therefore be kept secret much longer, as the two steamers will bring all except the purely official information. It is for this reason that members of congress are counting on another Hawaiian message, as they say the president and Secretary Gresham will probably prefer to advise congress and the public as to the situation rather than have the news made public through the incoming steamers.

Talk of Impeachment.

A conference was held yesterday afternoon at which a number of Republicans were present to decide, if possible, a course of proceedings by that party in congress on the Hawaiian question, due to the latest advices from Honolulu giving the action of Minister Willis, in which he called upon the provisional government to surrender.

It is understood that some very radical views were given expression to, and that the question of the impeachment of President Cleveland for his course was brought up. The cooler-headed members advocated a conservative stand and their views finally prevailed. They argued that it would be much wiser for the Republicans to wait a day or so until absolute and definite information was received from Hawaii, which would probably be not later than next Wednesday.

The conference finally adjourned without taking any definite action except to agree that there should be no concerted movement for the present.

Under the present condition in the house it would be impossible for impeachment proceedings to be begun at this time.

Speaker Crisp has decided that nothing is in order until a decision regarding the order brought in from the committee on rules for the consideration of the Wilson bill. Impeachment proceedings must originate in the house, and therefore it would seem that this course must be blocked until the question now before the house is decided.

Blount Called Upon.

MACON, Jan. 8.—Hon. James Blount received a telegram from Washington yesterday calling him to appear before the Hawaiian commission. He at once left for the capitol.

Mohican Received No Orders.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Regarding one report from San Francisco that the Mohican is being placed in readiness to sail for Honolulu the secretary of the navy said last night: "The Mohican is in the same condition that it has been for a month—namely, in a condition of general readiness, but I have not issued any orders to her."

Boston's Unemployed Again.

BOSTON, Jan. 8.—At yesterday's session of the Central Labor union the police census of the unemployed was declared to be a humbug and the work of the citizens' relief committee a farce. Resolutions were adopted requesting the bureau of labor statistics to take a census, and calling upon the legislature to pass an appropriation for the unemployed.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

THE WORLD'S FAIR POMPEII.

Fire Sweeps Away Some of the Big Structures.

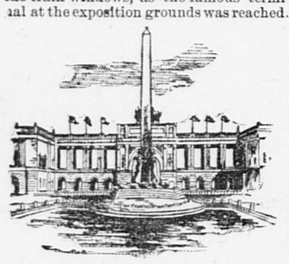

WAS PROBABLY SET BY TRAMPS.

Firemen Handicapped by Lack of Sufficient Water.

Started at the Casino and Continued With Relentless Fury Until the Peristyle and Music Hall Were Laid In Ashes—Goods Stored In the Manufactures Building Greatly Damaged by Water—President Higinbotham's Estimate of the Loss.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—The World's fair Pompeii came last night. A rushing volcano of flame, a huge gothic architecture tumbling into chaos, bewildered mobs of people—all were there under a great starry sky of Italian clearness, with Lake Michigan's broad expanse a second Mediterranean.

Probably no more magnificent yet terrifying spectacle has ever been witnessed this side of the Atlantic. It was long after dark when belated people returning from work to their homes in the southern suburbs along the elevated road, familiar to hundreds of thousands of World's fair visitors, noticed constantly enlarging columns of fire and smoke ascending skyward in the east. "The World's fair on fire," was the cry of the watchers from the train windows, as the famous terminal at the exposition grounds was reached.

THE PERISTYLE.

Whirlwinds of blazing embers were being carried from the end of the court of honor farthest from the administration building, high over the mammoth roof of the liberal arts building, the largest structure on earth.

The fire had been burning less than an hour when a thunderous crash of falling timber and a tremendous shout from the crowd announced the collapse of the peristyle.

A moment later a terrible yell from the crowd told that the liberal arts building had caught fire and that the whole exposition was threatened.

Fireman Killed

A dramatic coincident marked the destruction of the peristyle. One of the ladders upon which was a group of firemen fell with the columns, and one of the heroic fire fighters went down to death, while a number of others suffered injuries more or less severe.

The sky was brilliant at this time with falling sparks, many of which fell away to the north, showering the roofs of the art palace, women's building and the various state structures with fire. Every train and street car added momentarily thousands to the throngs of people, and but for the terrifying spectacle and the danger to life and property it seemed as if the greatest gala night of all at the World's fair was in all its glory.

THE CASINO.

The fire started in the casino, just east of the agricultural building and south of the peristyle. The casino was quickly destroyed, and the flames surged north on top of the peristyle, and, dropping, made a second line of fire along the base of the column.

The flames then sprang through the music hall, which corresponds at the north end of the peristyle with the casino at the south.

Probably Set by Tramps.

The origin of the fire is said to be revenge on the part of two tramps. The solitary guard in the music hall says that just before the flames broke out he kicked two vagabonds out of the music hall and told them to find quarters elsewhere. They left in the direction of the casino and shortly afterwards the fire broke out and soon everything on the grounds was in terror and confusion.

Fears of looting added to the horror of the scene. At about 10 o'clock, with a possible loss of $10,000,000 by fire in the manufactures building alone, the authorities began to realize that a large element in the crowd was composed of idlers who once in lawlessness, it would be hard to control. Such preparations as could be hurriedly made were put in mode to remove goods and to guard other buildings.

Through the glass roof and buildings could be seen the piers falling like boulders in an avalanche, crushing and burning the exquisite French section and threatening to destroy the Russian and British sections.

Shortly after 11:15 p. m. the flames got beyond control away up in the top promenade of the liberal arts building, and the main aisle of the building was a mass of flames, arising from the blazing brands which came from above.

Remorselessly the fire was hurling itself through the interstices of the big iron arches at the dizzy heights above. The flames wound in and around the mammoth electric lights, suspended from the roof. Below these fearful curls of iron, likely to drop at any moment, no man dared to go.

About 10:45 a great iron arch gave way directly above the French wares, and, falling heavily, buried them beneath the burning pile and they were abandoned. Back of the French was the Japanese exhibits, and about it clustered a crowd of scared and frantic Japanese. This, like many exhibits, has not been released from bond, and the goods could not be taken from the building.

Superintendant Graham of the manufactures building said it would be weeks before a schedule of the damages could be prepared. "It can hardly be over estimated," said Mr. Graham. "It is an awful sacrifice of wealth. I have feared this ever since the fair was closed, and now it has come worse than I even dreamed."

All through the great structure frantic exhibitors rushed seeking the safety of their goods. "Our hands are tied," said one. "We can't move our wares from the building. We must stand idly by and see them burn. We can do nothing."

Firemen Handicapped.

The fire department fought with energy and skill, but the conditions were all against success. A fierce wind came over the lake, flinging fiery embers everywhere and fanning the flames into fierce life with every moment. Huge billows of flame rolled northward over the great glass roof, being manfully combatted by the men upon the roof, who were handicapped, however, by the lack of water, which was fearfully inadequate. Scattered throughout the grounds are hydrants from which the supply was to be drawn, but they were insufficient in the hour of dire need.

President Higinbotham said: "I should say that the loss by water would be much greater than by fire. The total loss to exhibits will not exceed $100,000. Of course, the loss is serious enough. All told the contents of the liberal arts building did not exceed $1,000,000 in value; as to the casino, peristyle and Music hall there is no loss. We should not regret their burning, as it is the cheapest way to remove them."

AGAINST HORNBLOWER.

Judiciary Committeemen Think He Lacks Necessary Qualifications.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The senate judiciary committee decided, after a protracted discussion, lasting nearly two hours, to make an adverse report in Judge Hornblower's case—four Democrats and two Republicans voting against and five for his confirmation.

The four Democrats and two Republicans base their opposition on the broad ground that he does not possess the qualifications either in experience or learning for such an exalted position. There will be a bitter fight in the senate when the nomination comes up for consideration. His confirmation will depend wholly on the attitude of the Republicans in that body.

Duval Club Feels Safe.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 9.—The Duval Athletic club states that neither the attorney general nor the governor possesses any judicial power in the matter; that the executive of the state, possessing the constitutional prerogative of asking the opinion of the highest judicial tribunal of the state as to the construction of the statute, has declined to do so. The club assures the public that the contest will take place as advertised.

Caprivi Wanted to Get Out.

BERLIN, Jan. 9.—The Vossische Zeitung insists that a cabinet crisis, regarding the action of the chancellor in different matters, actually existed a short time ago. It is added that the crisis was connected with colonial matters. It is further asserted that Chancellor von Caprivi actually tendered his resignation.

Sacco's Slayer Arraigned.

BOSTON, Jan. 9.—Vincenzo Carchidi, the low-browed Italian who almost cut off the head of Pasquale Sacco, besides slashing Michele Cirullo, was arraigned in the municipal court and was held on the charge of murder for examination until Jan. 16. He pleaded not guilty. No bail was allowed.

Ten Seamen Drowned.

BELFAST, Jan. 9.—Bark Coolsen was wrecked a mile west of Ballycotton during a heavy storm. The crew took to the rigging, the coast guards by the use of rockets managing to bring four of the sailors ashore in safety, but the others, 10 in number, were swept into the sea and drowned.

To Help the Treasury.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Representative O'Neil of Massachusetts introduced a bill authorizing the secretary of the treasury to borrow money not to exceed $100,000,000. The secretary is authorized to issue temporary loan certificates bearing 3 per cent interest as security for the loans.

Famous Missionary Dead.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The Church Missionary society has received a telegram from Lagos, West Africa, announcing the death of the famous Niger missionary, Bishop Hill, and his wife.

Abbott Defeats Falvey.

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 9.—Stanton Abbott, champion lightweight of England, defeated Jack Falvey of Newport in 15 rounds at the Metropole club last night. They were well matched.

Schaeffer Won.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—In the billiard match between Schaeffer and Slosson the former scored 600 and the latter 206. Ives and Slosson play tonight.

Not Until Thursday.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—It is learned that no special message on Hawaii is likely to be sent to congress before Thursday.

DEFENDS HIS BILL.

Wilson Formally Opens the Tariff Debate In the House.

MAIN POINTS OF THE NEW BILL

Discussed Before a Deeply Interested Audience.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Boutelle again resumed his obstructive tactics, and after a sharp colloquy with the speaker denounced him as a tyrant. The speaker thereupon ordered Boutelle to take his seat. The house and galleries applauded the speaker. During a great deal of confusion Mr. Reed arose to a parliamentary inquiry and precipitated a lively debate.

Mr. Reed finally offered a motion to recommit the pending order with instructions to amend it so as to give four additional days' debate, and to permit the bill to be amended by paragraphs. The motion was lost—0 to 194—and the vote then recurred on the adoption of the special order of the rules committee. It resulted—Yeas, 175; nays, 1.

After the vote which adopted the rule, the speaker rapped sharply for order. "In accordance with the special order just adopted," said he, "the house now resolves itself into the committee of the whole for the consideration of revenue legislation. The gentlemen form Tennessee (Mr. Richardson) will take the chair."

The speaker relinquished the gavel to the tall, slim Tennesseean. A deep hush fell upon the house. The members took their seats, the galleries leaned forward. All eyes were centered on Mr. Wilson, who sat calmly in his seat in the center of the Democratic side. He arose and in a low voice asked to dispense with the first reading of the bill. No objection was made.

Mr. Reed asked that unanimous consent be granted to the gentleman from West Virginia to proceed without limit. Then Mr. Wilson arose, stepped back a few feet in the aisle, and began his speech with a slight apology for the informal manner in which he should deal with his subject.

At first his voice was low and tremulous, but as he proceeded he warmed up, and his voice grew high and resonant and his gestures grew easy and graceful. Standing in the aisle, looking down upon the sea of upturned faces, he made his argument for the bill which bears his name.

Wilson's Speech.

Mr. Wilson then began the discussion of the provisions of the Wilson bill by saying: "We have felt that we could not begin the reform of this system unless we begun earnestly and honestly to relieve of taxation the great fundamental materials of American industry, and so the bill proposes to put on the free list, among other materials, those great elementary materials of industry, wool, iron ore, coal, and lumber.

"I do not believe it will be necessary for me to take up these great articles and discuss them one by one. The subject of wool is at present of the greatest importance. I myself believe that if in the wisdom of the house every other item of the tariff bill was stricken out, every other proposed change abandoned, a bill putting wool on the free list would take a great, beneficent and revolutionary step in tariff reform. I want to see this battle go on until the time will come when no taxpayer will pay a single dollar that does not go straight and undiminished into the taxpayer's pocket.

"He would be a hardy man who would rise in this house and say that the woolgrower has prospered, or that even the McKinley bill, with its increase of taxes on woolen goods, had been of any benefit whatever to the American wool-grower. I do not believe that the tariff on wool raises the price of wool to the American grower of wool. You have no right to raise it at the expense of 70,000,000 who wear woolen clothes."

Wool Raising Has Gone Westward.

Mr. Wilson then went on extensively into the history of wool and the prices under the various tariffs to prove that high prices was not coincident with high tariff. Sheep raising for wool, he contended, like the star of empire, had taken its way westward, and now on the great plains of the far west wool could be produced as cheaply as anywhere on the face of the globe. The great woolen industry of this country, barred from two-thirds of the woolen world, had limped and lagged far in the rear of other American industries.

The imperial, resistless march of invention should have carried it far beyond the reach of competion, and he believed that with wool on the free list and a moderate tax on the finished product, the market for American wool would be steadied and quickened, and the price of woolens to the consumer would be greatly reduced.

If there was any one industry in which he had faith, that America could march forward to conquer new worlds, it was the iron and steel industry. The consumption of iron and steel was the test of the civilization and advancement of any country, and no other country has kept the pace with us for the last few years. Continuing, he said:

Tax Upon Iron Not Needed.

"Our entire product has reached in recent years 10,000,000 tons. We have found deposits of iron ore so easily worked, so accessible, that we have reached the point where we can produce iron ore in Minnesota, Michigan, Wisconsin, Alabama and other points in the country cheaper than it can be produced anywhere else in all the world. So the tax upon iron is not needed to protect us.

"The cost of mining a ton of coal does not exceed 60 cents. We are not only the greatest iron-producing country of the world, but we are the greatest coal-producing country of the world. There are in the United States 192,000 miles of territory underlaid with coal, more than three times more than all the coal produced by all the rest of the world together. Upon no ground can you continue the tariff on coal unless you want to continue paying

Editorial Comment.

BY ALL means, gentlemen of the Republican City committee, establish a strict party daily newspaper in Quincy. It will give you very valuable experience. There is nothing like it. Anybody can run a newspaper, and you can probably make enough money to pay all your other election expenses and have a little left for a banquet besides.

In these hard times we are almost tempted to lease you the DAILY LEDGER for awhile for $1, and contribute something to the support of it, did we not fear that the little business it has gathered would be completely ruined. We have had some experience, and it is our humble opinion that Quincy is not a rich field for a daily paper, much less for a paper that caters only to the Republican voters. There may be those who want only political news, but our experience tells us they are few, except possibly at election time. Probably not one-half of the Republican City committee would of their own accord become subscribers of a strict party daily. It is very probable also that a Republican daily would not be in accord with the voters of the party. It might attempt to dictate who the nominee for Mayor should be, and "the machine" would be overruled. Then there might be more serious splits than at present.

It is pleasing to note that the new committee appreciate the value of printer's ink. If a Republican daily can elect a Republican Mayor, it would be equally possible for a Democratic daily to elect a Democrat; and, between the two, it is also possible that the DAILY LEDGER may elect a Citizens' candidate.

The time is coming when citizens' nominations will be successful in this city, and the stock in partisan papers may then be below par. There is already too much politics in the city government.

THE STANDING committees of the Legislature have been appointed as will be seen by the news column. The business ability of Senator Merrill of this city is recognized and we find him at the head of the important joint committee on mercantile affairs. He is also a member of the joint committee on libraries, and of the Senate committee for bills in third reading. This is Senator Merrill's second term and he should make a good legislator. Representative Hammond of this district is still on the committee on manufacturers, and doubtless is disappointed at not becoming House chairman, which in the natural course of events would have fallen to him. He is, however, chairman of the House committee on leave of absence. Representative Flint, of the Quincy-Weymouth district, is on the joint committee on street railways and on the House committee on probate and insolvency, for which he is ably qualified. Representative Wentworth also of this district will be found on the House committee on judiciary. Representative Kelley of Braintree is on the committee on labor and also that on library.

MAYOR HODGES is probably pleased with that feature of the city charter which allow him at pleasure to remove and appoint department officials. Few mayors of Massasschusetts cities have this power. From Lawrence comes the news of a deadlock over an appointment between the mayor and the city council, and in Chicopee the common council failed last evening to concur in any suggestions of the aldermen. Such reports are very common where the aldermen or city council has the confirming power. In a year like this where the Mayor of our city is of one political party, and a majority of the City Council of the opposite, it is not probable, if the council had the confirming power, that it would allow some of the present officials to be removed.

WHILE OTHER places report many deaths and a high death rate, there have been no deaths reported in this city of 20,000 people since last Thursday, Jan. 4. It speaks well for Quincy.

WITH NEARLY A 1000 VOTES.

Contest No. 2 Among the Young Ladies Makes a Good Start.

The interest in theatre contest No. 1, which was among the male clerks of the city, exceeded all expectations. It came to a close at 5 o'clock last evening, and a grand final spurt by the friends of John Mason placed him away ahead of his competitors with a total of nearly 1,000. He has a grand total of 901 against 522 for Major Dorley, 165 for T. T. Davidson and 96 for David P. Morris.

If Mr. Mason will please call at the LEDGER office at his earliest convenience and make his choice of theatres we shall be pleased to procure the tickets. In view of the grand contest waged by the friends of Major Dorley we will also present him with two tickets to another theatre.

The New Contest.

The first coupons in the contest among the female clerks and employes appeared yesterday, and there has already been a good response. The friends of Miss Gussie Nyquist, the pretty bookkeeper at W. H. Doble's, have placed her well in the lead, but the others seem content to start in a modest way.

CITY HALL NOTES.

Gossip as to Appointments—The Park Matter Being Overdone.

No more change in department officials, but others are expected.

The name of Mr. William B. Orcutt is brought forward by some, for City Solicitor.

Mr. C. A. Spear, the retiring City Clerk, is the only name mentioned for clerk of committees. With a Democrat for City Clerk it will be necessary to appoint a Republican on the Board of Registrars in place of Mr. Cornelius Moynihan, whose term will expire May 1. Mr. Spear's past service would make him the best candidate for this position also.

The report of the Park Commissioners of 1893, whose term will expire Feb. 1, is anxiously awaited relative to playgrounds. It is reported that no purchases have thus far been made but that land has been bonded in some wards. Sentiment was never very strong for this movement, and now that the Metropolitan Park Commissioners have taken 300 acres in Ward Four, the feeling is stronger that the park question is being overdone and that the city is losing too much taxable property.

Injured by Explosion.

Ernest King was blown up by the premature explosion of a blast Monday afternoon, and sustained a compound fracture of the right leg. He was at work in a yard on the corner of Centre and Kent street, getting out some granite for pavings. He was blown high into the air by the force of the explosion. He was carried into the residence of J. D. Kent and a physician summoned who ordered his removal to the City Hospital.

WEYMOUTH.

The town is defendant in a suit of $4000 now on trial in the Superior court at Dedham. It is brought by H. C. Gardner of Hingham to recover for personal injuries.

George McDonald of Weymouth was before the district court at Abington Monday for breaking and entering and larceny at Norwell, and held in $500 for grand jury. In default he was committed.

HIS HAND WAS ROUGH.

His hand was rough and His hand was hard,
For He wrought in wood in Nazareth town;
With naught of wonder, with no regard,
In the village street He went up and down.

His hand was rough, but its touch was light,
As it lay on the eyes of him born blind;
Or strake sick folk in its healing might,
And gave back joy to the hearts that pined.

His hand was hard, but they spiked it fast
To the splintering wood of the cursed tree;
And He hung in the sight of the world, at last,
In His shame. And the red blood trickled free.

Valuable Waste.

"Refiners of nitrate of silver for the use of photographers," said one of the profession, "have agents traveling constantly about the country collecting the waste clippings of sensitized paper that accumulate in every photograph gallery. They buy all they can find and pay for it in new nitrate, allowing the photographer a good round price for his waste. The waste is shipped to the refiners, where the nitrate in the paper is separated from it by chemical processes and prepared for market again. This re-refined nitrate is as good as it was originally and is sold for just as much. The refiners, of course, make a big profit out of the waste, and the photographer is able to get a good supply of material for the scraps that would otherwise be of no use to him.

"When one thinks of the great number of photograph galleries and studios in the country and the fact that the waste paper of them all is closely gathered by the refiners at a price that will average $1 a pound, he may get some idea of the proportions of a business that is utterly unknown outside of the persons directly interested. Not only the scraps of silver sensitized paper, but those of the paper treated with solutions of gold are eagerly sought by the refiners, and the photographer is always very glad to exchange his accumulation of, to him, worthless waste for a neat stock of valuable nitrate."—New York Sun.

The Clever Brahman.

Speaking of the great power the Brahmans in India possess in localizing thought, Purushotam Aor Telang said the other day: "We would consider a game of chess as played in this country mere child's play. An ordinary Brahman chess player could carry on three or four games at a time without inconvenience. The usual game played by the Brahmans consists in checkmating with one pawn, designated when the play begins. I have seen a man perform a long problem in multiplication and division, at the same time noting the various sounds and discussions going on about him in the room. I have seen a man compose a triple acrostic in Sanskrit in a given meter, at the same time having three well versed men trying to overthrow him in his argument on religion."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Bennett Declines.

When Speaker Meyer had finished reading his committees, Representative Bennett arose and declined to serve on the chairmanship of the library and transit committees. He stated as his reason for resigning from the latter to be that nothing more than what had been accomplished could be done, "and as for library," he said, sarcastically, "my researches and study have never brought me in that line."

The declinations of Representative Bennett were accepted. Representative Bliss was appointed chairman of the committee on transit, and Representative Bullock of Fall River was selected to fill the other vacancy. Representative Curtis was named chairman of the committee on library, and Representative Roe of Worcester was chosen to fill the vacancy.

DE MELLO SENTENCED.

Plea of Guilty of Murder In the Second Degree Is Accepted.

DE MELLO.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Jan. 9.—Jose Correra De Mello, the self-confessed murderer of Bertha Manchester, was brought into the superior court yesterday to change the plea of not guilty of murder in the first degree to guilty of murder in the second degree. District Attorney Knowlton said the case had been thoroughly considered by him and he was ready to accept this plea in behalf of the commonwealth. Judge Braley sentenced the prisoner to life imprisonment at hard labor, one day in solitary. The murder was committed May 30, 1893. De Mello was arrested and subsequently confessed the crime, but claimed self-defence.

PROPOSED TO MANY.

What Mr. Merritt Had to Say About Millionaire Porter.

STAMFORD, Conn., Jan. 9.—The probate court yesterday resumed the hearing of the insanity proceedings which have been brought against Timothy Porter by his relatives. Schuyler Merritt, Porter's brother-in-law and one of the executors of his wife's estate, said that he had visited Mabel Earle, to whom Porter was engaged, and made a proposition to her, which was to have three insanity experts examine Porter, and if they declared that Porter was not sound in his mind she should not consent to marry him; but if it was found that Porter was sound mentally, there would not be any objection by the relatives if she did marry him.

Merritt said that he knew of half a dozen well-known women in New York and Connecticut cities with whom Porter had corresponded with. These letters were nearly all proposals of marriage. The court ordered that these letters be produced in court.

THE CRISIS PASSED.

Everything Is Said to Be Tranquil on the Hawaiian Islands.

VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 9.—The Canadian Pacific steamer Warimoo arrived last night, bringing Honolulu advices to Jan. 1. Most intense excitement prevailed throughout Honolulu until the arrival of the revenue cutter Corwin. After that Minister Willis made his demand upon President Dole to surrender the government to the queen. The provisional government promptly refused and Minister Willis took no further steps to enforce compliance with his order. The excitement then rapidly subsided, and for a week before the sailing of the Warimoo there was perfect tranquility. It is now thought that the crisis has passed.

Family of Four Murdered.

MARIETTA, O., Jan. 9.—Word has been received here of the murder of Henry Saner's family, about three miles from this city. Saner, his wife and two children were found murdered. Saner was a wealthy farmer and a good citizen. The murder was evidently committed for money.

Was a Hero's Widow.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Jan. 9.—Mrs. G. Tower, 93 years of age, is dead. She was the widow of Captain Levi Tower, who was killed at the first battle of Bull Run, and in whose memory Tower post, G. A. R. and Tower Light Infantry were named.

More Smallpox.

BOSTON, Jan. 9.—Another case of smallpox was found yesterday, that of a carpenter in South Boston. This is the 31st case this winter, but only the second which cannot be directly traced to the first source.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

A woman waking had a dream;
She thought that all her talents would
Be spent in one broad channel and Result in good.

She said: "I'll be a poetess,
And write such verses that all men
Who read will marvel at the gems
Dropped from my pen.

"And I will be the queen of song,
Peerless, unrivaled and alone.
My fame will thunder through all time,
Challenged by none."

That was her dream, but real life
Has common issues, common work
Which must be met and conquered, though
We fain would shirk.

TWO INDICTMENTS

Against Moore of the People's Fire Insurance Company.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Jan. 9.—The Hillsboro county grand jury yesterday afternoon reported two indictments against J. C. Moore, president of the defunct People's Fire Insurance company. One was for swearing falsely on the condition of the company as its president in January, 1893, and the other for making illegal loans to himself as president of the Merrimac Mortgage and Debenture company, subsequently known as the Deerfield Savings bank. It is also reported that an indictment has been found against Charles F. Morrill, the missing cashier.

Dr. Moore said last night that an indictment does not prove a man guilty, and that not long ago, although he was petitioned into insolvency, he proved himself solvent. He said he made oath on the condition of the bank, which after examination by the auditor and insurance committee was declared correct. No loans were made him until they had met the approval of the directors and no person pretended that a note signed by him was not good.

Murder and Suicide.

MAUCH CHUNK, Pa., Jan. 9.—Grip, from which he had been suffering for three weeks, made a maniac of John F. Thomas of Summit Hill, and while in that condition he murdered his 5-year-old son and then cut his own throat.

Affects Twenty-two Thousand Men.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The admiralty department will shortly follow the example of the war office and introduce a day's work of eight hours into the dockyards, etc., a change which will affect 22,000 men.

Sicily Is Quieting Down.

ROME, Jan. 9.—Dispatches from Palermo say that the excitement has greatly abated and that confidence is being restored.

The Singer Family Abroad.

It is extraordinary how the Singer family has managed to mix itself up with the aristocracy of France. With nothing but a huge fortune and a large stock of eccentricity the original old Singer married no less than 10 women, covering a wide range of position and character. He numbered his descendants by the score, and these it is who have managed to ally themselves with some of the proudest families in Europe. At the recent wedding of Mrs. Winnaretta Singer in Paris to Prince Melchior de Polignac there was a great gathering of the Singer clans, and they bore such names as Rochefoucauld, Decazes, Murat, Modena and Dudley.—Cholly Knickerbocker in New York Recorder.

An Old Goose.

It is positively asserted that a prominent farmer living near Ellicott City, Md., has in his possession a goose which has attained the rather astonishing age of 36 years. The bird was purchased by its present owner in 1880, and was then 23 years old. It is as sprightly now, it is stated, as any of the flock, and there is nothing in its appearance to indicate such an advanced age. In a discussion by several old fowl fanciers here regarding the ages of different birds it was affirmed that geese often lived to such an age, and even a longer period.

CAPRICE AND LAW.

The inconstant winds that rout the waves
And shake the forest wide
Seem shouting, "Foolish mortal, cast
Thy tedious rules aside."

The stars that calmly tread their course—
The same that Moses saw—
Trace on the skies a surer word,
"Conform thy life to law."

—James A. Tucker in Youth's Companion.

THE WOODS' GHOST.

Possibly General Fawncliffe was eccentric because he could not help it, but it is more probable that he did things in a manner entirely different from anybody else because he wanted to be odd and wanted to make a sensation. He was a wealthy man, and therefore he could do very nearly as he liked. He was haughty, overbearing and irritable. I always thought that if he had been the czar of Russia or the shah of Persia he would have played his role very well. He had built a fine house on the banks of the Delaware, and at the verge of the Block woods, of which he was the owner. He was not more than 45 years old and appeared to be entirely alone in the world; at any rate, no one in Blockville ever heard that he had any relations.

At the time of which I write I was a young fellow of 16, of no sort of consequence whatever, and my name was, but is not now, Pardon Sashwood, though mother and everybody else called me Pardy. My mother was a dress maker in the town and did a big business. She never said anything about my father, and I did not know anything about him, and I concluded that he had been hanged, or otherwise nipped in the bud, and I did not press my inquiries in regard to him. I was a regular resident in Block Hall, as General Fawncliffe called his elegant mansion, and my first duty is to explain how I happened to be a dweller beneath its princely roof. I was very fond of fishing, and my mother was very fond of eating fish, for I caught very nice ones in the river. One day I sat upon a rock that projected out into the stream just below the general's mansion. Above me was a sandy beach, and while I sat there the general drove down upon it in his buggy, with a high spirited horse. I wondered what he was doing there with such a turnout.

The horse was full of spirit, and the choleric driver seemed to be well supplied with spirits, though of the artificial sort. The animal pranced and capered on the sand, and did not appear to have learned that his master was as impatient as he was eccentric. The horse had a way of his own, and so had the general, and as the two ways did not run in the same direction it created an unpleasantness between them. At last the driver used his whip without the exercise of much discretion, and the brute manifested himself in a very decided manner. Then I decided that he was trying to drive the horse into the water, where he was unwilling to go. But the general got the best of it in the end and drove the obstinate creature straight into the river, as though he intended to cross to the other side. In a few moments the animal had to swim, but he struck out bravely, the general applying the lash all the time; in fact, he seemed to be whipping him for his own satisfaction, now that the brute had yielded the point.

In another moment the buggy, which appeared to be floating, suddenly toppled over and spilled the occupant into the drink. He lost his hold upon it, and then I saw that he could not swim.

The horse took a circle around the spot and swam leisurely to the shore, dragging the buggy after him. Just below the rock on which I was seated was a bateau, and I lost no time in rushing to it. I had some skill in the use of the paddle, and I soon reached the general, who was floundering about in the water like a grounded whale. He was a large man, and I saw that it would be impossible to get him into the boat. I asked him to take hold of the stern to support himself while I paddled to the beach. He used expletives and insisted upon getting into the boat. I told him I would leave him to his fate if he did not do as I directed. The threat carried him, and he held on to the boat till his feet touched the bottom.

"I will kill that horse!" he exclaimed when he reached the beach and had recovered his breath. "He is the ugliest brute I ever drove."

"He is not so much of a brute as you are, general," I replied. "You acted like a heathen when you whipped him, and I had half a mind to let you drown."

He looked at me in astonishment. Perhaps he thought I had earned the right to speak my mind, but whether I had or not I expressed myself as plainly as though I had been the general and he had been Pardy Sashwood. Doubtless it was a new thing for any one to "speak up" to him.

"Boy, I want you to come and live with me," he said, and I was amazed then.

"I won't do it," I replied. "I would not live under the same roof with such a porcupine as you are for all your money."

He actually teased me, and he expressed his obligations to me very handsomely, but I stuck to my text. I helped him right his buggy, now that the horse had cooled off, and he insisted on driving me home, which I permitted him to do. My mother saw me when I got out of the buggy. The general told me to think of his offer and come to his house if I decided to accept it. My mother, after she had heard all about the affair in the river, insisted that I should accept the offer. I argued against it for a long time, but I finally yielded to her wishes. The next day I belonged to the general's household, and Mrs. Cashley gave me a hearty welcome.

General Fawncliffe treated me with a degree of consideration accorded to no other person. I helped him about periority in swimming before the rest of the boys. The latter raised a cheer as they saw Metcalfe striking for the land again, holding the hat in his hand. Then they saw Metcalfe stop suddenly. The arm that held the hat dropped and disappeared below the water.

Grierson, now swimming a yard or two behind Metcalfe, gave a few vigorous strokes which brought him alongside the latter. But before he could stretch out a hand to prevent it Metcalfe's head went under. Grierson dived at almost the same moment. The boys in and around the boat held their breath.

"Something's wrong with Douglas. He's taken cramp or something," George Marchant said.

A minute went by, and they saw the heads of both boys reappear, a yard or two further out. Grierson was supporting Metcalfe with his right arm.

"I've cramp in my right leg and arm," Metcalfe said in a hoarse, low voice. "I'm afraid I can't swim a stroke farther myself."

"All right, try to tread water with your other leg; it will help a little. We'll be all right when we are once out of this current," Grierson replied quietly.

Yet Grierson knew that his task was not going to prove an easy one. For a few minutes he made little or no headway. Metcalfe hung upon his arm almost like a dead weight. Douglas was doing his utmost to help himself, but it availed very little, for, besides the cramp which had attacked him, he was exhausted by his efforts at first to overtake and outstrip Grierson.

Grierson struggled on, his burden impeding every stroke he made and lessening its effect. The boy felt his own strength ebbing fast. Unless he got out of the current in a few minutes more, he feared that all would be lost. But he was making progress and could see that the distance between the boat and himself was lessening.

"A minute more, and we shall be in smooth water," he whispered hoarsely to Metcalfe.

As he spoke Grierson changed Metcalfe from his left arm to his right and used the left for swimming. This gave him considerable ease and rest, and his next few strokes were freer and more vigorous. And now he felt the current decidedly lessening in force. He summoned up all his remaining energy in one last effort, and half a dozen more strokes brought him free of the current.

The two boys were in calm water, and now, too, they were met by George Marchant and Frank Newlyn, who relieved Grierson of his burden and took Metcalfe between them. In this order they reached the boat. There were many outstretched arms to help them in, and then the boat was towed to the shore.

Dr. Metcalfe, the principal of Denmark House and Douglas' father, was not a little alarmed at what had happened, though he did not show it. Both boys were immediately got to bed, and prompt measures taken to restore warmth and circulation to their chilled and aching bodies. These had the desired effect; in a day or two both Grierson and Metcalfe were back in class and playground.

The latter took an early opportunity of seeking Grierson alone.

"I have to thank you very much, Grierson," he said. "You saved my life at the risk of your own; there's no doubt about that. And the whole thing was my fault too. I am very sorry. Will you accept my best thanks, and try to forget my part in the matter? I'll never forget yours."

"Why, of course," Grierson replied, and there the matter ended.—New York Journal.

Her Bathing Togs.

The little boy was very much interested in a picture that his sister had had taken while at the seashore. It was a picture that had been taken "just for the fun of the thing" and not for distribution among her friends—one of those pictures that a girl keeps in her own room where none but her intimates may see it. This one showed the young lady and her "dearest friend" on the beach in bathing suits. Both of the girls were pretty and had good figures that the bathing suits showed to excellent advantage, but the picture seemed to be a source of endless speculation to the boy.

"Did you and Mamie wear them togs at the seashore?" he asked one day.

"Of course we did," she replied.

"Did you wear them short skirts and stockin's so's you could go in bathing?" he persisted.

"Certainly; what makes you ask such a question?"

"Oh, I dunno," he replied carelessly. "I thought mebbe you went in bathin so's you could wear them togs."—Chicago Post.

Smokeless Powder Ruins Guns.

There seem to be some very serious drawbacks in the usefulness of the smokeless powder, on which the military authorities of the world have expended so much money lately. One of the latest discovered of these is that in some way it injures the guns in which it is used. A French newspaper says that the powder has done great damage to the steel guns of the Italian army; that at least 500 pieces of artillery hav been rendered practically useless by it. —New Orleans Picayune.

Undertakers Don't Believe In Spooks.

An aged undertaker of this city was asked if he had ever seen any spooks. He laughed derisively and said: "No, and I doubt if you will find any one in my line of business who believes in the existence of such things. We find there is nothing more harmless and pitiful than dead people."—Philadelphia Record.

DEFENDS HIS BILL.

subsidies to the great railroad corporations of the country."

Mr. Wilson next spoke of lumber, and said that under the existing tariff our forests are being denuded. He then spoke of tariffs and the workingmen and continued:

"The only place where trades unions can exercise their legitimate scope is in a country where the walls are down and the laborer is given free raw material. The vital question is the question of wages. If the other side can prove that wages are increased by the tariff then this bill ought to be beaten.

High Tariffs Lower Wages.

"If protection makes wages, I am a protectionist henceforth. But reason and experience disprove it. The supply of labor, the intelligence, the productiveness of labor, make its price. How is it possible for a tariff which only touches 5 per cent of the labor of the United States to increase wages for the other 95 per cent? So far from increasing the wages of labor, the effect of these high tariffs has been to lower them."

At this point Mr. Wilson, who is in poor health, and who had been speaking an hour and a half, suggested to his colleague, Mr. McMillin, that he would like to finish his speech today, and upon the latter's motion the committee rose. The Democrats and galleries applauded vigorously when Mr. Wilson took his seat.

The report of the sergeant-at-arms on the warrants issued for 44 members was then read. It showed 27 members under arrest. Mr. Catchings moved that as the object for which the warrants had been issued had been accomplished, all those in custody be discharged, and without objection the motion was carried.

The night session was devoted to set speeches. Mr. Lane (Dem., Ills.) supported the Wilson bill, as did Mr. Bell (Dem., Tex.). Mr. Morse, (Rep., Mass.) and Bowers (Rep., Cal.) opposed the bill. At the conclusion of the latter's speech at 10:25 the house adjourned.

JUDGE WALDRON'S CASE.

Victim of His Alleged Abuse Tells a Damaging Story.

BANGOR, Me., Jan. 9.—In the municipal court Judge L. B. Waldron of Dexter answered to the charge of assault preferred against him by Landlord Morrill Jordan of the Dexter House. He pleaded not guilty. Jordan testified that the week before the assault Judge Waldron met him in Dexter and without cause abused him shamefully in language neither legal nor decent. He had never circulated stories concerning Waldron's family affairs and never said the judge was the cause of his wife's death. The assault took place Tuesday at 7.30 a. m., at the Maine Central depot in Dexter. Judge Waldron felled him, then kicked him twice, saying: "Damn him; I will take his life's blood; I will kill him." Counsel for Judge Waldron will attempt to show just provocation for the assault. Dozens of witnesses will be called. The case was continued until witnesses may be secured.

Germans Routed by Black Troops.

BERLIN, Jan. 9.—A dispatch from Accra, a town in the British colony of the gold coast, announces a fresh revolt upon the part of the black troops, who fought with and defeated the Germans, and expelled the Germans and all the traders from that portion of the colony. The black troops and natives looted all the factories and other buildings. The fugitives escaped and sought refuge on board the steamer Benegula.

Mrs. Ellen Kane's Death.

BOSTON, Jan. 9.—Mrs. Ellen Kane died from natural causes, according to Medical Examiner Draper, who finds that death was due to heart disease with pneumonia and chronic bronchitis, and not to violence. Mrs. Margaret Kane, daughter-in-law of the deceased, is awaiting trial upon an indictment charging her with mingling paris green in whisky with intent to kill the deceased.

Bertoto Is Dead.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Mlle. Bertoto, the pretty little dancer who came here five weeks ago from Boston, died last night. She was stricken with paralysis on Saturday. Death was due to over exertion during her performance of the eccentric dances which made her famous. Bertoto was 17 years old. She was born in Boston, her parents being poor people who lived in the Italian quarter.

Bangor Must Settle.

BANGOR, Me., Jan. 9.—Ex-Policeman Tracey, who was suspended without a hearing last May by Mayor Beal and who reported for duty nightly until granted a hearing and discharged from the city force in December, has secured a verdict against the city for full pay from the time he was suspended until a hearing was granted.

Looks Like Murder.

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 9.—The body of Daniel K. Fenner, a farm hand, was found in the woods at Pocasset, Sunday, with the skull fractured. In view of the fact that the man's watch and $200 can not be accounted for, foul play is suspected. An inquest has been ordered. Fenner had been missing five days.

Can Be Found When Wanted.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—The story that Andrew Foy had disappeared is refuted. Superintendent Wilcox of the Englewood waterworks says that Foy is working nightly in the South Side tunnel. He is not living with his wife, but is said to have no intention of leaving the city.

Held For the Grand Jury.

BOSTON, Jan. 9.—Frank Rogers of South Boston was taken to the city hospital suffering from a fractured skull, and his father, Owen Rogers, was held in $500 for the grand jury on a charge of assault. The boy, who is 19 years of age, is in a critical condition.

Holiday In New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 9.—Jackson day was quietly celebrated in New Orleans. In former years there were parades of the military, but the public ceremonies this year were confined to the firing of salutes by the national guard. Business was suspended.

Sicard Succeeds Carpenter.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Jan. 9.—Captain Sicard has been ordered to take command of the navy yard and station here on the 15th inst. Commodore Charles C. Carpenter has been detached from the command and placed on waiting orders.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

CONCERNING WAGES.

They Are Lowered by Protection, Says Mr. Wilson.

OPENING SPEECH IS ENDED

Burrows, Black and Hopkins Have Their Say.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Mr. Wilson resumed his speech when the house met yesterday. He began with an apology for occupying so much time, saying he did so at the request of his Democratic colleagues. He reiterated his statement that he was willing to pitch the entire fight on the question of wages. Wages are simply a middle term to be transferred into the comforts of life. The name is immaterial.

The thing that is vital is the purchasing power. High nominal wages and high prices really rob the wageearner of purchasing capacity by compelling him to spend in highly protected markets. The cotton spinner of England, with wages many times higher than his rival in India, produces his fabric at a lower cost than the latter, and the ironworker of England makes his product at a cost less than his Russian competitor, although the latter's wages are scarcely a third of his.

The wages of England average 80 per cent higher than the continent of Europe, yet the high productiveness of England's labor enables her to produce the great staples of the world 30 per cent lower than the continent. So it will be seen that where the highest wages are paid, they are able to compete in all the markets of the world.

Protection and Wages.

Mr. Doolittle interposed to ask if protection was not responsible for the general prosperity of the laboring man.

"If you will explain to me," replied Mr. Wilson, "how laboring men, in spite of a system that taxes production from raw materials through every step to the finished product, are able to produce those articles so cheap as to enter the market, then I point out to you how protection makes the laboring men prosperous."

Mr. Wilson carried out his argument with leather, lumber and other articles which we export, and then turned to the general subject of exportation. Our exports of domestic merchandise for 1893, he said, had been $831,000,000, every dollar of which was produced by labor, and paid paid much larger wages than in the competing countries and larger than the wages paid in this country on the protected industries. This fact demonstrated that the high production of the power of labor is able to compete and overcome the weak, ill-paid labor of other countries in the markets of the world.

"We have, in this country today, as the statistics show," said he, "the largest producers (the producers of our staple products, of our wheat, of our corn, of our cotton, of our metal productions), who must not only have the consumers inside this tariff wall, but must go outside of that wall. Every man knows that the farmers sell to both of these consumers, the man outside and the man inside of the wall, at exactly the same price. But the Pittsburg and Manchester purchasers give him exactly the same price for his products.

"Now I think for a plain man it would be very hard to reason out what the difference is so far as he is concerned between the government coming to his cotton gin, to his granary or to his cattle field, and taking from him one-third or one-half of his cotton, his wheat and cattle before they leave his farm, or meeting him when he comes from market and taking from him one-third or one-half of the amount he has received in exchange for his cotton, his wheat and his cattle."

Figuring It Out.

Mr. Wilson summarized the results aimed at by the bill. It reduced the duties on partially manufactured goods to the extent of $26,000,000. It gave $50,000,000 of added free raw materials. These conditions, he claimed, lightened the burdens of labor to the amount of $76,000,000. He said that the present bill was framed so as to do justice to the consumers as well as producers. It was the latter who received all the solicitude of the opposition. But he thought that the poor working girl was as much entitled to consideration as the opulent producer. The great wrong by which she was taxed $3 of her earnings for $1 of goods should be righted.

"If," said Mr. Wilson, "we had not been drunk for 30 years on protection, if our minds had not been warped and biased by 30 years of this system, no man would dare to come here and ask 60, 70 and 80 per cent bounty to their industries."

Mr. Wilson was followed by Mr. Burrows of Michigan. In the course of his speech he displayed a petition, which he said was 50 yards long, protesting against the passage of the Wilson bill and the placing of wool on the free list. He said he also had letters from 45 states protesting against it.

Burrows Takes a Hand.

Mr. Burrows spoke for almost three hours. When he closed there was a great outburst of Republican applause, so long continued as to call forth a rebuke from the chair. The Republicans generally went to Mr. Burrows' seat to congratulate him, and he was presented with a bouquet of 57 roses, it being his 57th birthday.

General J. C. Black of Illinois then took the floor. The gentleman from Michigan, he said, had depicted suffering of the extremist sort. Every instance of suffering, every instance of famine, misery and starvation was charged up to the prospective revision of the tariff, yet no community in the world, no system of industry, ever existed, where human misery did not wait on human improvidence and human mistake. The suffering depicted by Mr. Burrows existed after 30 years of laws written by his own party. So far as the law is responsible for the present conditions, it is the law of the present high protective tariff.

General Black proceeded to discuss the condition of the agricultural classes, who were now, he said, borne down by the lowest prices since records have been kept. He doubted, averaging flush times with the idle times, whether the wages for the last 30 years of protection had exceeded those of the laborers abroad. Protection only had not kept wages up for the last 12 months.

Black's Turn.

Concluding, Mr. Black said: "When the Democratic party has established, as it will, the right doctrines of commercial taxation the mission will begin to be felt and prosperity will return. I don't see why we should shrink from the name of free trade. In this great free country we have free thought, free speech, and, in the end, we will have commerce that is free from taxation."

Mr. Hopkins (Rep., Ills.) concluded the debate for the afternoon. At 5:30 he secured permission to make some complimentary remarks today.

Haines' Prediction.

At the evening session the first speaker was Mr. Haines, a Democrat, representing the Troy (N. Y.) district, and he made a vigorous protest against the Wilson bill. In concluding his remarks, he said: "The manufacturers of the east are not increasing. The utmost they can do is to maintain the business they have already established. The disruption of all kinds of domestic and business relations by throwing out of employment such vast number of people as will result in the passage of this bill will cause a general unsettling of the condition of things in all walks of life in great manufacturing centers like the city of Troy, and the discontented elements of society will be increased by a large number of persons who have heretofore exercised the most healthful influence in favor of order and good government. I believe, if this bill is passed, I shall be the last Democratic representative who will appear in the house from the Nineteenth congressional district of New York.

VEILED IN MYSTERY.

A Methodist Preacher Deliberately Drowned by Two Men.

CAMDEN, N. J., Jan. 10.—Rev. Henry N. Cheeseman, pastor of the Eighth Street M. E. church, this city, was deliberately drowned last night in the Delaware river at the foot of Chestnut street by two men. Officer Saezar heard the clergyman cry loudly for help, and two sailors, who also heard the cries, reached the spot about the same time as the officer. They saw the body of a man floating in the river, and, leaping in, brought it to shore. Life was not yet extinct, but Mr. Cheeseman expired in a few minutes.

Shortly after the cries were heard two men are known to have run away from the wharf. The police, shortly before midnight, arrested Isaac George and Solomon Willis on suspicion. What the clergyman was doing on the wharf, and what was the motive for the crime, is a mystery.

Massachusetts Legislature.

BOSTON, Jan. 10.—In the senate an order was offered "that the attorney general be and he is hereby directed to appear before any and all courts having jurisdiction of the question of the appointment of a receiver for the New York and New England railroad and urge in behalf of the commonwealth the appointment of a disinterested person or persons to act as such receiver." The order was allowed to lie over. There was nothing but routine business in the house. The session lasted only five minutes.

One Was Terribly Mangled.

BUFFALO, Jan. 10.—Laborers were blasting rocks here when a dynamite cartridge unexpectedly exploded. Casper Polak had his head fairly torn from the trunk and his body was otherwise mangled; Joe Pete lost an eye and sustained internal injuries; Louis Ryan had the top of his head torn off. Pete and Ryan may recover.

Rice and the Reading.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 10.—Judge Butler has made a formal order upon Special Master Crawford in the Reading railroad receivership directing him to hear testimony in the suit of Isaac L. Rice for the removal of the Reading receivers and for the investigation of other matters pertaining to the management of the company.

Helping Home Manufacturers.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The department of state has forwarded to the board of trade of Providence the book of samples (677 in number) of products of the textile establishments of Manchester, Eng. The object of the department is to give our manufacturers of similar products opportunity to inspect these samples.

Starting In Early.

LEWISTON, Me., Jan. 10.—John A. Leighton has accepted the management of the Lewiston Baseball club and has begun to negotiate with players. Ferson and Stafford, the pitchers, will sign, and Shea, third base last year for Buffalo, will probably be secured by Leighton. He also wants Frank Conoughton.

Implicating Foy.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—Mrs. Susie Horton at the Coughlin trial yesterday said that Andrew Foy had been at her house on the afternoon of May 12, and on that evening, which is the time the prosecution sets for the painting of the floor in the Carlson cottage, she saw Coughlin and Foy near the cottage.

Three of the Crew Injured.

HALIFAX, Jan. 10.—The Gloucester (Mass.) schooner Eliza H. Parkhurst, stranded at Port Lebar head, has been floated. She is badly damaged. Nineteen of the crew will go to Boston. Three men were left in a hospital, having been injured.

Anarchist Literature Seized.

PARIS, Jan. 10.—Two thousand anarchist pamphlets, entitled "Moribund Society and Anarchy," were seized at the northern railway station. They were intended for the editor of La Revolte and came from Belgium.

PROPOSED TO TWO.

The Record Made In One Day by Millionaire Porter.

SPENT $72,000 FOR JEWELRY.

Miss Clark Given a Diamond Brooch Worth $12,000.

STAMFORD, Conn., Jan. 10.—The hearing in the case of Timothy H. Porter of this city was resumed yesterday, and it was the most sensational day since the hearing was begun. Love letters which had been written by Porter were offered in evidence.

The original copies could not be secured, but Porter's son Blatchley, who attends Yale college, secured copies of them from a book in which Porter had all the letters he had written copied in.

Letters which were written to Miss Clark, a teacher in Miss Low's seminary for girls in this city, and another to Miss Earle of Bridgeport, both of which had been written by Porter in one day, were read in court.

In these letters Porter had made proposals of marriage to the women. One of the letters, which were of the same nature, was written to Mrs. Hudson of Boston.

Counsel for the relatives claimed that Porter had spent $72,000 for jewelry for these women, and Attorney Fessenden, in support of his statement, produced a bill for $12,000 which Porter had paid for a diamond brooch for Miss Clark.

There were 33 diamonds in the article, and in a letter which Porter had sent with the gift he said that each diamond was for every one of Miss Clark's years. It appeared that this was a birthday gift from Porter.

The testimony of Porter's son, Blatchley, was on the line of the other witnesses on the plaintiff's side, regarding his father's peculiar actions. There will be another hearing on Jan. 21.

His Name Is Curtis.

RICHMOND, Ind., Jan. 10.—The identity of J. W. Fuller, the forger sent to the penitentiary for three years, has been fully established. His real name is Charles Benjamin Curtis. His wife says that she is a niece of Governor Buckley of Connecticut. Curtis swindled many Pennsylvania bankers and is thought to have considerable money.

Anchor Nurse Fixed Slosson.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—Although playing much better billiards than he did with Schaefer, it was Slosson's luck last night to fall up against the anchor nurse and be beaten by Ives. Now that Ives has shown that he can play the anchor nurse as well as Schaefer, the latter will doubtless debar it in future matches and tournaments.

Her Case Incurable.

PLYMOUTH, N. H., Jan. 10.—Miss Arzelia C. Clay, a native of Piermont and a graduate of the State Normal school here, is now confined in an insane asylum in Michigan. Miss Clay had gained a wide reputation as a dramatic reader of the first class, but she became insane and her case is pronounced incurable.

Important Pension Action.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The house committee on invalid pensions ordered a favorable report of the senate bill to repeal that clause of the act which cuts off from the pension rolls non-residents who are not citizens of the United States, except those suffering from actual disabilities received in the service.

Lost $25,000 Worth of Paintings.

BOSTON, Jan. 10.—The studio of Scott Leighton, the animal painter, situated in the Granite building at 431 to 435 Washington street, was destroyed by fire last night. The fire was confined to the studio, and paintings to the value of $25,000 were ruined. The cause of the fire is unknown.

It Pleased Brazilians.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—The Times says that the rumors from Lisbon that President Peixoto of Brazil has resigned was received in London with great satisfaction, especially by the numerous members of the Brazilian community.

Andries Got Away.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 10.—The assize court yesterday sentenced Andries, an anarchist, to a year's imprisonment. While the jury was deliberating, however, Andries escaped from custody and has not yet been recaptured.

Prices for northern and eastern cattle, dressed weight—Choice 5½@6¾c pr lb; first quality, 5@5¾c; second quality, 4½@4¾c.

Prices for western beef cattle: Choice, 4½@4¾c pr lb; second quality, 4@4½c; third quality, 3@3½c; poorest grades of coarse oxen, cows, bulls, stags, texans, etc, 2@3c.

Hides, tallow, etc.—Hides, 4½@5c pr lb; tallow, 3@4c; calfskins, 75c each; lamb skins, 50c each; sheared skins, 25c each; branded hides, 3c pr lb.

Northern and eastern beef cattle—The supply of beef cattle was lighter than one week ago and the demand was not so active. When all the cattle was weighed up it was found that prices were off ¼c from the values of last week.

Milch cows and springers—The supply was fair and the demand slow.

Veal calves—The supply was light, the quality was fair and prices were a shade firmer than those of one week ago. The buyers claimed it was more than made up by the quality. It took but a short time to effect a clearance.

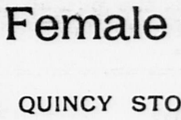

Sheep and lambs—The largest part of the arrivals were sent to the slaughter houses direct, where prices were agreed upon between the drovers and slaughterers. Prices for this class of stock have been very low and this undoubtedly due to the large number of arrivals from the west.

Swine—Only a few swine are coming in and they sell for 6¾c pr lb, dressed weight, and 5.40 pr cwt, live weight.

Editorial Comment.

THE NEW city of Everett is another place where the aldermen "sit down" upon the Mayor. Morning papers report "Part of Mayor Batchelder's appointments were confirmed but several were rejected."

A WASHINGTON correspondent in reviewing the desires of the Massachusetts congressmen concerning another term, says: "Dr. Everett does not know whether he wishes a renomination or not, unless it be as a vindication of his course here." The congressman probably realizes that his chances are not very good.

MANY WEST QUINCY people are wishing just now that they owned a wood lot included in the land taken for the Blue Hill Reservation, but then the award has not been made, we understand, as yet, and fancy prices may not be obtained. What a grand park this will be for future generations. A boulevard from Quincy, in connection with Merry Mount park and the "Bay Shore Reservation" outlined in the last city report, will be the next thing. Quincy is destined to become the "park city."

HOLDEN WILL CASE.

The Will Allowed But an Appeal Taken —The Evidence.

The hearing in the contested will case of Mrs. Submit D. Holden late of this city, was continued this morning in the probate court.

Rev. Edward Norton testified to being present the evening the will was signed and to witnessing the signature of Mrs. Holden but could not remember any particulars.

Dr. J. T. Welch also testified to witnessing the will. Mr. Howland asked him to sign it. Thought he was alone with Mrs. Holden in the front room when he signed it.

Mr. E. P. Howland remembered distinctly all that took place that evening. All were in one room when it was signed.

Cross examined he said the will was drawn by Mr. Thompson. Some of the items that went to make up the will were written by Mrs. Holden and some by him by instruction. He read the paper after it came from Mr. Thompson. It came some three months before it was signed. He might have had some conversation with Mrs. Holden about it. As to whom she should have for witnesses. Did not see the paper from the time it was received until it was signed. She invited the witnesses to be present. Heard her invite Mr. Norton at a church meeting to be present at her will party. This was some weeks before the execution. He heard her ask Mr. Comey at the same time but did not know how word was got to Dr. Welch. When tea was over she signed the paper and requested them to witness her signature. Do not think she said it was her last will. Dr. Welch was present in the room with the others.

Witness did not sign it as he did not think it proper, as he was inside the family. Nothing was read to her. She told them substantially that she was about to execute her will. He made a memorandum in his diary so as to remember the date.

Mr. Norton was recalled as was also Dr. Welch, and they said they did not remember being invited to a will party.

The argument of the contestants was that unless they could show the will was executed in the presence of Mrs. Holden, it was not properly executed. They did not think this had been shown and the will should not be allowed to probate.

Judge Harriman said it was usually found that parties do not remember particulars of executions except their signatures. It was not necessary that the will should be executed in the presence of all witnesses, but it must be one act, and there was no evidence that this was not properly executed. He would therefore allow the will to probate.

An appeal was taken and the contestants asked for a special administrator.

WOMEN IN OFFICE.

Installation of Paul Revere Woman's Relief Corps—A Presentation.

The officers of Paul Revere Women's Relief Corps No. 103 were installed Tuesday afternoon at Grand Army hall by Past National and Past Department officer Mrs. L. F. Flowers of Cambridgeport, in the presence of a large number of the members of the corps and visitors from neighboring corps.

After the intallation ceremony Mrs. S. J. Williamson, the retiring president was presented with a handsome Past President's gold badge in recognition of her faithful services during the past five years and the efficient work performed by her the past year as president of the corps.

Mrs. Flowers the installing officer made the presentation speech, and Mrs. Williamson although greatly surprised responded, thanking the members for their pleasing gift, and assuring them although she had relinquished her duties as president she should continue to take a deep interest in the future welfare of the corps.

The badge was suitably inscribed as follows: "Presented to Mrs. Sarah J. Williamson by Paul Revere Relief Corps 103 Quincy, Mass., Jan. 9, 1894.,'

The installing officer was also presented with a handsome box of flowers by the officers elect

The officers installed were:

President,—Mrs. Electa E. Field.
Senior Vice,—Mrs. Isabel Holmes.
Junior Vice,—Mrs. Almeda L. Gourd.
Secretary,—Miss Alice Richards.
Treasurer,—Mrs. L. Laura Cameron.
Chaplain,—Mrs. Isabel Souther.
Conductor,—Mrs. Anna J. Blaisdell.
Guard,—Mrs. Emma J. Leavitt.
Assistant Conductor,—Mrs. Lizzie Farrell.
Assistant Guard,—Mrs. Elizabeth J. Webb.
Pianist,—Mrs. C. Alice Litchfield.
Delegates,—Mrs. S. J. Williamson and Mrs. Angie D. Loud.
Alternate,—Mrs. Elizabeth Pratt.

At the close of the meeting a fine collation of baked bean, ham, cake, coffee and fruit from the plantation of I. M. Holt at Florida, was spread, and at seven o'clock the invited guest of Post 88 and Sons of Veterans 27 sat down to supper, after which social intercourse was indulged in and a general good time enjoyed.

Paul Revere Corps were instituted in May, 1888, with a membership of 27. The ladies were however interested in their work and the corps has had a steady growth so that it now numbers 87. They as well as other organizations have had their sorrow and five sisters have gone to that home from which no one ever returns.

During the five years of its existance the corps has paid to the post and expended in relief something like $2,500.

The members of the post and camp recognize in the Women's Relief Corp a strong ally to whom they can turn when in need and be sure of always finding them ready and willing to render what aid or assistance as lies in their power, and as an organization for relief, it has no peer.

YOUNG MEN'S CONGRESS.

New Business, Reports of Committees, Debates, Etc.

The Quincy Young Men's Congress met Tuesday evening after the holiday recess. There was a very good attendance but there was little matter of interest before our ambitious statesmen.

Two applications for membership were received and referred.

New business was introduced as follows:

State bill in favor of biennial elections.

National bill detailing the warship Columbia for mail service between San Francisco and Honolulu.

Municipal bill for the purchase by the city of the Citizen's Gas Light works and the plant of the Quincy Electric Light and Power Co.

All the above were referred.

An adverse report was made on a bill to further protect abutters as to assessment for street sprinkling. Laid on table.

There was also an adverse report on a bill to extend Whitwell street to Granite street.

A motion to lay report on the table was defeated.

Congressman Colton favored the bill, and advocated that it would give work to the unemployed.

Congressman Nowland was of the opinion that bills requiring an appropriation could not be properly debated as the expense would not fall upon members. A new street everywhere would be desirable.

Congressman Branch believed it was just such bills that should be considered. City business should be understood.

Congressman Gilbert argued that the street would be a short cut to the City Hospital and a convenience.

The bill was rejected.

A favorable report was made on a bill requiring lanterns to be placed at railroad bridges. Placed in the orders of the day for the next meeting.

In the orders of the day a bill to fix July 1, 1895 as the time that tariff legislation should go into effect, was defeated.

A motion to reconsider the rejection of the State bill abolishing capital punishment, pendin gat the last meeting, was lost.

The bill for the improvement of Independence avenne was placed in the orders of the day for the next meeting.

Adjournment at 9.30.

SUICIDE AT WOLLASTON.

A Prominent Citizen Shoots Himself in an Unoccupied House.

Mr. John M. Call, one of Wollaston's most esteemed citizens committed suicide by shooting himself through the head with a 22-calibre revolver.

The deed was done at his old home at the corner of Warren and Winthrop avenues, probably some time Monday night. Of late, since the death of his wife, he has resided in Boston, having closed his Wollaston house, only visiting it at rare intervals. It is supposed that Mr. Call came out from Boston Monday evening and went to Quincy where he mailed three letters to immediate friends notifying them that when they were read he should be dead. He then went directly to his home.

One of the letters was sent to Mrs. A. J. Colgan, his adopted daughter. Dr. Colgan took the letter from the post office, and, after his arrival in Boston noticed that it was in Mr. Call's handwriting and post marked Quincy. Fearing that something was wrong, he opened it and found that it was a brief note from Mr. Call stating that he intended to commit suicide on Monday night.

Dr. Colgan hurriedly left his Boston office for Wollaston, and, hastening up to the Call house, rushed in and upstairs in the front chamber found Mr. Call stretched out on the bed unconscious, with the revolver laying beside him and a bullet hole in his right temple. Doctor Record, Gilbert and Gordon were summoned and rendered what aid they could. He lingered through the day in an unconscious condition, and died in the night.

Mr. Call was born in Charlestown in 1835. During the rebellion he enlisted and served nine months and was honorably discharged.

In 1874 he moved to Wollaston living first on Prospect avenue and then building the residence which he has occupied until recently at the corner of Warren and Winthrop avenues. He was the first foreman of the old L. W. Lovell Chemical engine company. This is the only public office he ever held in Quincy. He was also a member and an officer of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston.

He was the senior partner of the produce firm of Call & Stevens of Boston.

And a Review of the Five Years Under Chief Engineer Ripley.

From returns of fires reported by Chief Engineer Ripley the number of bell alarms of fire during the year 1893 was 51, of which number 37 had a fire loss. There were also 13 still alarms during the year.

Of the bell alarms 37 had a fire loss, as noted above, 3 were for assistance rendered other places and 3 were false alarms.

The estimated value of property where fires occurred was $197,405; the amount of loss by fire $34,287.50; amount of insurance on the property at risk $99,850; loss to insurance companies $21,412.50; loss to owners $12,874.50.

As it is more likely that Chief Engineer Ripley will soon be an ex-official, it might be well to give briefly the work of the department since he has been Chief Engineer, which covers a period of five years. From consultation of the returns filed during the past five years, and from data kept in this office the following figures have been compiled:

Total number of bell alarms during the five years,	182
Number of bell alarms with fire loss,	130
Value of property at risk,	$592,409.00
Amount of loss on same,	$134,657.50
Insurance loss,	$61,883 00
Loss to owners,	$62,774.00

This shows the average loss during these years to have been a trifle over $12,554 which is not a very bad showing by any means, especially when we consider that the Willard school fire is included in these years.

It was noticed that where the greatest losses occurred was where there was a scarcity of water.

How many cities of a like population can make a better showing?

These figures speak well for the efficiency of our fire department and of good management on the part of the Chief Engineer. They should also furnish food for quiet reflection for some of the members of the Council Committee on Fire Department of 1893.

Death at Quincy Point.

BOUTELLE'S RESOLUTION.

Unanimous Vote In Its Favor by the House Naval Committee.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—A surprise was furnished in the Hawaiian matter by the house committee on naval affairs, which voted unanimously to favorably report the Boutelle resolution to the house. This resolution is an ironclad one, calling upon the secretary of the navy to inform the house by what authority instructions were issued placing the naval forces under the orders of Minister Blount, and to furnish copies of all orders or suggestions issued by himself or any officer of the navy since March 4, 1893, concerning the use of naval forces at the Hawaiian Islands.

An amendment was made changing the date to March 4, 1892, so that the operations of the navy in Hawaii under the Harrison administration would be included. The secretary of the navy is directed to furnish the information and is given no option to withhold documents which he might consider secret or the publicity of which, at this time, might be regarded as contrary to public policy.

Chairman Cummings of the naval committee will report the Boutelle resolution to the house immediately, but says it cannot be considered until the debate on the Wilson bill has finished. Mr. Boutelle, on the other hand, thinks that the resolution can be called up at once and be debated for 15 minutes by each side, as provided for in the rules.

A FIENDISH CRIME.

A Boy of Sixteen Charged With Shooting Four Persons.

DODGE CITY, Kan., Jan. 10.—Thomas Walker, aged 16, is in jail in this city charged with the probable assassination of three persons, and the serious wounding of another. A farmer named William Kimbrel, and his wife and child, aged 18 months, and his wife's sister, were retiring all in the same room at Kimbrel's home, about 17 miles from this place.

Suddenly some one fired a load of buckshot through the south window at Mr. Kimbrel, the entire charge taking effect in his neck and face and shoulder. His wife and sister-in-law ran to him and were bending over him when another charge of shot was fired, this time through the north window into the group with terrible effect. Mrs. Kimbrel was struck in the side, the child about the head and the sister in the face. All will die except Mrs. Kimbrel's sister.

Joseph Walker, a cousin of the Kimbrels, was found near the barn shortly after the shooting and was arrested, charged with the crime.

Immigration and Labor.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Representative Lockwood introduced a bill providing against the daily coming into the United States of citizens of Canada and Mexico to perform labor in this country. It compels American vessels plying on the great lakes to employ sailors and deckhands who are American citizens. Aliens performing work contrary to the provisions of the bill are to be deported, and in case they return to this country they are to be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and heavily fined. Strict provision is made against immoral women entering the United States.

Another Serious Riot.

ROME, Jan. 10.—An anti-tax mob overran the town of Ruvo di Puglia and burned the Octroi office and sentry boxes, as well as the tax bureau, containing the registers and archives. The mob also destroyed the Union clubhouse, and tore up the rails of the horse car lines, cut the telegraph wires and attacked the gendarmes in their barracks. The gendarmes eventually fired a volley at the mob, but the rioting continued until the arrival of troops.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The annual report of Inspector General Breckinridge is in favor of closer relations between the army and the national guard. Schools in which army officers are detailed as military instructors, he thinks, ought to have support from the national government.

THE THUNDERER'S COMMENTS

On the Latest News From the Hawaiian Islands.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—The Times, commenting on the advices from Hawaii which reached Victoria, B. C., says: Notwithstanding the allusions of President Dole to the rights of Hawaii as a sovereign state, it is probable that he and his associates place their chief hope in the exigencies of American politics rather than in the wishes of the population of Hawaii.

That the provisional government is well advised in assuming the attitude of defiance towards the President of the United States may indeed be doubted. Although it has been rumored that he will accept a compromise, Mr. Cleveland has shown that he has a stiff back, and he thinks that his countrymen admire it, and it is quite possible that in the long run he may show himself as resolute and determined in the Hawaiian policy as he was upon the silver question.

After a long consideration of Commissioner Blount's report and President Cleveland's message, The Times article proceeds: It is indeed difficult to lend credit to the statement that the United States means to recognize the provisional government, yet it must be owned that the conduct of the ex-queen herself has been so imprudent as to afford the American executive an opportunity of withdrawing the offers it has made to her.

ONE IS DEAD.

Five Persons In New Haven Poisoned by Arsenic In a Teapot.

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 10.—The police here are investigating a mysterious poisoning case, which has affected a whole family of five persons and caused the death of a 2-year-old child, the daughter of Timothy J. Crowley of Wallace street.

In some way a compound of copper and arsenic found its way into the teapot used by the Crowley family on Thursday last, with the result that all the members of the family became violently sick. By the use of emetics all the members of the family, with the exception of the child, recovered. An autopsy will be held. Crowley has a police record. Neither the coroner nor the police will discuss the matter.

Manley Out For Reed.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Joe Manley is out for Tom Reed for president in 1896. The World publishes today an interview with Blaine's long-time trusty lieutenant, in which Mr. Manley takes unequivocal ground in favor of the nomination of the ex-speaker over Governor McKinley, although he does not put it in just that shape.

Treasury Figures.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Government receipts for the month of January to date have shown an increase over the ordinary expenditures of over $500,000. The figures furnished to Secretary Carlisle show that the treasury officials expect the deficiency in the revenues for January and February to amount to $18,000,000.

A Great Surprise.

The Forum

"The Greatest of all our Periodicals."

The foremost men of the world write the literature of contemporaneous activity for THE FORUM.

Every great subject is taken up by The Forum when it naturally comes into public attention and is treated by the best authorities, without regard to parties or creeds. It will keep any thoughtful reader informed on the tasks and problems of the time, as no other periodical does.

To many thoughtful people, the price of The Forum has hitherto been prohibitory; indeed all the great Reviews have been too high in price for the masses of intelligent readers. But now the number of readers of thoughtful literature—men and women who wish really to know what is going on in the world outside the narrow limits of particular sects and parties—is great enough in the United States to warrant so revolutionary a reduction in price. The Forum discusses important subjects, but it is not dull. The literature of contemporaneous activity is, in fact, the most interesting of all literature. American citizenship implies that a man shall know the opinions of the foremost men and the latest great achievements in every direction of activity.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

School.

The bees are in the meadow
And the swallows in the sky;
The cattle in the shadow
Watch the river running by.

The wheat is hardly stirring;
The heavy ox team lags;
The dragon fly is whirring
Through the yellow blossomed flags.

And down beside the river
Where the trees lean o'er the pool,
Where the shadows reach and quiver,
A boy has come to school.

His teachers are the swallows,
And the river, and the trees.
His lessons are the shallows,
And the flowers, and the bees.

He knows not he is learning.
He thinks nor writes a word.
But in the soul discerning
A loving spring is stirred.

In after years—oh, weary years!—
The river's lesson he
Will try to speak to heedless ears
In faltering minstrelsy.

Death of Father Corrigan.

JERSEY CITY, Jan. 10.—Rev. Patrick A. Corrigan, D. D., of Hoboken, died last evening. Father Corrigan was born in Ireland 58 years ago. He was a zealous worker and an advanced thinker. In the events which have kept the Catholic church of the United States in a turmoil for the past few years Father Corrigan took a prominent part. He was a vigorous supporter of Archbishop Ireland and the liberal and progressive element.

Exposition Relics.

A curious illustration of woman's tendency to lose things is furnished by the collection in the lost and found bureau of the Columbian exposition. There remain in it 600 women's wraps, 520 gloves, 25 veils, a score of portmanteaux and handbags, to say nothing of 800 umbrellas, a good share of which were left by women, and 200 pairs of spectacles, most of which no doubt belonged to women. They lose things when away from home because they are more likely than men to be carried away by new scenes and to forget everything except what interests them for the moment.—Pittsburg Times.

A Coincidence.

One of those coincidences that are as mysterious as they are interesting occurred in connection with the death of John Nolan, an officer of the superior court of New York. One day recently he "took a notion" to make his will, and as he was in excellent health was chaffed by friends whom he asked to witness it. It was signed and sealed that afternoon, and the next day he died of heart disease.—New York News.

Grand Wolf Hunt.

The farmers of Kossuth county, Ia., had a grand wolf hunt on Christmas day. They have lost hundreds of sheep this winter through the depredations of wolves and propose to exterminate the pests. The county was scoured by parties of horsemen, who swept the Des Moines valley from one end of the county to the other. The scalps are worth $5 each, and hundreds of them were secured.

THE WOODS' GHOST.

Possibly General Fawncliffe was eccentric because he could not help it, but it is more probable that he did things in a manner entirely different from anybody else because he wanted to be odd and wanted to make a sensation. He was a wealthy man, and therefore he could do very nearly as he liked. He was haughty, overbearing and irritable. I always thought that if he had been the czar of Russia or the shah of Persia he would have played his role very well. He had built a fine house on the banks of the Delaware, and at the verge of the Block woods, of which he was the owner. He was not more than 45 years old and appeared to be entirely alone in the world; at any rate, no one in Blockville ever heard that he had any relations.

At the time of which I write I was a young fellow of 16, of no sort of consequence whatever, and my name was, but is not now, Pardon Sashwood, though mother and everybody else called me Pardy. My mother was a dress maker in the town and did a big business. She never said anything about my father, and I did not know anything about him, and I concluded that he had been hanged, or otherwise nipped in the bud, and I did not press my inquiries in regard to him. I was a regular resident in Block Hall, as General Fawncliffe called his elegant mansion, and my first duty is to explain how I happened to be a dweller beneath its princely roof. I was very fond of fishing, and my mother was very fond of eating fish, for I caught very nice ones in the river. One day I sat upon a rock that projected out into the stream just below the general's mansion. Above me was a sandy beach, and while I sat there the general drove down upon it in his buggy, with a high spirited horse. I wondered what he was doing there with such a turnout.

The horse was full of spirit, and the choleric driver seemed to be well supplied with spirits, though of the artificial sort. The animal pranced and capered on the sand, and did not appear to have learned that his master was as impatient as he was eccentric. The horse had a way of his own, and so had the general, and as the two ways did not run in the same direction it created an unpleasantness between them. At last the driver used his whip without the exercise of much discretion, and the brute manifested himself in a very decided manner. Then I decided that he was trying to drive the horse into the water, where he was unwilling to go. But the general got the best of it in the end and drove the obstinate creature straight into the river, as though he intended to cross to the other side. In a few moments the animal had to swim, but he struck out bravely, the general applying the lash all the time; in fact, he seemed to be whipping him for his own satisfaction, now that the brute had yielded the point.

In another moment the buggy, which appeared to be floating, suddenly toppled over and spilled the occupant into the drink. He lost his hold upon it, and then I saw that he could not swim.

The horse took a circle around the spot and swam leisurely to the shore, dragging the buggy after him. Just below the rock on which I was seated was a bateau, and I lost no time in rushing to it. I had some skill in the use of the paddle, and I soon reached the general, who was floundering about in the water like a grounded whale. He was a large man, and I saw that it would be impossible to get him into the boat. I asked him to take hold of the stern to support himself while I paddled to the beach. He used expletives and insisted upon getting into the boat. I told him I would leave him to his fate if he did not do as I directed. The threat carried him, and he held on to the boat till his feet touched the bottom.

"I will kill that horse!" he exclaimed when he reached the beach and had recovered his breath. "He is the ugliest brute I ever drove."

"He is not so much of a brute as you are, general," I replied. "You acted like a heathen when you whipped him, and I had half a mind to let you drown."

He looked at me in astonishment. Perhaps he thought I had earned the right to speak my mind, but whether I had or not I expressed myself as plainly as though I had been the general and he had been Pardy Sashwood. Doubtless it was a new thing for any one to "speak up" to him.

"Boy, I want you to come and live with me," he said, and I was amazed then.

"I won't do it," I replied. "I would not live under the same roof with such a porcupine as you are for all your money."

He actually teased me, and he expressed his obligations to me very handsomely, but I stuck to my text. I helped him right his buggy, now that the horse had cooled off, and he insisted on driving me home, which I permitted him to do. My mother saw me when I got out of the buggy. The general told me to think of his offer and come to his house if I decided to accept it. My mother, after she had heard all about the affair in the river, insisted that I should accept the offer. I argued against it for a long time, but I finally yielded to her wishes. The next day I belonged to the general's household, and Mrs. Cashley gave me a hearty welcome.

General Fawncliffe treated me with a degree of consideration accorded to no other person. I helped him about his accounts and papers, though I was permitted to attend the academy. I really came to like him after awhile, and I know that I improved his manners and morals to some extent. His narrow escape from drowning had strongly impressed him, I discovered. He was a victim to that malady of sedentary and lazy people, insomnia. He had been in the habit of drinking more whisky than was good for him as a remedy. He told me he could not sleep until he had drunk at least six glasses. I reasoned with him, talking flatly and plainly, as I always did. I asked him to stop it and walk one or two hours in the Block woods after 9 in the evening. He tried it with good results, and after that called me doctor.

After he had practiced this walking for a couple of weeks he told me he had seen a ghost in the woods three successive nights. I laughed at him and asked him if he had been drinking whisky again, but he assured me he had not. The next night I watched myself in the grove. Sure enough, I saw a figure in white, though I did not believe it was a spirit from the other world. I saw that the figure tried to approach the general, but from fear, or some other motive, he kept his distance from it.

I had a revolver, and with this in my hand, though it was not loaded, I went with the general to the woods one bright moonlight night. The ghost came as usual, and the general was inclined to retreat. So was the figure when I showed myself. But I pursued it. I held up my revolver and threatened to fire if the ghost did not halt.

"No, Pardy! Don't fire! I am your mother," screamed the ghost, not knowing that the weapon was not loaded.

She halted, and I went up to her, the general following me when assured that the figure was not a supernatural one. She was dressed in white, as she was usually in summer, and I wondered if she was troubled with insomnia.

"Pardy, General Fawncliffe is your father and my husband!" exclaimed my mother when the general had come up with us.

"Emily!" he exclaimed, "I wondered where Pardy got all his impudence, for I thought he could have inherited it only from me."

We had a long talk in the moonlight. I knew that my mother had come from California, but her former home was one of the things of which she seldom spoke. The general acknowledged her as his wife before me. They disagreed and had separated. For the sake of her son she had followed him, hoping that years had softened his temper. She did not care to call upon him at his house, but when I became on such excellent terms with him she had decided to meet him in the woods, where I had told her that he walked every night. He had fled from her, but she persevered till I brought matters to a head. My mother is now the mistress of Block Hall, and I still have to do a great deal of plain speaking.—Oliver Optic in Philadelphia Press.

Packing a Trunk Well.

Do you know how to pack a trunk well? asks Ruth Ashmore in The Ladies' Home Journal. And if you don't how many people do you know who do? And wouldn't you gladly give $1 for a large and 50 cents for a small trunk that is properly packed? The packer comes with dozens of sheets of tissue paper and several pieces of tape. You can sit where you belongings are, and as skirts and bodices are taken down say which you want. Then the bodices have their sleeves stuffed with paper to keep them in shape, the trimmings carefully covered with it; the skirts are properly folded; the bonnets and hats have tapes pinned to them, and these same tapes are tacked to the sides of the hatbox, so that no matter how much the trunk may be shaken not a feather nor a rose moves out of its place. Then when everything is done there is laid on the top of the last tray a list of the things that are in the trunk, so that you don't lose you temper searching for the pink bodice which isn't there, or the tan colored shoes which you expressly requested should be left at home.

First Person Cremated In America.

The first white person lawfully cremated within the present limits of the United States, according to wishes and desires expressed by himself, was Colonel Henry Laurens, one of the Revolutionary patriots. He was born in Charleston, S. C., in the year 1724, and died on his plantation near that place on Dec. 8, 1792. His will, which he had requested them to open and read the next day after his death, was supplemented with the following: "I solemnly enjoin it upon my son, as an indispensable duty, that, as soon as he conveniently can after my decease, he cause my body to be wrapped in 12 yards of towcloth and burned until it be entirely consumed." The request was carried out to the letter and was the beginning of cremation in America.—St. Louis Republic.

Nature's Nobleman.

One whose charity is as broad as the earth, who is generous to a fault, who is honest to a rival; who, becoming a friend, remains one through thick and thin; who, loving, loves with all the ardor of a noble, consistent mind; who, being convinced of the right, is as immovable as a sphinx an yet is wise enough to hold his judgment in suspense and to change his attitude should superior arguments be brought to bear—such a one is an ideal man and one of nature's noblemen.—New York Ledger.

HER CREW COMPLETE

The Cruiser Nictheroy Will Soon Leave For Rio.

HILL IS AN ABLE COMMANDER.

Seamen Understand What He Expects of Them.

PERNAMBUCO, Jan. 10.—After more than a week's delay the Nictheroy's reshipment difficulties seem to have been overcome, and she will probably leave for the south soon. She has about 160 of her original crew on board, and has also some 200 Brazilians. These include an admiral, a fleet captain, a flag lieutenant, five other lieutenants, fifeeen engineers' officers, some 30 seamen and between 100 and 160 military cadets. The rest of her American crew, some 80 in all, have left the ship.

The fighting officers of the ship receive $5000 in advance for three months' service. An additional deposit of $100,000 is to be made in New York or London to serve as a pension fund for those injured. They also asked prize money for all ships or forts destroyed, but this was refused.

The men receive $500 bounty and $100 a month for three months' service. Petty and warrant officers receive proportionate sums. The Brazilians acceded to these heavy prices simply because they had no sailors to take the places of the Americans if they declined to serve.

The British crew of the torpedo boat Aurora, which arrived some 10 days ago, refused to reship to a man, and all available Brazilians now constitute her crew.

Piexoto's Supporters.

The commandant of the Nictheroy is Alvaro Nunez Ribeiro Belfort, who before the time of the revolt commanded the cruiser Republica. He will occupy about the same position as an admiral on a ship, really having little to say in regard to the actual management of the vessel and merely directing the larger movements. Captain Baker will command the ship.

Lieutenant Commander C. H. Hill, the executive officer, has proved himself one of the very best men in existence for such a position. The transformation wrought in the Nictheroy under his direction was simply marvellous. He rules the crew with an iron hand, dealing out exceedingly severe punishments for all offenses, but his fairness has won the admiration of all. Hill fights the ship when in action. Frederick Taylor is the captain's confidential secretary. His position on board was kept secret as long as possible.

Dynamite Gun Works Well.

The dynamite gun works splendidly, the only doubtful point about the whole thing being the fuse of the projectiles; grave doubts are felt of their efficiency when falling into the water. Only one loaded shell was fired on the way south, and that fell behind a screen of rock, and its effect could not be seen. Hardly any one believes that it exploded. Every one in Pernambuco is very anxious about the gun and crossexamine all ashore about it.

After the Nictheroy's arrival here and a consultation between Brazilian officials on shore and the Nictheroy's officers, Lieutenant Hill addressed the crew, who assembled in a body, and asked them to decide what pay they wanted. He also said to them:

"Remember this ship is going to fight. You sign to serve in this ship and no other. If the ship is sunk, you go back home—what are left of you. I don't know where we are going, but I think our first work will be to bombard Fort Villegaignon. In six months the whole thing will be finished. Mello is bottled up and the war will soon be over."

The Press Muzzled.

The situation in Pernambuco is hard to define. There are so many conflicting stories that no one can reach the truth. One paper has been suppressed and the other three do not dare to say much. The Journal De Recife never refers to the revolution at all.

The Diario and The Commercio print dispatches from Rio every day. These are always favorable to the government and sometimes palpably false. The Commercio, which is as much an opposition paper as it dares to be, makes fun of its own news.

The Provincia, which was suppressed a month ago, had for editor Jose Mareio; he conspired with Barbosa Lima, governor of the state, to bring about a revolution in favor of Mello. An officer on the governor's staff betrayed the plot, and the governor, to save his own skin, returned to his old allegiance and helped to disperse and capture would-be rebels.

Captain Jose Mareio escaped, but many others were captured and two or three shot. On Thursday last a party of 50 soldiers were sent to arrest Constantin Rogiberto, a prominent man living at Augues Bellas, in the interior, who was known to be disaffected. He fortified his house, which is located on an almost inaccessible hill, and defended himself furiously, with the result that all the soldiers were killed or captured. Re-enforcements have been sent and another fight is expected.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

A LOSS TO HARVARD.

Secretary Bolles Dies From an Attack of Pneumonia.

A STUDENT OF ORNITHOLOGY.

His Literary Contributions Were Highly Valued.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 11. — Frank Bolles, secretary of Harvard university, died at his home here yesterday of pneumonia.

Mr. Bolles was a graduate of the Harvard law school, class of 1882, having previously received the degree of A. B. at the Columbian college, D. C. He was a most enthusiastic and indefatigable worker, and had done a great deal to promote the interests of Harvard, especially during the last few years, when he has acted as secretary of the college.

FRANK BOLLES.

While in the law school Mr. Bolles had the honor of assisting to found and absolutely carrying to success the first daily paper ever published at that college. Afterward he engaged in newspaper work as an editorial writer.

He was a great lover of nature, and the results of his patient and interesting investigations into the habits of birds have attracted much attention from ornithologists. His book, "Land of the Lingering Snow," is a valuable contribution to works descriptive of New England.

The first part of this work appeared in a series of letters which he wrote for a Boston newspaper while on his travels. They were published, and created such widespread interest that he then formed the idea of gathering them together, adding to them and publishing them in book form.

Mr. Bolles came of a distinguished ancestry, his father having been secretary of state of Massachusetts and also having held offices of trust at Washington, while on his mother's side he was connected with the Dix family, of which Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix is a representative. Mr. Bolles was a son of the first editor of the Boston Journal, Hon. John A. Bolles.

Buchanan's Estimate of Lowell.

LONDON, Jan. 11.—Robert Buchanan in a letter to The Chronicle says: My description of James Russell Lowell in my letter to The Chronicle on Jan. 6 seems to have aroused much journalistic wrath, and I am assured that Mr. Lowell was a great poet and critic. I should rather describe him as a cultivated English gentleman, who happened to be born in America. Mr. Lowell was a most agreeable writer, but I decline to accept him as representing in any sense the country which produced Whitman, Thoreau, Herman Melville, Whittier and Mark Twain.

Against Governor Waite.

DENVER, Jan. 11.—The extra session of the ninth general assembly of Colorado organized yesterday. A joint session was promptly called and Governor Waite read his message. Following the reading, the senate declined to print the message and placed it in the hands of nine members to report this afternoon. The complexion of this committee indicates that the report will declare for an immediate adjournment without further action.

Wiggin Is President.

BOSTON, Jan. 11.—The Massachusetts Game and Fish Protective association held its annual election of officers and a dinner at the American House last evening. Hon. George W. Wiggin was elected president and Henry H. Kimball treasurer and secretary. The principal object of the organization is the preservation of the food fish of the New England states.

Overcome by Smoke.

SKOWHEGAN, Me., Jan. 11.—Mrs. Sargent Nason perished in the burning residence of her family in Canaan yesterday. Her sick husband, her mother, 90 years old, and herself got out, but Mrs. Nason, who returned to secure some household articles, was overcome by smoke and perished.

Burglars Bagged.

BOSTON, Jan. 11.—An important arrest was made here of two house breakers, Thomas Clifford, aged 26, and Hugh Galvin, aged 29. Both men are implicated in a number of robberies which have taken place in the South End during the past three weeks.

Jurist and Statesman.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Jan. 11.—Judge R. B. Hilton died here of paralysis, aged 75. He was one of the most prominent lawyers in Florida. He represented the state in the Confederate congress until the close of the war.

THE TREASURY CRISIS.

Finance Committee Unable to Agree Upon a Relief Measure.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Secretary Carlisle proposed an issue of bonds to the senate committee on finance yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Carlisle said he wanted authority to issue bonds, and so stated to the committee afterwards. He thinks an issue of bonds the simplest way to meet the apparently rapidly approaching crisis in the treasury.

The secretary dwelt briefly on the rapidly diminishing gold reserve, and stated that instead of increasing, as he had hoped the government receipts would do, they had continued to diminish until there was coming to be a monthly gap of about $10,000,000 between receipts and expenditures. He thought, therefore, that it was expedient that congress should take steps to provide against the evil. He asked that the act of 1875 for the resumption of specie payments, which also authorizes a bond issue, should be so amended as to permit this issuance for shorter time and at a lower rate of interest than is provided for in that act.

The lowest rate of interest named in the bonds provided for in the act is 4 per cent, and the time for the 4 per cent bonds is 30 years. He thought it would be a very easy matter to sell enough bonds to tide over the present emergency, to meet the prospective deficiency of the present fiscal year, at 3 per cent interest and running for three, four or five years.

There was a general interchange of opinion among members of the committee. Enough was developed to show that it is going to be very difficult for the committee to agree upon a bill. The Republican members made remarks which seemed to indicate that they could not be counted upon to aid the Democratic administration in getting itself out of its difficulties.

Another element in the committee holds that instead of bonds, certificates should be issued upon the silver seigniorage in the treasury. The meeting dispersed without taking any action.

MORTALLY WOUNDED.

Italian Shoots Two Brothers In a Quarrel Over Money.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Three brothers, locked in a room at 20 Mulberry street, settled a feud yesterday afternoon. One of them shot and mortally wounded the two others. He was Andrea Delsarte. His two brothers are Luigi and Gaetano.

The three were together in an upper room an hour or more. Just when the clanging of fire bells in the street was diverting every one's attention, two shots were fired in the room.

Andrea came forth alone. Locking the door he ran down the street and was lost in the crowd. Moans from the brothers' room attracted attention and the door was burst in. Luigi and Gaetano lay on the floor writhing. Luigi was shot through the head, his brother through the breast.

It was impossible to probe for the bullets, but both had done their work. The police learned that the three quarreled about money. Andrea had money in the bank. His brothers charged that he was crazy, and wanted to get the money away from him lest he waste it. Ever since the two brothers attempted to control Andrea and dictate to him concerning the disposition of the cash he has been at deadly enmity with them. Several quarrels occurred, of which the shooting was the climax. The police have not yet captured Andrea.

Work of Mexican Insurgents.

EL PASO, Tex., Jan. 11.—The band of insurgents led by Victor L. Orchea, captured the Los Vegas ranche, adding 10 men and 15 rifles and ammunition to their forces. They also captured 15 militiamen sent in pursuit of them. A mail stage was robbed yesterday of all property that belonged to the government. The revolutionists claim that in the mountains they have 2000 men, and that within two months they have killed 300 federals and had more than twice that number join them.

Charley Bennett Loses Both Legs.

WELLSVILLE, Kan., Jan. 11.—Charley Bennett, the famous catcher of the Boston Baseball club, will never appear on the diamond as a player again. He was run over by a Santa Fe passenger train last night and had both legs cut off. He was on his way from Kansas City to Williamsburg and got off at Wellsville to speak to a friend, and in getting on slipped and fell under the wheels. He is suffering intense agony.

Must Hear From Canada.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—At the annual meeting of the New York board of trade considerable discussion resulted on the introduction of a resolution and memorial by Erastus Wiman that the provisions of the Wilson bill should not go into effect until Canada had given assurance to this country of reciprocal arrangements. The resolution was adopted by a vote of 19 to 11.

To Close For Three Weeks.

WALTHAM, Mass., Jan 11. — The adjusters, watchmakers and train employes of the American watch factory here have been notified that their departments will close down for three weeks after next Saturday for the purpose of taking an account of stock. It is expected that by Feb. 1 the other departments will be closed for the same purpose.

Vote Will Be Close.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Mr. Tucker has been canvassing the situation in the house with a view to determining the chances of the income tax proposition when it comes to a vote. He says that his conclusion is that the vote will be very close.

Aged Man Decapitated.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 11. — Isaac Bancroft, 69, was instantly killed at Rockville, Conn., by being run over by the cars. His head was completely severed from his body. Bancroft was trying to get on the train, which was moving slowly.

Cape Ann's Breakwater.

BATH, Me., Jan. 11.—The Bath board of trade convened in special meeting and adopted a resolution urging congress to make an early completion of the breakwater now building at Cape Ann for a harbor of refuge.

BILL JONES' NAME

Figures Prominently In the Debate on the Tariff.

DALZELL RAPS AT CLEVELAND.

Warner Says Rich Beggars Make Up a Tariff.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—The attendance on the floor of the house was rather slim when the hour of 11 o'clock arrived, but the hall filled up. Immediately after the reading of Tuesday's journal Mr. Boutelle of Maine again brought up the subject of Hawaii, but he went off on still another tack.

He quoted the speaker's decision, holding that his (Mr. Boutelle's) resolution presented a question of high privilege, but the adoption of the special order brought up from the committee on rules seemed to bind the house hand and foot until Jan. 29. He insisted that the constitution of the United States made the house a coordinate branch of congress, with the right to decide as to all questions appertaining to its rights, privileges and dignity.

After a hot colloquy between Mr. Tracy and Mr. Boutelle the speaker decided against the gentleman from Maine, and directed the clerk to call the committees for reports.

Johnson's Speech.

Representative Hopkins finished his speech and was followed by Tom Johnson of Ohio. "We, of the Democratic party," he said, "went before this country in 1892, pledging ourselves to abolish the existing tariff if the American people gave us the authority. They did give us authority, and then our haste to repeal oppressive taxes subsided

"The house has stood paralyzed because, despite our overwhelming majority, we Democrats would neither furnish a quorum to be counted nor count the one that was really present. While we have been fiddling Rome has been burning."

Mr. Johnson had a sharp tilt with Mr. Walker of Massachusetts over the cost of manufacturing steel rails, in the course of which he declared that Carnegie had the finest mill in the world.

"And protection made it," interjected Mr. Walker.

"Oh, no," replied Mr. Johnson, "You don't believe a duty at the custom house built it? Bill Jones built it."

"You can say Bill Jones, if you like," replied Mr. Walker, "but protection made it possible."

"Bill Jones is no myth," answered Mr. Johnson. "Bill Jones stood with me during the Johnstown flood, side by side, while rich men were shirking; with Bill Jones' brains and Carnegie's money, the honors were easy."

When Mr. Jones finished the most enthusiastic scene witnessed since the tariff debate began occurred. The Democrats cheered and crowded about to shake his hands and congratulate him.

Dalzell's Argument.

After order was restored, Mr. Dalzell, one of the Republican members of the ways and means committee, took the floor with a carefully prepared argument. Mr. Dalzell said that the election of 1892, which resulted in the a c n ency in all branches of the government of the Democratic party, had no sooner occurred than a crisis ensued, amongst the most appalling in our economic history. In the few months that the dominant party has held the reins of government it has proved itself conspicuously incompetent with a single important question presented by the responsibilities of civil administration.

Mr. Dalzell claimed that the executive had usurped the functions of congress not to meet any exigency but to undertake and miserably fail in a foreign policy. Continuing, he said: "Aside from any question as to rendering useless American mines, sacrificing American furnaces, American labor and capital, are you ready to subject yourselves to the European monopoly of a production that lies at the foundation of great iron and steel industries of the United States?"

He said the pending bill was a direct blow at labor in two ways—first, in its putting upon the free list raw materials (so called); and second, in failing to provide for duties that are protective to manufactures and products of labor.

Warner Speaks of "Rich Beggars."

Mr. Dalzell was followed by Dewitt Warner (Dem., N. Y.). Mr. Warner began by making some humorous observations on the testimony offered in behalf of different interests before the ways and means committee. "Such a musketry of beggary," he said, "had not disgraced the Capitol since these rich beggars came down here in 1880 and made up a tariff bill that would line their pockets at the expense of the consumer."

He denounced the sugar trust and the Standard Oil trust and the protection accorded them in the bill. "We have kicked out Republican reciprocity," said he, "and now we propose to renew it for the benefit of the sugar trust. If Germany wants to give us free sugar, for God's sake let us have it. I am going to vote for this bill," he concluded, "because it contains reductions in schedules. I shall vote for it because I think when we carry the outworks we will then turn the guns on the citadel."

Time Wasted by Criticism.

Mr. Coombs (Dem., N. Y.) made the last speech of the afternoon. Protection, he said, had done more harm than good, and it has left us today a legacy of complications which it would take a generation to straighten out. The Wilson bill would pass both houses and be signed, and perhaps it was a useless waste of time to criticise it. It simply reduced the rates on the old lines, and perhaps for this reason did not reach the full measure of Democratic expectation. It did not injure the people except in its recoil.

Without completing his speech the committee rose, and at 5:30 the house took a recess until 8 o'clock.

At the night session Mr. Snodgrass (Dem., Tenn.), Mr. Mahon (Rep., Pa.), and Mr. Curtis (Rep., Kan.), were the speakers, and at 10:30 the house adjourned.

MORE BURGLARIES.

They Get in Their Work at Braintree Neck Near Quincy Line.

Three breaks at Braintree Neck and two or more attempts were made early Wednesday morning. Silver and other valuables were secured at the residences of Charles Hayward, Nathan Crane and Joseph Crane, to the value of $100 or more. Attempts were made to enter the residences of Daniel Hayward and Parker Hayward and possible others.

The above residences are on the outskirts of Braintree where police protection is not practicable. The Vigilant Committee will do what it can to detect the thieves.

At Nathan Crane's, Mrs. Crane was sleeping in the front room. She was sick with typhoid fever and had a lamp lighted in her room all night, and, despite the fact that only folding doors separated her room from the dining room where the burglars were at work, the latter did the job so quietly that Mrs. Crane was not made aware of their presence.

The latter conducted the installation ceremonies and was highly spoken of by the members present. Regular business over, speeches were given by Grand Chief and others; after which a collation was served.

The remainder of the evening's enjoyment consisted of songs and recitations by a number of clansmen.

IN GREAT LUCK.

Benjamin Webber and His Sister Reported to Have Fallen Heirs to Millions.

If the report received by parties in Quincy is true, it will be Mr. Benjamin Webber in the future, instead of plain "Ben Webber," for he will be raised from the position of a common day laborer to that of a millionaire and he and his sister, who will be lifted with him, will move their chattels from Brackett street to a location more congenial to their new station in life.

The word received Tuesday was in substance as follows:

Years ago there lived in New York a man by the name of Webber, who was possessed of a large estate. He died one day and all efforts to find any heirs to his estate have proved fruitless. In time the estate was built upon, so that today it is worth something like $3,000,000.

The claim of the Quincy parties is that the man Webber was a great uncle of theirs and that they are the heirs.

When it became noised about that "Ben" and his sister might possibly become millionaires, there was considerable excitement on Brackett street, and the parties interested lost no time in consulting Chief of Police Langley, who listened to their story which hardly seemed creditable. He advised them to consult counsel, which they did, and the office of J. W. McAnarney was visited. After hearing their story he decided that it was worth investigating and he immediately took steps in that direction.

ALL FOR A QUARTER.

Pies in Abundance and Variety, and a Rich Entertainment.

The Universalist Ladies' Association provided in the church vestry on Wednesday evening a first class menu for the supper and an excellent programme for the entertainment. Its a marvel how they can afford to furnish the former, consisting of all sorts of pies (hot and cold), cake, coffee, etc., for fifteen cents, and the latter composed of music and readings of a high order for ten cents. But they did it, on Wednesday evening.

The entertainment began and ended with singing by a quartette, consisiting of Mrs. Hunting, Mrs. Winslow, and Messrs. Packard and Geary. Mrs. Hunting sang several solos with exquisite expression. A cultivated audience anywhere would be delighted with her manner and method. Mr. Fiske was most enjoyed in his funny selections. He has a voice capable of filling the largest hall. Miss Elliot's readings were very acceptable to the audience, and she showed good judgment in making her selections. Mr. Harlow presided at the piano. For a stormy night the audience was large, nearly filling the vestry.

A verdict was reached Wednesday afternoon in the Superior court at Dedham, in the case of Henry C. Gardner of South Hingham vs. the town of Weymouth, an action of tort to recover $4000 damages for personal injuries that the plaintiff received on Broad street, East Weymouth, Dec. 12, 1891, because of an alleged defect in the highway. ASSOCIATED CHARITIES.

A Constitution Adopted—A Change in Officers—Cases Considered.

A goodly number of the directors of the board of Associated Charities attended the first meeting since organization, which was held in the Y. M. C. A. parlors, Wednesday afternoon.

President Field presided, and Miss Hardwick was secretary.

The latter however resigned both the offices of secretary and treasurer. The vacancies were filled by the election of Miss Flora S. Davis as secretary, and Miss Leila Miller as treasurer.

The committee on constitution and by-laws reported and after one amendment were adopted. It was voted that the same be published in the DAILY LEDGER and that 50 slips be printed.

Several of the directors reported cases of need which had been brought to their attention, and the same were considered.

The need of a central place for the storage of supplies was brought up, and referred to the Ward One directors.

Mrs. Edward Russell sent word that she had a barrel of clothing which would be forwarded to the association.

It was voted that the board hold fortnightly meetings on Wednesday afternoons at 3.30.

The constitution adopted is printed in full below, and clearly shows the objects of the Associated Charities, and how they will work.

I. Name.

The name of this society shall be the "Associated Charities of Quincy."

II. Objects.

It shall aim to secure and maintain the concordant co-operation of the charities of Quincy, and of all benevolent persons resident in the city, in order

1. To investigate thoroughly the case of every person whose name is presented, or who applies for relief; and to place all information obtained at the disposal of the Overseer of the Poor, of charitable organizations, and of benevolent individuals.

2. To help raise the needy above the need of relief by the friendly and sympathetic encouragement of thrift, industry and self-dependence.

3. To consider methods and adopt measures for the prevention of indiscriminate alms-giving and pauperism, and the lessening of the delinquent classes.

III. Members.

Any resident of Quincy can become a member of this association by paying annually one dollar or more into its treasury. Also the Overseer of the Poor, the Superintendent of the Almshouse, ministers of churches in Quincy, and officers and managing boards of charitable societies affiliating with this association shall be members, ex officio.

IV. Directors.

The management of the association shall be vested in a Board of Directors to consist of thirty members, five from each ward of the city, who shall be elected at each annual meeting, and, ex officio, the Overseer of the Poor and a representative of each affiliating charitable body. The directors from each ward shall choose from their own numbers a ward secretary, and shall fill vacancies in their own committee.

V. Officers.

The officers of the association shall be chosen annually by the Board of Directors. They shall be a president, vice-president, recording secretary, corresponding secretary and treasurer. They shall be chosen at the first meeting of the Board, after the annual meeting of the association, and shall hold their offices for one year, and until others are chosen in their stead.

VI. Duties and Powers of Directors.

It shall be the duty of the Directors from each ward to see that the case of every person applying for relief is thoroughly investigated, and the results registered in full with the ward secretary, and by that officer a copy shall be forwarded to the Recording Secretary, who shall make such use of these records as may best carry out the purposes of this organization; to ascertain how best to aid deserving applicants, and to lift them, where possible, into self-respect and self-support, and in order to do this, to organize a corps of volunteer visitors, each of whom shall be assigned to a small number of cases; to arrange for and encourage conferences of visitors; to control the funds of the association, which shall be devoted solely to the objects as already set forth; and to do whatever is necessary to carry out the work of the association, and to present a written report thereon at the annual meeting.

VII. Meetings.

The annual meeting of the association shall be held in the month of November. The President may call a meeting whenever he shall deem it best, and special meetings shall be called by the President at the written request of five members. Notice of the annual meeting and of special meetings must be published at least one week before they are to be held.

VIII. Amendment.

This constitution may be amended at any meeting of the association; provided, that notice of an intention to move an amendment be in the call for such meeting.

"A MATTER OF CAUTION."

British Commander Wanted to Land Forces at Honolulu.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—It has been authoritatively learned by the members of the house committee on foreign affairs that British marines were not landed at Honolulu. It appears that the British naval commander requested permission to land a force of marines as a matter of caution, but the actual landing was not made. Members of the foreign affairs committee do not attach much significance to this action by the British commander, but Chairman Cummings of the house naval committee does not entirely agree in this opinion. He says that if British forces have sought to make a landing it will add another serious complication to the case. He refers to the manner in which Great Britain secured a foothold on the Gilbert islands, and then assumed control of them.

Congressmen who have visited the White House and state department have received definite information that President Cleveland will send another Hawaiian message to congress covering the dispatches brought by the Corwin.

NO REASON FOUND.

Salisbury Beach Poisoning Cases Due to Paris Green.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Jan. 11.—Justice Bartlett has filed a finding in the mysterious Salisbury beach poisoning cases of the summer of '92. He finds that in the fatal cases death was the result of paris green poisoning, and that the poison was placed in the food or drink of the victims on July 20th by some person or persons unknown.

Of 21 persons employed about the hotel 12, including the proprietor, were poisoned, and Leroy C. Smith and Daniel McCarthy, employes, and Mrs. Wilson of Georgetown, Mrs. Mary C. Webster of Haverhill and Mrs. W. B. Sanborn of Haverhill, guests, died as a result of the poisoning.

Justice Bartlett could not learn that all those poisoned partook of the same food or drink and the poison must have been mixed in different dishes. No reason for the deed can be found.

Grangers on Taxes.

HARTFORD, Jan. 11.—At the meeting of the Connecticut state grange the recommendations of the committee on taxes were unanimously adopted. The committee recommended a new oath for property owners to subscribe to before assessors, and that false swearing as to property value be punished by forfeiture of the property; that towns should not be called upon to pay a tax for the support of the state government; that a graduated distribution tax be levied on estates of deceased persons in process of settlement, such tax to be paid before the settlement of the estate on an order of the judge of probate, one-half to the town and the remainder to the state. The graduation varies from a tax of 1-2 of 1 per cent on estates less than $5000 to 10 per cent on estates over $200,000.

SHOT HER HUSBAND.

Mrs. Pusi Followed Enunciato Basili From Providence to Brooklyn.

BROOKLYN, Jan. 11.—A handsome young Italian woman approached Policeman Kennedy yesterday and told him that a man on the opposite side of the street had shot her husband last week in Providence. Kennedy arrested the man, who described himself as Enunciato Basili, 26 years old, no home. The woman said she was Mrs. Rosini Pusi of 46 Pearl street, Providence, and repeated her story.

She said Basili had made such violent love to her that her husband quarreled with him. Basili then shot him twice and ran away. She followed him to Brooklyn from Providence, she says. Basili was sent to jail and the Providence authorities have been notified.

Senator Gorman's Discovery.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Senator Gorman states that the appropriations of the last three years have exceeded the revenue by $300,000,000. The statement has created much comment among the members of the appropriations committee of the house, where appropriations are originated. It was the first time that a public man had asserted that such an enormous disparity between income and expenses existed.

Bay State Prohibitionists.

BOSTON, Jan. 11.—The Massachusetts Prohibition state committee elected these officers: John Blackmar of Springfield, chairman; Charles Burnham, vice chairman; F. W. Clark, secretary; William H. Partridge, treasurer. Lieutenant Governor Wolcott, Hamlin of Boston, Professor Samuel Dickey of Albany and other prominent speakers made addresses on the temperance question.

Peter Bennett's Wealth.

SKOWHEGAN, Me., Jan. 11.—There promises to be a legal fight over the estate of Miser Peter Bennett of Newport, whom Whitney and Foster robbed of $30,000, and for which they were sentenced to state prison. Two wills are filed for probate, one by the son Franklin Bennett, the other by the daughters. There is a difference of $1000 between the two wills.

Famous Bell Foundry Burned.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 11.—Fire broke out in the bell foundry of the McShane Manufacturing company last night and patterns valued at $200,000, together with $15,000 worth of machinery, were totally destroyed. The building was valued at $30,000, and was about half burned down.

Burlington Train Held Up.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Jan. 11.—The "Burlington Eli" was held up by five men about three miles east of this city last night. The robbers secured mail pouches and all the contents of the safe in the express car. The amount secured is unknown.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 11.—Nothing has been heard as yet from Governor Mitchell in regard to the statement sent out by the Duval Athletic club. Consequently the feeling is general that the battle will not be interfered with.

THE LATE JOHN CALL.

His Business Partner Talks of the Suicide and Finances.

Mr. George M. Stevens, the partner of Mr. John Call, who committed suicide at Wollaston was seen at his office, No. 3 Commercial street, on Wednesday. To the Journal reporter he said: "I had no idea that John contemplated anything of this kind. The last time I saw him, he went out of this office on Monday night as bright and chipper as I ever saw him in my life. He has been the financial man of the concern, the bookkeeper, while I have been on the road all the time selling our goods, produce and eggs. I found a letter here this morning addressed to me. It was from John. He wrote that he had tired of the worriment and perplexities of the past three months. Business has been dull, as it is with everybody. I left all the accounts and the finances to John. He bade me goodby and intimated that he should do what it now appears he has done.

"I have been in partnership with John Call for six years past and have always found him perfectly square, but he was 58 years old and he found it more than he could stand. I have no knowledge of how we stand, and I can make no statement for this reason, I have called a meeting of all our creditors to see how we shall settle and to go over the accounts. I do not know yet what they will show because John managed it all."

Creditors' Meeting.

The room was filled with the associates in the produce trade of Mr. Call. The creditors responded to Mr. Stevens' summons, and chose Mr. John P. Tilton as their Chairman. After some discussion, Messrs. G. W. Fiske, George E. Mitchell and J. W. White were chosen a committee to go over the firms books and prepare a statement of just what they did owe and the accounts receivable. It was stated that there was no one who could yet say the firm would not pull out all right and pay dollar for dollar. The meeting adjourned at the call of its committee. Mr. Upton of the produce trade said: "I speak from an acquaintance of 44 years with John Call, and I may say that I never knew him to be other than square in all his business dealings. He was a man who never would prevaricate, and would tell you just how he stood."

"John Call was pure gold," said ex-Mayor Mitchell of Chelsea. "He was Orderly Sergeant of Company H, Charlestown City Guards, in the old Fifth Regiment, and I made the campaign with him down at Newbern with Gen. Foster. A finer soldier or a man of more commanding presence I never knew."

Mr. Call's wife died two years ago, leaving him with one child, a daughter. Her death, with the dull state of business and the depressing outlook ahead of him, in the judgment of his friends, was the cause of his taking his life in the way he did. He was for many years the junior of the old firm of Roberts & Call.

GROCERS' BANQUET.

The Old Colony Union Hold Its Annual Meeting In Boston.

Quincy was largely represented Wednesday evening at the first annual meeting and banquet of the Old Colony Grocers Union, held in the United States Hotel, Boston. It was a large gathering, about 150 being in attendance.

At the business meeting the following officers were elected:

President, — Frederick Humphrey of Hingham.

Vice-Presidents,—C. H. Hobart of Braintree, and L. A. Clapp of Brockton.

Secretary,—C. L. Keon of North Abington.

Treasurer,—C. P. Cox of Whitman.

Executive Committee,—Osborne, Rogers of Quincy, E. C. Hall of Brockton, F. L. Clarke of Rockland, E. W. Hunt of Weymouth and Arthur Faunce of North Abington.

The postprandial exercises were enlivened by the Puritan quartette and an orchestra. There were speeches by President Hersey, ex-President Bond of the Boston Retail Grocers Association, Senator Merrill of Quincy, Mayor Whipple of Brockton and others.

Among the Quincy grocers present were: John F. Merrill, G. H. Wilson, Osborne Rogers, John W. Nash, Lester M. Pratt, John Curtis, 2d, T. J. Lamb, T. L. Pearce, D. H. Fitzgerald, George Prout, D. Emonds, Frank Brewer, and William Callahan.

WEYMOUTH.

Mrs. Sophia (French) Dizer, widow of John Dizer, and the oldest person but one in Weymouth, died Tuesday in her 94th year. She was a native of Weymouth and a descendant of one of the oldest families. She possessed a vigorous constitution, and but for an accident, by which she sustained a fractured hip a few weeks since, would have undoubtedly rounded out a century. She leaves four children, Marshall C. Dizer, the well-known boot and shoe manufacturer; ex-Selectman Jacob F. Dizer, Mrs. Henry R. Tirrell and Mrs. Silas Canterbury, all of whom reside in Weymouth.

A special town meeting will be held at the Town Hall, Weymouth, Tuesday evening, Jan 23. The main articles to be acted upon are—To see if the town will rescind a vote passed at the last annual meeting ordering that the board of selectmen consist of three instead of five members, as at present; also to instruct the treasurer to issue additional water bonds to the amount of $5000.

MELLO IN RIO BAY.

He Will Personally Supervise an Attack Upon Nictheroy.

BUENOS AYRES, Jan. 11.—Most important news has been received here from Rio de Janeiro. According to dispatches the Brazilian insurgents have recaptured the islands of Mocangue and Engenho and are preparing to make a landing in strong force at Niaharo.

It also reported that Admiral de Mello, on board the warship Aquidaban, has succeeded in re-entering Rio bay in spite of the active outlook kept for him by the government forts at the entrance to the harbor, and it is added that Admiral de Mello is personally supervising the land operations which, it is said, are to be undertaken at Nictheroy.

If the rebels are successful in making a landing at Nictheroy it is said a general attack on the city of Rio de Janeiro will be immediately commenced, every available man on board the insurgent warships being utilized in the attack.

President Peixoto is aware of the contemplated rebel movement, and is taking vigorous measures to meet the attack.

WAR CLOUDS.

France Is Charged With Abetting the Revolt In Sicily.

VIENNA, Jan. 11.—The Gazetta Di Venezia says that the commander of the forces in Liguria and Piedmont has been ordered to complete the arming forthwith of the forts on the French frontier, and to complete the arming of the batteries on the Tyrrhenian sea (that part of the Mediterranean which extends between the coast of Italy and the islands of Corsica, Sardinia and Sicily.) In addition, it is stated that several army corps have been ordered to place themselves in readiness for the outbreak of war.

The news has caused great excitement in Venice, and it is believed that the reason for taking these extraordinary steps is the fact that the Italian government has positive proof that France is aiding the revolutionary movement in Sicily.

LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT.

Lillian Russell Once More to Make a Matrimonial Venture.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Lillian Russell and Signor Perugini who, as Rosa and Chicos in "Princess Nicotine," have been married on the stage of the Casino in each performance, are to become man and wife in fact.

Perugini has been singing the leading part in "Princess Nicotine" only three weeks, and it is said that the two had hardly spoken a dozen words to each other before his engagement. It seems to have been a case of love at first sight.

Miss Russell last night confirmed the report of her approaching marriage, and said it would probably occur in March. Signor Perugini is in private life John Chatterton. He is 39 years old and well known as a baritone singer.

Fortunes For Forty Heirs.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., Jan. 11.—The fortune of several millions, which Marshall Durand left when he died in Baltimore some years ago, is likely to make two people of this town independently rich. They are Gilbert Savoie, a coal man, and Mrs. Frank Eddy. There are about 40 heirs, each of whom will receive about $200,000.

Has Been Stealing For Twenty Years.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 11.—Theodore F. Baker, for 28 years paying teller of the Consolidated National bank, has confessed that during the past 20 years he has stolen more than $47,000. He was arrested and held in $15,000 bail.

Steamboat Line Absorbed.

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 11.—The Consolidated road now has entire control of the Fall River steamboat line, having recently purchased all the shares of the stock previously controlled by the Old Colony.

Hot Times.

TRENTON, Jan. 11.—Republicans battered down the senate doors at the capitol yesterday by using a huge plank and proceeded to do business. More trouble is anticipated.

A Native of the Granite State.

DENVER, Jan. 11.—Judge Lewis B. Aiken, one of the oldest jurists in the west, died here of apoplexy. He was a native of Windsor, N. H.

PATENTS
NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securin foreign patents.

Elf Song.

I twist the toes of the birds a-doze;
I tickle the dew bells bright;
I chuck the chin of the dimpled rose
Till she laughs in the stars' dim light.
The glow worm's lamp I hide in the damp;
I steal the wild bee's sting;
I pinch the toad til' his legs are a-cramp
And clip the beetle's wing.
O ho! O hey!
My pranks I play
With never a note of warning.

I set a snare for the moonbeams fair
All wrought of spider web twine;
I tangle the naughty children's hair
In a snarl of rare design.
I flit through the house without any noise,
There's never an elf so sly;
I break the toys of bad little boys
And the cross little girls who cry.
O hey! O ho!
I work them woe
Till crows the cock in the morning.

PORTUGUESE IN NEW YORK CITY.

Of the 16,000 In the United States the Metropolis Has but 76.

The other day John Gubbins, a Portuguese, was held for trial by Justice Grady at the Yorkville police court under charge of stabbing a policeman. There is nothing strange or peculiar about the arrest of a man charged with stabbing or attempting to stab a policeman, but the oddity connected with Gubbins is the fact that he is a Portuguese.

How many Portuguese do you think there are among the 2,000,000 inhabitants of New York city? Just 76. There are 76 of them, and it is said in police circles to be a fact that Gubbins is the first Portuguese ever under arrest in this city. This would be a very creditable showing if there were more than 76 of them. As it is, the only wonder is that there are so few. In the whole United States there are 16,000 Portuguese. Nine thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine of them are returned by the last census as residents of California, 3,051 as residents of Massachusetts, 733 as residents of Rhode Island and 76 as residents of New York city. They are a maritime people, most numerous in such seaport cities as San Francisco, Boston, Providence, New Orleans and New Bedford, but curiously enough almost unknown in New York, the greatest center of commerce in the western hemisphere.

Emigrants from the lands of Camoens and the Braganzas are famous as sailors and navigators, and their descendants are scattered in many lands, notably in Hawaii, where the Portuguese population is considerable, and the East Indies, where the Portuguese colonies are numerous. New York is a cosmopolitan city. Men of every race and nationality are to be found here. The total immigration to the United States through Ellis island from Jan. 1, 1893, to Dec. 15 was 233,597, and toward this total Portugal contributed the almost infinitesimal total of 79 persons. The Portuguese are, generally speaking, thrifty, hardy, industrious and matter of fact. They have little of the sentiment of their Spanish neighbors. They are law abiding and undemonstrative, and Gubbins appears to be a backslider, stimulated perhaps to deeds of unruly violence by New Jersey whisky or Medford rum, both poor substitutes for the fine wines of the Oporto district shipped from Lisbon and famous the world over.—New York Sun.

THE BASIN OF TENNESSEE.

Oh, the glorious Middle Basin,
The rose in nature's wreath!
With her purpling sky and her hills on high
And her blue grass underneath.
'Tis here our fathers built their homes,
'Tis here their sons are free,
For the fairest land
From God's own hand
Is the Basin of Tennessee.

Oh, the fertile Middle Basin!
Proud Egypt's thrashing floor
Held not in the chain of her golden grain
Such fields as lie at our door.
Our daughters grow like olive plants,
Our sons like the young oak tree,
For the richest land
From God's own hand
Is the Basin of Tennessee.

Oh, the joyous Middle Basin,
Land of the mocking bird!
Where the flying feet of our horses fleet
In front of the race are heard.
They get their gameness from our soil,
Their spirits will ever be,
For the merriest land
From God's own hand
Is the Basin of Tennessee.

Oh, the loyal Middle Basin,
So quick for fife and drum!
She stood in the breach on the Crescent beach
When the hated foe had come.
Her Jackson made our nation safe,
Her Polk an empire free,
For the truest land
From God's own hand
Is the Basin of Tennessee.

Oh, the glorious Middle Basin!
Can we be false to thee?
Sweet land where the earth and the sky gave birth
To the spirit of liberty!
No, not while our maids have virtue,
Not while our sons are free,
For the fairest land
From God's own hand
Is the Basin of Tennessee.
—Maury Democrat.

A COAL OF FIRE.

"He's a muff all round, outside school work, I'm sure. Can't play cricket a little bit anyway," said Douglas Metcalfe.

"Rummy clothes he wears, eh? Hat looks as if it had come out of an old clothes shop," said Frank Newlyn.

"He's a sullen sort of beggar too. I suppose he's proud of his poverty; some fellows are like that, you know," George Marchant remarked.

All the three speakers were in the sixth form at Denmark House, and the boy they referred to was Herbert Grierson, who had just come to the school at the beginning of this term.

It was Saturday afternoon of a warm day in early summer, and the three boys were strolling down toward the bay, on the heights overlooking which the Denmark House stood. When they reached the beach, they found some half dozen other boys undressing preparatory to bathing. A large, broad beamed boat lay out in the bay. One or two other boys were now in it; among the rest Herbert Grierson.

"We'll swim out to those fellows and have a dive from the boat," Douglass Metcalfe said. In two minutes the two were swimming toward the boat, followed closely by Tippoo, Douglas' terrier. They scrambled into the boat. The others were now in the water, with the exception of Grierson, who stood at the bow ready to dive. His clothes lay beside him, with his hat on the top. A sudden spirit of mischief seized Douglas.

"Let's see if he is as good at swimming as he is at Virgil," he whispered to his companions.

"Own up now, Douglas. You're a bit jealous of Grierson. You're afraid he's going to run you hard for dux, old chap," Newlyn said.

"Oh, as to that, I don't care much one way or the other," replied Metcalfe, with a show of carelessness. "But I fancy I'm his match at swimming anyhow. But we'll see in a minute or two."

As he spoke Douglas pretended to stumble against Grierson's clothes, and recovering himself struck the hat with his hand, and sent it spinning into the water.

"Hallo, that was jolly clumsy of me!" he exclaimed.

In a moment Grierson was in the water after his hat, which the breeze had caught and carried to a considerable distance out in the bay. Tippoo was before him, however, and swimming toward the hat.

"Now then. He's got a pretty good start. We'll see who reaches the hat first. But I must send that little rascal Tippoo back," said Metcalfe, who was one of the best swimmers in the school. He leaped into the water and struck out with all his strength in the wake of Grierson.

All were now watching the chase of the hat with interest and laughter and cries of "Go it, Douglas." "Strike out Grierson," "The hat's going to win."

It was quite clear that Herbert Grierson was a strong and expert swimmer. For a little Douglas Metcalfe did not gain a yard upon him, but presently the onlookers could see that the space between the two boys had narrowed. Metcalfe was, in fact, doing his very best, and it was with keen sensation of satisfaction and triumph that he at last overtook and passed his rival.

The hat was now floating a few yards in front of Metcalfe. The chase of it had proved a harder one than had been expected. Metcalfe and Grierson were now far out in the bay, and of course much beyond their depth. At this point a strong current swept past the bay. The River Gleam emptied itself into the sea at the north horn of the bay, and this caused a current which set in a transverse direction across the bay, seaward.

Both boys were by this time in the center of this sea stream. Metcalfe's hand closed upon the hat. It was his intention to swim back with it toward the boat and replace it upon the little pile of clothes, and thus put a triumphant finish to his swimming feat.

Metcalfe was now facing toward the shore again. Grierson had turned too. The latter was quite aware that Metcalfe had acted as he had done not to recover the lost hat and restore it to its owner, but in order to prove his superiority in swimming before the rest of the boys. The latter raised a cheer as they saw Metcalfe striking for the land again, holding the hat in his hand. Then they saw Metcalfe stop suddenly. The arm that held the hat dropped and disappeared below the water.

Grierson, now swimming a yard or two behind Metcalfe, gave a few vigorous strokes which brought him alongside the latter. But before he could stretch out a hand to prevent it Metcalfe's head went under. Grierson dived at almost the same moment. The boys in and around the boat held their breath.

"Something's wrong with Douglas. He's taken cramp or something," George Marchant said.

A minute went by, and they saw the heads of both boys reappear, a yard or two further out. Grierson was supporting Metcalfe with his right arm.

"I've cramp in my right leg and arm," Metcalfe said in a hoarse, low voice. "I'm afraid I can't swim a stroke farther myself."

"All right, try to tread water with your other leg; it will help a little. We'll be all right when we are once out of this current," Grierson replied quietly.

Yet Grierson knew that his task was not going to prove an easy one. For a few minutes he made little or no headway. Metcalfe hung upon his arm almost like a dead weight. Douglas was doing his utmost to help himself, but it availed very little, for, besides the cramp which had attacked him, he was exhausted by his efforts at first to overtake and outstrip Grierson.

Grierson struggled on, his burden impeding every stroke he made and lessening its effect. The boy felt his own strength ebbing fast. Unless he got out of the current in a few minutes more, he feared that all would be lost. But he was making progress and could see that the distance between the boat and himself was lessening.

"A minute more, and we shall be in smooth water," he whispered hoarsely to Metcalfe.

As he spoke Grierson changed Metcalfe from his left arm to his right and used the left for swimming. This gave him considerable ease and rest, and his next few strokes were freer and more vigorous. And now he felt the current decidedly lessening in force. He summoned up all his remaining energy in one last effort, and half a dozen more strokes brought him free of the current.

The two boys were in calm water, and now, too, they were met by George Marchant and Frank Newlyn, who relieved Grierson of his burden and took Metcalfe between them. In this order they reached the boat. There were many outstretched arms to help them in, and then the boat was towed to the shore.

Dr. Metcalfe, the principal of Denmark House and Douglas' father, was not a little alarmed at what had happened, though he did not show it. Both boys were immediately got to bed, and prompt measures taken to restore warmth and circulation to their chilled and aching bodies. These had the desired effect; in a day or two both Grierson and Metcalfe were back in class and playground.

The latter took an early opportunity of seeking Grierson alone.

"I have to thank you very much, Grierson," he said. "You saved my life at the risk of your own; there's no doubt about that. And the whole thing was my fault too. I am very sorry. Will you accept my best thanks, and try to forget my part in the matter? I'll never forget yours."

"Why, of course," Grierson replied, and there the matter ended.—New York Journal.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A HORSE.

The Costly Animal Goes Mad and Tears Itself Almost to Pieces.

J. E. Sechrist of this county lost his fine stallion Fleetwood in a peculiar and terrible manner. The animal was a very fine one, an inbred Hambletonian, both powerful and speedy. A few days ago it was taken with blind staggers, and its sufferings were terrible. The climax of the disease was reached on Tuesday morning, when the animal went crazy. He was tied in his stable, but in his agony he broke the strong rope halter as if it were a thread, and driving his head against the side of the barn covered everything with blood.

Finally he made a desperate effort at the door, and tearing it from its hinges went at a run through the field. His speed was terrific, and he stopped not for paling, board or wire fences, but took everything in his mad run. He ran through a paling fence six times and through a four wire barbed fence 18 times, tearing his legs and body in a horrible manner. It was just before day, and Mr. Sechrist says that every time he struck the wire the fire flew, and the ring of the wire could be heard a long distance. Finally, from exhaustion and loss of blood, he fell and died. Mr. Sechrist valued him at $2,660 and brought him from Kentucky.—Oklahoma Special.

She Died With the Cat.

Mrs. Allie Spencer of Stillwater was found dead in her house there recently. It was at first supposed to be a case of suicide, but later developments showed that it was the result of a strange accident. Mrs. Spencer had said she intended to chloroform an old house cat. The cat was found lying dead in a box, which also held a large sponge. The strong odor of chloroform in the room told the rest of the sad story. Mrs. Spencer, while chloroforming the cat, must have been overcome by the fumes of the volatile drug, and having a chronic heart trouble had expired there alone.—Lewiston Journal.

"VIVE L'ANARCHIE."

Vaillant's Cry When the Death Sentence Was Pronounced.

A TRIAL OF SHORT DURATION.

Anarchist Shown to Be a Thief With a Record.

PARIS, Jan. 11.—The trial of Auguste Vaillant, the anarchist who on Dec. 9 last threw a bomb which exploded in the chamber of deputies, was begun yesterday. The palace of justice, in which the trial took place, was surrounded by guards. The court was thronged with people when Vaillant was brought in, closely guarded by policemen.

Vaillant was tried in the assizes court, presided over by Judge Caze. Public Prosecutor Bertrand asked Vaillant his name, and the prisoner, in a firm voice, replied: "Auguste Vaillant."

He said that he was 32 years of age. The prisoner answered the public prosecutor's questions in a cool and defiant manner. After he had admitted that he had been several times in prison for theft, he exclaimed fiercely: "The unjust conditions of society were responsible for what you are pleased to term robberies."

The Testimony.

Replying to other questions Vaillant said that he conceived the idea of blowing up the chamber of deputies while he was living at Choisey-le-Roi, and admitted that he obtained the money with which he purchased the material for making his bomb from the results of a theft. He also admitted reluctantly that he had received 20 francs from Mme. Paul Rectus. Vaillant, however, insisted that Mme. Rectus gave him the money as an act of charity, and not as a subscription to the cause of anarchy, or to in any way further its ends.

"Did you obtain an order of admittance to the gallery?" asked the public prosecutor.

"I did," replied the prisoner.

"Was the order given to you by a deputy?" asked the public prosecutor.

"It was," said Vaillant, after a short pause.

When questioned regarding the actual explosion of the bomb, Vaillant said that he regretted that the bomb did not have the effect he desired, and explained that this was owing to the fact that one of his neighbors in the gallery chamber of deputies accidentally knocked his arm while he was in the act of throwing the loaded missile.

The prisoner, replying to further questions, said that he filled his bomb with nails, as he only wished to severely injure some of the ministers and deputies, and asserted in proof of this that if he had wished to kill he would have fired his bomb with cartridges. He said he would rather have seen 200 or 300 deputies killed than a single spectator injured, adding: "It would have been better for the cause of anarchism."

The judge dwelt upon the deaths which might have resulted in the chamber of deputies from the explosion of Vaillant's bomb. This feature of the trial seemed to enrage the anarchist to the highest degree, for he interrupted the judge, shouting at the full pitch of his voice and in the most furious manner: "Don't cry about deaths, since none occurred."

Vaillant's Defense.

The prisoner was allowed to read a long statement. "I said to myself," he went on, "why work when wife and child are perishing of starvation? I asked myself this question many and many a time during the daytime, and as I lay awake at night, feverishly tossing about in my hard bed, without knowing where the next day's food was to come from, and without having any means of knowing where I was to get the next franc which was to put off for another day what seemed to be the inevitable end of our long struggle for existence—starvation, I resolved to manufacture that bomb and to throw it into the chamber of deputies in order that its explosion might echo around the world and possibly be the signal for others to take desperate means to attract attention to the sufferings of the poor.

"My act was born of the misery of the people, whole families of whom are dying of starvation. Woe betide those who leave their fellow-men to die for want of bread for them; we shall see the bloody heads of the exploiters of the people carried aloft, on pikes."

The hearing of witnesses in the case commenced with the testimony of Mme. Peyraud, Vaillant's landlady, who gave various details as to his movements. Deputy Ferronais testified in regard to the explosion which wounded his friend, Count de Lanjuinais, deputy from Morbihan. M. Lacigier told how he saw Vaillant breaking one of the windows in the chamber of deputies in order to try and made his escape after the explosion. An infantry soldier testified that he was on duty outside the window where Vaillant attempted to break through and escape, and that he (the soldier) threatened to drive his bayonet through Vaillant if he did not go back.

Vaillant here interposed, declaring that the soldier was deliberately lying.

Girard, an expert in explosives, then explained the composition of the bomb, and said that its explosion in the air alone prevented many deaths. Several surgeons testified regarding the gravity of the wounds.

Deputy Furnished a Pass.

The first testimony given for the prisoner was furnished by M. Benon, a municipal councillor, who said that he could not believe that Vaillant was capable of committing such an outrage. Other witnesses testified to the prisoner's previous good character, and afterwards Prosecutor Bertrand delivered his speech for the prosecution.

The jury retired at 5:35 p. m., and were absent for 20 minutes. Upon their return it was announced that they found the prisoner "Guilty, without extenuating circumstances."

Vaillant sprang to his feet and shouted: "It is death; I thank you for it."

The presiding judge announced the sentence of death, and Vaillant, upon hearing the words, shouted: "Vive l'Anarchie."

When the verdict was announced Vaillant turned with a smile to the people in the courtroom and passed his hand around his neck to signify that the guillotine would be his doom. The prisoner has refused to sign an appeal to the court of cassation against his sentence.

PATENTS
FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

FOR AND AGAINST.

Another Day and Night Devoted to Talk on the Tariff.

BOTH SIDES STRONGLY ARGUED.

Summary of the Speeches of Nine Congressmen.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—After the morning business had been disposed of the house went into committee of the whole on the tariff bill.

Mr. Breckinridge (Dem., Ky.) took the floor. For 30 years, he said, the Republican party had held undisputed sway. During those 30 years every form of paternalism had been advocated, and the generation about to take command had unconsciously been educated to believe that the general government should be a partner in all industrial enterprises; that in everything financial, social and political they should lean on the government for support.

We of the Democratic party, he said, believe precisely the reverse; we believe that government came after men to give them opportunity and protection for the development of their energies.

Mr. Breckinridge declared that he was glad that the Wilson bill would leave a deficit. It would give opportunity for the experiment of an income tax that burdens no man for the benefit of his rival. It would create vigilance in governmental economy.

Mr. Richards (Dem., O.) followed Mr. Breckinridge with a short speech in support of the bill, after which Mr. Dingley (Rep., Me.) took the floor.

Dingley Has His Say.

Mr. Dingley said that the present so-called revenue bill is a substitute which ignores revenue in order to destroy protection. The revenue bill would yield $76,000,000 less than the tariff of 1890. In short, the proposed tariff is not a bill for revenue only, but for a deficiency only.

Of the $22,000,000 of revenue surrendered in reduced duties on imported manufactures of wool, more than one-half is on fine goods consumed by men of means. The same is true of half of the $3,000,000 of revenue surrendered on imported fine combs and many other goods. Lumber and many agricultural products are placed on the free list, when, by a reciprocal treaty, we could have obtained important concessions from Canada, which we now propose to give away.

It was only a year, he said, since the result of the elections of 1892, foreshadowing a revolutionary change in this policy, first began to cause distrust, which has increased from month to month, until industries are paralyzed, opportunities for employment narrowed and reduced.

Springer's Argument.

There was a good round of applause when Mr. Dingley finished.

Mr. Springer (Dem., Ills.) followed. He wanted to know whether the laborers and agriculturalists of the country, who were now in such distress, had not had the benefits of 30 years of protection. He held that protection had not been advantageous to the farmer, and in proof of this he offered census office statistics as to the amount of mortgage indebtedness.

The total amounted to $5,967,492,904, almost $100 per capita, and fell most heavily on the agricultural states. It amounted to $200 per capita in California, $206 in Colorado, $109 in Illinois, $104 in Iowa, $170 in Kansas, $144 in Massachusetts, $152 in Minnesota, $126 in Nebraska, $167 in New York, $117 in Virginia, $106 in Rhode Island and $106 in Pennsylvania.

Mr. Springer commented on the free list of the Wilson bill, saying that if he had been framing the bill it would have some modifications. These changes, he said, would have allowed an enlargement of the free list. In concluding, Mr. Springer predicted that with free raw materials this country would become the greatest manufacturing country of the world, as it was now the greatest agricultural country, and would drive England from the neutral markets of the world.

Dolliver's Warning.

Mr. Dolliver (Rep., Ia.) followed. He pictured the condition of affairs in 1856, when the low tariff was threatened, comparing it with today when 3,000,000 people were idle. "The saddest sight he had ever witnessed," he said, "was the Philadelphia delegation of young men that met in the ways and means committee room a few months ago, pleading not for their employers but their employment. They represented 200,000 persons, he said, one-fifth of the population of the greatest manufacturing city in the country."

He spoke of the Mills bill and said it was a measure which, in comparison with the pending bill, seemed like the work of a statesman.

Concluding, Mr. Dolliver said: "I beg of you, gentlemen, in the name of every great statesman, from Washington down, to save the American people by refusing to repeat the folly which once destroyed our industries and commercial prosperity."

Harter Reviewed History.

Mr. Harter (Dem., O.), a large manufacturer of agricultural implements and the well-known free trade advocate, declared that if by law the prices of goods were reduced for the benefit of the many, it mattered not how much it injured the few; but when the law put up prices the wrong was manifest because it benefited the few at the expense of the many. The laws should give the greatest good to the greatest number. Mr. Harter was bombarded with questions by Mr. Blair of New Hampshire and others and finally proposed to go back and review the tariff acts of history.

Mr. Brosius (Rep., Pa.) closed the debate for the afternoon in opposition to the bill. He defended the theory of protection. Without completing his speech the committee at 5:30 rose and took a recess until 8 o'clock.

But Few Listeners.

There was a meager gathering at the night session, the Republican side being entirely deserted and the Democratic side showing only 15 members. Representatives Maguire (Dem., Cal.) and Cockrell (Dem., Tex.) spoke in support of the Wilson bill.

Mr. Maguire said that the bill was bad in many particulars, yet it was an honest effort in the right direction, and would, therefore, have his support. Mr. Cockrell's speech was devoted to a constitutional argument against protection.

At 9:50 o'clock the house adjourned.

ADVOCATES THIEVING.

A Loud-Mouthed Agitator Makes a Startling Address.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—At a meeting of the unemployed on Tower Hill, the organizer of the meeting, an agitator named Williams, made a violent speech, during which he said that the workmen could only obtain employment by frightening every proprietor in the country, and that they should follow the example of the Sicilians and refuse to respect property. Continuing, Williams said:

"We must terrorize the capitalists. Are you willing?"

Shouts of "Yes."

"Then on the occasion of our demonstration on Trafalgar square, the first Saturday in February, watch the quarters from which the police are drawn, and go to the unprotected districts and take the things you want. I take it that a skirmish will create a diversion, and after the skirmish something will be done."

TO HIDE HIS GUILT.

Professor Hartshorn Alleged to Have Attempted Double Murder.

NEWCASTLE, Pa., Jan. 12.—A sensation was created here yesterday by the arrest of Professor R. C. Hartshorn, principal of the high school of Chicago, for attempting to murder two young women, Alda and Maggie Robinson, by the use of chloroform. It is alleged that a criminal operation had been performed on Miss Alda recently and that the child had been cremated in a cooking stove on New Year's day. To conceal the evidence of his guilt the attempted double murder was made. Alda is still unconscious from the effects of the chloroform and may die. A prominent physician, who is said to have been implicated, has disappeared.

DANBURY'S TROUBLES

Manufacturers Appear to Be Determined to Run "Free" Shops.

DANBURY, Conn., Jan. 12.—Chances for a settlement of the labor trouble are now decidedly slim. Communications from the manufacturers to the leaders in the trade and to Mayor Andrews show their hand, which is strong for independent shops. A long communication was addressed to the mayor by 17 manufacturers, in which they state that they are about to resume the manufacture of hats. They state that advantageous offers have been made to them to remove elsewhere, but being closely identified with the city by social and financial ties, they are reluctant to go away. They will make an attempt to conduct their business, provided they can be assured of protection in their undoubted right to conduct their factories as seems to them proper.

Doctor Charged With Abortion.

NEWTON, Mass., Jan. 12.—Mrs. Mary Ann Wright lies at death's door at Newton cottage hospital from blood poisoning, the result of an alleged criminal operation performed on her at the house of Dr. John F. Canning of 48 Howard street, Boston, on Jan. 3. The doctor was arrested and has been identified by the woman.

Story Pronounced Untrue.

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 12.—First Vice President Hall of the Consolidated road pronounces as unfounded the statement that the Consolidated is to acquire the New England shortly. He also emphatically denies that there has been any amicable arrangement entered into between the Consolidated and the New England.

Were Valued at Six Millions.

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 12.—The Ponokee and Gogebic Consolidated mines, capitalized for $6,000,000, have passed into the hands of receivers. The group of mines included in the company comprises the Colby, Tilden, Palmer and Comet in Michigan, and the Superior in Wisconsin on the Gogebic range.

Gourko Is Minus a Toe.

BERLIN, Jan. 12.—A dispatch to the Cologne Gazette says: It has been found necessary to amputate one of General Gourko's toes. The operation was successful. General Gourko's condition is improving and the czar has offered him a palace in the Crimea for his convalescence.

Embezzler Redwine's Case.

ATLANTA, Jan. 12.—At the trial of Lewis Redwine yesterday the defense entered a plea of guilty on the charge of embezzling $100,000 from the Gate City National bank. The judge instructed the jury to find the defendant guilty of the three remaining indictments.

Thief Was Swift.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—George B. Hennessy, employed in the retail stamp department of the postoffice, was robbed of stamps to the amount of $560. He turned his back on the window for an instant and turned around just in time to see the stamps disappear.

Robbed His Employers.

HARTFORD, Jan. 12.—Henry Goldsmith, aged 21, salesman at the dry goods store of Cook & Hills, was arrested last evening for stealing money from his employers. The firm refuse to state the extent of his peculations, and his family will probably make the losses good.

Peixoto Hasn't Resigned.

BUENOS AYRES, Jan. 12.—There is no truth in the reported resignation of President Peixoto. The insurgents in Rio Grande do Sul have seized Cuareim.

Three Men Instantly Killed.

ADELPHIA, O., Jan. 12.—A boiler in a sawmill near this place exploded and three men were killed outright. Another was probably fatally injured.

CARTER STEPS OUT.

Manley Is Chairman of Republican Executive Committee.

PRESIDENTIAL TIMBER IN 1896.

Harrison May Once More Lead Republicans.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Every member of the national executive Republican committee was present or represented by a proxy at the first session, which began at noon yesterday.

Mr. Carter tendered his resignation of the chairmanship of the executive committee, giving as reasons for his action his private business and the distance of his home from the center of political interest, which makes it impossible for him to attend the meetings of the committee.

Mr. Manley of Maine was elected temporary chairman of the meeting and afterward elected chairman of the executive committee.

A resolution of thanks to ex-Chairman Carter for his "superior and faithful service" was adopted.

The report of Treasurer Bliss was read and a vote of thanks tendered him.

Much of the afternoon session was devoted to a discussion of the question of maintaining headquarters for the coming congressional campaign. Senator Quay of Pennsylvania took the stand that the committee should first raise the necessary funds to support its establishment before starting headquarters.

William M. Hahn of Ohio was elected secretary of the executive committee, and it was decided that five members should constitute a quorum.

Looking Over the Field.

The purpose of the meeting is to look over the political situation and to map out a line of operations for the congressional campaign of the coming summer and fall. The members of the executive committee report that the conditions never were more favorable for the Republican party than at the present time. The Republican party, they claim, is united and harmonious, and proposes to take advantage of every opportunity which will strengthen it with the business and industrial interests of the country. With this idea in view, they propose to make a very thorough organization, and will establish permanent quarters in this city.

The members of the committee, alluding to the presidential question, say that it is rather early to discuss that question, as nearly three years must elapse before the holding of a national convention. The statement of ex-Senator Palmer of Michigan, that ex-President Harrison was not a candidate in any sense of the term and would not accept a nomination in 1896, is not regarded here as speaking for the ex-president.

General Harrison may have had a conversation with ex-Senator Palmer, as the latter alleges, at Cape May last summer, on this subject, but those who have conversed with him, then and later, concerning presidential candidates put a different construction on the language used by General Harrison. Shortly before General Harrison left the seashore, in conversation with two prominent gentlemen, the subject of candidates came up. The remark was made that presidential timber of available character was very scarce.

McKinley, Reed and Morton.

The ex-president replied to this that there were several gentlemen whose names would occur in that connection. He mentioned first Governor McKinley. To this one of the gentlemen present replied that the Republican party was not yet ready to nominate a candidate whose sole strength was that he was the author of a high protective tariff bill.

Then the ex-president said, "What is the matter with Reed?" It was answered that he was too much identified with the passage of the force bill in the house, accomplished by methods which were much criticised and also upon which subject there was considerable division in his own party.

The ex-president then proposed the name of ex-Vice President Morton, who had won much distinction in presiding over the senate, had made many friends and no enemies, and was a tower of strength in his own state.

"All this is true," said the gentleman, "but he is rather beyond the years of an active candidate; by 1896 he will be nearly 70 years of age." The ex-president said, "That is very true, but still he is very well preserved."

"You will observe," remarked the gentleman, "all the available men have their points of objection, so that, as observed in the first instance, presidential timber is exceedingly scarce, and there appears but one or two names left." The ex-president was left to draw his own inference. A significant smile passed over his countenance when he remarked: "The conditions may all be changed within the next three years, and no one can tell what may be the issues in 1896."

The national executive committee intends to co-operate with the congressional committee and both will vote harmoniously in getting the machinery in order for a vigorous and aggressive campaign The outlook in the judgment of all of the leaders was never more auspicious than during the present year.

A Long Session.

The committee adjourned at midnight after 11 hours of nearly continuous session. The evening meeting was a joint affair.

Plans of organization were outlined by the chairman. The congressional committee, with headquarters at Washington, will furnish campaign documents; the league of clubs, with headquarters in Chicago, will be depended on to distribute documents, organize the voters, and with the congressional committee will supply speakers.

Another meeting of the executive committee will be held this afternoon, when the location of headquarters will be decided, although New York is practically agreed upon. Financial questions engrossed much of the committee's time.

Editorial Comment.

It is quite probable that the taxable valuation of this city will not increase a dollar this year. Everything seems to tend that way and it is well that our city government should keep it prominently in mind and if possible keep the taxes down.

1—Before the next assessment $50,000 worth of taxable property will be taken for playgrounds.

2—The Metropolitan Park Commissioners have just taken land to the value of $60,000 or more for the Blue Hills reservation.

3—Charles Francis Adams who pays a tax on personal estate to the value of $150,000 will probably remove from the city.

4—The general business depression will not justify much of an increase in value of real estate, and without the losses above might cause a shrinkage. Then less new houses may be built.

The increase in valuation in recent years has been rapid and this alone has kept down the tax rate. It is shown in the following figures:

Year.	Real Estate.	Personal Property.	Total Valuation.
1888	$7,825,250	$1,932 710	$ 9,757,960
1889	9,736,625	2,582,620	12,319,245
1890	10,468,200	3,209,210	13,677,410
1891	11,157,925	3,268,935	14,426,830
1892	12,272,575	3,291,845	15,564,420
1893	13,605,675	3,032,695	16,638,070

The number of new houses and tax rate in these years has been:

Year.	New House.	Tax Rate.
1888,	101	$16.70
1889,	163	10.80
1890,	150	13.60
1891,	169	13.60
1892,	234	16.00
1893,	167	15.80

The Transcript says, Many towns in this State are awakening to the virtues of the law passed a couple of years ago by the Legislature relative to the preservation of ornamental and shade trees on the highways, as outlined by a Wollaston correspondent in the Ledger a few days ago. During 1893 fifty thousand of these nails were sent out to towns all over the State, and by that it appears that nearly an equal number of trees will be saved from wanton destruction. The first year only $48 was spent out of the appropriation of $100, but during the last year the demands have been so great that it has necessitated the expenditure of $25 more than the amount appropriated. If this branch of the department work increases in the future at the same ratio it has during the past year, it may become necessary to establish a permanent official whose duties will be to take charge of this work.

Malden don't seem to believe in one-man power. The aldermen this week passed an order authorizing the mayor to appoint a commission to erect the proposed $100,000 high school building, to consist of five citizens, the mayor and president of the Common Council. Rather a large and irresponsible commission we should say. But then Malden is flush for at the same meeting it passed an order for the appointment of a commission of three to revise the ordinances of the city, with a compensation of $600 between them and $100 for clerical hire.

We don't know how much of the $125,000 needed for the completion of the Dedham court house it is contemplated to raise by taxation this year, but taxpayers hope they will not be expected to pay large county taxes this year. The loan might well extend over a few years under the circumstances.

The granite manufacturers or the Monumental News has taken the hint dropped by the Daily Ledger, for in the current issue of the above publication "Quincy" is a conspicuous word in the advertisements of local manufactures. That's right, gentlemen, if you are going to advertise, bring our granite and our city into prominence as well as the firm name.

However desirable that bicycle railroad outlined in another column might be to Boston, its only benefit to Quincy would be as a competing line to the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R., which now has us at its mercy.

To Prevent Grip.

Mr. George T. Angell suggests as a preventative of the grip that wearing a little powdered sulphur in the stockings could not do much harm and might prove as effective as it is said to have proved in yellow fever and cholera, and that an occasional teaspoonful of the old remedy,—sulphur, cream of tartar and molasses,—might give an equally good or even better protection.

VERDICT FOR CITY.

The Trustees of the Woodward Fund Sustained.

THF NEW INSTITUTE ASSURED.

The School Will be Opened in a Few Weeks.

[Special to the Daily Ledger.]

Boston, Jan. 12, 11.10 A. M.—The Supreme court handed down a decision today in the Woodward will case—City of Quincy vs. the Attorney-General. It is in favor of the city, sustaining the position taken, but I am unable at this time to give the substance or text.

J. W. McAnarney,
City Solicitor.

It is possible that the full text of the decision will be found in the Patriot this week. If not it will be in the Ledger of Saturday. A representative of the paper is now in Boston making a copy.

The institute must be established before a certain date in May, and will probably be opened in a few weeks, as the board of education was only waiting for a decision.

NOW $23,000,000.

The Fortune for Mr. Webber and Sister Grows Apace.

The fortune of $3,000,000 reported Thursday as awaiting Benjamin Webber and his sister Mrs. Florina Leavitt has now increased to $23,000,000. The conflicting reports would seem to discredit the whole story but the Journal gives it a whole column today, and a large "scare head" on the first page. It gives the following interview with Mrs. Leavitt:

The Woman's Story.

Mrs. Leavitt, who seemed to be the most interested party, told her story in a straightforward way, and in a tone that impressed one of her earnest belief in the existing fortune.

"It was some time ago," said Mrs. Leavitt, "that this matter was first brought to our attention. My aunt, Mrs. Susan Beals, who lives in North Weymouth, came over one day and related to me the particulars, and told me I had better retain legal advice.

"In the latter part of the summer two New York lawyers came to Marblehead looking for a family named Webber. They found one man who spelled his name Weber, but they said the family they were looking for spelled their name Webber.

"These lawyers next visited my uncle Daniel, who lives in Cambridge, and asked him how he spelled his name. He told them that he spelled it with two bs. They then asked him what his father's name was, and he told them that it was Daniel and his grandfather's name was Nathan, who had lived in New York.

"'I believe you are the party we are looking for,' said the New York lawyers.

The Relationship.

"Nathan Webber died some years ago in New York and left considerable property. This property has been in the hands of lawyers for a long time, and all efforts to find some legal relatives have failed up to now.

"Here the lawyer made the remark that the church was now worth $3,000,000 and the park $20,000,000.'

"They asked Uncle Daniel if he had any relatives, and uncle told him that his sister lived in North Weymouth, and that another relative lived in Augusta, Maine, the latter is, by the way, Dr. Webber, an Augusta physician.

"Uncle Daniel also told the lawers that his brother, who had lived in Quincy, was dead, but that he had left two children, who are my brother and myself. This Nathan Webber, who left the property, was one of the early settlers of New York, and planted the first tree in one of the parks of the city.

"Of course, I suppose that since our father is dead

to anything that has been left to him. Counting Uncle Daniel, Mrs. Beals, Dr. Webber, my brother Ben and myself it would make five heirs, and supposing the lawyer's story that the property is worth $23,000,000 is correct, you can figure out how much each one ought to get.

"Some time ago we saw a piece in the paper, which gave an account of a Webber estate which was then in the New York courts. We did not pay any attention to it, as we had no money with which to look the matter up. My brother Ben only laughs when I tell him that he may be a millionaire, but I may have the laugh on him yet. According to the lawyers the case ought to be finished next week.

"Why, just think of it," said Mrs. Leavitt, as the reporter rose to go," if I only get a million I could live on the interest of it."

"Astonishing"

What? That big cut at Kincaide's from their already low prices on parlor stoves.

BICYCLE RAILROAD.

Outline of the Scheme Proposed by E. Moody Boynton and His Confreres.

In a few weeks, perhaps days, says the Lynn Item, the Massachusetts Legislature will be asked to grant a charter to E. Moody Boynton and others, for a franchise to build an over-head road, steam and electric power, to be operated on the Boynton bicycle railroad system for the purpose of furnishing a solution of the rapid transit problem, of Boston, by an elevated, unobstructed roadbed in the city proper, overhead, descending to the surface outside the city limits.

The plan proposed will be to use the roof of Quincy Market for a terminal station, or in other words, to build an additional story on that building and use that for a central station, the trains to branch off over various routes through Charlestown, Somerville, Malden, Everett, Lynn, Salem to Beverly, Arlington, Lexington, Burlington, Bedford, Chelmsford and Lowell. The Providence route will be through Dedham, Walpole, Foxboro and Wrentham.

A route to Brockton will leave Boston by the India street, Atlantic avenue and Federal street route, and there enter Dorchester avenue, thence to Adams street to Neponset, to Hancock street to Quincy, Franklin street to Independence avenue and Washington street to Braintree, thence through Franklin street to Holbrook and Brockton.

The greatest advantage claimed for this system is the lighter weight in the composition and make-up of the rolling stock of the road, being at least three-quarters lighter than that of the ordinary rolling stock. An ordinary Pullman palace car weighs in the neighborhood of 10 tons, while this style of car can be made not to exceed four or five tons. The ordinary car will be built similiar to the English carriage with compartments seating two. The doors of the car will open automatically at the same time. There is also a double-decker used with the system, which has a a passage through the centre with seats for one person on each side. It is the intention of the parties who apply for a charter to put the road in operation as soon as practicable.

Monuments Proposed.

In the Legislature Thursday, a message from the Governor called attention to a report from Gen. William Cogswell, commissioner appointed under chap. 79, acts of 1893, "for the purpose of ascertaining and marking the position occupied in and about Chattanooga, by the two regiments of Massachusetts troops; engaged in the campaign of Chattanooga in the civil war." The report recommends the appropriation of $1000 for a granite monument on a position on Orchard Knob.

The common council of Boston passed an order Thursday evening that a joint committee, consisting of five members of the council, with such as the aldermen may join, be appointed to consider the expediency of erecting a statue to Gen. Grant or any other hero of the late war that in their opinion the city should thus commemorate.

The project of erecting a monument in Richardson Park, Dorchester, which was adversely reported on by the Finance Committee of the House in 1893, is being revived by the circulation of a petition addressed to the Senate and the House. The monument is intended to commemorate the site of the first town meeting in America, and the site of the first public school supported by taxation.

Agricultural College.

The thirty-first annual report of the Massachusetts Agricultural College has been issued.

Owing to the requirements of the legislature this report ends with October 15, so that it includes only nine months, instead of the usual college year. The financial depression of the country has increased the number of students rather than diminished it. There are two hundred and fourteen enrolled, coming from one hundred and thirty-six different towns of the state.

The dormitories and recitation rooms are full to overflowing, so that the problem of providing new buildings, to contain the increasing numbers, now confronts the trustees.

Five assistant professors have been appointed in the departments of chemistry, agriculture, mathematics, English and botany, and it is expected that an assistant will be added for the departments of languages and natural history.

A number of pages of the report is devoted to the condensed description of the equipment of the various departments of the college for instruction and scientific investigation; large additions having been made during the past year. A new floor has been laid in the drill hall remedying the evils occasioned by the old cement floor. The old chapel has been transformed into a fully equipped laboratory for advanced students in chemistry. Work upon the new barn has been rapidly advanced and it is expected that another season will find it ready for occupancy. When completed it will afford storage for 300 tons of hay, 325 tons of silage, 144 tons of roots, and large amounts of straw. There will be room for 100 cattle, 14 horses, 75 sheep and 80 hogs. Provision is made for an ice house, a dairy, a tool room, an engine and a lecture room.

The Hatch Experiment Station has carried on its work as usual during the year and published bulletins on small fruits, on insecticides, on insects, and on electro-culture. The last is of special interest, as it tends to show that the use of electricity forwards germination, growth in length and increase of size and weight.

One hundred varieties of apples, 130 varieties of grapes, 120 varieties of strawberries, and large numbers of other kinds of fruits have been under observation during the year. The first prize of $50 was awarded to the college for the best kept vineyard, by the Massachusetts Horticultural Society.

BOMBS AT GOTHAM.

A Deliberate Attempt to Blow Up a Three-Story Tenement House.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—An attempt to blow up with two bombs the tenement house at 54 avenue D was made, and it is a miracle that a great catastrophe involving several deaths was averted.

Pincus Gans had a tailor shop on the first floor and lived with his family on the third floor; on the second floor Henry Davis and family lived. The tailor shop had been closed for over a month. At 10 o'clock at night there was a terrific explosion in the house and an alarm of fire was turned in by some one who saw flames bursting forth. The whole front of the house had been blown out by the explosion, which occurred on the first floor. All the glass in the building was shattered, and the shock aroused the whole neighborhood.

Chief Ahearn of the fire department said: "We discovered that the gas meter had exploded, but the principal explosion was due to some other cause. We went down cellar. On entering we at once observed a trail of kerosene oil all the way to the door. There was a lot of kerosene soaked cotton batting all over the cellar floor, and we came upon a long piece of lead pipe, which had a fuse composed of some gauze matter attached, and the fuse was half burned, indicating that it had been lighted and gone out before reaching the bomb.

"It was undoubtedly a bomb, the pipe being about 15 inches long, 2 1-2 inches in diameter, about three pounds of powder seen to be stuffed into it. The theory of the fire department is that the other bomb, which exploded upstairs, was placed on the little shelf behind the gas meter, evidently with the intent of disguising the real cause of the explosion."

The Gans family were at the theater when the explosion occurred and the other occupants of the house got out safely.

Casting Lots Illegal.

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—A decision was rendered by the full bench of the supreme judicial court that verdicts arrived at by casting lots will not stand. The case at the bar was an action to recover possession of a horse, and the verdict was obtained for the plaintiff by casting lots. The defendant filed a motion for a new trial for alleged misconduct of jury, with the above results.

A Broken Home.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 12.—Samuel Oakes of 88 Green street is unable to place the whereabouts of his wife, bankbook, furniture and boarder since Tuesday. NEVER GIVES UP ITS DEAD.

Cayuga Lake, From Which No Drowned Person Was Ever Recovered.

"If they succeed in recovering the bodies of Instructor Merriam and Miss Yeargin from the depths of Cayuga lake by means of electricity, as I see they intend to try to do," said a gentleman who grew up on the shores of Cayuga lake, "it will be the first time in the history of the lake that the body of any person drowned in its waters was ever seen again. I always had a liking for geological research and indulged it for many years in investigating the bottom of Cayuga lake.

"My experiments satisfied me that the bottom of the lake is a series of large openings and cavities, many of them craterlike. Some of these are 100 feet in diameter. These craters, as I believe them to be, lie at different depths, or, rather, their raised edges are of different heights. Their depths are fathomless. They have undoubtedly become the receptacles of the bodies of the hundreds of people who are known to have been drowned in the lake since that country was settled and of the undoubted thousands of people killed in the fierce battles that were frequently waged on the shores of the lake between hostile tribes of aboriginal warriors during the centuries preceding the coming of the white man.

"It was in Cayuga lake that the fiendish murderer Ruloff lowered the bodies of his wife and child, 30 years ago, after he had murdered them. The bodies were inclosed in a chest, as he confessed before he was hanged at Binghamton for another murder. The weeks that were spent in dragging the lake for this chest were simply wasted, for it was sunk into the mouth of one of those bottomless openings, and, if it is not sinking yet, is still floating about in those mysterious depths.

"Within half a century more than 100 persons have been drowned in Cayuga lake, to recover the bodies of whom the grappling iron and drag were used industriously, but in vain. If it were possible for one to make the rounds of this lake's craterlike bed, he would, without doubt, encounter hideous charnel houses beyond number—caverns where hosts of grinning skeletons have found sepulcher, submarine catacombs without end. Perhaps the electricians exploring the lake bottom with their intense lights, as they purpose doing, may make some such discoveries."—Rochester Post-Express.

MILK INSTEAD OF FLOUR.

Farmers Who Say That It Pays Them to Feed Wheat to Their Cows.

Philadelphia milk consumers may probably be interested in an experiment of the farmers of the Schuylkill valley, whence that city receives large quantities of its milk. Recently increased shipments of milk have been made. Wheat, in round figures, sells at less than 65 cents, and owing to its low price many farmers are chopping theirs and feeding it to cattle. They say that bran is a cent a pound, corn nearly a cent a pound, oats a cent a pound, and wheat a cent a pound, and that, as wheat has at least one-third more milk producing qualities, it is cheaper at present prices to feed it than corn or anything else.

By actual test it was learned that 60 pounds of wheat make more milk and of better quality than the same quantity of corn, or almost any other class of feed, and it is stated that since Schuylkill valley shippers are feeding wheat to their cows their milk is pronounced of a higher standard of excellence. Farmers say that they cannot afford to raise wheat for flourmaking purposes unless they get 90 cents to $1 a bushel.—Reading Cor. Philadelphia Ledger.

Mark Twain.

Mark Twain's hair has grown white and his physique is not so stalwart as it was a few years ago, but his mind is as juvenile as ever. He has a hacking cough, which, when he gives way to it, is almost convulsive in its tendency, but the humorist seems entirely indifferent to its violence. He sat in a prominent New York club a few days ago, running spasmodically from one story to another and commenting upon the talk of his companions, with a perpetual smile lurking around the corners of his mouth. Yet at short intervals he was bent over almost double under the violence of his cough. When his companions referred to it, as they did on one or two occasions, Mr. Clemens seemed quite unaware of the fact that he had been arousing a good deal of sympathy as well as incessant laughter.—Exchange.

Bad Season For London Hotels.

This has been a rather bad season for some of the London hotels, particularly for one or two of the larger ones. "Birds of passage" have been scarcer than has been the case for years. The great body of traveling Americans stayed at home, not apparently for the purpose of adding to the wealth of Chicago or of making the Columbian exhibition an unparalleled success, but simply on account of a lack of money. The absence of visitors—among whom Americans are probably the most profitable—had a depressing effect upon many kinds of business, but none suffered more than some of the largest hotels.—Pall Mall Budget.

Baltimore's New Monument.

Baltimore is about to put up another monument. The young Irish are at the head of the movement, and they have not yet decided on the hero to honor. So far the vote favors, in the order named, Emmet, O'Connell, Grattan, Tone, Burke and Parnell, and the choice will be made from this half dozen. Contrary to the order of such things, the money is already provided.—Baltimore Letter.

PATENTS
NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtenances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

DELIGHTFULLY ROMANTIC.

A Stage Held Up and a Maid Carried Off by a Good Looking Bad Man.

A romantic case of kidnaping occurred the other day in the country back of Mazatlan. The stage between Rosario and Mazatlan, which left the former place, stopped at 1 a. m. the next day at Agua Caliente, where another passenger, a young and pretty girl, was taken on. She was Carlotta Newman, daughter of a poor blind woman living at Mazatlan. There were two other passengers, a man and a woman.

The stage left Agua Caliente at 2 a. m. and had gone only a couple of leagues when the driver suddenly reined up at a call from the roadside, where four men on horseback sat coolly pointing revolvers at his head. There was no demand for coin, and from the quiet manner of the highwaymen the driver could draw no idea of the nature of their demands. While one man held a gun pointed at the driver and another attended the horses the others dismounted, stepped to the end of the coach and courteously requested the young lady to come out. The girl recognized the larger man, a magnificent looking fellow, as Jose Valdez, her rejected lover, and divining the plot she begged the passengers to save her. Valdez warned them to do nothing, and as they had no firearms they dared not protest against the actions of the bold robbers.

After urging Miss Newman to come out without avail, Valdez and his companion laid hold of her and carried her to the horses, placing her upon one and tying her to the saddle. The girl's shrieks and tears had no effect either in hurrying the men or arousing their anger. When they were again mounted and ready to leave, Valdez turned to the driver and said calmly, "Go, friend, and excuse me for molesting you."

The driver lost no time in accepting the permission, and the agitated passengers inside did not breathe easily until they saw the party, with the girl in the center, gallop over a hill. The driver and passengers reported the matter on arriving at Mazatlan and gave the names of Librado and Bernardo Valdez and Rufino Zatarain as the accomplices of Jose Valdez, the first two being his cousins.

Valdez is a dare devil and spendthrift, and though of good family bears a very bad reputation. He was rejected by Miss Newman, who is a highly respected girl of American birth. The prefect of the district of Concordia, in which Agua Caliente is situated, has charge of a party of rurales searching for Valdez, and strong efforts are being made to capture the villain. His hiding place is unknown. News of her daughter's capture prostrated the mother in Mazatlan.—San Diego Cor. San Francisco Chronicle.

The Congo Railroad.

The opening of the first section of the Congo railroad passed almost unnoticed in this country, chiefly because it is due to Belgian enterprise. But for all that, British traders already realize the vast possibilities involved and are actively preparing to obtain a share of the new trade. The road at present extends from Matadi to Kenge, and thence will be pushed as rapidly as possible to Stanley pool. The list of freight charges has been published in the chief European ports, and two British and one German steamship line have made Matadi a port of call. It is confidently predicted that a Congo boom is about to commence, and that King Leopold will soon be within measurable distance of reward for his courage and patience.—London Letter.

A TOKEN OF ESTEEM.

Bishop-Elect Hall Peceives a Present From His Parishioners.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—At St. John's vicarage in Kensington, Canon Holland presented to Father Hall, bishop-elect of Vermont, an illuminated address and a check for 150 pounds sterling, which had been subscribed in small amounts in the parishes throughout the country where Father Hall had conducted missions.

In making the presentation Canon Holland made a speech in which he testified to the esteem with which Father Hall was regarded. In reply Father Hall asked to be allowed to accept the gift as a token of sympathy, affection and cordial sisterly feeling with the church to which he had been called in America. He dwelt upon the value of the two years' experience he had had here, and said that it would enable him to interpret England to America and America to England. He thanked them with his whole heart and for the reminder that there were loving hearts in England praying for him and his work in America.

He remarked that he had only been allowed to leave the hospital for this occasion and he must return there immediately. On the advice of the doctors he had postponed the date of his sailing for America from Jan. 10 to Jan. 17, and said he would let them know the date for his consecration in Vermont, so that they might pray for him especially.

LOCATED IN CANADA.

Samuel Thurston's Creditors Would Like to Hear From Him.

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 12.—Samuel Thurston, a man of 70 years, well-known in musical circles in this city, mysteriously disappeared from his home last August. He was supposed to have been lost in the White mountains or to have committed suicide. His relatives and friends caused search parties to be organized, and for several weeks great excitement prevailed in this city by reason of his disappearance. Three weeks after he was last heard of, it was found that he owed nearly $20,000 to Boston and New York piano manufacturers.

Nothing has been heard of him from that time until yesterday, when one of his friends gave out the information that Thurston was alive and living in Canada. His family deny this and state that they are sure he is dead. He is supposed to be in the music business on the other side of the line and is reported to be doing well. Thurston had swindled many people in this state and the information of his business prosperity will be welcome news to them.

Will Not Be Prosecuted.

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 12.—Charles Paine, the defaulting financial secretary of the Odd Fellows, returned to his home in this city last night. He left here a week ago and went to Montreal, where he stayed until his money was exhausted, and then determined to return and face the music. Although he is unable to account for some $3000 intrusted to him by the Odd Fellows the society will not prosecute him, and he will not be arrested.

At Least Four Drowned.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—The Norwegian steamer Edison and the Norwegian bark Ran came in collision in the channel during a fog. The Edison soon foundered. Her crew and the men from the Ran took to the boats. One of the boats was capsized and four of the occupants were drowned. The Ran was afterwards found abandoned and towed to Portland. The fate of the remainder of her crew is not known.

Its Fate Already Settled.

BERLIN, Jan. 12.—In the reichstag the provisional commercial arrangement with Spain received its second reading. Herr Fritzen, on behalf of the Centrists, contended that a requisite financial reform had already been rendered impossible by the collapse of the wine tax. Other members took part in the discussion. Herr Fritzen's declaration has probably settled the fate of the bill.

A TOWN TERRORIZED.

Mysterious Bandit Believed to Be Chris Evans.

SIX MEN ROBBED AT ONCE.

A Bloody Shooting Affray In a Grocery.

FRESNO, Cal., Jan. 12.—Two men, believed to be Chris Evans, the Visalia bandit, and his promising pupil, Ed Morrell, raided the town of Fowler. Another tale of bloodshed and terror is the result. Fowler is a village of 300 inhabitants, 10 miles southeast of Fresno.

George Lech, the station agent, and three men employed as section hands, were in the depot at 7 o'clock, just after the Los Angeles express had passed. While the four men were talking a masked man with a revolver in each hand appeared at the open door and ordered them to throw up their hands.

No one hesitated to obey. At this juncture Howard Harris and A. Vincent, a prominent business man of Fowler, stepped on the platform and took in the situation. They were about to give the alarm when the robbers espied them. The masked men then stood the six along the wall and went through their pockets. They secured a little over $50.

Tackled a Grocery.

The daring freebooters then ordered the six passengers into the street, made them walk down town through the principal thoroughfare to Cuter & Goldstein's grocery store. The chief robber followed his prisoners into the store, and it was evidently his intention, alone and single-handed, to loot the grocery. However, just as he ordered the men previously in the store to throw up their hands, the proceeding was interrupted by Constables Ochs and Nelson.

Then began a bloody shooting affray. Ochs, with his pistol down, rushed into the store. The bandit turned upon him and fired. Ochs fell and rolled out through the door, firing at the robber from the door. His aim was wild, however, and the constable hit one citizen through the arm and another in the breast. The man hit in the breast was struck by a spent bullet, but not seriously hurt, though knocked down. During this great fusilade the robber escaped and disappeared in the darkness.

Pal Helped Him Ont.

Another robber had appeared upon the scene, however, during the battle in the grocery. A wagon dashed up to the door and the driver began shooting at Constable Ochs, thus ending in the escape of his pal. The man in the wagon then drove rapidly away. This man answers the description of Chris Evans. In the other robber, who wore a bandana hankerchief over his face, the men attacked believe they recognized Ed Morrell. The robber told them that his name was Morrell.

It is believed that the bandits, becoming pressed for food and money, came down from the mountains determined to make a raid. A posse left this city to organize a pursuit from Fowler. Ochs, who is badly wounded in the right thigh and groin, was one of the jurors who convicted Chris Evans of the murder of Deputy United States Marshal Wilson. Ochs declared that he wounded the younger of the two robbers.

Death of Hon. Thomas Clark.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Jan. 12.—Hon. Thomas Clark died at North Stonington of bronchial consumption. He was born in Lisbon Dec. 26, 1830. He began his business career at North Stonington as a merchant. He was comptroller of the state in 1887 and 1888, and served in both houses of the general assembly. He was a delegate to the Republican convention in 1868.

Another Flutter In the Coughlin Trial.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—At the Coughlin trial yesterday a report was circulated that a note, which the wife of one of the jurors tried to get to her husband, fell into the hands of a bailiff. The note said a man had called at the house of the juror and told the wife that it would go hard with her husband if he voted for a verdict against Coughlin.

THE SPIRIT OF THE AGE.

Upon It Rests the System of Commercial Individualism and Laissez Faire.

At St. Paul's church, Boston, recently Rev. Charles Ferguson of Cohasset preached an interesting sermon upon "The Industrial Crisis—Work for the Workless." He said:

We are standing in the presence of a great absurdity—not amusing, but tragic—the spectacle of a million workingmen compulsorily idle in a country capable by nature of giving work and bread to ten times the earth's population, a country wherein everybody admits and asserts the common duty and the common right to labor.

The causes of this phenomena are not local and not transient. We are approaching the climax of the nineteenth century in nearly even pace with all the great nations of the world. The root of the whole worldwide trouble is a peculiar and modern quality of our old primal selfishness permeating society from top to bottom—selfishness for the first time in the world's history formulated into a creed and erected into a system—the system of commercial individualism and laissez faire, out of which has sprung this infidel disbelief of man in man and the consequent failure of commercial credit.

You cannot love and trust your neighbor if you find in him only an intelligent apparatus for the calculation of his own "enlightened self interest." The nations are weary of this profane gospel of greed. God is about to change all that. The spirit of the age is more than the body of the age—it rises to do the work of the Holy Ghost. Men must soon be found who are willing to do business that does not pay. I think that is the precise specific. It is not a nostrum. There is no patent on it. It is the open secret of Christ. The business of Jesus did not pay, neither did the business of the prophets and apostles, and no genuine and noble work of painter, poet, soldier or craftsman, no true labor and pain of good worker or good fighter was ever done and suffered since the world began—for mere pay.

There is no need to argue the immorality of this utter commercial selfishness. We have before our eyes the demonstration of its entire folly and impracticability. It is not merely desirable that men be found who are willing to do business that does not pay. It is absolutely necessary. Thirty years ago there were found men who offered their lives to their country. We shall find men now who will offer their dividends, though indeed this latter be somehow a more difficult sacrifice.

The plain way to find work for the workless is that they who have land and capital shall go on with useful enterprises or embark in new ones straightway, being principally careful that their enterprises shall be useful and helpful, and only secondarily careful that they shall yield rent, interest or profit. There is not the slightest danger of overproduction of the common necessaries and decencies of life. There are not good houses enough; there are not warm coats enough; there is not bread and butter enough; there are not well cleared fields enough in Massachusetts. There are roads to be made, swamps to be drained, wells to be dug, dikes to be built—and every stroke of the work shall permanently enrich the commonwealth—and yet I suppose it will not pay.

But America has a right to expect something from this quarter. If the heart is the seat of the passions of love and honor and self devotion, then Boston is the heart of America. Here, then, if anywhere in America, shall be formed that generous syndicate of capitalists to put down capitalism. Here, if anywhere, shall be found men brave enough to defy the law of the market in order to keep the law of God.

Chicago's Welcome to Labor.

On behalf of the Chicago trades assembly W. C. Pomeroy delivered an address of welcome at the opening of the recent convention of the American Federation of Labor. Among other things he said:

We would wish to bid you welcome to a prosperous city, but truth will not justify the assertion. Things are here as they are, but not as they should be. We bid you welcome in the name of 100 monopolists and 50,000 tramps, here where Mammon holds high carnival in palaces, while mothers are heartbroken, children are starving and men are looking in vain for work.

We bid you welcome in the name of a hundred thousand idle men, in the name of those edifices dedicated to the glory of God, but whose doors are closed tonight to the starving and poor; in the name of the ministers who fatten from the vineyards of God, forgetting that God's children are hungry and have no place to lay their heads; in the name of the pillars of the sweating system, of the millionaires and deacons whose souls are endangered by their appetites for gold; in the name of the wageworkers who sweat blood which is coined into golden ducats; in the name of the insane asylums and poorhouses packed by people crazed by care in this land of plenty.

We will show you exhibits of Chicago that were not shown at the fair grounds—of her greatness and her weakness. Tonight we will show you hundreds of men lying on the rough stone in the corridors of this very building—no home, no food—men able and willing to work, but for whom there is none.

It is a time for alarm—alarm for the continuation of a government whose sovereign states are delivered to railway magnates, coal barons and speculators.

When the speaker concluded, the applause continued for several moments.

Worse Than In Russia.

W. T. Stead, editor of the English magazine The Review of Reviews, said to a Chicago reporter the other day: "I have seen prisoners in one of the worst prisons of St. Petersburg, but they were better housed than your unemployed in the Harrison street police station. The Russian criminals were at least provided with a plank bed on which to rest, and they were not driven together as your unemployed are, so that one could not turn without disturbing his neighbor. I have seen nothing like the scene at the Harrison street police station."

Trades Unions and the Militia.

The Hexagon Labor Club of Tile Layers' Helpers of New York instructed James Hurley, its delegate to the Workingmen's State Trade assembly, to vote for a resolution forbidding members of organized labor to enlist in the national guard.

PATENTS
FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

Another Day of Debate on the Wilson Bill.

OTHER BUSINESS IS OBJECTED TO.

Representative Everett of Massachusetts Favors the Measure—His Speech Well Received—Congressman Payne Makes a Strong Appeal For Protection—Secretary Carlisle's Flattering Offer.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—In the house this morning the senate amendments to the house joint resolution for the appointment of a joint commission to examine into all questions relating to the personnel of the navy were agreed to, and then McGreary presented from the foreign affairs committee the Hitt resolution, calling upon the president for all information relating to Hawaiian affairs received since the transmission of his recent message. McCreary asked unanimous consent for the consideration of the resolution.

Mr. Richardson (Dem., Tenn.) objected. As he did so, Mr. Boutelle, who had just entered the hall, caught the drift of things and interposed the remark that if Mr. Richardson had not objected he should have done so, since unanimous consent had been refused him for the consideration of the naval resolution. A house under three men might just as well be held up by one man, he remarked sarcastically. The tariff debate was then resumed.

Mr. Brosius of Pennsylvania completed his speech against the bill began yesterday.

Mr. Everett of Massachusetts followed. He declared that it was his present intention to support the Wilson bill, although it did not go far enough in his opinion. He should offer amendments to meet his principal objections. What the country demanded, he said,

Was Action, Not Talk.

He felt it his duty to explain his position, lest it might be said that his former associations with the Republican party would leave an implication that he still acquiesced in the theory of protection. It was not because he was ranked as a Democrat that he would vote for this measure, but because for years he had believed that broad patriotism has demanded a reform in the tariff in the interest of the people. He had voted for Mr. Cleveland in 1884 and unlike some of the Mugwumps of these days had continued his support of him in 1888 and 1892. He inveighed against further delay of the tariff reform. The time to do a right thing, said he, was when those believe it is right have the power to do it.

The whole business and mercantile world expects the Democratic party to act and if we now turn sullen from our work in response to the protests of selfish interests we will prove ourselves the knaves and fool our enemies delight to believe us.

He sketched the tariff history of the country, his remarks being replete with a humor that drew and held the attention of the house, and elicited frequent applause and laughter. He commended the free list and made a glowing appeal for free books and sanitary earthenware. He declared for greater simplicity in the tariff schedules. In concluding, Mr. Everett quoted the words of Sir H. Curry to Sir Robert Peel, when he was trying to reform the tariff in England in 1846, to look beyond the few fleeting years of that generation to the welfare of the future. Dr. Everett was accorded quite an ovation when he finished.

Mr. Black (Dem.) in support of the bill. Had he the power, he said, he would make commerce as free as the winds of heaven.

Congressman Payne's Speech.

Representative Sereno E. Payne, one of the Republican members of the ways and means committee, said: There are many gentlemen who sit on the other side who represent constituencies that believe in protection. You know that the remonstrances sent in by Democratic workmen the country over were not inspired by slavish fear of masters. These men never knew a master. They are intelligent; educated in the hard school of personal experience. They study this bill from a knowledge of facts of daily experience, not from theories.

This bill will encourage fraud and perjury; will drive the honest importer from the business; will put a direct, offensive and inquisitorial tax upon our people; will give a gratuity to the sugar producer without a farthing of benefit to the country; will foster the interests of sections at the expense of others; will impoverish our farmer, destroy his wool industry, leave him defenseless against the sumatra tobacco, give his market for barley to Canada, and for hops to Germany, crippled by a reduction of their purchasing power the result of the rate of his vegetables, his poultry, his dairy products, his small fruits, ruin his home market; will tend to reduce labor to the level of its foreign impoverished rival; will stop many a wheel, put out many a forge, bring poverty and want to American homes, sap the manhood of American citizens and continue the blight of poverty and want and hunger and cold which has so recently overtaken the people of a country one year ago the busiest, the most prosperous, the most progressive, the happiest and the most independent the world ever saw.

In examining some of the special features of the bill, it would seem that the committee had gone back to the days of 1880, when the Democratic candidate for the presidency declared that the tariff was a local issue, which "we had up once in our town." For example, take the agricultural schedule; the duty placed on the agricultural products of the north, which come in direct competition with the products of Canada, is less than 20 per cent, while rice, a product peculiar to the south, the duty is made specific at 1 and 1 1-2 cents per pound, equivalent to an advalorem rate of 84 per cent. It is difficult to explain this discrepancy, except upon local considerations. In the first draft of the bill all lumber was placed on the free list; against this the loudest protests came from the newly developed lumber regions of the south. The Democratic principle of a local tariff had asserted itself.

In the first draft of their bill, the committee reported advalorem rates upon all leads used for paints; a week later an amendment was made placing a specific duty on all lead used for paint at generally increased rates from the original advalorem. During the week an officer high in the councils of the "Lead trust," a tariff reformer in politics, a former resident of the state of West Virginia, had been in the city. Whether he had visted the majority of the committee or not and had given them information upon the business of the trust is not for me to say.

The industry of Troy, collars and cuffs, employs 10,000 persons. The wages paid in Troy will average $8; in Berlin $2.40. The German girls are as expert with the sewing machine as the American girls; they accomplish as much. Facts and figures demonstrate that a reduction in this tariff means a reduction in the wages paid to the employes in this business in the city of Troy. There is no industry in this country that is not protected by the tariff, except a part of that connected with our farming. If that is not protected, as I have shown already, it is directly benefitted by the wages paid to our mechanics and workmen. The carpenter and mason are benefitted as not being in the protected industries, and yet no man has invented a way by which a foreign carpenter or mason can compete with the American in building a house in the city of New York. The nature of things protect them. If the mechanic or workmen employed in an industry protected by the tariff receive wages out of proportion to those of other industries the other industries must raise their wages to an equal standard or their employes will leave them.

"Mr. Chairman," he continued, "does it not occur to you that when a laborer loses a day, it is lost forever, he can't store it up like capital; he must use it day by day. Who shall re-pay the laborer's of this country for the days and weeks and months of their idle hours that have passed away, forever lost, and for which they can never get compensation. Pass this bill—I do not say the industries of this country will stop—immense sums are invested in immense plants with which something must be done—but you introduce an element of competition which is based upon the cheapest labor in the world. The factories may run when the strikes are over and the workman is starved out, and when his manhood is crushed out of him, instead of the old wages he has accepted three-fourths or one-half, he must come down to wages that barely give him bread and butter for his existence. He must come to this from the high standard of wages which has made him the greatest consumer in the world, and which has helped to make America the greatest market in the world."

In the Senate.

The unwelcome task of introducing a petition in favor of the passage of the Wilson bill fell to Senator Hoar, (Rep. Mass.), today. It was signed by 24 labor organizations of Massachusetts, and urged the passage of the bill. "These gentlemen," said the senator, "are very much interested in the reduction of the hours of labor, and the passage of the Wilson bill will prevent any hours of labor at all."

FLATTERING OFFER.

Secretary Carlisle Wanted In Ohio at a Salary of $25,000 a Year.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Secretary John G. Carlisle has until the first of next month to decide whether he will continue to earn $8000 a year as secretary of the treasury, or make $25,000 a year as president and legal adviser of a big financial institution, which is now being organized by some of the leading capitalists of Ohio and the adjoining states.

Secretary Carlisle has consulted with a number of his friends, and nearly all of them have told him that he ought to accept the offer.

Mr. Carlisle is not a millionaire, but he has never been very ambitious for wealth. Mrs. Carlisle is opposed to her husbahd's leaving public life, having ambitions for him politically. She believes that he will yet reach the White House.

Some of Mr. Carlisle's friends say that he could continue as secretary of the treasury until the financial difficulties and the tariff legislation are arranged, and then it would be a good time for him to retire temporarily from public life. He would retire at the height of his success, and the money he would earn in the meantime would be necessary should he become a dential candidate.

A rumor is current here to the effect that Chief Justice Fuller contemplates resigning, and that Secretary Carlisle is to succeed him on the supreme bench. Judge Fuller declares that the story is absurd, and Secretary Carlisle says he knows nothing about it.

Could Not Buoy the Course.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Jan. 13.—Lighthouse steamer Gardenia, with Commander Cooper, U. S. N., and Lieutenant Commander West today made an effort buoy the course on which the cruiser Montgomery will have her trial run, but had to return because a gale was blowing and the work could not be done. The trial has now been fixed for Wednesday, Jan. 17. The course is exactly the same as that on which the Marblehead made her run.

Senator Chandler's Resolution.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Senator Chandler of New Hampshire has introduced a resolution directing the select committee on quadro-centennial to ascertain what progress has been made by congress and to report whether future legislation is necessary by congress.

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 13.—The hearing on the appointment of William T. Hart of Boston, as permanent receiver for the New York and New England road in Connecticut, was continued in the United States district court today until Jan. 19.

REBELS' HARD LUCK

Serious Explosions on Land and Sea Dishearten Them.

LATEST STORY FROM RIO JANEIRO.

Disaster In Fort Villegaignon Said to Be Due to Agent of Peixoto—Trouble on Board the Dynamite Cruiser Nictheroy. Men Demand Advance Money Before They Will Sail Southward.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 13.—The explosion which took place at Fort Villegaignon is much more serious than at first supposed. It now appears that 15 men were killed. One version of the affair has it that the loss of life was caused by the explosion of a gun and another account says that one of the magazines exploded.

It also appears that the explosion on board of Admiral de Mello's flagship, the Tamandar, was more serious than at first announced. Later reports say that six men were killed and that eight were wounded. These two disasters to the rebels have considerably disheartened them. One report says that the explosions at Fort Villegaignon was the work of an agent of President Peixoto, who managed to obtain admission to the rebel fort and Blow Up the Powder Magazine.

Friends of the insurgents say that the disaster was the result of an accident. Reports received here from Pernambuco confirm the statement of the trouble on board the dynamite cruiser Nictheroy. It It seems that the crew insist upon the payment of a considerable sum of advance money and that they will not sail southward until this money is paid.

The government officials here deny the statement, however, and say that the Nictheroy, America, Aurora and the vessels from Montevideo and other places will sail for Rio de Janeiro as soon as the entire fleet is gathered at Pernambuco. There is considerable sickness in Rio de Janeiro, but there is no epidemic of yellow fever as was at one time feared there would be.

BREEZE IN ALASKA.

Wholesale Arrests For Violation of Marriage Laws Are Expected.

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., Jan. 13.—United States Marshal Corville, porter of the Alaska district, has set several communities in that territory by the ears. The number of white men lawfully married to women of their own race in Alaska is confined principally to a handful of government officials and naval men stationed there. Nearly all of the balance have purchased native wives, and their union with these women is not recognized in law.

Nearly every grand jury which convenes in Alaska is instructed from the bench to inquire into the alleged evil, but this charge is generally a dead letter, as the average Alaska grand jury man is averse to bringing in a true bill against himself.

The steamer Topeka, which arrived last night from the north, brings the news that Marshal Porter has just instructed his deputies to arrest every white man violating this law, as a result of which order nearly every man on board the United States steamer Pinta is in jail at Sitka. Hundreds of other arrests are expected. The jail will not be large enough to hold the leading citizens who are amenable.

THREATENING LETTERS.

Friends of Vaillant In Paris Are Very Active and Demonstrative.

PARIS, Jan. 13.—The number of guards around the prison La Rouquette where Vaillant, the condemned anarchist, is confined has been doubled in consequence of letters, threatening to blow up the prison, which have been received. At a meeting of the anarchists connected with what is known as the Free Men Group threatening letters were sent to the jurors who convicted Vaillant.

It is said that the jurors have decided to petition President Carnot to pardon Vaillant. At a meeting of 2000 anarchists last night in an old night refuge at Marseilles, a protest was made against the sentence imposed upon Vaillant, and resolutions of an inflammatory nature were adopted.

Editorial Comment.

IT HAS again been demonstrated that the property at Houghs Neck is not entirely at the mercy of fire, and there can no longer be a doubt of the wisdom of extending the fire alarm to that section. The alarm on Friday was quickly given and the response was very prompt. Although a high wind was blowing the flames were confined to the building in which they originated and the large farm barn saved. It was a bitter night to take the ride to this bleak section of the city, and it was a hard fight for the boys, but they are equal to all emergencies.

IT WAS hardly expected that the Supreme court would compel the city to surrender all the Woodward fund and property which it has carefully guarded and invested for so many years, but after the doubt raised the favorable decision is welcome news, and the city is now in a position to go ahead. It is a matter of general regret that the clause "Quincy born girls" could not have been modified but it cannot be gainsaid that the language of the will was not plain on this point. The Board of Management is also puzzled to provide education for girls between 10 20 years which shall equal that "taught in any other similiar institute in the State." To furnish a grammar, academical and collegiate course of institution to all the Quincy born girls on an income of about $15,000 per year will be difficult. The decision in full of the Supreme court in another column will be of interest.

FIRE AT HOUGHS NECK.

Department Able to Do Good Work in Saving Other Buildings.

If anyone has the idea that the life of a fireman in a country is fun, they should have been a member of the department Friday afternoon and taken the run to the fire at Houghs Neck.

It would have convinced the most sceptical person that it is not all fun.

It was shortly before five o'clock when the whistle and bells sounded box 14, which notified the department that their services were needed at Houghs Neck.

A ride to Houghs Neck at any time during the winter is not pleasant and on Friday night, with the wind blowing sixty miles an hour and the fire horses making their best time, it was anything but desirable.

The riding was not very bad until that long piece of open road between Mosquito bridge and Capt. Dixon's was reached, and here it seemed at times as though the wind would lift the apparatus from the street.

When the site of the old Willow house was reached it was seen that the old Littlefield homestead was a roaring mass of flames.

When the department arrived the steamer was run down the hill at the left to the pond hole and a line of hose run to the building. The steamer did not have suction hose enough and it was some moments before they were able to get a hole through the ice and get the steamer near enough to it.

The wind seemed to increase in velocity, and the sparks from the burning house were blown directly upon the large barn not far away, and it looked as though this building was also doomed.

The snow on the roof of the barn protected it for a time. Then the corner of the ridge pole took fire. Ladders were immediately placed on the barn and a line of Hose from Chemical No. 1 kept the sparks from setting fire to the roof.

By this time two streams from the steamer was being thrown on the burning house, which was soon subdued, although it was nearly 9 o'clock before the department left for home, and the recall was sounded.

The ride down was bad enough, but the ride home was much worse and everybody was glad when the Centre was reached, as the temperature was somewhat warmer.

The building, which was owned by C. C. Hodgkinson, was valued from $800 to $1000 and is a total loss. The building was insured in the Quincy Mutual for $600.

The cause of the fire is a mystery, as the house was unoccupied at the time.

Nearly every member of the fire department who was at the fire suffered from frost bites. Chief Ripley froze the ends of his fingers and his driver, George Ripley, froze a foot. Others froze fingers, ears and had considerable frost in their feet. Taking it all in all they had a hard time. The Chief's dog, Romie, who goes to all fires, came out without being frozen and he was bare-footed too.

THE FUND IS OURS.

The Supreme Court Discovers No Breach by City of

WILL OF LATE DR. WOODWARD.

No Relief However for Girl Born Out of Quincy.

The instructions asked by the city relative to the Woodward will and the decision of Judge Holmes of the Supreme court, are given in full below:

The Instructions Asked.

1—Whether it (the city) can safely invest any part or the whole of the property of said fund in the purchase or construction of a suitable building for the use of said school.

2—Is this complainant obliged at all hazards and in any event to guarantee said fund shall be so invested as to bear interest at the rate provided in said will, and in case said fund is not "guaranteed" with said interest under said devises or either of them, providing it exercises due care and diligence in the endeavor to invest the same so as to bear interest at that rate?

3—If the proviso as to guaranty of interest is binding on this complainant, does it require it to guarantee interest on such part of said fund as may be reasonably invested in land, buildings and appliances for the use of said school.

4—Has this complainant authority to raise money by the taxation of its inhabitan's for the purpose of guaranteeing interest as provided in said will or for the support of said school?

5—Is the provision in said will restricting the use of said school to the education of females born in Quincy a valid restriction, and will it prevent the attendance at the same of females of the proper age, resident in Quincy, but not born therein?

6—If the restriction referred to in the fifth prayer for instruction is valid, does it prevent the incidental use of said school by females of proper age, resident in Quincy, but not born therein, upon payment for tuition?

7—Under the provisions of said will are females of the proper age born in Quincy but not resident therein, entitled to attend said school?

8—Can girls of the proper age who do not reside in Quincy be permitted to attend said school by paying for their tuitions?

9—For such other and further instructions in the premises as may to this honorable court seem meet.

The Court Says.

"This is a bill for instructions brought by the city of Quincy as trustee under the will of Ebenezer Woodward of property devised to it upon certain charitable trusts. The trustees of Dartmouth College, to whom the property is limited over in certain events, are made defendants, and, although no instructions are asked on that point, they set up a claim to the property on the ground that the plaintiff has broken the conditions imposed by the will. Perhaps under the decisions in this state, instructions could be asked as to whether there had been a forfeiture. Fairbanks v. Belknap, 135 Mass. 179, 184. When trustees are allowed to maintain a bill for instructions upon a question in which they are interested they are allowed to have their interests represented, but by different counsel from those supporting the bill. Batchelder, petitioner, 147 Mass. 465, 471. But if that rule would apply to a case like the present, still as the question arises here, the counsel signing the bill were the proper persons to argue it. The allegation of a forfeiture must be regarded as a plea in bar, which, if made out, would show reason for our refusing to give the instructions asked. Whether the prayer in the answer that the plaintiff may be ordered to transfer the fund to the defendants could be sustained under St. 1887, c. 383, §3, it is unnecessary to consider, inasmuch as in our opinion the facts agreed do not amount to a forfeiture.

The limitation over in the will is as follows: "If the town of Quincy refuses to accept the above property on the terms herein specified, or fail to comply with the words and intent of this will, as determined by good judges, or should surrender the property or use it for any other purpose than contemplated in this will, then I bequeath the said property to the Trustees of Dartmouth College, to be used by them in the manner they may think best for the promotion of science and literature." The gift reads "I give and bequeath to the town of Quincy in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and County of Norfolk, in its corporate capacity, all my real estate in the Town of Quincy, and all the pews I may own in the various meeting-houses or churches in and out of town, at my death, with the exception etc. * * * * * as a Fund for purposes to be hereafter mentioned, to be disposed of or kept as the town may think proper; the sales, together with the rents and profits and income, from whatever source obtained, to be kept as a perpetual fund guaranteed by the town with six per cent. forever, for the purposes to be hereinafter mentioned, viz. And then follow eleven clauses of directions including an independent devise to a third person, before the clause of forfeiture first above stated.

THE FUND IS OURS.

The town of Quincy did not refuse to accept the property. It did accept it. It has not surrendered the property or used it for any other purpose than those contemplated in the will.

"The only breach of condition that can be urged with any plausibility as an existing ground of forfeiture is that the town has failed 'to comply with the words and intent of the will as determined by good judges.'

The fact chiefly relied on as a failure to comply with the will is the alleged failure of the plaintiff to give such a guarantee as is required by the words last quoted. They are taken to require an express contract with some one not specified, guaranteeing 6 per cent. interest, as a condition precedent to the vesting of the gift, or, if the making of the contract is not such a condition, the capacity to make it, at least, is said to be so, on the principle of Bullard v. Shirley, 153 Mass. 559. The guarantee is said to be the consideration and inducement of the gift.

If we adopted a construction of the will approaching this, we should have to consider whether, since the town accepted the devise without reserve and thereby became bound to do what it lawfully could do to observe the requirements of the testator, it did not contract with the executors as required, (Cary Library, v. Bliss, 151 Mass. 364,) so far as it had power to do so, and whether the will could be taken to require any contract beyond what it was within the power of towns under the constitution and statutes to make. If the condition were construed to go beyond the powers of the town, the further question would arise whether it was not void. Drury v. Natick, 10 Allen, 169, 183. Giles v. Boston Fatherless and Widows' Society, 10 Allen, 355, 357. Jones v. Habersham, 107, U. S. 174, 183. MacDonough v. Murdoch, 15 Howard, 367, 411, 412. We are of opinion that the guaranty plays a much less important part in the testator's scheme than the defendant's argument assumes.

In the first place the word 'guaranteed' qualifies the word 'fund,' and the fund which is to be guaranteed is not the fund first mentioned in the words of the gift, consisting of real estate and pews, some of which, by clause ten, of the same article, cannot be sold or let for some years. But it is to be made up from sales, rents, profits and income. So long as the original real estate is kept there is no need of a guaranty of that, and none is required. The requirement, therefore, plainly is a condition subsequent, as the town could have no such fund until it had received and held the gift, for some time. Moreover, the provision does not express the object of the gift, as was the case in Bullard v. Shirley, but merely a means of securing the fund, so that it may be forthcoming for application to the object. It does not set forth the consideration, but merely an administrative detail.

Again what is to be guaranteed? Grammatically and primarily, the fund, and in our opinion, by a true construction, nothing else. The words, 'with 6 per cent.,' might be taken, no doubt, to bring in interest also, but it seems to us more reasonable to regard these words as directing that the returns expected from the guaranteed fund estimated at what at the date of the will was a conservative rate of interest, also were to be kept and applied as set forth. It is impossible that the testator should have expected the town to guarantee interest on the whole of the fund, for the institute was to be built and furnished, and no source of money for these purposes was provided except the fund in question.

The testator cannot have meant that the money used for the building and plant should be guaranteed to yield six per cent. interest. So again he recommends the clearing out of a creek and the building of wharves. He cannot have expected a constant return to be guaranteed from money used in this way. But furthermore we are not to construe the will as imposing a condition which is contrary to law unless the language plainly has that meaning. We are not to assume without necessity that the testator either was ignorant of petty obvious law or defined it in shaping the conditions of a scheme which he was anxious to have carried out. Grammatically, we construe 'with six per cent.' as qualifying 'kept,' and substantially as qualifying the application ordered, which may be expressed by adding to 'kept' the implied words 'and applied.' Limited as we have limited it, the word 'guaranteed' does not require any contract of the plaintiff, but is used in a popular sense to indicate that the fund is to be kept good and applied as directed.

It should be noticed that in clause 10, which is but a few lines before the limitation over, five things are mentioned, to each of which the testator expressly attaches forfeiture. Other wishes have been expressed with no such condition attached. This may not be conclusive as to the scope of the words "fail to comply with the words or intent of this will," but it goes far to show that forfeiture was not the sanction of every detail which the testator's careful forethought suggested.

Finally, it is questionable at least whether the words "as determined by good judges" do not mean that there must be a failure to comply with the intention expressed in the will after the intention has been declared judicially before the shifting clause comes into operation. At least it is plain if so, do you hole will that the great thing was, "I have understind, his dominant ple said, but I might lea the female institu nis to my ministers." gathered fro replied, "Suppose it was neces decision before you appointed over any it unless clearly he makes exact compliance essential. Some conditions subsequent he has imposed in terms by clause 10 of article 5. But even if in a vague way the testator did have it in his mind that the town should guarantee interest at six per cent. on so much of the special fund as should not be appropriated towards the building and plant of the Institute, he has used no words so exact and definite as to create a forfeiture if it should fail to do what it has not power to do. See further Stanley v. Colt, 5 Wall. 119, 165, 166.

The will, after providing that the property "is to be perpetually managed by the Selectmen" of Quincy, provides further whenever the town becomes a city "then the government of said city to have the management of said property for the benefit of said city" etc. The city has established a Board of Managers of the fund consisting of the Mayor and other city officials and one citizen not a member of the City Council. It is urged that this is a breach of condition. We perceive no condition and no breach. The fact that the city has borrowed from the fund and charged itself interest, although it may be open to animadversion, is not a forfeiture.

The opinion which we have expressed disposes of the second, third and fourth matters upon which instructions are asked, so that we are relieved from considering whether they are within the proper scope of a bill for instructions. With regard to the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth matters it does not appear that any conflicting claims are made or are likely to be made in respect of them, and no statement is made in the bill which shows that the present disposition of the fund requires the instructions prayed. Putnam v. Collamore, 109 Mass. 509,512. The language of the will is clear and the trustee asks whether of its own motion it is at liberty to disregard that language.

There remains only the first question, whether the plaintiff "can safely invest any part or the whole of the property of said fund in the purchase or construction of a suitable building or buildings for the use of said school." This we have answered already by implication. The purpose of the gift to the plaintiff is stated to be that at latest within twenty-five years from the testator's death, the managers of the fund "shall establish and continue" a Female Institute, to be located on land given to the town by the testator. This means that the managers of the fund are to apply a reasonable portion of it to the purchase or construction of a suitable building or buildings, and cannot be restricted or cut down by the general provision before referred to for the keeping of the fund "with six per cent." Decree accordingly.

The programme for the Boys' conference at Woburn has been received, and shows that a rare treat will be given the boys.

Quincy ought to send a good delegation to the District Conference at Whitman on Friday, Saturday and Sunday of next week.

Miss Nettie Fisher, office Secretary of the State Committee of the Y. M. C. A. will give a Bible reading at the Auxiliary meeting on Monday, at 3 o'clock.

Rev. Walter Russell Breed, rector of Christ's church, will address the young men Sunday afternoon at 3 30. The music will be in charge of Mr. Frank Rigley.

Arrangements have been completed for the organization of a Bible class, to follow the men's meetings on Sunday afternoon, and a Worker's Training class which will meet Monday evenings at 8 o'clock. All interested are invited to meet at the rooms for tea Saturday evening of this week at 6 30 o'clock. After tea Mr. John R. Hague, assistant pastor of the Ruggles Street church, will speak on "Personal Werk." As Mr. Hague was present at the Conference held in Quincy just one year ago, this will make a very pleasant reunion for those who have good reason to look back upon the great blessings which that conference brought.

BRAINTREE.

Tuesday night the Village Improvement Association of East Braintree met in Union hall. There was a fair attendance.

The glass four above and in some places two below, this morning, That'll do!

Rev. Mr. Kingman, missionary to China, will occupy the pulpit of the First Parish tomorrow morning at 10.30, and in the evening at 7. All are invited.

Mrs. Charles A. Pitkins of South Braintree has issued invitations for a card party for her daughter, Miss Ethel Guild Pitkins, for Saturday evening, January 20th.

Miss Mattie W. Locke is substituting for Miss Bannon at the South school at Mayflower Park. Miss Bannon was hurt in the accident at South Braintree last Friday, while returning home from her school.

Monatiquot lodge, K. of P., No. 83, at their next meeting, Jan. 16, will work the third degree on one candidate, under the inspection of V. G. C., Col. John J. Whipple and suite of Brockton, followed by speeches and a supper.

Little Roy Brett has been dangerously sick with pneumonia and scarlet fever and in consequence Dr. Brett, the principal of the Monatiquot school, will not be able to teach for at least another week. Miss Olive Wright of the Ironworks school is taking his place.

Mr. Louis W. Arnold is contemplating a trip abroad, to be gone from six months to a year. He has resigned his position as principal of the Lee Normal Academy in Maine and expects to leave Braintree in a few weeks. He will spend most of his time in Paris, making a special study of the language.

On Monday afternoon a very important meeting of the school committee was held in their rooms. The principle subject of discussion was the business course in the high school. Mr. Cook the principal, and Mr. Horne, Superintendent of schools spoke at some length; the superintendant was instructed to investigate the matter and report. It was voted to supply each pupil in the grammar schools with dictionary for use in English. It was also decided to begin the elements of algebra and geometry in the lower schools. This step has been taken by many towns around Boston. It is the intention of the school committee to have the studies of arithmetic, algebra, and geomentry correlated and taught, beginning some early year in the grammar school, until the end of the third year in the high school.

D. D. G. M. Foster F. Tupper of Braintree, accompanied by the following Grand Officers: Marshall, E. F. Watkins; warden, J. H. Macandrew; secretary, George S. Boyer; treasurer, D. H. B. Thayer; guardian, John Kelly; Chaplain, A. A. Saunders, installed the officers of Norfolk lodge, I. O. O. F., of Dorchester, Wednesday evening.

The town having voted at its last annual meeting to change the ending of the financial year from Feb. 1 to Jan. 1 in the future, there is only eleven months in the year now ended. Still the amount of business, estimated according to the number of orders paid by the town treasurer, Mr. P. D. Holbrook, shows very little falling off, he having paid over a thousand orders during the eleven months ending Jan. 1st, 1894.

KNIGHTS OF HONOR.

They Install Officers and Have a Merry Time Last Evening.

G. A. R. hall held a gay and happy party last evening, the occasion being the installation of the newly elected officers for the current year of Merry Mount lodge, No. 617, Knights of Honor, in the presence of the wives, daughters and sweethearts of the members.

After the meeting was called to order and singing of the opening ode, the installation ceremony was performed by D. D. G. P., E. Granville Pratt, who was assisted by G. P. D., F. N. Churchill, and G. G., F. M. Hersey of Hingham. The officers installed being as follows:

P. D.,—James Moody, Jr.
D.,—Charles A. Foster.
A. D.,—Samuel Oxford.
V. D.,—Charles Bowker.
R.,—William W. Penniman.
F. R.,—Joseph W. Stancombe.
T.,—Albert Keating.
C.,—W. H. Cobb.
G.,—A. H. Taber.
G.,—Charles Crane.
S.,—H. W. Totman.

Representative to Grand Lodge,—Albert Keating.

Alternate,—Charles E. Bowker.

Speech making was next in order which was listened to by one hundred who had gathered for a good time and learn of the great good and benefit that derives from the Knights of Honor.

Merry Mount lodge, No. 617, in sixteen years has lost fourteen of its brothers and has paid all benefits without delay.

The words of Dictator C. A. Foster, the D. D. G. D., E. Granville Pratt, P. G. D., F. N. Churchill, and G. G., F. M. Hersey, were very interesting as well as instructive.

A fine collation furnished by a committee of five knights was heartily enjoyed, while Mrs. Effie Rhines furnished the music for the occasion. After supper dancing was enjoyed until the wee small hours, when all returned to their homes, satisfied, that an evening had been well spent, and all wished that such gatherings were oftener.

WEYMOUTH.

Wilson Tirrell of South Weymouth committed suicide Friday afternoon by shooting himself in the head with a revolver in his carriage house.

The only cause given for his rash act is that he was despondent over money matters.

He was 72 years of age and leaves a widow, three sons and four daughters.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtences and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

The Little Rainmaker.

"'S curiouslike," said the tree toad;
"I've twittered for rain all day,
And I got up soon
And hollered till noon,
But the sun hit blazed away,
Till I just climbed down in a crawfish hole,
Weary at heart and sick at soul.

"Dozed away for an hour,
And I tackled the thing ag'in;
And I sung and sung
Till I knowed my lung
Was just about to give in,
And then, thinks I, if it don't rain now,
There's nothin in singin anyhow!

"Once in awhile some farmer
Would come a-drivin past,
And he'd hear my cry,
And stop and sigh,
Till I just laid back at last
And hollered rain till I thought my throat
Would burst wide open at every note.

"And I fetched her! Oh, I fetched her!
'Cause a little while ago,
As I kinder sit with one eye shut
And a-singin soft and low,
A voice dropped down on my fevered brain,
Sayin, 'If you'll just hush, I'll rain!'"

A THURIFER GUILD.

English Clergymen Agitated Over the Question of Incense Burning.

Two subjects are at present greatly exercising the minds of many clergymen of the Church of England—one is the startling falling off in their incomes owing to the long continued and increasing agricultural depression, and the other is the use of incense in churches. The latter is always a prominent topic of clerical discussion about Christmas time, but this year it seems to create more interest than usual, owing to the growing prevalence of the practice.

There are now so many servers, acolytes and other altar assistants engaged in lighting and swinging thurifers in the churches of England that they seriously propose to form themselves into a guild or society for the promotion of incense burning. The name suggested for it is the "Thurifer Guild." One of its objects will be a study of the history of the practice and the best manner of manufacturing orthodox and sweet smelling incense in an expeditious and economic manner. —London Telegraph.

Popular Dread of the Grip.

The reappearance of that insidious malady, the grip, in this vicinity will occasion some apprehension among nervous people, but its well to remember that careful habits and cautious preventives will go far toward protecting the average individual against its attacks. In the three or four years during which it has visited this country, it has been found that its most dangerous effects follow its introduction into the worn-out and "run down" system, which is unable to resist its assaults as successfully as the vigorous and healthful one. The truth is, that in the time of epidemics of any character, the best protection is a careful attention to one's general health, and the determination to indulge in no useless apprehension or worry. Convalescents, moreover, who are yet weak from illness of some other nature, ought to be mindful at such a time of the frail condition of their system, and guard against the influenza with constant watchfulness. As most of us know, it is not a comfortable malady by any means, but if proper remedies are used when symptoms first make their appearance its severity can be greatly lessened.

Resort at such a time to that good old New England remedy Pain Killer is the most natural course for those of us who are familiar with its merits, and with it at hand there are none but can bid defiance to the grip.

Secretary Shall Immediately Issue Silver Certificates and Bullion In the Treasury Shall Be Coined Into Dollars—Bill Will Be Reported to the House at Earliest Possible Moment.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—The house committee on coinage, weights and measures has ordered a favorable report on the Bland bill, providing for the coinage of the silver bullion now held in the treasury. The vote was 9 to 8—strictly silver and anti-silver.

The bill provides that the secretary of the treasury shall immediately issue silver certificates against the seigniorage silver, amounting to $55,156,681, which shall be immediately available for the payment of current government expenses, and that the seigniorage silver itself shall be coined as fast as possible into dollars, to be held in the treasury for the redemption of the certificates.

The second section provides that the remainder of the silver bullion purchased under the Sherman act shall be coined as fast as practicable, and the dollars shall be held for the redemption of treasury notes issued for its purchase. The certificates are to be cancelled as fast as the silver is coined for redemption and silver certificates

May Be Issued on Such Notes.

Mr. Bland will report the bill at the earliest possible moment, the committee is privileged in that respect.

Mr. Oates (Dem., Ala.) who has a bill of similar import before the committee, expressed his satisfaction at the action of the committee. "It is not exactly what my bill provides, but it will serve to meet the present exigency," he said.

It will provide the money to pay pressing liabilities, and obviate the necessity of a bond issue. The bullion is in the treasury, and what else can you do with it? The outstanding certificates cannot be redeemed with it: it must first be coined."

The detailed vote stood as follows:

Yeas—Messrs. Kilgore (Dem., Tex.), Bland (Dem., Mo.), Epes (Dem., Va.), Stone (Dem., Ky.), Allen (Dem., Miss.), Bankhead (Dem., Ala.), Coffeen (Dem., Wyo.), McKeighan (Pop., Neb.), and Sweet (Rep., Idaho.)—9.

Nays—Messrs. Tracey (Dem., N. Y.), Rayner (Dem., Md.), Harter (Dem., O.), C. W. Stone (Rep., Pa.), Johnson (Rep., N. D.), Dingley (Rep., Me.), Hager (Rep., Ia.), and Aldrich (Rep., Ill.).

TRADE WITH MEXICO.

High Duty Is the Only Obstacle to Heavy Dealings In Flour.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—John F. Crittenden, consul general to Mexico, in reply to the wheat circular of the United States reports: The standard of living in the valley of Mexico is from $30 to $60 a month for a family of six. There is no reason why the Mexican people should not be ready to eat American flour. Mexican flour being inferiorly milled is consumed in this city to the extent of $2,200,000 annually.

The facilities for shipping from the United States to the City of Mexico are several, but the freight rates are not so favorable as from Europe. Steamship lines deliver European goods into Vera Cruz and Tampico from 10 to 25 per cent cheaper. The high duty on flour is at present the only obstacle in the way of an extensive trade in American flour.

There are no prospects whatsoever under the present circumstances for doing any business in American flour in this section of the country. I think the present American congress should abolish all duties on all importations from Mexico, and sooner or later such liberality would secure a corresponding one from the Mexican government.

BATTLE EXPECTED.

Dalton Gang of Outlaws Preparing to Raid Banks of Border Towns.

GUTHERIE, O. T., Jan. 13.—The Dalton gang of outlaws are undoubtedly preparing to make a wholesale raid upon some of the banks of the territory towns or rob some heavy loaded train on Santa Fe or Rock Island roads. Four times within a week they have made public appearance near towns in the Cherokee strip, only each time to again disappear for a day and reappear at some other point.

They openly raided the postoffice store at Clarkson to secure supplies, and have compelled many farmers to feed them and their horses. There are 12 or 14 in the gang, all heavily armed, and as all towns carry a strong guard, and most of the towns have extra officers on guard, a terrible battle may be looked for.

Four Colored Brutes.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 13.—Last night four negroes entered the home of Frederick Benny, near Florissant, and made a demand for money. The demand not being acquiesced in the quartet beat Benny, who is over 70, and his wife aged 65, so severely that the latter is dead and the former cannot recover from his injuries. A hired man who ran to their assistance was beaten into insensibility. The negroes then secured $5.00 and fled.

Two Important Decisions.

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 13.—Two important decisions have been handed down by United States District Judge Hanford, one of which practically renders the oleomargarine law inoperative, and the other declares that private sealed communications are not included in the United States statute prohibiting the sending of obscene or libellous matter through the mails.

Fire Engine Cut Down.

BUFFALO, Jan. 13.—Fire engine No. 25 in responding to an alarm at 3 this morning, was cut down by a switch engine while crossing the Belt line tracks. The driver, Michael O'Brien, was fatally injured, and died at the hospital at 9:30. The engineer, William Whalen, and the stoker, Robert Sands, were slightly bruised.

Murderer Again Reprieved.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—George Painter, who was to be hanged today, has been reprieved by Governor Altegeld for two weeks. This is the third time Painter has been reprieved, almost at the last moment. The reason this time is that more alleged new evidence has been found.

FEARFUL STRUGGLE

Of a Manchester Girl to Protect Herself From Felonious Assault.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Jan. 13.—Georgie Marceau, a comely young woman employed at Vining's hotel, was the victim of a felonious assault last night which has left her in an enfeebled and distressing condition. She was proceeding to her home in East Manchester at the close of work last night, and in order to shorten the distance proceeded across the baseball grounds by a beaten path.

When inside the grounds she was overtaken by a yonng tough named Frank Kelley, who seized her by the throat and threw her to the ground. She resisted so desperately that he struck her on the head several times, and, being dazed by the blows, he then seized her by the waist and sought to drag her across the grounds to one of the dressing rooms underneath the grand stand.

Before reaching this she revived and recommenced the struggle to release herself. She escaped, only to be felled to the ground again, and finally was forced inside the room.

There the fight was of the most terrific character as is evinced by the blood stains and shreds of clothing which Kelley tore from Miss Marceau's person. Before Kelley could succeed in his design she escaped a second time and ran with all speed her strength would admit across the grounds. Kelley did not follow, and late at night he was arrested by Detectives O'Dowd and Hildreth, by means of the excellent description furnished of him by Miss Marceau.

"GO AHEAD."

The Sheriff Complied and Murderer Welsor Was Promptly Executed.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 13.—Sam Welsor, the murderer of Clementine Manning, spent last night in eating oysters and drinking beer and talking with the two deputy sheriffs who formed the death watch. He was escorted to the scaffold at 8 o'clock. When asked if he had anything to say, he simply replied, without a tremor: "Go Ahead." The drop fell at 8:03. His neck was broken. In 12 minutes the body was cut down and prepared for burial.

The crime for which Welsor was hanged was the murder of Clementine Manning at her room, corner of Walnut and Tenth streets. He had lived with the woman for a number of years, but left her, going to St. Paul. Hearing through a newspaper item that she had won a prize of $1500 in a lottery he came back and demanded that he be reinstated in her affections. As an earnest of her regard for him he demanded that the major portion of her prize be used to start him in the saloon business. His propositions were refused. Sending her sister, who was in the room, for a pitcher of beer, Welsor, as soon as the sister was gone, shot Clementine to death.

On trial the defense of insanity was put up. The principal evidence of mental weakness was the fact that Welsor carried in his pocket the shrivelled and mummified finger of a dead negro with which it was his practice to stir the frequent glasses of whisky which he drank.

EXPLOSION IN A STORE.

Front Blown Into the Street—Two Clerks In the Cellar Badly Injured.

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 13.—At 11 this morning clerks in Scanlan's sporting goods store on Monument square were in the cellar fixing the fire when an explosion occurred, knocking the front of the store into the street and setting the place on fire.

Millbridge Wilson and George Tenant, both clerks, were in the cellar and both were badly hurt. Howard Sawyer, passin the street, was knocked down and his face badly cut with flying glass.

The excitement was great and increased by the discharge of cartridges stored in the place. Passersby pulled Tenant up through a grating inside of the walk at great risk to themselves. The damage will not exceed $500 as the flames were quickly subdued by the department.

THE PRIZE RING.

Conflicting Reports From Jacksonville and the State Officials.

JACKSONVILLE, Jan. 13.—Adjutant General Houston, commander of the Florida militia, was in Jacksonville yesterday and held a consultation with the sheriff of Duval conuty and the officers of the local military. General Houston was very willing to state his mission here. He said that he was sent by Governor Mitchell to consult with the local officials in regard to the feeling in this country concerning the fight. At the meeting, it is said, the local militia stated they would not turn out to stop the battle should they be ordered to do so by the governor. This cannot be verified, as the officials refuse to make a positive statement. General Houston was emphatic in saying that the fight would be stopped at all hazards, but he would say nothing in regard to the plan which would be carried out.

The Duval Athletic club men say that the adjutant general's presence in town means nothing more than that the governor wishes to keep up his pretensions of hostility to the contest and that it was intended for a "bluff" to the newspapers, hoping that such accounts of the affair would be sent out as would discourage patrons of the battle.

This is the general opinion in the city today. Although the officers of the local militia will say nothing, others in the companies are not so reserved. They say that they will refuse to obey orders to turn out and will stand court martial rather than do so. This feeling seems to prevail with all the members of the local militia.

General Houston says that the sheriff will stand firm in his resolution to prevent the contest, but as that official has expressed no public intention of such nature the opinion is that he has been latterly convinced of what his duty is or else the general was "bluffing."

LEGAL COMPLICATION.

Willis May Have Had No Right to Make Demand on Dole.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—The legislational lawyers of the house have detected a legal complication in connection with the Hawaiian situation, which may result in bringing in question the authority of Minister Willis to make a demand on President Dole to retire. Up to Dec. 18 last President Cleveland and the executive branch of the government were directing the course of Hawaiian affairs. But on that day Mr. Cleveland's message was sent to congress stating that he would turn over the subject to the broader authority of congress and would thereafter co-operate in any just solution which congress might propose.

The president's course in turning that subject over to congress, was undoubtedly communicated to Minister Willis at once, but word could not have reached Honolulu until Dec. 26, at the earliest. The message of Dec. 18 had practically cancelled the instructions, and yet Mr. Willis, not knowing of the change, acted on the cancelled instructions.

The date on which Minister Willis made the demand on President Dole to retire was Dec. 18—this was after Mr. Cleveland had given the subject to congress. Under these circumstances, these lawyers of congress are asking as to the authority of Willis to act. Judge Culbertson, chairman of the judiciary committee, said that Minister Willis was bound by early instructions until he received notice that they were changed. Representative Raynor of Maryland, of the foreign affairs committee, is investigating this legal point.

HARVARD BASEBALL.

Balance on Right Side but Expenses Were Unusually Heavy.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 13.—The graduate treasurer's report of Harvard baseball expenses for the year 1892-93 was submitted to the athletic committee this morning. The report shows a handsome balance of $5346.56, which places this season's management on a sound financial basis. Total receipts for the year reached $23,823.76, while the total expenses were $18,477.20.

This is the heaviest annual expenditure ever known in the history of Harvard baseball teams. In 1890 the year's expenses were $7823, and in 1891 $5586. This enormous increase is considered unwarranted, and the treasurer suggests that under careful management the expenses should not be over $10,000 at the outside.

First Blow at the Saloons.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Jan. 13.—The first blow toward the closing of the 400 saloons of the city has been struck. Imperative orders have been issued from the police department that every saloon, including hotels and eating houses, where wines and liquors are served, shall close their doors at 10 o'clock p. m., and refusal to comply with these instructions means that the proprietors will be turned out of business. Dining rooms where liquors are served will not be permitted to open on Sunday, and screens and partitions which obstruct the view of the interior of saloons from the street are to be at once removed.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

NEW INSTRUCTIONS

Given Minister Willis to Guide Him In His Delicate Mission.

NO AMNESTY BY THE QUEEN.

She Talked of Beheading Her Rebellious Subjects.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The long expected message transmitting the additional correspondence on Hawaiian matters was sent to the house of representatives on Saturday.

The last instructions to Minister Willis referred to in the president's letter of transmittal as the only instructions not sent to congress, are dated Saturday. They were sent under cover of a telegram to W. A. Cooper, the dispatch agent at San Francisco, instructing him to forward the following telegram to Mr. Willis by the steamer Mariposa:

Jan. 12.

To Willis, Minister, Honolulu:

Your numbers 14 to 18 inclusive show that you have rightly comprehended the scope of your instructions and have, as far as was in your power, discharged the onerous task confided in you. The president sincerely regrets that the provisional government refuses to acquiesce in the conclusion which his sense of right and duty and due regard for our national honor constrained him to reach and submit as a measure of justice to the people of the Hawaiian Islands and their deposed sovereign.

The subversion of the Hawaiian government by an abuse of the authority of the United States was in plain violation of international laws and required the president to disavow and condemn the act of our offending officials, and within the limits of his constitutional power to endeavor to restore the lawful authority.

On the 18th ultimo the president sent a special message to congress, communicating copies of Mr. Blount's reports and instructions given to him and you. On the same day, answering a resolution of the house of representatives, he sent copies of all correspondence since March 4, 1889, on the political affairs and relations of Hawaii, withholding, for sufficient reasons, only Mr. Stevens' No. 70 of Oct. 8, 1892, and your No. 3 of Nov. 15, 1893. The president therein announces that the conditions of restoration suggested by him to the queen had not proved acceptable to her and that since the instructions sent to you to insist upon those conditions he had not learned that the queen was willing to assent to them. The president thereupon submitted the subject to the more extended powers and wide discretion of congress, adding the assurance that he would be gratified to co-operate in any legitimate plan which might be devised for a solution of the problem consistent with American honor, integrity and morality.

Your report shows that on further reflection the queen gave her unqualified assent in writing to the conditions suggested, but that the provisional government refuses to acquiesce in the president's decision.

The matter now being in the hands of congress, the president will keep that body fully advised of the situation, and will lay before it from time to time the reports received from you, including your No. 3 heretofore withheld, and all instructions sent to you. In the meantime, while keeping the department fully informed of the course of events, you will, until further notice, consider that your special instructions upon this subject have been fully complied with.

W. Q. GRESHAM.

The Papers.

The letter from Mr. Willis to Mr. Gresham of Nov. 16, numbered 3, which the president withheld in his previous message to congress, is as follows:

SIR—In the forenoon of Monday, the 13th inst., by prearrangement, the queen, accompanied by the royal chamberlain, Mr. Robertson, called at the legation. No one was present at the half-hour interview which followed, her chamberlain having been taken to another room, and Consul General Mills, who had invited her to come, remaining in the front of the house to prevent interruption. After a formal greeting, the queen was informed that the President of the United States had important communications to make her, and she was asked whether she was willing to receive them alone and in confidence, assuring her that this was for her own interest and safety. She answered in the affirmative.

I then made known to her the president's sincere regret that, through the unauthorized intervention of the United States, she had been obliged to surrender her sovereignty, and his hope that, with her consent and cooperation, the wrong done to her and to her people might be redressed. To this she bowed her acknowledgements.

I then said to her: "The president expects and believes that when reinstated you will show forgiveness and magnanimity, that you will wish to be queen of all the people, both native and foreign born, that you will make haste to secure their love and loyalty and to establish peace, friendship and good government." To this she made no reply. After waiting a moment, I continued: "The president not only tenders you his sympathy, but wishes to help you. Before fully making known his purpose, I desire to know whether you are willing to answer certain questions, which it is my duty to ask." She answered: "I am willing."

Decapitation Desired.

I then asked her, "Should you be restored to the throne, would you grant full amnesty as to life and property to all those persons who are now in the provisional government, or who have been instrumental in the overthrow of your government?"

She hesitated a moment and then slowly and calmly answered: "There are certain laws of my government by which I shall abide. My decisions would be as the law directs, that such persons should be beheaded and their property confiscated to the government."

I then said, repeating very distinctly her words, "It is your feeling that these people should be beheaded and their property confiscated?"

She replied, "It is."

I then said to her, "Do you fully understand the meaning of every word which I have said to you, and of every word which you have said to me, and if so, do you still have the same opinion?"

Her answer was, "I have understood and mean all I have said, but I might leave the decision of this to my ministers."

To this I replied, "Suppose it was necessary to make a decision before you appointed any ministers, and that you were asked to issue a royal proclamation of general amnesty, would you do it?"

No Amnesty.

She answered, "I have no legal right to do that and I would not do it." Pausing a moment she continued. "These people were the cause of the revolution and constitution of 1887. There never will be any peace while they are here. They must be sent out of the country or punished and their property confiscated."

I then said, "I have no further communication to make to you now and will have none until I hear from my government, which will probably be three or four weeks."

Nothing was said for several minutes, when I asked her whether she was willing to give me the names of four of her most trusted friends, as I might, within a day or two, consider it my duty to hold a consultation with them in her presence. She assented and gave these names: J. O. Carter, John Richardson, Joseph Nawahi and E. C. Macfarlane.

I then inquired whether she had any fears of her safety at her present residence, "Washington square." She replied that she did have some fears; that while she had trusted friends that guarded her house every night, they were armed only with clubs, and that men shabbily dressed had been often seen prowling about the adjoining premises—a schoolhouse, with a large yard.

I informed her that I was authorized by the president to offer protection either on one of our warships or at the legation and desired her to accept the offer at once. She declined, saying she believed that it was best for her to remain at her own residence.

I then said to her that any moment, night or day, this offer of our government was open to her acceptance.

I need hardly add, in conclusion, that the tension of feeling is so great that the promptest action is necessary to prevent disastrous consequences. I send a cipher telegram asking that Mr. Blount's report be withheld for the present, and I send with it a telegram, not in cipher, as follows: "Views of the first party so extreme as to inquire further instruction." I am, etc., ALBERT S. WILLIS.

More Documents.

The next document submitted is a very long letter from President Dole to Minister Willis, its date Dec. 23, in which he says; "We do not recognize the right of the President of the United States to interfere in our domestic affairs. Such a right could be conferred upon him by the act of this government, and by that alone, or it could be acquired by conquest. This I understand to be the American doctrine conspicuously announced from time to time by the authors of your government."

The letter as a whole is a protest against interference by the United States government.

Then follows other correspondence of less significance. One is a letter from Willis to Gresham, Dec. 5, speaking of a protest of citizens of Honolulu against the use of force by the United States against their persons or property. This also inclosed a letter from Minister Dole rescinding the privilege given to Admiral Skerrett of landing his troops for drilling purposes, and also copies of other letters, one inquiring about the authenticity of Secretary Gresham's letter of Oct. 18, already published.

Something Wrong.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—From the statement of The Examiner's Honolulu correspondent there is a prospect that United States officials either at Honolulu or in America may have to answer to the charge of breaking faith with President Dole. It is said that Minister Willis grew impatient at Dole's delay in formulating his reply to Willis' demand of abdication and urged greater haste, whereupon Dole called upon Willis and frankly admitted he did not propose to submit his reply until the arrival of a vessel on which it could be dispatched simultaneously with the departure of the Corwin; whereupon Willis agreed that the Corwin should carry the dispatches of the provisional government.

Dole then hurried forward his reply and sent it to Willis, who dispatched the Corwin early next morning. It transpires that no dispatches were delivered by the Corwin to Hawaiian representatives in America.

The Examiner's correspondent also says Liliuokalani's death from heart disease is liable to occur at any moment. Smothering spells have come upon her with alarming frequency of late. Vistors are prohibited and every precaution is taken to prevent excitement. Threats against her life have greatly conduced to her trouble.

Better Than They Expected.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 15.—The new sliding scale of the Frick Coke company has been prepared and will go into effect at once. The scale reduces all employes from 10 to 20 per cent. If coke advances the wages will be increased accordingly. The wages will be higher than those paid by other coke operators, and the men are satisfied. They expected a reduction of 33 1-3 per cent. About 12,000 men are affected.

Another McCoy Out of the Way.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 13.—Edward Lewis, who killed himself and his wife here, is none other than Edward Lewis McCoy, the missing younger brother of the McCoy gang. They were celebrated in the McCoy-Hatfield vendetta in eastern Kentucky. It is believed he killed his wife fearing she would reveal his identity.

To Relieve the Needy.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Jan. 15.—Both branches of the city government have taken action on Mayor Rutter's recommendation to provide work for the unemployed. An appropriation of $15,000 was made to be expended in filling in low land along the Merrimack river, and 300 men will be given work.

FIVE MINUTES EACH.

Time Limit In Order on the Tariff Speeches.

THE HORNBLOWER NOMINATION

May Crowd Out Other Business In the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The real work on the tariff bill commenced today when the bill begun to be read by sections and is open to amendment under the five minute rule. From now on the bill will be in constant danger of amendment, and the house Democratic leaders have urged upon all their colleagues the absolute necessity of their continual presence until the final vote is taken.

The committee amendments necessary to correct imperfections in the bill will have the right of way. The amendments which the committee offers are considered pending and take precedence over amendments offered by individual members. The bill will first be read by sections under the special order and thereafter be open to amendment in any part.

The decision of the Democratic members of the committee to report the income tax and other internal revenue features of the committee's revenue plan as a separate measure removes one of the main dangers to the bill, as the opposition to the income tax feature was formidable, especially in the east, and some of it was of such character that, had the proposition been placed in the bill, it would have arrayed many Democratic members against the whole measure.

Possible Change In Sugar.

The fact that the proposition is not included in the bill will, it is thought, strengthen the attempt to remove the sugar bounty and substitute in its stead a duty of one cent on sugar. Should this be done it would raise $35,000,000 of revenue and save $10,000,000 of sugar bounty, and remove the necessity for and probably kill the income tax proposition, which it is now the purpose of the committee to present later with the internal revenue bill. It is not believed that the attempts to restore a portion of the duty on coal, iron ore, lumber and other raw materials placed on the free list in the bill will be successful.

According to a careful canvass of the house made by the friends of the measure it would seem that this particular opposition lacks both cohesion and the numerical strength to carry the amendments through. Little Democratic opposition to the bill has manifested itself during the general debate, and the Democratic members of the committee express confidence that the bill will go through practically in an unamended form—with the possible exception of the sugar schedule.

On this proposition the committee is itself divided, those favoring an individual income tax supporting the free sugar proposition, and the opponents of the income tax favoring the restoration of the sugar duty in order to do away with the necessity for an income tax.

The great difficulty in the way of the modification of the bill in this particular, however, even if it should develop great strength on the Democratic side, is that the Republicans will not vote to restore a duty on sugar, which was placed on the free list by the McKinley law.

The most important committee work of the week will be that before the ways and means committee, where the internal revenue bill is still under consideration. It was practically settled that the measure should contain an income tax, an increased tax on whisky and on playing cards and cigarets. But by the unexpected change of attitude of Representative Bynum in moving a reconsideration of the internal revenue features, there is much doubt as to what the committee will ultimately do with the bill.

The committee on foreign affairs have reported all the Hawaiian resolutions referred to them. The mass of correspondence submitted by President Cleveland has been referred to this committee, and it will determine at the meeting next Thursday what course is to be adopted in reference to it.

Senate Forecast.

According to the program agreed upon by the senate last week, the consideration of the federal elections bill should have begun today, but the measure will probably go over for at least a day or two. Should Senator Gray persist in his effort to have the agreement adhered to, his action would probably be antagonized by some who are friendly to the bill, who will ask the senate to go into executive session this afternoon for the consideration of the Hornblower nomination. If Senator Hill, who is supposed to be leading the opposition to Judge Hornblower, could have his way, the vote would probably be taken without any speechmaking whatever, but it is presumed that the friends of Mr. Hornblower will wish to be heard.

Under existing circumstances, a Hawaiian speech is always possible, although there is a disposition to allow this subject to rest until the foreign relations committee can conclude its investigation and make its report.

Senator Gallinger has given notice of a tariff speech for tomorrow, but it, as well as the elections bill, may be crowded over until later in the week.

Expelled From School.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 15.—The young boarding school miss, Pearl Lancaster, and Harry Mayher, whose escapade of Saturday evening led to the belief that they had eloped, returned yesterday. Mayher states that he spent the night at his own home, while Miss Lancaster says that she stayed at a hotel. Miss Lancaster was expelled from the school yesterday.

Found Many Victims.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Jan. 15.—A couple of sharks have been victimizing hundreds of the people of the south by selling lots in Cherokee City. Cherokee City is a city on paper alone, and the lots are not worth the paper the deeds are written on.

Editorial Comment.

JOSIAH QUINCY is reported to favor a return to the sugar tax. There is no doubt but this would be a tax on every housekeeper, but in order to reduce the tariff on luxuries, on granite, etc., it is necessary to obtain a revenue somehow. Mr. Quincy don't keep house. He is, too, one of those who would squirm under an income tax.

THE ALDERMEN of Malden "by standing right up in their boots" have secured five-cent fare to Boston for all its citizens. They would not grant the franchise unless the West End agreed to this. The line was opened Saturday; negotiations were pending for a year.

AN INCOME of $15,000 a year should run the new Woodward Institute in very good shape as the five normal schools of the State were supported on $106,274 last year. It is not, however, a large sum and will not admit of extravagance.

IT SEEMS rather ridiculous for our contemporary to hold the DAILY LEDGER responsible directly or indirectly for an "effusion" which one of its reporters may and may not have written to another paper. There is not a day but what LEDGER reporters write items which are not acceptable to its editors, and which don't appear in print. It would have been the same with the letter which appeared in the Sunday paper. The Common is one of those rank partisan papers which may please Republican politicians, but it is not our ideal of a newspaper.

Don't Like It. Well! Well!

Our "esteemed contemporary" is not at all bashful. It says:

"If the Republicans start a daily newspaper there will be one satisfaction. They will not have money enough next year to pay running expenses of the campaign. From a Democratic position start it at once and make no delay. Experience is a great teacher and you may realize that it is rather expensive. We do not think a great deal of the LEDGER as a daily paper, but the politics are as strong Republican as the people of Quincy will stand."

The Street Railway Stock.

President John R. Graham, of the Quincy & Boston street railway is confined to his home with the grip.

A representative of the LEDGER found him ready to talk about the stock offered for sale by the street railway company. We have already sold half of the $20,000 we want to raise, he said, to the citizens of Quincy and Weymouth and it looks as though the balance would be sold before the first of February as it is possible that the directors at their next meeting will vote to add the interest from Oct. 1, to all stock bought after Feb. 1. The stock is actually worth $125 per share as it pays 6 per cent. and as it is free from taxes it is paying equal to 7½ per cent. As a safe investment the Quincy & Boston has more advantages, than most stock, as there is no bonds or mortgages on our property and the real estate alone is worth $5,500. We are feeling the general business depression very slightly and our receipts average the same as last year, for what we are loosing on the West Quincy line is more than balanced by our extension to North Weymouth. My young man, if you want a safe investment, my advice is call upon Mr. Weeks, the superintendent.

Schoolmaster Putnam.

Few probably remember Mr. Granville B. Putnam as principal of the Quincy High school. He is now a valued teacher of Boston, and third among the masters of that city in length of service. He taught in Quincy three and one-half years; from April 12, 1861, going to Boston in September, 1864, and becoming master of the Franklin school in January, 1865, which position he now holds. He was born in Danvers, has contributed to many publications, and written several hymns, including "Columbia's Jubilee."

Damage by Water.

Sunday morning Officer Ferguson discovered that the water pipe in the Weston block on the corner of Hancock street and Hancock court, had burst, and the water was flooding the store of the Misses Flynn. An entrance was forced through a back window but no shut off could be found. Entrance was then forced into the laundry and the faucet there opened which took the force from the leak above. The shut off was then found under the floor and the water turned off.

The burst in the pipe occurred in the rooms on the upper floor occupied by the Hancock club, and had run down through the floor into the store of Misses Flynn, whose stock of dry goods and small wares was completely soaked and damaged to the extent of $150.

MISSIONARY PUDDEFOOT.

He Does Not Appeal in Vain to Congregationalists of Quincy.

Few missionaries can hold an audience and interest them to such an extent as did Rev. W. G. Puddefoot at the Congregational church, Sunday. His appeal for help for the home missions is one that could not go unheeded. He said hard crimes were worse than hard times, and they were rapidly increasing. The record for the United States for 1893, was 7,000 murders, 4,000 suicides, 1,000 burned, 700 killed by explosions, and 500 to 600 in various other ways. This terrible slaughter was largely due to criminal carelessness. The lynchings surpassed the executions. There is a cause for it; how clean it up. It was silly to lay it to the foreign element, for we have more crime than Italy, and more in localities occupied by native born than foreigners. It was a fact that more missionary work was needed in Massachusetts than any other State; more in the country towns than the cities. More was spent for the jails than the churches and jails don't improve people. There was yet no real Christian nation.

At the evening he told his experiences as a missionary in the same interesting style. A collection was taken at the morning service, and another will be taken next Sunday.

INCENDIARY FIRE.

The Sheds of One of Our Granite Firms Distroyed.

The office and sheds of J. Haverhan & Son, on Robertson street, West Quincy, were discovered to be on fire at an early hour this morning, and an alarm was rung in from box 48 at 1.27. The department responded quickly, but the structure, which was a mere shell was destroyed. The loss will be something like $300.

The fire looked as though it was of incendiary origin. April 13, last year, the office of this same firm was discovered to be on fire about 8 o'clock in the evening, and Officer McAloon, who lives near by, forced an entrance and extinguished the flames with a loss of $25.

Funeral of John M. Call.

The funeral services over the remains of Mr. John M. Call were held from his late residence on Warren avenue, Wollaston, on Friday afternoon. The simple and impressive services were conducted by the Rev. Edward A. Robinson of the Wollaston Congregational church, and the Rev. Wm. R. Lord of the Harrison Square Unitarian church. The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Co., of which the deceased was a member, was represented by Capt. Jacob Fottler, Lieut. Olis, Lieut. G. B. Spaulding, Capt. J. Henry Brown, Serg't Moses Chandler, Serg't R. S. Byam and William H. Jones; members of the old 5th Massachusetts Volunteers and the Boston Produce Exchange; change; Mr. Call's former partners, Mr. John W. Roberts, Mr. Hiram Leonard and Mr. George M. Stevens were also present. The pall bearers were Sergt. Rollstone Copley and Mr. Davis from the 5th regiment, Capt. J. Henry Brown and Sergt. Moses Chandler of the Ancients, J. C. Brooks of the Boston Produce Exchange, and Mr. Henry A. Jones of Wollaston. The interment was at Mount Wollaston.

The Late Mr. Armstrong.

Frank H. Armstrong, a prominent citizen of Wollaston, died at his home on Grand View avenue, on Saturday afternoon, of typhoid fever. Mr. Armstrong was born in East Boston in 1856. In 1872 he entered the employ of Kidder, Peabody & Co. of Boston, and was, up the time of his sickness, in charge of the foreign exchange department. He was a member of the Rural Lodge of Masons of Quincy. A widow and three children survive him

THE APPOINTMENTS.

A Semi-Official Announcement of the Department Officials.

Much interest is felt in the meeting of the City Council this evening, as it will be the first since the organization of the new Council, and it is expected that the standing committees will be named by President Bass, and many of the department officials and boards by Mayor Hodges.

Both officials are non-committal as to who will be selected, but the Globe evidently has inside information as it has gone to the expense of preparing engravings and sketches of the probable nominees. It gives the following list, which may and may not be accurate:

City clerk,—Harrison A. Keith.

City Treasurer,—Bryant N. Adams.

Commissioner of Public Works,—William N. Eaton.

Principal Assessor,—Bryant N. Adams.

Chief of Police,—Joseph Warren Hayden.

Chief Engineer of Fire Department,—Peter J. Williams.

But who will be Collector of Taxes, Overseer of the Poor, City Solicitor, Assistant Assessors, etc. etc.?

Lively Runaway.

The horse attached to the tip cart of Henry H. Faxon became frightened in the depot yard this morning just before 9 o'clock, and dashed down Hancock street at a break-neck speed. When opposite J. R. Wild's office the horse slipped and fell and when the turnout came to a standstill the tip cart was upside down and the horse was on his back with his feet in the air. Fortunately no great damage was done.

Quincy then had 112 and about 3000 acres have been added. The following from the Herald relative to the Blue Hills reservation will be of interest:

"The Blue Hills reservation," the Herald says, "forms the largest public pleasure ground possessed by any city in this country, and compares in extent and character with the magnificent public domains near London, Paris and other old world capitals, where their original reservation for hunting grounds for royalty has resulted in a splendid heritage for the people under the growing ascendancy of democracy. It comprises a territory of irregular shape, about five miles long and with a width of about 1 3-4 miles in its widest parts and a little less than a mile in its narrowest section. It lies in the towns of Milton and Canton, and in city of Quincy. Only a small portion, however, comes within the limits of Canton—the southwestern corner of the reservation, covered by the steep flank of the great Blue hill, whose summit is crossed by the line between Milton and Canton.

"The reservation includes almost the entire range, except the outlying hills in Quincy, that are devoted to the granite quarries, which form the chief industry of that city, and the little Blue Hill on the west. The boundary lines are so drawn as to follow the topographical contour lines in a way that will enable the eventual laying out of good boundary roads where such ways do not at present exist. The westerly boundary begins in Milton, on Canton avenue, at its junction with the Brush Hill road, near the house of Hon. Roger Wolcott, and follows the avenue across the Milton-Canton line to its junction with Hillside street, the road that runs easterly close along the foot of the steep southerly face of the Big Blue and crosses the range back to the Milton side through the westerly pass. The boundary follows Hillside avenue to a point near the crossing of the road by Blue Hill brook, and then makes a detour to include the level land around Hoosicwhisick pond, and embraces that beautiful feature in the reservation.

"The southerly boundary then follows the line of the stream known as Blue Hill river, which also forms the boundary between Quincy and Randolph to a point near Norroway pond in Braintree, and then follows the Quincy-Braintree line to a point near Rattlesnake hill. Willard street in Quincy here forms the easterly boundary to a point near the long and narrow range to the northward of Rattlesnake hill, with a height of 200 feet on the easterly and 240 feet at the westerly end, a little more than a mile long. The northerly boundary, leaving Willard street, just includes this range and follows along the northerly side of the main range in a way to include all the wild land practicable, and leaves untouched the country that is suitable to private occupancy.

"The reservation includes 11 prominent summits. The chief of these is the Great Blue, with a height of 635 feet above sea level. Prominent shoulders of this grand hill have heights of 470 and 460 feet. To the eastward stands the Hancock group, with a height of 507 feet for Hancock hill, 460 feet for West Hancock hill, and 428 feet for South Hancock, or Houghton's hill. To the eastward of the pass traversed by by Hillside street stands Bugbee hill, with a height of 439 feet. This is the first hill in Quincy. Next come Boyce hill, 400 feet; Bear hill, 495 feet, and then, to the eastward of the pass traversed by Randolph avenue, Glover's hill, 430 feet, and just to the northward Chickatawbut hill, the second eminence in the range, with a height of 518 feet. Next is Fenno's hill, 483 feet, and several unnamed summits of 400, 380, 375, 310 and 357 feet successively. Finally comes Rattlesnake hill with a height of 314 feet. There are several lesser heights to the eastward, outside the reservation, President's hill, which is not far from the main railway station in Quincy, being the terminus of the range.

"For the present, all efforts at improvement in the Blue Hills reservation will probably be confined to make the woods secure as possible against the recurrence of such disastrous fires as that of last spring. The wild woodland character of the reservation is such as to make undesirable all elaborate improvements like those that are necessary for the proper use of pleasure grounds of a more strictly park-like character. Nothing will probably ever be called for here, other than to encourage a reversion to the most natural condition of a wild woodland mountain-like country and to give the public the most convenient access to its various parts by means of drives, rides and walks to the most important summits and open up the best points of view in the most attractive way, together with opportunities for shelter and refreshments at convenient points. These facilities can gradually be provided as the demand arises."

Death of Freeman G. Crosby.

On Friday morning, about eight o'clock, Freeman G. Crosby, a prominent citizen for a good many years and successful business man in Braintree, died at the family residence on Hancock street, South Braintree.

Mr. Crosby had not been in robust health for over a year, but had always been able in a measure to attend to business until a few months ago, when he grew worse and was obliged to take to his bed and remain there with lucid intervals fostering the hope of recovery, to the day of his death.

Mr. Crosby was born in Orleans, Mass. He was a wheelwright and coming to Braintree about 1845 was employed at his trade by Warren Mansfield, carriage and wagon builder then in the zenith of his business prosperity.

Being an excellent workman and of steady and trustworthy habits, Mr. Crosby was promoted to the position of foreman to Mr. Mansfield and soon became his right hand man. Mr. Mansfield was considerable of a man in those days and held large contracts from the United States government for the building of gun carriages, wagons, etc.

But this prosperous condition of business was not destined long to continue; reverses set in, as they will, and Mr. Mansfield lived to see his once extensive and prosperous business dwindle down to nothing, and see his foreman engage in business himself, not as a carriage builder, but as a contractor for the building of wagons and other vehicles, suitable for the Cuban planters in housing and moving their sugar cane.

Mr. Crosby being a man of excellent judgment, in matters of this kind and strictly reliable, succeeded through a steady application to business, in accumulating quite a little fortune. He had most of his work done in Worcester in this state.

In 1846, Mr. Crosby married Charlotte B. Dyer of Braintree, who still survives him. Besides his wife he has left a son and daughter. Mr. Webster F. Crosby and the wife of Mr. Adonriam J. Dyer.

Mr. Crosby was never very ambitious for public office, preferring rather to devote the whole of his time and attention to his own business, still he took great interest in town affairs and wanted everything to go right. He was a prudent, careful, shrewd business man and an excellent citizen.

Thayer Academy.

Miss Thompson has had a very severe attack of the grip this past week and has not been able to attend school. The scholars sincerely hope that she will be able to come today. As Miss Thompson will not be able to reach school so early in the morning the timetable of recitations has been changed to accommodate her.

Superintendent of Schools Horne, a member of the Pedagogical School of Harvard University, delivered a thesis before that institution last Wednesday evening. Mr. Horne's subject was mathematics in secondary schools.

The music hour has been changed from 12 o'clock Thursday to one o'clock on Fridays. Last Friday a very large number attended, an unusually large gathering of boys, there being about a dozen. Professor Sewall expressed the opinion that there would be a very good chorus this year.

The carpenter work on the new buildings is progressing rapidly. Considerable surprise is expressed that the edges of the running track are not being raised. In a track so small, a person desiring to run very rapidly would be unable to get around the corners unless the corners are raised. It also is hoped that a rubber track will be placed, as it is very hard on the feet to run on boards. Thayer ought not to be behind any other gymnasium.

Thayer received a great shock last week when she learned of the death of John E. Manson of Scituate. Manson went from here to Tufts last year from the Junior class. He was very popular with the boys, and his death was a great surprise, as several saw him in perfect health the week before he died.

A hitherto unpublished poem by Whittier,—"The rose lay on the Ghebir's Shrine"—printed in fac-simile of the poet's hand writing, is made the frontispiece of the January number of the Cosmopolitan. The poem is dated at Oak Knoll, March, 1879. There is also a pleasant gossipy article under the title of "Whittier Desultoria," by Charlotte Fiske Bates, giving charming personal reminiscences of the beloved poet of New England. Mr. Howells continues his serial. T. C. Crawford contributes a paper on "A revival of Pantomine," in which he gives an interesting account of some of the Parisian masters and mistresses of the art of presenting comedy by gesture and expression alone. There is the usual variety of interesting literature.

Ward Six Playground.

A meeting of the Park Commissioners will be held in Music hall, Atlantic, Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, to decide upon a site for a playground for that ward, as the people of Atlantic are divided on the proper site. Some want it located near the depot, while others are in favor of locating it on part of the Howe estate on Squantum street and still others want it located off Atlantic street, near the water.

Fire at Randolph.

Randolph's industries received a severe blow Saturday when the boot and shoe factory of Mr. William Gibbons on Cottage street was destroyed by fire, entailing a loss of $10,000. It was the intention to have put on many new workmen soon and a large quantity of leather had been put in.

A LABOR MUDDLE.

Garment Workers of Boston Likely to Be Locked Out by Contractors.

BOSTON, Jan. 15.—There is a probability that 300 readymade clothing workers of this city will be locked out. A large majority of this craft are members of the United Garment Workers of America and are attached to the American Federation of Labor. Some few weeks ago the Knights of Labor formed an assembly of this trade and since that time there has been considerable rivalry between the two organizations. Last week the contractors working for a large wholesale house here notified their employes, who are all members of the United Garment Workers' union, that they must join the Knights of Labor. The employes state that they are perfectly satisfied with their present organization, and at a meeting yesterday it was decided to refuse to join the Knights of Labor. This action is expected to cause a lockout, and should this be the case it will start a warfare between trades organizations in nearly every branch of industry in this city.

A RAP AT TAMMANY.

Charges of Collusion Between City Authorities and Contractors.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—John D. Townsend, chairman of the Independent County organization, has issued an address attacking the business methods of Tammany Hall and the administration of Mayor Gilroy and Commissioner Daly of the department of public works. The address sets forth that it is proposed to spend about $2,000,000 on asphalt paving this year, and charges that the mayor and commissioner are not proper persons to be entrusted with the expenditure of so much money, in view of past events.

It is alleged that collusion must have existed for some time between the department of public works and the Barber Paving company, whereby the latter have secured many rich contracts. Chairman Townsend urges the establishment of a new department to take charge of the street expenditures in New York city and remove the work from the control of present officials.

Searching Parties Are Out.

DANBURY, Conn., Jan. 15.—Albertina Strom, a Swedish woman, 25 years old, while delirious Saturday night, escaped from the Danbury hospital and has not been heard from since. She escaped by jumping from the window of her room to the ground. The ground was covered by snow. Searching parties are scouring the country for the woman, but so far without success. Miss Strom left a dummy in bed to deceive the nurses.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtenances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

Life.

And all lives are a poem: some wild and cyclonic,
With verses of cynical bluster Byronic;
And some still flow on in perpetual benison,
As perfect and smooth as a stanza of Tenny son;
And some find huge bowlders their currents to hinder,
And are broken and bent like the poems of Pindar;
And some a deep base of proud music are built on,
The calm ocean swell of the epic of Milton;
And some rollic on with a freedom completer
In Whitman's chaotic, tumultuous meter.
But most lives are mixed, like Shakespearean dramas,
Where the king speaks heroics, the idiot stammers,
Where the old man gives counsel, the young man loves hotly,
Where the king wears his crown and the fool wears his motley,
Where the lord treads his hall and the peasant his heather—
And in the fifth act they all exit together—
And the drama goes out with its pomp and its thunder,
And we weep, and we laugh, and we listen and wonder!

No Work, No Rent.

A Boston dispatch of recent date contained the following, "We will pay no house rent until we find regular employment." Such was the unanimous declaration of 400 or more unemployed mechanics, who crowded into Columbian hall to discuss their condition and devise means of relief.

Landlords who refuse to reduce rents during the poor condition of business were denounced, and resolutions were adopted calling upon "all persons out of work to refuse to pay rent until they have opportunity to relieve the hunger of those dependent upon their exertions for the necessities of life."

Central Discharging Men.

Since Dec. 1 the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad company has discharged nearly 1,000 men at New York and Buffalo points, 300 of whom were on the Hudson river division. Some of the men had been in the employ of the company 30 years. The laid off men include trackmen, bridgemen, laborers, etc. One of the discharged men said that as fast as the pay car moved along section bosses told this one and that one that he was relieved from further duty. "This is the third cut," said the man referred to, "and I hear that there is to be another and a larger cut on Jan. 1."

RAVAGES OF FEVER

Said to Be Thinning the Ranks of Brazilian Insurgents.

GOVERNMENT IS GAINING GROUND.

Artillery Duels Between Opposing Forces Occur Daily.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 15.—News was received in this city yesterday from the south of a character most encouraging to the Brazilian government and disheartening to the insurgent admiral. It is to the effect that the long expected and much relied upon re-enforcements from Santa Catharina are unlikely to give anything like prompt assistance to their fellow insurgents now in Rio harbor. In fact, it looks as if the revolutionary leaders at Santa Catharina would be unable to lend any aid to Admiral da Gama.

The serious illness of Admiral de Mello on board the Republica has had an apparently disastrous effect upon the insurgent forces in the southern part of the republic.

In Rio Grande do Sul the insurgents have raised the siege of Bage and have left that city in triumphant possession of the government garrison. In a number of other engagements in the south the revolutionists have suffered defeat and many of Mello's men have been wounded or killed.

Insurgents Are Discontented.

Unless Mello rapidly recovers from his illness and is able by his presence to reanimate his men the outlook for the insurgents is very dark indeed. Discontent prevails to a large extent in their ranks, and desertions are numerous. Fever is also thinning the insurgent army. Unless something be quickly done Mello will lose fully one-half of his entire force in the south.

This news will likely lead to greater activity than ever on the part of Peixoto, and a battle between his troops and the insurgent squadron and forts of a decisive character will probably be fought within a very short time. The inhabitants of Rio are heartily tired of the war, and the epidemics now raging make the desire for restoration of peace the stronger.

Fortifying Rio.

The government is using every effort to make the insurgents' position in Rio harbor untenable. Every point around the bay is being made use of for military purposes. Guns are now mounted on all the commanding positions in and about the city and on the shore front between Rio and Fort Sao Jose, and from Santa Cruz to Nictheroy. Other guns have been recently mounted on Armacao point and Mucangue island.

There is a total of some 400 pieces of artillery in position. Many of them are old-fashioned and of little use. Some Whiteworths, a few Armstrongs and a number of Krupps make quite a respectable showing.

Daily there is an artillery duel between the forts, and the amount of ammunition used so far has been enormous. Still the firing continues just as though the supply was inexhaustible. The soldiers lining the shore front keep up a heavy rifle fire upon Fort Villegaignon, the latter replying with its machine guns. All the buildings on the island of Villegaignon are in ruins. The mortality among the garrison at Fort Villegaignon has been very heavy, the average being 10 killed and wounded weekly since the garrison joined in the fight.

The government is gradually closing in upon the insurgents in Rio harbor, and the position of Admiral da Gama is becoming more and more difficult every day. Unless the promised re-enforcements arrive very soon from the south Admiral da Gama cannot hold his position in front of this city much longer.

The hot spell and dry weather have set in, and they are said to be the sure precursors of an outbreak of the dreaded vomito, a factor that possibly may play an important part in terminating the civil war so far as this city is concerned.

DISAPPOINTED SUITOR

Fatally Shoots His Successful Rival When About to Be Married.

BROOKLYN, Jan. 15.—There was murder attempted at a wedding last evening at 81 Main street, when Andreao Santano, 29 years old, the bridegroom, was shot and probably fatally wounded by Domingo Figaro, 22 years old. a disappointed suitor for the hand of Marie Desante, who was the bride of the evening. All the parties are Spaniards.

Santano and Figaro lived at the house where Miss Desante was boarding mistress. Both men were very attentive to her and when she favored Santano Figaro was furiously jealous and threatened to kill his rival. Rev. Mr. Mozer of the Johnson Street Methodist church came to marry Desante and Santano. The marriage took place in a room opposite to that occupied by Figaro. As the bride and groom came into the hall Figaro appeared on the scene, and, pulling a revolver, fired three shots.

Two of them struck Santano in the head. Santano fell, while the wedding guests rushed at the would-be-murderer and disarmed him. Great excitement prevailed. Figaro was hurried to jail and the wounded man was taken to the city hospital where, it is said, there is little hope of his recovery. The bride was rendered unconscious by the shock.

A CHINESE HORROR.

Fire In a Temple Causes Nearly Three Hundred Persons to Perish.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—The Pacific mail steamship City of Peking brought details from Nangapo, China, of one of the most terrible fires on record, which occurred in the big temple in that city Dec. 8 and caused the death of nearly 300 women and children. The annual theatrical performance in honor of the gods was being given in the temple. A boy threw a lighted cigaret into a heap of straw, which blazed up, and the burning staircase prevented the people from getting out.

There was a general rush to escape. Some were trampled to death, others jumped out of the windows, and were either killed or so badly injured that they were unable to escape the flames, and so perished. Others passively awaited their fate, which was not long in overtaking them, and they were roasted alive or suffocated by the smoke.

HOLDING THE FORT.

Pedagogue With a Brace of Revolvers Defies Town Authorities.

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 15.—Martin Joyce, who for the past several years has been employed as principal of the public school at Lackawanna township, has turned the school into a fort, which he defends with the aid of two large revolvers. Principal Joyce had frequent complaints made against him to the school directors. It is alleged that he gave grave offense to the female portion of his school. Last week this school board notified him that he would not be employed after Thursday. Joyce took possession of the school building and is holding it with the aid of his revolvers, with which he has thus far created enough fear to prevent ejection. It is customary to hold Sunday school in the building, but no services were held yesterday, as Joyce refused to grant admission to any one. The school directors will appeal to Sheriff Fahey to have Joyce dislodged.

SPOKANE, Wash., Jan. 15.—With a mighty roar a terrific snowslide came down the mountain at Mullan, Idaho, carrying everything before it. Several miners' cabins in its path were crushed and buried. THE PENALTY OF BAD ROADS.

Higher Prices For Consumers, but No Profit For Producers.

Western soil is especially adapted to raising farm products. For this reason good roads must be the work of art rather than of nature. And the greater the crops the more necessity there is for easy transportation from the farm to the elevators.

It has been estimated that good roads would increase the value of two-thirds of the good farms in the Mississippi and Missouri valleys $10 an acre. In addition to the difference in the cost of hauling should be considered the great amount of vegetables, garden and dairy products which are shipped by rail from long distances.

Under our present system of dirt roads it is not profitable to make a garden very far from the city market. Farmers living 8 or 10 miles from the city find it difficult to supply customers regularly. As a result they raise only enough to supply their own wants and trust to the general market for the disposal of butter and eggs when they come to town.

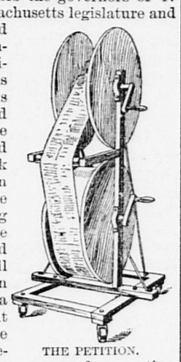

But conditions are such that a great many reach market at the same time, and after a few days of scarcity in fresh goods carry an abundance which breaks the market. With gravel or macadam roads farmers would find gardens profitable, and they could make daily or tri-weekly trips with a regularity which would benefit themselves and their customers alike.

In large cities the trade has been forced to keep a good supply of fresh articles constantly on hand, and having learned that the home gardeners are not reliably regular they have arranged for receipts from other sections, frequently from other states, at an extraordinary expense. Thus the farmer not only loses a near market, but consumers pay for transportation, packing and losses, besides getting staler food.

When local conditions are favorable, the city dealer dares not transfer his trade to the market gardens near home, but must continue to trade abroad at greater cost because his correspondents will not submit to irregularity. It is plain that both town and country suffer for lack of reliable roads.—Kansas City Times.

Petition For a Good Roads Department.

That the right of petition has lost none of its popularity was evidenced recently when four pages rolled into the senate chamber a request signed by 150,000 citizens for a department of good roads. It was presented by Senator Hoar and had among the signers the governors of 17 states, the Massachusetts legislature and several banks and chambers of commerce. The petition is 1,400 yards long and was wound around two immense spools mounted on a polished oak frame over seven feet high, the whole weighing 600 pounds. The petition prayed that there shall be founded in Washington a road department similar to the agricultural department for the purpose of promoting knowledge in the art of constructing and maintaining roads, and asks that in such department provision be made for teaching students. It was referred to the committee on interstate commerce. While a large majority, if not almost all, of the senators and representatives are in favor of the good roads movement, they are not in favor of creating an additional executive department, and though the petition will fail of its object it shows how widespread is the movement for improved country highways.

THE PETITION.

Roads of China.

An interesting chapter on the topic of public roads is afforded in the results noted by the Shanghai branch of the Asiatic society of some recent extensive investigations made by its agents as to the condition and maintenance of roads in China. It is not, however, a chapter on good roads. Indeed it is much like the famous chapter on the snakes in Iceland, for there seem to be no roads in China worthy the name. Instead of the farmers being interested in the making and maintenance of good roads, as is the case here, the Chinese farmer interests himself largely in the destruction of such roads as may chance to be made. He does not travel himself and is against any one else doing so, at least over his land. There are no public highways made and maintained by law. Travelers may drive where they please, so far as the owner of the land may please, and there is constant warfare between the two classes, so that all there is of roads through the country is just what the one may suffer or the other wrest.—New York Sun.

The Good Old Road.

"Build me a road!" quoth the general,
"And build well, that the ages may say
Of all roads that lead to the city
The 'queen' is the Appian way."

Invading the Northman's forest,
Destroying the Northman's home,
O'er the road of great General Appius
March the terrible legions of Rome.

Build well, build well, oh, Romans!
Building "better than ye know,"
For over that wonderful causeway
The footsteps of angels shall go.

Build well for your general, Romans!
And build well for the northern throngs
That shall whelm at length the proud city,
Avenging the known world's wrongs.

Build well for your general, Romans!
Building better for one greater far,
To whose cradle the roads of the ages
Lead, illum'd by the Christmas star.

And ever the song of the angels
Sounds clear through the worldy din,
And ever the road of the wise men
Leads straight to the stable in.

'Glory to God in the highest!"
Sang the angels at Christmas then;
"Peace on earth," coming slow through the ages,
"Peace on earth and good will to men."
—Good Roads.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

TOBACCO SCHEDULE

Receives Considerable Attention in the Tariff Tinkering.

A TALK ON LABOR AND CAPITAL

Serves to Greatly Enliven the Day's Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The reading of the tariff bill in the house consumed 2 hours and 15 minutes. As soon as it was concluded Mr. Wilson took the floor and suggested that before the committee proceeded to consider the bill under the five-minute rule it was advisable that an agreement should be reached by which the schedules should be taken up in the order in which they occur for three days, to determine whether the time limit would permit the committee to go through all of them in this manner.

Mr. Reed said he was glad to recognize that at the outset the chairman of the ways and means committee admitted the utter impropriety of the present procedure. But this suggestion did not propose to remedy that. The proper way was to relieve the time limitation from the debate and allow it to proceed in an untrammeled way. The bill contained a great many propositions of vital importance to different sections of the country. The whole bill was now before the house, but every amendment depended upon the recognition of the chair. He (Mr. Reed) could not agree to the agreement.

Wilson Starts In.

At this point Mr. Bynum called for the regular order and the chair recognized Mr. Wilson. Mr. Wilson then offered the first committee amendment to strike out in the tobacco schedule the words "commercially known" in the description of wrapper tobacco. He explained that the amendment was desirable to prevent incorrect interpretation at the custom house.

This precipitated a very fierce discussion. Mr. Payne (Rep., N. Y.) offered an amendment to the amendment to increase the duty on cigar wrappers from $1 to $2 and supported it in a five minute speech. Mr. De Forest (Dem., Conn.) supported Mr. Payne's amendment. He declared a high duty would not only protect the tobacco farmers of Connecticut, but was consistent with the revenue plank in the Chicago platform. Besides it was a tax on a luxury.

Mr. Marsh (Rep., Ills.) wanted to know why the constituents of Mr. De Forest, who elected him to congress on a Democratic platform, did not take the medicine they voted for. Then Mr. Marsh declared that the Democratic party did not have the courage to incorporate in the tariff bill the redemption of its platform pledges.

Signed by 45,000.

Mr. Bynum declared that cigar manufacturers and operators to the number of 45,000 had signed the petitions for this reduction. They were deserving of more consideration than the tobacco farmers of Connecticut. Mr. Sperry (Dem., Conn.) waived the question of protection to the Connecticut farmer and supported Mr. Bayne's amendment. There were, he said, now in the custom house 5,000,000 pounds of Sumatra leaf. If it came in under the present duty, it would yield $5,000,000 more than the prepared schedule of the bill; if the bill passed as it stood, the money would go into the pockets of the importers.

Mr. Paynter (Dem., Ky.) offered a substitute to further reduce the proposed duty of $1 to 30 and 35 cents.

Mr. Marsh (Rep., Ills.) offered an amendment to the substitute to reduce the duty to 25 cents, as he said, to test the good faith of the Democratic side.

The vote was then taken on Mr. Payne's amendment to place the duty at the present rate. It was lost, 76 to 115.

Agreements Reached.

Mr. Wilson's amendment was then agreed to, and the vote was taken on Mr. Marsh's amendment to Mr. Paynter's substitute. Both the amendment and the Paynter substitute were disagreed to.

Mr. Wilson proposed the amendment to eliminate cables and cordage from the operation of the 10 per cent duty on cord and twine (except binding twine) so that they, too, could come in free.

Mr. Morse (Rep., Mass.) offered an amendment to the Wilson amendment to take binding twine from the free list and put it back upon the dutiable list. Mr. Morse said that free binding twine would destroy the cordage industry of his state.

Mr. Morse's amendment was voted down and the Wilson amendment was agreed to.

Mr. Wilson's next amendment was to the cotton cloth schedule to include cotton duck in its provisions. After some debate this was agreed to and Mr. Wilson then offered an amendment to add to the free list sweat leathers, binding ribbons, cut felt, etc., for hat trimmings. The present duty, he explained, was 30 per cent.

A Duel of Words.

At this point Mr. Payne made a statement which led to the most interesting scene of the day and finally culminated in a wordy duel between Mr. Reed and Mr. Cockran. Mr. Payne declared that protection enabled the manufacturers to pay high wages, and while it might be true that they would not pay high wages of their own volition, labor unions enabled labor to exact high wages.

"But do tile manufacturers pay them?" inquired Mr. Cockran (Dem., N. Y.).

"Yes; every time," shouted Mr. Walker.

"Didn't Andrew Carnegie have abundant ability to meet the demands of the trades unions when the Homestead riots occurred?" inquired Mr. Cockran.

"If he can make steel rails as cheaply as Mr. Johnson said he could the other day, I suppose he had," replied Mr. Payne.

The discussion proceeded on the effect of the trouble at Homestead, Mr. Payne saying it was more profitable to the employes at Homestead to pay hundreds of thousands of dollars to put down the strike than to yield to the demands of the strikers. Mr. Cockran said that the wages were broken down under the salutary power of capital, and present conditions were the result of unfair methods of distribution, rendering thousands homeless and hopeless.

Reed Steps In.

Mr. Reed here joined in. By adopting a similar process of reasoning to that followed by Mr. Cockran, he said he might charge the present condition of affairs to the unfaithfulness of the Democratic party. Prosperity had been arrested by the threat of another system, not by the continuance of the present one.

"The gentleman says wages depend on the law of supply and demand," continued Mr. Reed. "That theory is long since exploded. They depend on the condition of the market. We do not want to give up our home market and go to the ends of the earth and enter into a struggle with the cheap labor of the world. We want to retain our own market and elevate the condition of our own labor.

"In this tremendous struggle all the inventive power of this country is at work, and now, by bringing us into competition with a lower civilization, you propose to make it impossible to further sustain the condition of labor in this country. The success, good fortune and prosperity of American labor," he concluded, "does not depend on those who rend the heavens with its praises, but are due to God omnipotent."

Cockran's Reply.

Replying, Mr. Cockran said he could not make the distinction between consumable and unconsumable wealth. All wealth he thought was consumable. "The basis of wealth was the capacity to produce," he said. "You cannot save unless you make; you cannot divide unless you create. When you make production expensive you limit its power. As we are able to produce cheapest, the providence of God declared that this country should complete the economic conquest of the world. If the contention of the other side that wages were not dependent on the law of supply and demand were true, then they were right; if untrue, then we are right."

At 5:30 the last amendment of Mr. Wilson was agreed to, and a recess was taken until 8 o'clock.

At the night session Mr. Powers (Rep., Vt.) opposed the bill, and Mr. Boen (Pop., Neb.) and Mr. Hudson (Pop., Kan.) supported the bill. Mr. Boen proposed as a substitute a bill permitting the free entry of manufactured articles when sent in exchange for agricultural products.

At 10:20 p. m. the house adjourned.

TOO TALL AND THIN.

John L. Sullivan's Opinion of the Man Who Whipped Him.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 16.—John L. Sullivan says: "This last letter of Corbett's, in which he says that Mitchell is a coward and had to be forced into the match and had tried to crawl out of meeting him since the articles were signed, is all buncombe. Mitchell is no coward, and I believe he made the match in good faith and will carry it out. The letter was no doubt written by that fellow, Brady, as Corbett has not got sense enough to write such a letter.

"The fight will last fully 20 rounds, which will take about an hour's time; that is, provided they do not do much of the sprinter's act, in which they are both daisies. As to Corbett's endurance, I can't say; but I don't consider him a well built man by any means. He is entirely too tall and thin."

Boston Labor Troubles.

BOSTON, Jan. 16.—The 50 employes of Clothing Contractor Bronski and the 30 employes of Contractor Cappell in this city refused to renounce their trade organization and join the Knights of Labor, and were refused work yesterday. Hornblower Rejected.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The senate last night, after a contest of more than six hours, rejected the nomination of W. B. Hornblower of New York as associate justice of the supreme court by a vote of 30 to 24. May Have Been the Result of an Engineer's Carelessness.

HOBOKEN, N. J., Jan. 16.—About two miles from Hoboken and a few hundred feet from the drawbridge across the Hackensack river, at 8:15 yesterday morning, the Orange accommodation crashed into the rear of the Dover express on the Morris and Essex branch of the Delaware and Lackawanna. The scene of the accident was on the Long Meadows, which form the bed of the Hackensack river and away from the possibilities of any quick assistance. Eleven lives paid the penalty of perhaps some one's carelessness, and the list of known injured is 50, some of whom will probably die.

So far as can be learned, the cause of the accident is due to the heavy fog, and many claim to the carelessness of the engineer of the Orange accommodation. As usual at this time of the morning, both trains were well filled, and it seems a miracle that the death list was not increased many fold.

The Dover express had slowed up to make sure that the drawbridge was all right and that they could go ahead. The engineer of the Orange express, who should have done likewise, failed to take this precaution and crashed into the rear of the preceding train. The last car on the express was a combination baggage and smoker, and into this plunged the hugg engine, cutting through the woodwork and sending splinters in all directions. The coach ahead of the smoker was telescoped, the roof torn out and the seats torn and twisted as though they were made of paper. The roof was thrown ahead and partly telescoped the third car.

A Terrible Sight.

For a moment the passengers did not realize the awful situation, but the shrieks of the wounded and dying and roise of escaping steam soon told them that an awful calamity had occurred. Those who were not injured were quickly at work rescuing their less fortunate fellow passengers. Along the tracks the dead and dying and wounded lay, some of them having rolled to the bottom of the 15-foot embankment on which the accident occurred. A short distance from the scene was a railroad telegraph office, and to this there was a rush and a call sent for assistance.

Relief trains were immediately started from Hoboken, and almost before those on the train had realized the situation a crowd had commenced to gather from the city. Ambulances and physicians were sent by the police from both Jersey City and Hoboken. The train hands and men from the neighborhood of the accident grabbed crowbars and axes and helped to pry out the dead and remove the dying and injured.

Six dead bodies were recovered within half an hour. All of them were men. The engine of the Orange local, which was known as No. 33, was hard and fast in the debris of the rear car and had pinned down several victims amongst the iron and broken wood. These were the first to be rescued. In the smoker every seat was taken, and it was estimated that at least 40 persons were in the car, not one of whom escaped injury.

Story of an Eye Witness.

A most graphic description of the accident was given by the baggage master of the Dover express, who was at the rear end of the last car a moment before it occurred. Happening to glance through the window, he saw, hardly 25 feet away, a big engine coming toward him at a high rate of speed. Quickly jumping to the side door, he opened it and leaped out just as the crash came. In speaking of the wreck, he said:

"I think the accident was due in part to the recklessness of the engineer on the South Orange accommodation. Our train was moving at the rate of about 50 miles an hour, and was pushed 300 feet before it came to a stop. The engine of the accommodation, the W. H. Lewis, crashed into the rear car of the Dover express about 20 feet. This last car, the combination baggage and smoker, telescoped into the second car from the rear and split the end of that completely from the sides and ends. Four men were playing cards at the last table in the smoker and three of these were among the killed.

"I saw several men rushing through the aisle of the car. I just looked up when the crash came. The side of the car bent at an angle of about 45 degrees, and the men who were forward on the left caught the worst of it, the side of the car plowing right through them."

The Work of Rescue.

After a few minutes something like order was created in the work of rescue, and the victims were rapidly taken out from amongst the twisted and splintered timbers. The dead were so covered with dust and blood that it was almost impossible to identify them. The cries and moans of the injured were terrible, and it seemed as if no one had escaped.

As soon as the wrecking trains arrived, such heavy parts as could be easily moved were lifted from the track and the work of rescue was soon completed. The wounded and dead were placed on the train and taken to Jersey City, where many of them were met by friends and relatives who had already heard of the accident. Those of the wounded who could stand it were taken to the hospital.

The dead were taken to the different morgues, there to await identification. There seems to be some dispute in regard to the number of those killed, but the most authentic account shows but eleven, while the injured number 50.

THE DEMOCRATS are said not to pleased with their appointments on the standing committees of the City Council, but they probably expected too much. President Bass was the regular Republican nominee for the office he holds, and that was his grounds for a re-election.

NONE OF the appointments of Mayor Hodges made public Monday evening will be severely criticised, however much the people would have preferred that no changes should have been made in some positions. The change is more extensive than was expected especially in the boards only twelve of the thirty-three being re-appointments. There are yet to be appointed the Assessors, Inspector of Milk, Inspector of Animals, Sealer of Weights, one Water Commissioner, etc., etc.

HOSPITAL ANNUAL.

The Finances and Works of Hospital—Trustees Elected.

The annual meeting of the corporators of the Quincy City hospital was held Monday evening at the residence of Dr. J. A. Gordon.

Hon. William B. Rice presided and the first business was the reports of the trustees and treasurer.

Mr. Rice in opening the meeting made a brief report, in which he said the number of patients this year were considerably larger than last year. If we are to continue to meet the wants of the people we shall have to build the other wing, provided for in the original plans. There was also urgent need of a contagious ward, and he hoped that the endowment fund would soon reach a sum where these additions could be built. He also spoke of the finances of the hospital.

Treasurer Henry M. Faxon reported that the total receipts of the year had been $8,711.77, and the expenditures $9,826.10, which left a deficit of $1,114 33. The receipts included the collections of the recent "hospital week" which were as follows:

Ward One, (Centre)	$1,116 25
Ward Two, (Quincy Point)	331.09
Ward Three, (South Quincy)	800.00
Ward Four, (West Quincy)	32.25
Ward Five, (Wollaston)	700.60
Ward Six, (Atlantic)	148.25
Total,	$3,127.84

The report of the trustees showed that the total number of patients durirg the year was 203, of which number 168 had been discharged cured, 15 had died and 20 now remained. This report also spoke feelingly of the death of Miss Ball.

Officers were then elected as follows:

Clerk,—Warren W. Adams.

Trustees,—William B. Rice, John H. Gilbert, Theophilus King, Timothy Reed, John A. Gordon, Rupert F. Claflin, Charles H. Porter, James F. Burke, Roger H. Wilde, Henry M. Faxon, A. A. Lincoln, W. G. Corthell.

A vote of thanks was passed to all who had in any way contributed to the Hospital.

A vote of thanks was also extended to Dr. George W. Gay who has been the consulting physician and surgeon since the Hospital was established.

Dr. J. A. Gordon said that the past year had been a very successful one as far as the work of the Hospital was concerned. During the three and one half years that the Hospital had been established 605 patients had been cared for. All of the surgical cases had turned out well during the past year. There is 22 beds in the Hospital and there has been an average of 18 patients all the time. At times it was necessary to put cots up and if we are to continue our work we must have more accommodations, which he would like to see added very soon.

There was also need of a ward for contagious cases. If a case of this kind happens in a boarding house one or two things must happen. Either the patient must be removed or the boarding house will be empty of its boarders. There would be no danger from having such a ward located near the Hospital.

The accommodations for the nurses are not now large enough and we can not take any more student nurses at present. We can get money enough from nurses to pay for keeping them there.

The help expenses at the Hospital have not been very large considering the number there.

A new arrangement for the disposal of sewerage is working very nicely.

We have had given us during the year a library of 300 volumes, for which a book case had to be provided.

The school for nurses is doing well and two have been graduated this year.

He also spoke of the advantage of these nurses to the citizens, as the charge for them was less than half what they could be obtained from Boston.

Several new names were by vote added to the list of corporators at this meetin g.

TENTH ANNIVERSARY.

The St. John C. L. and A. A. in a Flourishing Condition.

St. John's hall on School street was lavishly draped on Monday evening with national colors, and from the centre of the ceiling, red, white and blue streamers stretched away to every part of the building. Over the stage a large sign, bearing the words "Welcome," was surrounded by large American and Irish flags. To the left of the stage was a large shield bearing the date "1884," and to the right another which bore the figures "1894."

On the stage was a handsome portrait of the founder, Rev. A. F. Roche, and at the rear of the hall was the society's large white silk banner bearing the following in large gold letters. "St. John's C. L. and A. A.—organized 1884.

It was the tenth anniversary of the association. President Richard F. Cole presided. He said it was a source of great pleasure to him to open the meeting. He had a word of praise for the reverend director, Rev. Fr. Roche, whose efforts had brought the society up to its present standard.

On the stage were seated President R. F. Cole, Rev. F. A. Friguglietti, Rev. A. F. Roche, Rev. F. A. Cunningham, ex-Presidents T. J. Carey, M. T. Sullivan, M. F. Garrity, R. E. Foy, and Dr. S. M. Donavon.

Rev. D. J. Reardon, a native of Quincy, but now stationed at Roxbury delivered an eloquent and logical address on "The Opportunities of a Catholic Young Man."

The pastor, Rev. F. A. Friguglietti, the director, Rev. A. F. Roche, and Rev. F. A. Cunningham also added words of congratulation and encouragement.

Park Commissioners Make Purchases in Wards Three and Four.

The Park Commissioners have thus far purchased land in two wards for public playgrounds.

In Ward Three the land purchased is located back of Smith's polishing shop, and lies between Water street and Brooks avenue, having an entrance sixty feet wide from Water street, also an entrance from the "plains." It was purchased of Jeremiah and James Nightingale, and comprises 171,798 square feet, the price paid being about four cents per square foot.

In Ward Four the land taken is part of what was the Robertson farm, and is situated at the end of Hall place. It comprises nearly nine acres, and the price paid was $8,250.

It was also decided to establish clubs in every ward in the city.

William H. Mansell, of Common street, West Quincy, is reported as missing since Monday. He has been demented for the past two years and he was therefore watched most of the time. Monday afternoon he took a pipe wrench and went off. He did not return at the usual time and a search was instituted but up to the present time no clew has been obtained. He was about 48 years of age, 5 feet 10 inches tall, and weighed about 175 pounds. When last seen he wore a black suit and black cap, the trousers being patched. BAY STATE LEGISLATURE.

The Bridge at Chester—The New York and New Haven Order.

BOSTON, Jan. 16.—The order that "the railroad commissioners be requested to furnish the legislature with all information in their possession relating to the condition of the bridge at Chester and repairs made upon the same, and the reasons why the bridge was allowed to remain in an unsafe and insecure condition for several months after its partial destruction in August, 1893," was taken up. The senate discussed the order at length, but it was lost, less than a fifth of the members voting in favor of its adoption.

The order that "the committee on railroads be requested to investigate the conduct of the New York, New Haven and Hartford company and see if and under what circumstances it has violated its charter, etc.," was discussed at length. A motion to lay the matter on the table prevailed.

A petition from William L. Douglas, Hosea Kingman, John J. Whipple and others has for its object incorporation as the New England Burglary Insurance company of Boston, with a capital of $200,000, with authority to increase the same to $500,000.

John J. McCoy and others petition for an amendment to the liquor law to regulate the sale of cider and native wines.

The following bills were introduced in the house: Relative to the powers and duties of town officers; a bill to amend the law relative to the election of town officers in respect to the election of surveyors of highways; a bill relating to the granting of licenses to druggists and apothecaries to sell liquors for medicinal purposes; a bill providing that when matters are referred to the next general court, the speaker, when so directed by the house, refer such matters to a committee of the next general court, and when so referred hearings shall be given by such committees on the Tuesday following the first Wednesday in January or upon some other day immediately following Tuesday; also providing that matters rejected for the purpose of reference to the next general court, or to a committee thereof, may be offered or called up at any time during the session, and any new bill, resolution or other matter for the purpose of reference to the next general court and to a committee thereof may be offered at any time.

Petitions presented: For the incorporation of the Stone Institute for Aged Men and Women under the will of the late Joseph L. Stone of Newton, with authority to hold real estate to the value of $100,000, and personal estate to a like amount, the home to be in Newton; to discontinue certain landings in the Merrimac river in Newburyport.

Tariff and Hawaii.

ALBANY, Jan. 16.—Assemblyman Ainsworth introduced a resolution in the house condemning the Wilson tariff bill. He also introduced a resolution expressing to President Cleveland the gratification of the people of the state at the abandonment of his Hawaiian policy and congratulating the Hawaiian people on the success of their efforts to secure independence "from a licentious and brutal monarchy."

For Burning a Man to Death.

ROANOKE, Va., Jan. 16.—The jury found Walter Davis, Harvey Dow, Charles McDaniel and Joe Varilla guilty of misdemeanor in assisting at the burning of the negro Thomas Smith Sept. 21. The sentence passed upon each is one year in jail, and in Davis' case a fine of $100 and in the others a nominal sum.

Death Ended Her Suffering.

MEDFORD, Mass., Jan. 16.—Catherine Donahue, the woman who was found prostrate over her brother's grave in St. Mary's cemetery, Malden, with her limbs frozen nearly off, died yesterday afternoon. The suspicion of foul play in the case has been proved to be absurd.

A Russian Terror Captured.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 16.—The notorious brigand Mikelescholi, who has long terrorized the district of Batoum and Ozourgehet, has been killed. He suspected betrayal, and before dying cut the throat of the owner of the house in which he was discovered.

A Youngster's Fatal Error.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Grover Hummer, 7 years old, appeared at the branch public school in East Washington with a revolver. After flourishing it for a time he accidentally pulled the trigger, blowing out his brains. The children were panic stricken.

Epworth League.

The Reading club of the Atlantic Epworth League held its second meeting Saturday evening, Jan. 13, at the house of Miss Lillian W. Hammond. The meeting was opened with devotional exercises. In the absence of the Secretary, Mr. Pope, Miss Webster was appointed pro tem. A very interesting account of Dr. O. W. Holmes' life was then read by Miss Webster. The various members were questioned by Mr. Deetz, the Judge Advocate of the assembly, and by the Chair; and showed that they had listened most attentively to the biography.

A number of favorite selections from the Doctor's poems were then given. Miss Read of the Emerson college of oratory favored the members with a fine rendering of Dr. Holmes own favorite "The Chambered Nautilus."

All who were there went home feeling with G. W. Curtis that "Holmes is the patriarch of our literature and that all his countrymen are his lovers." The next meeting will be Jan. 20, at Miss Mabel Burr's. The subject being Emerson.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

Sleep.

Sleep is the kind physician
Forever at our call,
To comfort is her mission,
Whatever woes befall.
In hovel or in palace,
Where terror reigns or malice,
She holds her sacred chalice
And seals the eyes of all.

Sleep is as sweet as summer
And comes as falls the dew;
No snares can overcome her,
To man she's ever true.
She stills the strife of foemen,
She soothes both prince and yeoman,
Her breast is barred to no man,
Her favor mortals sue.

Sleep is a high born maiden,
Queen almoner of night;
Sweet dreams with which she's laden
Put all our cares to flight.
Her face is dark, yet tender,
Girt with supernal splendor,
Into her arms surrender
The weary, worldworn wight.

She brews for all a potion
Wherein we quench our woes;
Majestic, mild her motion
As round the world she goes.
The sick all wait her pleasure,
The poor man dreams of treasure,
The busy man has leisure;
To all she brings repose.

Sleep hath a gracious garden,
There asphodel doth blow,
Pale poppies plead for pardon,
Rare herbs, rich spices grow.
Here, freed from each day's burden,
With joy and ease for guerdon,
We rest as blithe as bird on
The leaves that linger low.

Snug refuge from the daytime,
Safe shelter from the storm,
Our dearest dreams have playtime,
Our fancy range takes form.
Like rain to thirsty flowers,
That droop for pearly showers,
Sleep shields us through dark hours
And guides us, safe and warm.

Large gifts she lends the dreamer—
His genius then holds sway;
And high all bards esteem her
And prefer her to the day.
Good luck attends the lover;
His lady's face will hover
In fancy, while stars cover
The earth that's grim and gray.

Sleep queens it o'er the water,
Her sway is o'er the land;
Death claims her as a daughter,
The fairest of his band.
Serene, benign, immortal,
By her fair, ivory portal,
She waits for every mortal
To grasp him by the hand.

ENGENHO CAPTURED.

Tide Turns In Favor of the Brazilian Insurgents.

BOMBARDMENT OF A HOSPITAL.

Helpless Men Killed by the Government Forces.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—The Times has received the following dispatch from Rio Janeiro:

The batteries in the government forts are keeping up daily a heavy artillery fire against Fort Villegaignon and Cobras island. Many shells have exploded inside the fortifications of Cobras. The insurgent forts reply vigorously to the government fire.

Government troops attempted to occupy the island of Boqueran, where there was a large deposit of rifle ammunition. The insurgent force defeated the attempt and killed eight of the government soldiers and wounded 10. They then removed all the serviceable ammunition and blew up the remainder.

Skirmishing takes place daily in the vicinity of Mocangue island, but without any effect on either side. The government is making endeavors to cut off all sources of insurgent supplies. Nictheroy garrison has been largely re-enforced during the past few days.

Advices from Bahia and Pernambuco state that there is a strong feeling in those districts in favor of the insurgents. No immediate uprising, however, is likely to take place there. According to advices it is the intention of Mello, acting in combination with General Saraiva, to make an early attack upon Santos.

Da Gama's Plans.

In the course of an interview with Admiral da Gama he stated that he had sufficient ammunition and provisions to last until the end of January, and that he would make every effort to hold out for another month without help. If the expected re-enforcements arrived he would immediately adopt more active measures.

The government batteries at Nictheroy fired eight shells at the insurgent hospital on the island of Enchadas. Five shells hit the building, killing two men in the hospital suffering from bad wounds received in previous fights. Ten other men, who were sick in the hospital, died from the shock resulting from the bombardment. The firing of the forts created a panic in the hospital, and as soon as it was realized that the building had been struck the patients of two bad-case wards rushed out into the open square.

The action of the government in allowing a defenseless hospital to be fired at is censured on all sides.

Danger In Rio Bay.

The delay in the arrival at Rio de Janeiro of the government ships is due to the fact that the officer commanding them finds it useless to attempt to enter the harbor in the face of the fire from Fort Villegaignon and Cobras island.

The insurgents occupied the island of Conceicao, with 250 marines, yesterday. There was some heavy skirmishing.

A late telegram from Rio de Janeiro says the insurgent's cruiser Aquidaban forced her way over the bar early, entering the harbor at 4:30 o'clock. Forts Santa Cruz, Sao Joao and Lage opened a heavy fire on her, but she fired only two broadsides.

No shots struck the Aquidaban. When she was passing Nictheroy, however, the government batteries there planted shots upon the upper deck twice, slightly wounding two men.

The insurgent forces have captured the island of Engenho, killing 40 of the government garrison and taking 60 prisoners. The Aquidaban is preparing to land troops.

The insurgents in Rio Grande do Sul are burning villages and strangling all prisoners who fall into their hands.

The Pope on Church Music.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—A Rome dispatch says: A coming encyclical of the pope on church music, which will embody the opinions of lay and ecclesiastical authorities throughout Christendom, will favor the Gregorian style. It will deprecate the presence of women in choirs and will also frown on theatrical music of the Haydn style.

Will Be Charged With Murder.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—A dispatch from Paris says: Sumner Healy, alias Harris, an American, has been arrested on suspicion of having attempted to extort money from and to murder Henrietta Sombray, a member of the demi-monde. The woman is dying.

Big Victory For Natives.

ACTIVE POLITICS

Preferred to a Government Position by John E. Russell.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—When John E. Russell, who ran for governor of Massachusetts at the last election, was here as the guest of the president, he had frequent talks with Mr. Cleveland concerning political matters generally and politics in Massachusetts in particular.

He told the president he had no idea of being elected when he was nominated. But as the party leaders wished him to make the canvass he felt it his duty to accept the honor conferred upon him by his party friends, in order to keep the organization intact.

President Cleveland was disappointed when Mr. Russell declined to accept a cabinet portfolio. He offered him one of the best foreign missions at his disposal. He then offered him the collectorship of Boston. Mr. Russell explained to the president the reasons which actuated him in declining to accept any public office. A gentleman nowadays, he said, holding any federal position of importance must eliminate himself from politics. He was not permitted to participate or interfere in any manner in party management; if he did he laid himself open to criticism, and was often bitterly assailed by the party press.

As he did not intend to abandon politics, and proposed hereafter to take a hand in party management, he desired to be entirely free that he might do as he pleased and aid and perpetuate the principles of the Democratic party. For these reasons, and these reasons alone, he assured the president, he had declined all the proffers made to him.

NEW BEDFORD'S ROW.

Contest Between the Mayor and Chief Douglass Waxes Warmer.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Jan. 16.—The charges upon which Mayor Brownell proposes to remove Chief of Police Douglass were filed by the mayor yesterday, and are much stronger than was anticipated by Chief Douglass and his friends. In substance they are as follows: "That repeated complaints against certain places where liquor was illegally sold were disregarded by the chief; that pool selling was permitted, and that in general the chief tried to do too much himself and confided too little in his officers, with results disastrous to the police department; that orders from the police department of Boston regarding the arrest of a criminal who was found in New Bedford by a Boston officer were ignored so far as notifying the inspectors of police; further, the charges state that he canvassed for signatures to a petition for his retention for office under the new mayor, and that the department books have not been properly kept by him. Chief Douglass has retained counsel and proposes to make a bitter fight.

UNCLE SAM'S WINE CELLAR.

He Doesn't Drink, but He Has Lots of Rare Wines on Hand.

A ghostly silence pervades the place. It is like the silence of the tomb. The outside world seems already centuries away. The air is cool and soothing, and three flaring gas jets cast an intricate combination of shadows upon the massive masonry of the arches, says a writer in the Boston Herald, in describing the wine vaults under the Boston custom house.

After hundreds of years, when Boston is only a hole in the ground like the ancient cities in the Mediterranean, some archæologist will dig down through the accumulated dust of centuries and find those hewn arches standing as they stand now.

And yet the whole substantial structure is like the foolish man's house, founded upon the sand and mud of Boston harbor. Three thousand tall pine trees, stripped of their limbs, were driven down close together in the black ooze to form a foundation for the building. These piles would last but a few short years in the outer air, but sunk in the harbor mud they are believed to be as indestructible as the earth itself.

When it was built, the custom house was upon the water front, and even now the cellar is below high water mark, yet there is no drier cellar on Beacon hill. The builders seemed to have been the builders of pyramids and catacombs reincarnate, and the work was done to stand after the builders themselves were long forgotten. Upon the heads of the piles, in the form of a Maltese cross, was laid a capping of granite in hydraulic cement. Around it were built the massive walls of solid granite 6 feet thick, which were to be a protection against heat and cold, fire and water and all the elements. Within these walls rose the puzzling scheme of sturdy pillars and arches which made the cellar a maze of low roofed chambers, niches, crypts and passages.

When the visitor enters the basement and storehouse, which is on the street level, he feels instinctively conscious of the huge pile of granite over his head. This floor, within the surrounding row of offices, is used for the storage of champagne and bottled wines. The cases, which hold two dozen bottles, are piled in regular tiers as high as the ceiling, and under the main entrance they are packed in solidly. There are usually between 3,000 and 4,000 cases, or over 40,000 bottles, which if popped all at once would make the granite dome tremble and might drown the attendants in a foaming flood.

When a consignment of rum, which means anything from champagne to brandy, is landed from a foreign vessel, the government orders it to be sent to the custom house cellar. If no owner appears to claim it, it is kept for a year and then is sold at auction to pay the duties and warehousing charges.

If the owner appears, he can pay the duties and withdraw his liquor for immediate consumption, or he can give bonds for the duties and keep his stock stored in the government vaults until he wishes to withdraw it. The government charges him storages according to the capacity of packages and allows him to take it away by degrees as he needs it, paying duty only on the amount withdrawn.

Very often an importation of wine and spirits may change hands several times while it lies in bond deep under the granite dome. In such cases it is sold in bond, and the owner, instead of the importer, pays the duties and makes the final entry of the merchandise.

An Explanation From Disraeli.

Mr. Justin McCarthy, discoursing on the house of commons, related a capital story of Disraeli. It was during the Russo-Turkish war, and while relations were very strained between England and the czar a member was indiscreet enough to put a question to Disraeli, who was then prime minister, as to the policy of the government in the event of the emperor of Russia doing a certain act.

Members shuddered as Disraeli, with a most funereal face, slowly advanced to the table. The question, he declared, in a slow, measured voice, was one of such perilous moment that the honorable member acted most unwisely in putting it on the paper, yet it was a question of such importance that the only course now open to the government was to accept the inevitable and boldly answer. "If," declared Disraeli, "the emperor takes this step, all I can say is—and I am speaking after a prolonged consultation with my colleagues—the government will then give the policy they are to pursue their very best consideration."—Westminster Gazette.

Cromwell and the Specter.

The stories of the "White Lady" that periodically visits the German royal family and of the "Little Red Man" that frequently paid his respects to the great Napoleon, are tolerably well known, especially that of the former. But few perhaps are familiar with the story of Cromwell's "Giant Specter." It appeared to him one night when he was wide awake and quietly resting on his couch. In appearance the apparition was a woman of gigantic proportions. Approaching him, she announced in tones like thunder, "Within the year you, my son, will be recognized as the greatest man in Britain."—St. Louis Republic.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

PROTEST OF CITIZENS

Against Governor Mitchell's Threat to Call Out Militia.

JACKSONVILLE FEELS INSULTED.

A Prediction That Troops Would Precipitate a Riot.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 17.—Citizens thronged Metropolitan hall last night to protest against Governor Mitchell's intended action in calling out the militia to prevent the Corbett-Mitchell contest. Speeches were made of a fiery nature. After three of the city councilmen had spoken, saying that they protested more against the insult offered the city as a law-abiding place than against the anticipated stopping of the contest, the following resolutions were adopted:

First—We earnestly protest against the threatened massing of troops in our city, we having ample confidence in the civil local authorities and their ability fully to preserve the peace and maintain the dignity of this city and county.

Second—We individually and collectively pledge ourselves to aid the sheriff in all lawful efforts to discharge his duties, and to maintain and preserve the peace and to fully enforce the law.

Third—We earnestly protest against such rumored action on the part of the governor, and most respectfully request that he desist therefrom and leave the conduct and guidance thereof to the civil local authorities.

Fourth—That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the governor.

From sentiments expressed by the prominent citizens after the meeting it seems that should the militia be ordered out serious trouble will certainly follow. A member of the Florida bar said: "If Governor Mitchell orders out the militia to suppress an anticipated riot he will, instead, precipitate a riot as sure as I stand on my feet this moment. If the troops come to Jacksonville on Jan. 25 murder will be done and Governor Mitchell wil be responsible for it."

The city council made an appropriation for special service should it become necessary.

Miners Quit Work.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 17.—The joint convention of railroad and river miners of Pittsburg district ordered a strike at all of the pits now working in both districts paying less than the 65-cent rate. HELENA, Mont., Jan. 17.—It is believed here that the Corbett-Mitchell fight cannot be pulled off in Florida and a number of Montana stock growers have decided to offer a herd of 3000 range cattle, worth $30 a head, to have the fight in Helena. Inside of three years the band of cattle would be worth $250,000.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE

Another Drive at the Consolidated Road. Pension Plan In Cambridge.

BOSTON, Jan. 17.—There is in the state treasury a lot of United States bonds, valued at $200,000, deposited there by Frederick A. Lockwood in behalf of the Cape Cod Ship Canal company, which has practically gone out of existence. The committee on judiciary yesterday gave a hearing to T. L. Livermore, who asks that an act be passed giving power to the supreme court to hear and determine the facts and settle to whom the bonds belong. The matter was continued to give interested parties time to look the matter over.

The reports of contested election cases in the senate and house of representatives of the commonwealth of Massachusetts for the years 1886 to 1893, together with the opinions of the supreme judicial court relating to such elections, have been presented to the legislature.

An order was offered in the senate "that the board of railroad commissioners be requested to furnish the legislature such information it may possess or may be able to obtain relative to the number of trains discontinued on the Old Colony system of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad since the lease of the Old Colony railroad to said New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad company, giving as nearly as possible the names of cities and towns affected by such discontinuance and the terminal stations of such trains."

A petition came in from the mayor of Cambridge for legislation to enable said city to continue, in its discretion, the regular pay of its employes who may become incapacitated for work while in the discharge of their duties.

Petitions presented in the house: For a state normal school at North Adams; that the special justices of the municipal courts of the Charlestown, South Boston, Roxbury, Brighton, West Roxbury and Dorchester districts shall receive for each day's service compensation at the same rate per day as the rate per day of the salary of the justice of the same court; for legislation in regulating the distribution of policies issued by life insurance companies; of the Society for the Collegiate Instruction of Women (Harvard Annex), for a change of name to Radcliffe college.

BOSTON, Jan. 17.—Judge Knowlton yesterday afternoon found Receiver Hobbs of the Stockbridge Savings bank guilty of contempt of court and sentenced him to six months in Suffolk jail. It appeared from the testimony of one of the witnesses that there is $20,000 unaccounted for by Hobbs, and it was asserted by the attorney general that he had appropriated the funds to his own use.

Hobbs, who refused to answer a summons from the supreme court to appear before it in Boston, because he said that he had broken both of his legs, arrived in this city yesterday morning, and was met by an ambulance and taken to the Emergency hospital. An examination reveals the fact that only one of his legs is injured, and that only slightly. In the afternoon he was taken into court for examination on the charge of contempt, and the testimony of the physician was that he was perfectly able, physically, to obey the summons.

TARIFF TINKERING.

Many Amendments Offered by Wilson Are Agreed To.

THE WOOL QUESTION DEBATED.

The Senate Talks on Three Questions of the Day.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The house went into committee of the whole to consider the tariff bill, with Mr. Richardson (Dem., Tenn.) in the chair. A number of amendments were offered by Mr. Wilson, chairman of the committee on ways and means, and they were agreed to without objection.

The first amendment reduced the tariff on furs from 20 per cent ad valorem to 10 per cent ad valorem. Calfskins, tanned or tanned and dressed; dressed upper leather, including patent, enamelled and japanned leather, dressed or undressed and finished; chamois and other skins, were reduced from 28 cents ad valorem to 15 per cent ad valorem. Also bookbinders' calfskins, kangaroo, sheep and goat skins, including lamb and kid skins, dressed and finished, were reduced from 20 per cent ad valorem to 15 per cent ad valorem. In the book schedule, the clause requiring that books entitled to free admission should not have been rebound within 20 years was stricken out, and all "hydrographic charts" were added to those articles admitted under this schedule.

Fight Over Milk.

An obstacle was encountered by the amendment proposed by Mr. Wilson to the milk schedule. The amendment proposed raises the tariff on condensed or preserved milk from 20 per cent ad valorem to a specific rate of 2 cents a pound. A debate followed, in which Messrs. Paine (Rep., N. Y.), Curtis (Rep., N. Y.), Northway (Rep., O.), Hopkins (Rep., Ills.) and Bowers (Rep., Cal.) took part for the Republicans and opposed the imposition of so small a tariff on condensed milk. Mr. Wilson's amendment was agreed to by a strictly party vote.

A long discussion was precipitated by the renewal of Mr. Burrows' effort to secure recognition to offer an amendment. The chairman reaffirmed the decision which he had previously announced, and as a precedent he read from the journal of the Fifty-first congress, which showed that while the McKinley bill was under discussion Mr. Reed had recognized a Republican to offer an amendment, and had recognized another Republican to offer an amendment to the amendment, and recognized another Republican to offer a substitute to the amendment, and then recognized another Republican to offer an amendment to the substitute; and then when a Democrat asked for recognition coolly told him that no more amendments were in order. The chairman then announced that he would not recognize Mr. Burrows.

The Time For Free Wool.

Mr. Wilson submitted an amendment providing that the free wool schedule should not go into effect until Aug. 1, 1894.

Mr. Payne (Rep., N. Y.) offered an amendment to this amendment fixing the date at which the free wool clause should take effect on Oct. 1, 1894.

These amendments furnished the text for many sharp speeches and not a few amusing incidents.

Then, with many speakers, but no long speeches, the debate went on, with a pretty nearly even division of party, until the day was about used up. Mr. Bowers was finally recognized to submit an amendment to the substitute offered by Mr. Johnson. Mr. Bowers' amendment provides for the taking effect of the wool schedule on Dec. 30, 1899.

The committee arose without coming to any decision on the pending amendments, and the house took a recess.

There was nothing accomplished at the evening session.

In the Senate.

In the absence of the vice president Mr. Harris (Dem., Tenn.) presided over the session of the senate. The president's message to congress transmitting correspondence in the Hawaiian matter was read. Mr. Hoar moved that the message and accompanying documents be printed and referred to the committee on foreign relations. After a long debate the resolution went over without action.

Mr. Gallinger then addressed the senate on the resolution offered by him on Dec. 20, declaring it as the sense of the senate that it is unwise to attempt any change in the tariff laws during the present administration. Mr. Gallinger concluded his speech at 2:45, and then the house bill to repeal the federal elections laws was laid before the senate, and became the "unfinished business."

Mr. Palmer (Dem., Ills.) argued in support of the bill. The discussion was participated in by Messrs. Chandler, Gray and Hoar.

Mr. Palmer yielded the floor to give Mr. Voorhees an opportunity to present the letter addressed to him by the secretary of the treasury as to the condition of the treasury. The letter and bill (not formally introduced) were referred to the committee on finance.

The discussion on the bill to repeal the federal elections laws was then resumed. Mr. Palmer, in closing his speech, expressed the trust that the bill would become law; that the federal elections statutes with all their signs of ancient feuds and strifes (these swords in gloved hands) would be stricken from the statute books.

Mr. Chandler (Rep., N. H.) criticised Mr. Palmer's argument, and the bill went over.

TELEPHONE, 213-3 QUINCY.

THE GENTLEMAN in the City Council "who carries Ward Three in his pocket" has shown considerable independence in voting for minor officials. He always has a candidate of his own.

MAYOR HODGES kindly remembered his predecessor in the executive chair and also his late rival for the office, appointing the former on the Adams Academy board, and the latter on the Library board.

IT IS a great neighborhood in the vicinity of the Universalist church for Principal Assessors. If Mr. B. N. Adams is appointed this year, as seems probable, he will be the third chosen from this immediate vicinity, and the city will only have had four.

A PROPOSITION in the Cambridge city government that the street watering be done wholly at the city's expense met with strong opposition Tuesday evening, large taxpayers appearing at a hearing to remonstrate. The cost has been borne half by city and half by private subscription. The Quincy plan has thus far worked very satisfactorily.

IT IS to be regretted that Mr. George L. Gill is withdrawing one by one from the many public positions which he has so acceptably filled. His latest declination from the Board of Managers of the Woodward Fund and Property removes a man intimate with the late donor, and who is well acquainted with his wishes and the provisions of his will. Mr. Gill is one of those citizens whose services should be secured as long as possible.

MR. C. A. SPEAR will not be entirely out in the cold when his term as City Clerk expires. He has already been elected to three positions, clerk of council, clerk of committees, and one of the managers of the Woodward Fund and Property. If he is appointed on the board of Registrars of Voters that will be four, but the salary of all combined is not very fat.

WARD FOUR is said not to be very well pleased with the Mayor's appointments, as it did not secure many of the plums. But it has the principal executive officer, the Commissioner of Public Works, who expends a greater part of the appropriations. Then Dr. Ash will serve on the Library board, and other places are yet to be filled. Ward Six has received even less. Ward One gets the greater number, about one-half of the whole.

PICKWICKIANS CELEBRATE.

A Banquet and Musical and Literary Programme at The Greenleaf.

The Pickwick Club celebrated its twenty-first anniversary by a dinner at The Greenleaf Tuesday evening. Members and guests to the number of twenty-nine sat down to table about eight o'clock. After an excellent repast which did credit to the house, toasts were in order; the president, Mr. W. H. Mitchell, being in the chair.

The first called on was Mr. W. E. Simmons, who responded in his characteristic vein. He was followed by Mr. J. O. Hall, who spoke on the benefit of literary clubs in general, and of the Pickwick in particular. The next and last toast was the Pickwickian in Politics, happily treated by Mr. John F. Merrill.

The Club then adjourned to the pleasant and spacious parlor for the remainder of the programme, literary, musical and social. First came a roll call of members, to which the response was in rhyme. The exercise in which each participated gave rise to much merriment, many of the verses being apt and telling.

The story of the past year was then given by Mrs. Wilson Marsh, who had put it into verse in a series of bright and witty parodies on family poems. The many hits were keenly appreciated and the effort received with prolonged applause.

Instrumental music on cornet and piano by Mr. and Mrs. Otto A. Hayward further enlivened the occasion. Mrs. H. J. Gurney favored the company with one of her ever-pleasing recitations, and vocal music by Miss Grace M. Isaac, and the Pickwick quartette brought the exercises to a fitting close.

The club still lingered, loth to separate till at last the lateness of the hour compelled an adjournment; its "freedom party" became a thing of the past, to live only in its annals and the pleasant recollections of all who were there.

The Storm of 1867.

Today is the anniversary of the big snow storm of 1867. A wager recorded by the newspapers of the time was that of Mr. Norris, who bet Mr. Floyd $100 that with his Gypsy Queen and mate he could take Mr. Floyd from Boston to his home in Quincy, in 1 1-2 hours. The horses got stuck in a big drift, and Mr. Norris lost.

THE CITY LIABLE.

State May Assess Quincy $8,000 per Year.

TO PAY FOR BLUE HILL PARK.

And More for the Preservation and Care of Same.

From reliable sources the LEDGER learn that the State of Massachusetts has taken 2,495 acres of land from this city valued at about $74,850 for the Blue Hills reservation.

The total area of the city of Quincy, according to the assessors books, is 9,017 acres. It will thus be seen that Quincy, from being one of the largest cities in area in the State, suddenly becomes, through no acts of its own, one of the smallest, losing nearly one-quarter of its area and a large amount of taxable property.

The town of Milton also loses a large slice of property amounting in all to 1,439 acres, making a total of 3,934 acres in the Blue Hill reservation.

The land taken in Quincy is worth from $10 to $40 an acre, certain sections on which quarries are located being quoted as high as $500 per acre.

The largest owners of this waste land are Mr. John A. Tucker of Milton, who is credited with holding upwards of 300 acres, and the Adams Real Estate trust who have 250 acres. It is said that years ago, Mr. Tucker, who is a remarkably far sighted man, began to buy up this waste land as it came into the market, thinking as he did so that the time would come when the adjacent towns or the state would appreciate its natural beauties and would make it a public reservation. He has lived to see his expectations realized. His holdings include nearly all of the principal hills of the range, exclusive of Big and Little Blue hills.

Messrs. H. T. Whitman and Charles E. C. Breck, the engineers to whom the Park commissioners entrusted the surveying of this range, have a herculanean task in finding the owners of the various sections. Their researches of the deeds extending as far back as 1812.

Quincy not only looses nearly $75,000 worth of taxable property, but according to the public reservations act, it must pay ts share towards the cost and development of the reservation.

The maximum assessment for first cost is one-half mill on the dollar of the valuation. Quincy's valuation is $16,630,070, and the city is therefore liable to the extent of $8,319 04 annually. The cost of preservation is limited and is not likely to add much to the burden. Will the reservation be worth what it costs to this city? As it is very largely within the limits of Quincy we should benefit as much as any city or town outside of Boston with the possible exception of Milton and Canton, but it will not be the nearby places that will benefit as much as those which have direct and convenient methods of transportation thither. It is now a day's journey from Quincy to Blue Hill and return.

The Blue Hills are the highest summits standing near the coast of the continent from Maine to Mexico. "So considerable a barrier do they present," says Mr. Eliot, the eminent landscape architect, "that the railroads, the creators of suburbs, have avoided them entirely,—with the result that in all the five miles from the eastern base of Rattlesnake Hill to the western foot of Big Blue, there are not yet a half-dozen buildings standing on the hills above the contour of two hundred feet. There are, indeed, in all this distance only two roads which cross the range. From end to end the wilderness is still practically continuous. The hunting of foxes and raccoons is still carried on in it. The notches or passes between the hills are often deep and steepsided, and the views down the side valleys to the sea, or out over the seeming plain of south-eastern Massachusetts, are surprising and grand. It is true that the original forest was swept away years ago, and its substitute of oak and chestnut is a little monotonous, on the other hand the highest parts of all the hills are variously clothed with scrub oaks, cedars, pines and other toughest growths, while the many narrow and shady defiles shelter other species of their own, among them the mountain laurel, which is very rare near Boston.

Mr. Chas. A. Foster will speak at the Y. M. C. A. rooms Thursday evening on the "Executive department of our civil government." All young men will be admitted free.

Miss Elliott, who has the leading juvenile role in Lord Ton-ton,—Highton's Choice, is a resident of Quincy, and is well known as a reader. This is her debut in operetta and it will be watched with keen interest by her many friends.

Tuesday afternoon a sneak thief entered the fruit store of Joseph Fostello on Granite street while the proprietor was out a few moments and grabbed the money draw. He emptied it of about $2 in change and skipped.

An informal meeting was held Tuesday evening by the Quincy Yacht club to consider what rule for measurement should be adopted for the coming season. After some discussion it was voted to have an article in the warrant for the annual meeting calling for water line measurement only with crew aboard.

ONE RESIGNS.

Chief Engineer Ripley Willing to Vacate Office Before February 1.

Following close upon the appointments of department officials for 1894 comes the resignation of Chief Ripley, as follows:

OFFICE OF CHIEF ENGINEER OF FIRE DEPARTMENT,
QUINCY, Jan 16, 1894.

Honorable William A. Hodges, Mayor of the City of Quincy.

SIR:—I hereby tender my resignation as Chief Engineer of the Quincy Fire Department. Feeling that this resignation will cause you no embarrassment, as my successor has already been appointed. I desire the same to take effect immediately,

Very respectfully yours,
WALTER H. RIPLEY.

Chief Ripley was appointed by ex-Mayor Porter in 1889 and has been re-appointed every year since. He has given the department a good administration and has brought it up to a degree of efficiency second to none of its size.

He has been very popular with the members of the department, who will be sorry that he is to sever his connection with them.

Closing out our entire line of Parlor Stoves. They won't last long at the present prices. Your inspection solicited. Henry L. Kincaide & Co.

Is This What Quincy Wants?

Waltham is having a somewhat similar movement to that in Quincy for a board of public works rather than superintendents.

In the aldermen Monday evening, a majority report recommended that a board of public works be established, to comprise three persons, who shall receive $1000 each per annum; also that the office of foreman of streets be created at a salary of $1250 per annum; also foremen of water works and sewers at a salary of $1250 per annum; also foreman of public buildings and grounds at a salary of $1000 per annum, and that the board of public works be allowed $1500 for clerk hire.

The minority report was substantially as follows: That the best interests of the city would be better subserved by superintendents than by the officers above proposed, and more economy secured; and it was recommended that action on the question of a board of public works be indefinitely postponed.

Both reports were received and tabled until the next meeting.

Great Game of Polo.

An interesting game of polo was played Monday afternoon between the Willards and the Corn Cake Club, in Faxon hall. The Corn Cakes defeated the Willards in a score of 24 to 18. The members of the clubs are as follows:

ATLANTIC'S PLAYGROUND.

Many Residents Interested in the Proper Location---A Hearing.

The citizens of Atlantic are united in wanting a public playground, but are divided on its location, and to get the feeling of the citizens the board of Park Commissioners gave a hearing Tuesday afternoon at Music hall.

Messrs. Porter and Rice of the board were present, and in the absence of Mr. Adams, Mr. Porter presided, and stated that the board had under consideration four sites.

No. 1 was the pit near the depot.

No. 2 was at the easterly end of Bayfield road.

No. 3 was in rear of Howe estate.

No. 4 was southwest of the Howe estate.

Louis Rinn presented petition containing nearly 100 names in favor of lot No. 4. In support of this petition he said that the land can be filled up and would make as good a site as any in the ward. He did not think the land near the depot was suitable.

George H. Cunningham hoped that No. 4, would be the last place to be considered, as it was on the outskirts. The most desirable place was the "pit."

Councilman Moxon said the first thing is to have it in a public place where it would be quickly accessible to the people. The land at No. 4, is low and soft and did not think it could be made good substantial ground. Then it is not properly located to be easily reached. The place in his opinion was as close to the depot as possible. It is accessible by all the people of the ward. It would also forever provide that this place shall be kept open. It was the gateway to the ward, and he believed that the majority of the ward thought this the proper place. It was a natural place for people to congregate. The growth of the ward will be to the north as there is a large territory to be developed.

Councilman Holbrook hoped the present population would not be considered alone. Some estimate should be made of the population 10 years from now. He would recommend the lot on the corner of Hancock and Squantum streets, known as the old Jenkins place. He would rather have the pit than the Rinn lot. Mr. Brown, representing the Atlantic Land company, did not want to influence the people, but he believed the No. 4 lot a suitable one for that purpose. It was not swampy. We will grade it up to the proper grade. This lot is large enough for a ball field as well as a place to provide amusement for the girls. The population of Atlantic would naturally grow in this direction.

Councilman Moxon said that two years ago a drain got stopped and the land was covered with over two feet of water.

C. W. Cummings thought it ludicous that lot No. 4, should have been thought of for a park. He did not think there ever was a time after a shower but the place was muddy. A hard bottom could not be had unless the loam was taken off. He thought the pit the only suitable lot.

E. R. Wade said we want a playground that is easily accessible. We ought also to consider who are going to be our neighbors in the future. Lot No. 1, was more accessible than any other and would be for a number of years. If not taken for a playground it will be built up with small buildings.

Mr. Rinn believed there should be a place for the younger children as well as the older, and this was plenty large enough.

John A. Duggan favored a lot of land at end of Atlantic street. People can be found there in summer every day. It is the end of all avenues east and west. The reason the pit is used is because they were forced to. It is the hottest place on earth in summer. No. 4 is the lowest piece of land in the ward. He had picked cranberries there.

Frederick Pope also favored the lot at the foot of Atlantic street. He considered No. 1 dangerous and it was very hot in summer.

Mr. Rice of the board said that the Commissioners would like to have more than one playground in a ward but did not have money enough. If any citizens wanted to give land, he thought the Commissioners would accept it.

The hearing was then adjourned until next Monday evening, at the same place at 7.30.

UNCLE JOE DEAD.

The Well Known Negro at Quincy Neck Dies at Deer Island.

The Boston Journal reports the death of Gabriel Talvani familiarly known at Quincy Neck as Uncle Joe.

Several years ago Gabriel made his appearance in Quincy as a servant in a gentleman's family. After a time he started in business for himself, and earned a living by going out washing. His wash places, together with a pension which he received, enabled Gabriel to live comfortably. He resided alone in a little old house at the corner of Winter street and Howard Avenue, Quincy Neck.

Some months ago the old man's health began to fail, although he was never incapacitated from his work. A kind neighbor, Mrs. Wight, who lived across the way, pitied the old man's cheerless surroundings, and invited him to take up his abode under her roof. Mrs. Wight treated the poor old man with a motherly kindness, and she in turn was held in veneration by the old darky.

One day about a month ago Gabriel went to Boston to draw his pension money. Unfortunately he looked upon the wine while it was red, and he was arrested and sent to Deer Island for a term of three months. He will probably be buried at Quincy Thursday.

KNIGHTS ELECT OFFICERS.

Demands of Labor Outlined In a Series of Resolutions.

LOWELL, Mass., Jan. 17.—After a long session, the state convention of the Knights of Labor concluded its labors last night and adjourned to meet in Boston April 17. An election of officers was held with the following result: State master workman, M. J. Padden, Boston; state worthy foreman, O. J. Reynolds, Walnut Hill; state secretary and treasurer, M. J. Bishop, Boston; state executive board, the three officers mentioned and James Maguire of Boston, Marcus O'Shea of Salem.

Several resolutions were presented for consideration and adopted as follows: Denouncing the bond issue by Secretary Carlisle as an usurpation of the functions of the legislative branch of the government; demanding the issuance of full legal tender interest bearing notes; demanding a tax upon imported sea moss, the preparation of which is an industry of the south shore of Massachusetts; protesting against the absorption by one road of the railroads of New England, and especially remonstrating against the monopolizing by the New York, New Haven and Hartford road of the New York and New England road, and thus keeping open only one through route to New York, preventing competition; denouncing the claims made that men and women are being forced into the order against their wishes.

To all the resolutions there was unanimous assent, and after their adoption addresses were made by T. B. Maguire of the state executive board of New York, and C. A. French upon the work and future of the order.

PREDICTIONS FULFILLED.

Cruiser Montgomery Shown to Be Both Swift and Seaworthy.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Jan. 17.—The new cruiser Montgomery had a preliminary trial trip yesterday over the official course, and the result justifies all the predictions which have been made concerning her. The run was for a distance of nearly 25 miles. The time occupied was 68 minutes, an average of 18.99 knots an hour, but for several minutes the ship attained an average of 19.3 knots an hour. A portion of this time the speed was not forced.

As high as 178 revolutions a minute were made, and the steam pressure was well maintained throughout, but no accurate data was kept. There was no heating of the machinery, nor was any water for cooling purposes used, compared with the pitch and slip of the Detroit, the sister ship of the Montgomery, the latter will exceed 19 knots on her official trial, which will earn for her builders $50,000 more than the Detroit.

The Montgomery moved through the water with the greatest ease and quietness, and although a good breeze prevailed, produced no waves. Her torpedo tube, which is near the water line, was at no time underneath.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

Expectation.

O thou archcheat, with bright illusion shod,
Thou shameless herald of fictitious joy,
Full many an hour my trusting heart did toy
With thy delusive hopes, deceitful god!
And many a mile with thee I fondly trod,
Expecting rich delight from promise broad.
But now I know thee for a lying boy
And swear thou shalt not any more annoy
My daily peace, nor conjure in my breast
Sweet hopes and fancies that can never be Converted into fair reality.
So get thee gone, false imp, and let me rest,
Content to wait unmoved and patiently,
Since joys we look for least oft prove the best.

Asking to Be Imprisoned.

Magistrate Neal was given a surprise while holding court in the Lehigh avenue police station when Charles Weunder, one of 17 men who found lodging the night before in the station house, asked to be committed to the House of Correction.

"Why are you so anxious to go to the House of Correction?" asked the magistrate.

"Well," replied Weunder, and he wiped a tear from his cheek, "my companions and myself are weary of several months of a compulsory nomadic life, and they have delegated me to appeal to you to imprison all of us until the cold weather has passed."

The magistrate sentenced each of them for four months.

Boston's Unemployed Women.

Sixty thousand women in this city of Boston, the home of refinement, the center of intelligence, the radiant focus of every virtue, mental, moral and social, are today numbered among the unemployed. The present stagnation in business, whatever the cause of that stagnation may be, has resulted in the discharge of thousands from employment, and for the most part those who are employed are victims of the cramped exigencies resultant from the receipt of insignificant wages. Underpaid by manufacturers or merchants, or starving for want of employment and of means, it is too often the case that the women breadwinners of this city maintain the union of body and soul by dedicating themselves to immoral purposes. Herein is a prime factor of the moral degradation prevailing in this city.—Charlotte Smith.

A REIGN OF TERROR.

Riotous Italian Quarrymen Have a Battle With Troops.

EIGHT ANARCHISTS ARE KILLED.

Dynamite May Be Used to Carry On the Fight.

ROME, Jan. 17.—A thousand workmen employed in the marble quarries at Massa struck work and threatened to invade the town. As it was known that anarchist agitators had been at work for some time past among the quarrymen, who are a desperate class of men, familiar with the use of explosives, the strike caused the greatest alarm at Massa, and there is no doubt that serious disorder would have resulted had it not been for the presence of the troops, who fixed bayonets and charged upon the disorderly portions of the mob, forcing them to retreat to the woods.

This display of force, however, did not prevent other mobs from stoning the barracks of the troops, hooting the soldiers and hurling rotten fruit at them.

Finally the soldiers became enraged and officers gave orders that volleys should be fired in the air. This had the desired effect, for at the first volley the riotous quarrymen and their friends vanished and the troops started in pursuit of the armed bands who had been previously driven out of the city.

Threatened With Dynamite.

This pursuit was rendered all the more necessary as the quarrymen had repeatedly threatened to return with a supply of dynamite with which to blow up the barracks, municipal buildings and residences of those who supported the government and local authorities.

At Massa, as well as at Carrara, was a period of terror. All the inhabitants who had valuables secreted them and a number of them managed to obtain conveyances and fled from the disturbed district with all their portable belongings.

Eight of the anarchists were killed and 40 or 50 were wounded. These, it should be stated, are the figures given out by the government authorities. The people of Massa assert that at least 50 of the quarrymen were shot. During the fighting the garrison barred the highways in order to prevent the entry of the anarchists into the town.

It is now known that an armed band of anarchists gathered early Monday morning at Torana and awoke the inhabitants by sounding the tocsin. When the armed inhabitants rushed from their houses, fearing a terrible conflagration or something of that description, the anarchists overran the village and compelled the people to deliver up all their arms and ammunition. The anarchists then secured all the wine and spirits procurable and prepared to march upon Carrara.

Further Disturbances.

Dispatches from Carrara say that the marble men of the Carrara quarries marched to the Piastroni quarries yesterday afternoon and compelled the men there to stop work. They also induced a number of them to join in riotous demonstrations.

A force of troops from Massa has been dispatched against a band of 200 armed anarchists who had taken up a position in the village of Santa Lucia, near Massa. The anarchists are said to have fled upon the approach of the troops.

All the shops are closed and further serious disturbances are anticipated. On the other hand, the government officials announce that they control the situation, and that they have a sufficient force to suppress any uprising.

A telegram from Parma announces disorder at that city. The police dispersed the local branch of the Fasci dei Lavoratori (secret society), and seized a number of important documents which will lead to the arrest of a number of conspirators.

Advices from Palermo state that the police boarded the steamer Bagnara, which was just starting for Tunis, and arrested the president and prominent leaders of the Palermo branch of the Fasci dei Lavoratori society.

Kossuth Loses His Sight.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—A dispatch to The Times from Paris says: Two more members of the crew of the torpedo boat Sarrazin, who were injured by the explosion on board that vessel during her trial trip off Rochefort, have died.

His Comrades Peached.

BARCELONA, Jan. 17.—An anarchist named Velarubias has been arrested at Gracia. He was denounced by his comrades, who were already in prison, as the maker of a number of bombs found in a cave at Valvidrera.

Black Sea Claims Many Victims.

ODESSA, Jan. 17.—A storm on the Black sea has proved disastrous to shipping. Ten strong vessels are known to have been wrecked, and the entire crews of two of them were lost. A Greek steamer is missing.

Germany's Army Is Expensive.

BERLIN, Jan. 17.—The revenue returns for 1893 show that expenditures exceed the grants by 40,000,000 marks. The excess is mostly for military purposes and a bill of indemnity will be necessary.

OUR ORIENTAL COUSINS

Will Find No Difficulty In Passing Through the United States.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The secretary of the treasury recently requested of the attorney general an opinion as to whether or not, under the act of July 5, 1884, consular officers of China, stationed in foreign countries, properly can certify to the statements which, under the law cited, the certificates are required to set forth.

In reply the attorney general holds that the requirement of section 6 of the act referred to is that the "permission" to and "identification" of the Chinese person should be evidenced by a certificate issued by the government to which he may be a subject. The government can act, he holds, in the issuance of such certificates only through and by its officers and its agents. If it chooses to select its consular officer in foreign countries as such officers and agents, it has the right so to do. Such consular officers of China, being duly empowered by the Chinese government, may properly issue the certificates in question.

The right of a Chinaman to enter the United States armed with such certificates as those referred to above came up recently in New York, where a number of Chinese persons arrived having certificates from the consul of China at Havana. The matter came before the courts and a decision favorable to the Chinamen was rendered. This opinion, with a previous one of the attorney general that Chinamen en route to other countries can pass in transit through the United States, will hinder the enforcement of the Chinese exclusion act.

Italian Minister Has a Little Row With the Government.

RIO JANEIRO, Jan. 17.—It is rumored that numerous members of the National Guard are deserting. The insurgent fleet continues its bombardment. Many shells fell in the center of the city, and several persons have been killed, including some Italians. When the Italian minister became acquainted with this fact he demanded reparation from the government. He was informed, however, that as the foreign residents had been warned of the danger of their remaining in the city, the government could not accept responsibility for anything that might befall them.

The government forts and batteries are bombarding the insurgent storehouses on Enchadas island.

It is reported that President Peixoto's fleet has left Pernambuco.

The insurgents have received fresh supplies of provisions and now possess a large quantity.

GENERAL LEE'S CHRISTMAS FARE.

There Were Cabbage and Bacon, but the Bacon Was Only Borrowed.

As the fortune of war has favored his larder, through some skillful foraging of Ephraim, a negro, who was his faithful cook, bodyservant and waiter—three gentlemen in one—General Lee invited several officers to dine with him on Christmas day, 1864. The lucky recipients of the timely invitation were five in number, all officers of distinction, among them Generals Longstreet, Gordon and Kershaw. They were all on time when the dinner was called. It was served on a rough pine table, without a cover, in General Lee's weather beaten tent. It consisted of boiled cabbage, and eight or ten boiled sweet potatoes and a dish of rice cooked dry. The piece de resistance, which indeed the knightly guests found it hard to resist, was a small bit of fat bacon, about 3 inches square, that lay on top of the large cabbage. Now, bacon was as rare in the Confederate camp at that time as are roses on the northern hilltops in December. You can imagine, therefore, the self restraint exercised by each guest as they declined in turn a slice of the delectable meat proffered by their host, who held the carving knife and fork ready to cut and help.

It was observed that when the general, after helping to the cabbage, said to the guest whose plate Ephraim held out, "Allow me to help you to a slice of the bacon?" the devoted old servitor's hand trembled greatly. In fact, he seemed to be in a state of decided fright. The high military rank of the guests would not account for his trepidation, for he daily served near a master who outranked them all. There was no splendor left in the tracery of faded gold lace on their battle stained uniforms to dazzle his eyes and cause them to roll about and glance from bacon to guest, and from guest to bacon, as each answered the half question with the words, "No, thank you, general." The discomposure of the serving man was all the more striking from its contrast with the serene, self poised dignity of his benign master.

Dinner over, the general and his guests retired from the tent, but as they passed out General Lee turned and said in a low tone, "Ephraim, we have another cabbage, have we not?"

The answer was, "Yes, sah, Mass Bob. We's got anudder cabbage, sah."

"Then, Ephraim," said the general, "save the piece of bacon to cook with that cabbage."

The prompt and decisive reply, "No, sah, Mass Bob, I can't do dat! I jis borrow dat piece of bacon for seasonin from a friend ober dar in Richmon, and I done gib up my parole ob honor dat I'll gib him back dat same bacon what I borrow."

The general, who could not be a party to any man's violation of his parole of honor, consented at once to the return of the bacon that had so successfully run the gantlet of six hungry diners. He must have reflected, too, on the extremity of his fortunes that led to the borrowing of a part of his Christmas dinner on the hard condition that it should be returned untouched. His New Year's dinner was still more meager, I judge, from what he indicated to General Grant next day.

A flag of truce had been sent into the Confederate lines with an inquiry regarding a Union officer who had been wounded and taken prisoner, and the officer who bore it, after stating its object, said, "General Lee, I am directed by General Grant to give you his compliments and to say that he is thoroughly informed as to all your movements, and even knows what you had for dinner yesterday."

General Lee took the pleasantry in good part and answered, "Please, captain, present my compliments to General Grant and say that I must doubt the correctness of his information, for I know him to be a humane man, and if he had known what I had for my dinner he would have sent me a part of his own."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A Bridal Bouquet.

A German horticultural journal is responsible for this story about a bridal bouquet: A certain schoolteacher in the town of Konitz had ordered a bouquet for his wedding day, stipulating that it should not cost more than 4 marks ($1), but not designating what kind of flowers should be selected. It was in the autumn, when hothouse flowers were few and dear, so the florist composed it of white dahlias, but the bride and her family declaring that these flowers were unfit for the purpose the schoolteacher returned the bouquet to its maker and refused to pay for it.

The florist then sued him, but the position of the schoolmaster was sustained in court, in accordance with the testimony of experts in matters of taste whom he had called in and who echoed the opinion of the bride.

A similar result followed upon an appeal to a higher court, despite the testimony of experts now summoned by the florist, and the florist was ordered to pay the costs of the suit, amounting to 300 marks.

A Furious Artesian Well.

A furious artesian well was struck in Chamberlain, S. D., a few months ago. At first, it sent out 3,000 gallons of water in a minute, but later the flow more than doubled. Water is forced through the pipe so vigorously that the solid eight inch stream is thrown over 14 feet into the air. The famous well at St. Augustine, Fla., is the only well in the country which approaches this in force and quantity of flow.—New York Ledger.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

The Ways and Means Committee Meets With Defeat.

THE CLAUSE ON FREE WOOL

Goes Into Effect Upon the Passage of the Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The vote in the house by which the free wool clause was passed was about evenly divided between the Democrats and Republicans. The committee amendment fixed Aug. 1 as the date when the free wool clause should become operative. The substitute submitted by Mr. Johnson of Ohio made wool free from the date of the signing of the bill.

It is impossible to make an analysis of the vote, inasmuch as it was taken by tellers. It is not improbable, however, that when the consideration of the bill is completed in committee of the whole, and it is reported to the house, the committee on ways and means, through its chairman, may insist upon a yea and nay vote on a like proposition in the house, and this may result in reversing the decision of the committee of the whole, which was reached by the slim majority of 10 votes in the absence of a full house.

The Amendments.

The day's debate was not of an interesting character, and late in the afternoon the house proceeded to vote on the amendments, which were as follows:

Mr. Wilson's amendment proposed that the free wool clause of the tariff bill should go into effect Aug. 1, 1894.

Mr. Payne offered an amendment to this, making the time Oct. 1, 1898.

For these Mr. Johnson proposed a substitute providing that the clause should go into effect immediately after the passage of the bill.

To this substitute an amendment was offered by Mr. Bowers fixing the date of operation of the clause as of Dec. 31, 1899.

The vote was first taken on Mr. Payne's amendment, and it was lost by a strict party vote, the vote on division being: Yeas, 81; nays, 151; and by tellers, yeas, 98; nays, 154.

The vote was then taken on Mr. Bowers' amendment to the substitute, which was lost; and then on the substitute proposed by Mr. Johnson. Contrary to expectation, this was agreed to on a vote by tellers of yeas, 112; nays, 102; reversing the vote on division, which was, yeas, 98; nays, 89.

This was the first defeat for the ways and means committee, and was brought about by a number of Republicans voting in favor of immediate enactment. The result was greeted with cheers.

The next amendment submitted by Chairman Wilson was one putting marine engines and equipments on the free list. Mr. Dingley offered an amendment to this, putting the material for marine engines on the free list, but not the completed machinery. An exciting debate followed. Mr. Dingley's amendment was voted down, and Mr. Wilson's amendment was agreed to.

Walker Attacks Tammany.

An amusing diversion was created by Mr. Walker. He had been recognized prior to the vote on the last amendment and be made a reply to the references to him and the lack of respect shown him by Mr. Cockran in his recent speeches. For nearly 20 minutes the fun was fast and furious, and the house was in a constant roar of laughter. Mr. Walker tore Mr. Cockran to pieces, metaphorically, and at each one of his thrusts there was a shout of laughter, in which the galleries joined.

Throughout it all Mr. Cockran sat within a few feet of Mr. Walker's angry fist, and joined in the laughter; and twice, when Mr. Walker's time had expired, good-humoredly asked to have it extended.

Mr. Walker was particularly irate at the statement of the Tammany orator that he (Walker) was not bound by the usual practices of controversy and good sense. To get even for this, he asserted that when Mr. Cockran was unable to answer his (Walker's) question, he pounded his desk violently with his fist, so that his voice was drowned in the uproar.

"He has never pounded me," shouted Mr. Walker, excitedly, "and he could not hurt me if he did. It takes genius and an overpowering intellect," shouted Mr. Walker, sarcastically, "to answer a courteous question by saying that 'the gentleman is not bound by the usual rules of controversy and good sense.'

Mr. Corcoran made efforts to restore harmony, but Mr. Walker refused to be mollified, and remarked, as Mr. Cockran took his seat, "I've done up the Tammany tiger, and I'd like to tackle the Kansas gopher" (referring to Mr. Simpson's constant interruptions).

After some further discussion the committee rose, without action on the pending amendments, and the house took a recess.

The Night Session.

At the night session Mr. Sperry made a vicious assault on the Wilson bill on the ground that in the face of a certain deficit in the treasury of $70,000,000 by June 30 next, in the face of the appeal of the secretary of the treasury for a bond issue, the Democratic ways and means committee has brought in a bill ostensibly to raise revenue, which, if passed, would increase the present estimated deficit to $145,000,000. It was a free trade bill, and if the issue between free trade and protection was ever presented to the people of the country the verdict would be overwhelmingly in favor of protection. The other speakers were Messrs. Bower (Dem., N. C.), Hunter (Dem., Ills.), Hulic (Rep., O.), and Post (Rep., Ills.)

FOREIGNERS ARE JEALOUS.

Afraid That Americans Will Get a Foothold In Hawaii.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 18.—J. A. McCandless of Honolulu was in this city yesterday and left last evening for Washington, where he will make a plea against enthroning the deposed queen. McCandless is one of a committee of five appointed by the provisional government to protest against interference by the United States in favor of the queen.

"I left Honolulu on Jan. 5," said he, "and the other members of the committee are following me. We will appear separately before the senate committee and urge that we be allowed to establish a popular government of our own down there, or that the United States annex Hawaii. Our first desire is to insure immunity from a restoration for the monarchy.

"Jealousy against Americans is the chief cause behind the support that is being afforded the queen by the other foreigners on the islands. She has a very small following among the natives. Most of the latter will take up arms against her if an attempt is made to put her upon the throne again. President Dole would like to see a popular government established, with him at its head."

Mr. McCandless is a former New Yorker and has been on the islands for 11 years. He owns a large sugar plantation near Honolulu.

WILL FIGHT JAN. 25.

Duval Club Will Protect Its Patrons, Troops or No Troops.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 18.—The Duval Athletic club makes a final and most positive statement that the contest between Corbett and Mitchell will take place Jan. 25. It says:

"Reports have been sent out that Governor H. L. Mitchell has ordered troops to Jacksonville for the sole purpose of suppressing the contest. Notwithstanding these reports the club reiterates its past assertions, and for the past week has been arranging for an emergency of the kind, and, should the troops be sent here, while the club does not believe that any violence would be participated in by them, yet it would not subject its patrons to the slightest danger of any kind.

"So complete are its arrangements that, should any emergency of any kind arise on the morning of Jan. 25, it is prepared to handle 6000 people with the greatest convenience.

"This will be no Richburg affair, but it will be done as quickly and conveniently as though it occurred in the arena now ready for the affair. Once more we say to all friends and lovers of boxing, if you are in Jacksonville on Jan. 24, 1894, and care to see the Corbett-Mitchell contest, you can do so after arranging for the necessary tickets."

A Crank, Surely.

BUFFALO, Jan. 18.—Police Superintendent Chambers received by express from Bridgeport, O., a box containing 12 phials of liquid and powdered poisons, with instructions to administer them to Dr. Pierce, the patent medicine man. The crank signs D. O. Vannover with a skull and crossbones seal, and intimates that the same stuff ought to be poured down the throat of ex-Secretary Foster.

PROPOSALS INVITED

For Subscription to Fifty Millions Five Per Cent Bonds

REDEEMABLE AFTER TEN YEARS.

Interest Equivalent to Three Per Cent Bonds at Par.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Secretary Carlisle late yesterday afternoon issued the following circular, inviting proposals for 5 per cent bonds:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 17, 1894.

By virtue of the authority contained in the act entitled "An act to provide for the resumption of specie payments," approved Jan. 14, 1875, the secretary of the treasury hereby offers for public subscription an issue of bonds of the United States to the amount of $50,000,000, in either registered or coupon form, in denominations of $50 and upward, redeemable in coin at the pleasure of the government after 10 years from the date of their issue, and bearing interest, payable quarterly, in coin, at the rate of 5 per cent per annum.

Proposals for the whole or any part of these bonds will be received at the treasury office until 12 o'clock noon on the first day of February, 1894. Proposals should state the amount of bonds desired, whether registered or coupon, and the premium which the subscriber proposes to pay, the place where it is desired that the bonds shall be delivered, and the office, whether that of the treasurer of the United States or an assistant treasurer of the United States, where it will be most convenient for the subscriber to deposit the amount of his subscription. Failure to specify the above particulars may cause the proposal to be rejected.

Equal to Three Per Cents.

As soon as practicable after the first day of February, 1894, the allotment of bonds will be made to the highest bidders therefor, but no proposal will be considered at a lower price than $117.223, which is the equivalent of a 3 per cent bond at par, and the right to reject any and all proposals is hereby expressly reserved. In case the bids entitled to allotment exceed the bonds to be issued, they will be allotted pro rata.

Notice of the day of delivery of the bonds will be sent to the subscribers to whom allotments are made as soon as practicable, and within ten days from the date of such notice subscriptions must be paid in United States gold coin to the treasurer or such assistant treasurer of the United States as the subscriber has designated, and if not so paid the proposal may be rejected.

The bonds will be dated Feb. 1, 1894, and when payment is made therefor, as above, accrued interest on both principal and premium from Feb. 10, 1894, to date of payment, at the rate of interest to the subscriber on his investment, will be added. All proposals should be addressed to the secretary of the treasury, Washington, D. C., and should be distinctly marked "Proposals for subscriptions to 5 per cent bonds." J. G. CARLISLE, Secretary.

Forced Into It.

Secretary Carlisle was forced into this this issue by the apparent improbability of securing immediate action by congress authorizing a shorter term and lower rate of interest.

It seemed to be a matter of regret among treasury officials that some other step could not be taken by which shorter term obligations could not have been issued, but these bonds are the shortest he can issue under the act of 1875.

Anticipatory of this action by the secretary preparations have been made by the bureau of engraving and printing to prepare the bonds. There will be no delay in turning out the blanks as fast as may be necessary. Fifteen offers, aggregating in value $40,000,000, have been awaiting the secretary's pleasure. One of these was for $25,000,000.

Owing to the late hour at which the bonds were printed it was impossible for a sufficient number to be run off to send to the various sub-treasuries throughout the country. They will be sent out today so that they may be posted and furnished to persons interested.

World's Fair Figures.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The annual report of the World's Columbian commission has been submitted by President Palmer. An estimate of $42,000 to complete the work of the commission, not including the commission on awards, is made, and congress is asked to authorize its transfer from the funds of the committee on awards and board of lady managers. The commission has a balance of $11,000 in the treasury; the committee on awards, $96,273; the committee on awards of lady managers, $40,530; the present board of lady managers, $51,196.

Outraged and Murdered.

GRAND RAPIDS, Jan. 18.—Mrs. Miles McKendrick was found by a grocer's delivery man lying dead on the floor of her home, having evidently been strangled to death. Her hands were tied behind her and her feet tied together with ropes. The disposition of the woman's clothes was to lead to the belief that she had been outraged. Other appearances indicate that the house had been robbed.

Suspected of Double Murder.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 18.—James Bright, who lives near Williams Spring, reported that he awoke early yesterday and found his pretty young wife dead in bed beside him. After telling the story Bright disappeared. As his baby was found dead a few days ago in a similar way, there is great excitement, and if caught Bright will probably be lynched.

Crack Troops Preparing For Battle.

EL PASO, Tex., Jan. 18.—Trains that reached Chihuahua yesterday from the City of Mexico brought 600 Rurales from that city. These are the favorite troops of President Diaz, and are famous as fighters. Just where these troops are bound for cannot be learned.

No Intention of Disbanding.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Jan. 18.—The report to the effect that the Commercial Travellers' Home association of America is to disband is denied by the officials of that organization. The association was never on a firmer basis than at present.

Editorial Comment.

It is very probable that Massachusetts has saddled upon this city a mortgage which will not be relished by our taxpayers. It was not sufficient to take 2500 acres of the city's territory of a taxable value of $50,000 to $100,000 but now we find ourselves liable to a large annual assessment. Boston must pay one half of the cost of the land taken for the Blue Hills reservation, and supreme court commissioners will assess the other half upon cities and towns in the metropolitan district. These include Quincy, Braintree, Milton, Cambridge, Chelsea, Everett, Lynn, Malden, Medford, Newton, Somerville, Waltham, Woburn, Arlington, Belmont, Brookline, Canton, Dedham, Dover, Hingham, Hull, Hyde Park, Melrose, Nahant, Needham, Revere, Sangus, Stoneham, Swampscott, Wakefield, Watertown, Wellesley, Weymouth, Winchester, and Winthrop.

Not only will the above cities and towns have to pay the first cost, but they are liable for an additional assessment annually for perservation and care. These are the sections bearing on the assessments:

SECTION 10. The supreme judicial court sitting in equity shall, on the application of said board and after notice to each of the cities and towns hereinbefore named, appoint three commissioners, who shall not be residents of such cities or towns, who shall, after due notice and hearing, and in such manner as they shall deem just and equitable, determine the proportion in which each of such cities and towns shall annually pay money into the treasury of the Commonwealth, for the term of five years next following the year of the first issue of said scrip or certificates, to meet the interest and sinking fund requirements for each of said years, as estimated by the treasurer of the Commonwealth, and to meet the expenses of preservation and necessary care of said public reservations as estimated by said board and certified to said treasurer, and any deficiency in the amount previously paid in as found by said treasurer, and shall return their award into said court; and when said award shall have been accepted by said court the same shall be a final and conclusive adjudication of all matters herein referred to said commissioners and shall be binding on all parties. Said commissioners shall fix and return the proportion to be paid by the city of Boston for the first period of five years, at fifty per cent. of the whole. Before the expiration of said term of five years, and every five years thereafter, three commissioners, who shall not be residents of any of the cities or towns constituting the metropolitan parks district, shall again be appointed as aforesaid, who shall in such manner as they deem just and equitable determine the proportion in which each of said cities and towns shall annually pay money into the treasury of the Commonwealth aforesaid, for the next succeeding term of five years, together with any deficiency in the amount previously paid in, as found by said treasurer, and shall return their award into said court; and when said award shall have been accepted by said court the same shall be a final and conclusive adjudication of all matters herein referred to said commissioners, who shall assign said expenses in the manner provided in the following section: provided, however, that such expenses shall not exceed the sum of ten thousand dollars during the first year, nor exceed the sum of twenty thousand dollars during any succeeding year.

SECTION 12. The amount of money required each year from each city and town of the metropolitan park district to meet the interest, sinking fund requirement and expenses aforesaid for each year, and deficiency, if any, shall be estimated by the treasurer of the Commonwealth in accordance with the proportion determined as aforesaid, and shall be included in and made a part of the sum charged to such city or town, and be assessed upon it in the apportionment and assessment of its annual state tax; and said treasurer shall in each year notify each city and town of the amount of such assessment, and the same shall be paid by the city or town into the treasury of the Commonwealth at the time required for the payment and as a part of its state tax.

—An act for the establishment of employment office in each city, under the direction and care of the chief of the bureau of statistics of labor was introduced in the Legislature on Wednesday.

IN THE RESERVATION.

Foxes, Raccoons and Rattlesnakes at Blue Hills—Gunning to be Prohibited

Wild animals are more abundant in the Blue Hills than elsewhere around Boston, but there has long been nothing larger than foxes and raccoons. As gunning is hereafter to be strictly prohibited on the reservation, it is likely that the range will become a good breeding ground for game. Naturalists will therefore find these hills a most favorable place for studying the habits of wild animals, for, being free from molestation, they will naturally be less shy here than elsewhere. And sportsmen will find ample compensation for the prohibition of gunning here in the fact that the overflow of this and the other reservations of the metropolitan park district will be likely to stock the grounds where they are permitted to range.

There is one feature of the fauna of these hills which causes timid persons considerable apprehension. The rattlesnake is commonly regarded hereabouts as something as foreign and remote as the lion, the tiger, or the alligator. But nearly three centuries of civilization has not yet succeeded in eradicating it from the Blue Hills. The danger from rattlesnakes here, however, is more potential then actual. The habits of the species native to this region are such that there is said to be little danger of an attack from it. There are few recorded instances of bites, and no fatalities for the past eighty years. It is said that in the warm weather the snakes leave the hills for the lower lands. Old and constant frequenters of the hills, say that they have never seen a rattlesnake on Big Blue Hill. —Herald.

Historic Farm Sold.

Two of Quincy's great men came from the little town of Petersham, the late Solomon Willard of Bunker Hill fame, for whom the Willard school is named, and Hon. William A. Hodges, our present Mayor. The latter has lately owned the arm on which Mr. Hodges was born, but today sold it to F. M. Gooding, et al. It comprised about 150 acres. It was on this farm that Shay, the leader of Shay's rebellion, surrendered.

Our Old Friend.

We could not keep house without Shuman's Mercantile Diary. It is a valuable book for any business man but particularly to a news editor. In the volume for 1894, there are blanks for each day in the year with blotting paper between each page. Also pages for cash accounts, engagements and calls, the postage rates, Boston's fire alarm and much more for convenience reference. A. Shuman & Co. are reliable clothiers with whom it is a pleasure to trade.

WE HAVE received the report of the Labor Bureau of Massachusetts for 1892. It contains 440 pages, and is mostly occupied with "A Tenement House Census of Boston," which is given in great fulness of detail. It shows how completely erroneous are the statements of those "persons claiming to have knowledge that conditions in Boston were worse than in the east end of London." It shows "that all such statements are gross exaggerations." It shows that "the three lowest classes described by Mr. Chas. Booth as existing in London and numbering more than 225,000 do not exist at all in Boston as classes." It also points out distinctly where the weak and evil spots in Boston are, which would be a great help if there was any force at work adequate to remedy them. Along with this is a volume of similar size entitled, "Statistics of Manufactures, 1892."

—Paderewski has earned during the year just past no smaller sum than $100,000. He is working hard upon his Polish opera. The pianist has one old professional habit: Just before he goes on the platform he dips his fingers into water almost too hot to be borne—to render them the more supple, it is supposed. It is gravely stated that he does not wear his hair as long as he used to.

The annual concert and ball of the Quincy Firemen's Relief association will be held at the Quincy Opera House, Wednesday evening, Jan. 31. The association has put the arrangement of the affairs in the hands of an efficient committee who will spare no pains to make this the most enjoyable the association has ever held. The music engaged for the concert and ball is Baldwin's Cadet orchestra.

☞ A store brim full of novelties and suggestions. It's a comfort to trade with Henry L. Kincaide & Co.

It is a popular advertising scheme for a merchant to give out little keys to his customers, with the understanding that one of the keys will open a prize box, which is displayed in his window. The box has a glass top, and its contents—$20 or so in greenbacks—are temptingly exposed to view, to be the property of the holder of the lucky key. A placard alongside of the exhibit bears the inscription "Who will open it?" A fellow in Natick solved the problem the other night aed he did not have one of the little keys either. He also neglected to leave his name which was to figure in bold type in the newspapers the day after Chrtstmas. He merely smashed the window and the box cover with a stone, took the money and departed. Moral: advertise in the newspapers.—Beverly Citizen.

THE MINSTRELS.

The Cycle Club Boys Prove Good Entertainers—A Grand Success.

Hancock hall was filled with an enthusiastic audience Wednesday evening, the occasion being the grand minstrel entertainment given under the auspices of the Quincy Cycle club.

In the audience were a number of the Lovell Diamond Cycle club of East Weymouth, and the Suffolk Cycle club of Roxbury. There was also noticed a number of well-known admirers of the silent steed.

When the curtain was rung up for the first part of the entertainment the smiling countenance of President Whiton, the interlocutor, with his laundered shirt glistening in the gas light, formed a remarkable contrast to his dusky companions who composed the semi-circle.

In the circle in spite of their blackened faces the well known features of the local pedal pushers were recognized. Their friends in the audience must have been surprised when they heard the musical notes that floated out of their mouths like smoke from the cigarettes they are wont to smoke.

The six end men were dressed in gorgeous costumes of many colors and in spite of the attempt at disguise there was no difficulty in picking out Capt. Leavitt and Lieut. Cantfill by the peculiarity of the distinguishing points of their faces.

Part one of the programme consisted of an overture by the company and end men; solos, by William Lawler, Thomas Drew, Edward Shea, Charles Craig, Walter Hersey, Thomas Leavitt, Joseph Lawler and Dan Shea.

Part two opened with a piano solo by Mr. George H. Gordon; laughing song, Dan Shea; musical sketch, Frank T. Bassick and Miss Jennie C. Ellis; song and dance, Thomas Drew of the Cadets; Humorous sketch, Tom Leavitt and Sumner Pierce; reading, Miss B. Porterfield; fancy dancing Miss Templeton; Frank Lawler, in his wonderful impersonation of a child's voice; an Irish comedy, by Glendon and English and five minutes with Drew and Craig

The entertainment closed with a realistic bicycle race between James Dunn and Arthur Parsons. Both men were in good trim and were about equally matched, although some were unkind enough to say that Dunn had taken off his cork handles to make his machine lighter. The race was quite exciting and the admirers of each urged their favorite on. First Dunn would gain a little only to be overhauled by Parsons and when they finished it was practically a tie. The time was 2 minutes 35 seconds.

As the race was declared a tie, Dunn was awarded the privilege of playing solitaire undisturbed at the club rooms, and Parsons the privilege of making the fire and filling the lamps until warm weather.

During the first part the usual number of end men's jokes were passed which caused well deserved applause.

The entertainment was a complete success and the treasury of the club will be increased to a considerable amount.

—The notion has been universal in all ages and among all people that the world will last only 6000 years after creation.

QUINCY'S FUTURE.

Some Figures of Interest Compiled by Real Estate Exchange.

"Home Investment" was the interesting subject discussed by the members and guests of the Real Estate Exchange at the fourth annual banquet of that organization, which was held Wednesday night at the Copley Square Hotel, Boston.

On the menu card was a diagram of a wheel with Boston at the hub, and the suburban towns and cities representing the spokes. This made a hit. On the reverse side was an eloquent table of statistics.

It gave the population in the cities and towns below in 1885 and 1890 and the percentage of increase in each, and on the same percentage of increase found that the population in 1895 and 1900 would be as follows:

	Population at same per cent.
	1895	1900
Boston,	515,210	591,873
Cambridge,	82,199	96,485
Arlington,	6,781	8,168
Belmont,	2,685	3,437
Winchester,	5,383	5,900
Somerville,	53,792	72,065
Malden,	32,330	45,382
Melrose,	11,895	16 039
Chelsea,	30,298	32,892
Revere,	8,833	13,765
Everett,	21,030	39,960
Winthrop,	5 424	10.798
Quincy,	23,026	31,704
Milton,	5,148	6,195
Hyde Park,	12,401	15,094
Dedham,	7,640	8,195
Newton,	30,079	37,111
Brookline,	15,929	20,964
Waltham,	23,954	30,673
Watertown,	8,020	9,094
	902,060	1,297,419

Just think of Quincy with a population of 31,704 in 1900, seven years from now, and yet the conclusions are probable. Quincy would then be larger than the following cities were in 1890: Salem, Chelsea, Haverhill, Brockton, Taunton, Newton, Malden, Fitchburg, Gloucester, Waltham and Pittsfield.

The population of all the above cities and towns in 1885 was 630,292; in 1890 it was 760,745; in 1895 with like increase in percentage it will be 902,060, and in 1900 it will be 1,096,419.

Hon. William B. Rice of this city was one of the speakers, and the Journal reports him as follows:

"Although I am somewhat interested in shoe leather, I feel at home among real estate men. I am glad to see that this diagram is really a representation of what Boston ought to be and is to be. I look forward to the time when Boston shall extend from the Weymouth River to the Merrimac in one municipality and every foot of land shall be protected and defended as the mainstay of our prosperity. Boston is not the centre of a small circle of the centre. She is the centre of the earth. She is as near London as she is to Buffalo. She can put a potato into Paris cheaper than Paris can get potatoes from a town fifty miles away with no railroad.

"I look to Boston to be a safe place for men, woman or child because every vehicle shall be either elevated above the earth or carried below, not propelled by horses or mules. Then everyone will not demand to be carried to Park Street Church, and this congestion will be stopped. You will stop your cars at the outskirts of the city where they belong. [Applause.]

"Boston will not dare to tax manufacturing establishments, but will welcome them as the country towns do. The manufacturing will be increased. The one question of taxation is out-weighing everything else.

"I am bound to indorse the sentiment that there is nothing better for a man than to own a piece of land that can be managed to advantage. I do not believe in high prices. The world is better and people are more satisfied when prices are on a low and safe basis. [Applause.] I believe that because prices are now low, they are going to advance steadily hereafter. This does not apply to real estate. The time is near when we will all be in the midst of prosperity." [Applause.]

Norfolk County Probate Court.

At Dedham Wednesday these wills were allowed: Elmira W. Pratt, Quincy; M. O'Sullivan, Quincy; Amos Tirrell, Weymouth; Andrew Tracy, Dedham; Almina B. Brown, Wrentham; J. L. Burton, Canton, and Ruby E. Battelle, Dover.

Administrations were granted on estates of Mary Drake, Stoughton; H. Drake, Stoughton; Abigail J. Thayer, Weymouth; Charlotte M. Coombs, alias Charlotte M. Allen, Dedham; T. McGrath, Randolph; G. E. Hartshorn, Wrentham; Sarah L. Hurd, Needham; H. C. Weston, Sharon; Elizabeth C. Fuller, Walpole.

THE END OF RAMADAN

GRAPHIC ACCOUNT OF THE CLOSE OF THE FORTY DAYS' FAST.

A Gun Boomed From the Citadel at the Beginning and Ending of the Rite—The Legend Upon Which the Uncomfortable Custom Is Based.

We sat in the tent's shadow, with our faces turned toward Cairo. There were three of us, the sheik of the neighboring village, Ahmed and I. The clear outline of the Mokhattan hills was hidden in the thick mist generated by the heat; the city was a gray blur against the black sides of the uplands. Below us, amid the sugar cane, the fellahin worked with an affectation of energy. Sometimes a voice came to us mellowed by distance; sometimes the sail of a vessel glided phantomwise over the blue ribbon of water that twined along the valley toward Alexandria and the delta.

A month before I had seen the messengers leave the city and strike into the desert. Twenty-four hours later, dusty and hot, they returned, bearing news. The new moon had appeared, and the fast was proclaimed. At midnight a gun boomed from the citadel, and suddenly the merry noises of the streets were stilled.

Next day I wandered through the bazaars, but received no invitation to drink coffee with my friends. Pipes and cigarettes were not offered to me. A kind of half sleep had fallen on everybody, and I hardly dared speak to any one. In the intervals between their bargainings the merchants read the Koran or prayed, counting their beads with nimble fingers, head bent downward. The bargainings, too, were a poor shadow of the exciting scenes I loved. The purchaser was always languid and the vender inert, uninterested.

As the afternoon wore on a look of fatigue, often of real pain, gloomed on the usually genial faces. It was hot, so hot. The sun beat furiously on the white walls and roads; the cruel Kempion whirled the dust through the streets and dried the skin and lips. But the cry of the water carrier was not raised; no boys offered bunches of juicy fruit to the sufferers. Ramadan had come with all its terrors, and for the love of God and his apostle must they be borne, if not cheerfully, at any rate sternly and manfully.

One hour before sunset life seemed to stir again in the veins. The bakeries were crowded; the fires blazed under the ovens; a smell of cooking stole over the city. Women squatted at intervals along the streets with cakes and fruit and bottles of water spread before them. Little groups gathered round them, impatient, expectant. The smokers took out their pipes or cigarettes and stood waiting for the signal, match in hand. Suddenly the sun fell, and the gun thundered from the citadel. The city awoke; the population began to eat; the women were busy disposing of their goods.

For 40 days these things were, and now was come the closing day of the fast, and I sat with my friends on the sand, gazing toward the citadel till the gun showed fire for the last time.

All the afternoon envious glances had been cast at me as I cheerfully disobeyed the prophet's orders. Ahmed, I think, had the sheik not been with me, would have smoked a cigarette, but as it was he lay beside me and sulked. The sheik was too old to behave thus. He was quiet and spoke slowly, but he tried bravely to conceal all signs of discomfort. Ahmed's annoyance may be accounted for in this way. He declared to me that Mohammed fasted one day in the month Ramadan, but on which day was uncertain, and therefore the theologians decreed a 40 days' fast that they might be sure of fasting the same day as the prophet. I do not think Ahmed believes this legend, though he vouches vehemently for its truth.

To while away the time I asked the sheik to tell me about the visit of the czarowitz. But the long abstinence made him unable to talk at any length, and even this his favorite story he told me briefly in a couple of bald sentences, though he responded gently: "I met him as one prince meets another. He told me he owned many villages; that he was sheik over half the world. It may be as they have said."

"And what did he say to you?" I queried. "He greeted me courteously and took me by the hand. This ring that I wear is his gift."

As he spoke he showed me, without pride, a sapphire of great size and beauty. Then he relapsed into silence, and I amused myself by picturing the event in my mind. I would that I had seen that meeting between the heir of the holy Russian empire and the simple Arab chief. Looking into his grave gray eyes and at his tall, slight figure, the broad shoulders not yet bent, though the white beard he was stroking told of many years of life, and in spite of his tattered blue robe, I easily conceived how he had been treated—courteously as became a prince.

Before the setting sun touched the horizon a boy from the village brought a large plate of food and a bottle of water and set them before us. "The signal," I cried as a white puff of smoke rolled away from the citadal walls, and at the same instant the sun sank behind the desert.

The sheik seized the bottle of water and drank long and eagerly. When his thirst was appeased, he belched loudly and handed the bottle to Ahmed, who drank eagerly, too, not omitting the curious after grace.

Then they devoured the food voraciously, the old man beckoning me to join. After we had eaten we sat and talked far into the night under the golden stars. The distant city gleamed fairylike with myriad lamps, and the murmur of its thousand voices came to us through the silent air.

Ramadan was dead. The fast was over and the feast begun.—Pall Mall Budget.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtenances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

Write for instructions and advice.

FEDERATION NOTES.

Interesting Information Extracted From the Reports of A. F. of L. Officials.

President Gompers in his report said that besides the department of labor at Washington we have bureaus of labor statistics in 32 states and factory inspectors in 19 states, and Labor day has been made a legal holiday in nearly all the states of the Union.

Six national trades unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor in the past year, and we have reason to hope and believe that the International Machinists' association will soon remove the useless obstacle which stands in the way and join the great family of trades unions under the potential and fraternal banner of the American Federation of Labor.

An invitation to the trades unions of the United States has been received and will be placed before you from the organized workers of Milan, to attend an international exposition and congress to be held in that city in 1894.

The congress at Zurich decided to hold its next session in London in 1896, and the recent British trades unions' congress held at Belfast has directed its regular standing officers to take the matter in charge and make preparations therefor.

From every country comes the cheering news of the growth and extension of trades unions and trade union sentiment. The conviction is fast gaining ground that political liberty with economic slavery is delusive and for all practical purposes valueless.

The treasurer's report showed the total income for the year ending Oct. 31 to be $28,530.80, of which $7,043.66 was for the special Homestead defense fund. Total expenses for the same period were $17,818.40, and $3,364.96 of the defense fund was expended.

The secretary's report shows that for the year ending Oct. 31, 202 charters have been granted to state federations, central bodies, local and federal labor unions in 28 states, as follows:

California	6	Missouri	14
Colorado	2	Minnesota	6
Connecticut	4	Nebraska	3
Georgia	2	New Jersey	2
Indiana	26	New York	15
Iowa	1	Ohio	21
Illinois	15	Oklahoma	1
Kansas	4	Oregon	1
Kentucky	2	Pennsylvania	2
Louisiana	4	Rhode Island	6
Maine	3	Utah	1
Maryland	2	Wisconsin	11
Massachusetts	30	Washington	3
Michigan	14	District of Columbia	1

Charters have also been issued to six national unions, making a total of 208 for the year. In addition to this quite a number of applications have been received through the office of the American Federation of Labor and forwarded to national unions affiliated, and four charters have been sent to national unions not affiliated. In other instances our organizers have sent charter applications direct from local unions that they have organized and attached them to the national unions of their respective trades.

A FLIMSY TRESTLE

Responsible For an Accident With Frightful Results.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Rotten timbers and a poorly constructed trestle belonging to the New York, Susquehanna and Western railroad were the cause of an accident yesterday in the Jersey meadows. A construction train, consisting of a locomotive and six cars heavily loaded with gravel, was backing out on the trestle to the place where the contents were to be dumped, when the flimsy structure gave way with a crash.

Three rear cars were precipitated about 30 feet into a small branch of Bellman's creek, dragging a fourth car down with them. There was a gang of about 50 Italian laborers on the train and most of them went down with the wreck. One man was killed outright, while another died while he was being removed to the hospital. Twenty-two others were more or less seriously injured, and it is thought that some of them may die.

Between 30 and 40 men were buried in the mass of sand and gravel and the wrecked timbers of the rotten structure. About 250 feet of the trestle work beyond the end of the embankment were also dragged down, as well as a number of men who were laying tracks. The noise of the crash was followed by the shrieks of the wounded men.

Those who escaped seized their picks and shovels and went to the assistance of their comrades. Within a short time the wreckage was cleared away and two score of Italians were dragged out from beneath the gravel and timbers. They all were seriously injured, broken arms and legs being plentiful, while some were internally injured.

IN A CROWDED STREET

A Robber Breaks a Store Window and Secures $2000 Worth of Goods.

BOSTON, Jan. 18.—One of the most daring robberies known in this city for years was committed last night on one of the principal thoroughfares when hundreds of pedestrians were passing the store. At 5.50 the clerks in the jewelry store of Harrington & Freeman, 59 Court street, were startled by hearing a crash of glass and seeing a man's hand clutching a case of diamond solitaires and clusters, the cost price of which is estimated at $2000.

Two of the clerks made a break for the door, and on reaching the sidewalk the thief was jostling the crowd, and in order to clear the way drew a revolver and fired on the ground. This created a diversion, and in the turmoil the thief, chased by the clerks for some distance, made his escape, and all trace of him has been lost.

The missile used to break the window was a brick wrapped up in paper. It is not known whether the thief had any confederate or not, but it is certain that the robber had made a careful examination of the stock on exhibition, and made the break and secured the most valuable case of rings in the window. The police have only a slight description of the thief.

Declared to Be Immoral.

BOSTON, Jan. 18.—By a unanimous vote of the aldermen the notorious Mussel, or Kouta Kouta dances, alleged to have been performed by dancers from the Midway Plaisance of the World's fair, have been officially declared immoral and banished from Boston. The exhibition has been given nightly during the last three weeks at the Howard Athenæum.

A Firm Ruler.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Affairs in San Domingo are in a very bad state. President Lewelli is ruling with an iron hand and the people are in fear of him. General Marchina and eight others were shot. The general was furnishing money to men who were hatching a plot to blow up the government buildings.

Poet Hovey Weds.

BOSTON, Jan. 18.—Richard Hovey, the young poet and playwright, and Mrs. Henrietta Russell, were married at 308 Marlboro street last evening. A civil service was performed by A. A. Maxwell, and later the religious ceremony was performed by Rev. H. E. Parker. There were no guests.

Eighty Men Are Out.

BROCKTON, Mass., Jan. 18.—Terry, Ware & Alley's shoe factory was practically deserted yesterday, when 80 employes went out on a strike against a reduction of wages. The strikers declare that a settlement must be made with all, or none will return. The firm refuses to talk.

But One Baseball Club.

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 18.—There will be no Yale law school baseball nine in the field this spring. The law school men have come to the conclusion that it will be better to develop all their energy to getting on the 'varsity nine, instead of running in opposition to it, as last year.

Three Vacancies.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Messrs. Barney and Bull have resigned their offices in the Northern Pacific railroad. Johnston Livingston, who was also a director of the road, refused to accept the office, and there are consequently three vacancies.

Wool Growers to Meet.

DENVER, Jan. 18.—In response to requests Governor Waite has issued a call for an international wool growers' convention to meet in this city Feb. 5 to take such action on the wool clause of the Wilson bill as may be deemed necessary.

Struck With a Shovel.

LITTLETON, N. H., Jan. 18.—During a quarrel here Duncan Crawford, aged 15, struck Nels P. Dosse, aged 17, on the head with a shovel, fracturing his skull. Physicians fear the injury will prove fatal. Crawford is under arrest.

Bushee at the Head.

HANOVER, N. H., Jan. 18.—At a mass meeting of Dartmouth college students N. A. Bushee, '94, was unanimously elected president of the Athletic association. It was voted to raise $1000 for the support of the athletic team.

New Jersey's Muddle.

TRENTON, Jan. 18.—The Republican senate was in session only a moment yesterday afternoon and adjourned until Monday night. There is not much expectation here that any conclusion will be reached.

Schooners In Collision.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Schooner Nettie Cushing, from Thomaston, Me., reports that she was run into by schooner Ella Brown off Penfield reef, carrying away outer jibstay, outer jib and forward chocks.

PROMPT AND CERTAIN

Will Be the Measures Adopted to Suppress Italian Riots.

THE MOVEMENT NOT POLITICAL.

Germs of Barbarism Had Their Origin In Italy.

ROME, Jan. 18.—The decree declaring Massa and Carrara in a state of siege preceded the ministerial report to the king, which reviewed the violence of the armed bands of anarchists up to Tuesday's fight near Carrara, when the report says:

"The rebels tried to enter the town in order to foment revolution; but they were repulsed, leaving a number of dead and wounded."

The report adds: "The movement is not political, but anti-social and aiming at national disunity and the destruction of property. The acts and objects of these enemies force the conviction that they are allied with the agitators in Sicily, and the government must destroy the germs of these barbarous attempts with prompt and certain measures."

Anarchists Still at Work.

Additional re-enforcements of troopers arrived at Carrara yesterday evening. A proclamation issued by the municipal authorities called upon the inhabitants to remain calm and to respect the law, and calling attention to the fact that the stoppage of work was injuring the dependent trades.

The body of another dead anarchist, killed in Tuesday's encounter with the troops, has been found in the hills, and numbers of wounded rioters have been arrested.

During the day a band of 80 anarchists forced an entry to a house at the entrance of the town, but the house was surrounded by troops and all the anarchists were arrested.

MELLO'S WHEREABOUTS

Still a Mystery to Inhabitants of Rio. Rebels Lost Heavily at Bage.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 18.—There is little change in the situation. The usual skirmishing continues. Although the rebels occupy Mocangue island, it is said that the five government guns at Armacao render the opposition useless.

Admiral de Mello is not yet known to have arrived here, and the usual uncertainty prevails as to his whereabouts. Report has it that he is expected here tonight, and that he has with him the necessary re-enforcements to make a landing at a point within easy march of Rio de Janeiro.

There now seems no longer any doubt that the rebels, after raising the siege of Bage, lost nearly 500 men, and that they committed many atrocities during their retreat.

Volunteers have been enrolled to the support of President Peixoto. The insurgent warships keep up an intermittent firing on the city and government forts. The insurgent warship Aquidaban is preparing to return to the south for the purpose of procuring re-enforcements.

The British sloop-of-war Beagle is constantly cruising to and fro outside of the harbor. The object of her movements is not known.

Wily Russia.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 18.—Reports have been received here of a fresh Russian intrigue to gain a foothold in Corea. The Russian representative at the Corean court is badgering the king to allow the establishment of an agricultural colony of 100 Russian families at Keikofu, near the Russo-Corean boundary. The Chinese government regards the place as of great strategic value, and as it is not a fertile district, it looks with suspicion upon the Russian demand, which is being vigorously opposed by the Chinese minister resident.

Infernal Machine on a Steamer.

BORDEAUX, Jan. 18.—As steamer Equator was proceeding up the Gironde, from La Plata, and was discharging small packages into a tender, an explosion occurred aboard of her, killing two sailors and fatally injuring two others and wounding a number of people. The explosion was probably the result of setting off an infernal machine.

How It Is Done In Prague.

PRAGUE, Jan. 18.—The trial of the members of the Omladina secret society has resolved itself into a struggle on the part of the judges to preserve the decorum of the court. The prisoners make ceaseless endeavors to cast ridicule upon the proceedings. The evidence taken is of little importance.

Nomads Killed by Earthquakes.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—A dispatch from Shanghai says: There has been a series of destructive earthquakes in the province of Urga, Mongolia. One hundred of the native nomadic population, with their flocks and herds of horses, were swallowed up or otherwise destroyed.

ZANZIBAR, Jan. 18.—The district of Daitcho, where Mr. Chanler, the American explorer, was last reported from, is to the northeast of Mount Kenia. Little is known of the region except that it is on one of the rivers and that a place in the vicinity is called Chanler Point.

They Left the Nietheroy.

CALCUTTA, Jan. 18.—It is officially announced that the government does not propose to impose any import duty on silver for the purpose of assisting the currency policy.

Giving the Jews a Chance.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 18.—The government is considering the question of extending the area of territory upon which Jews are allowed to settle.

Bowsprit and Jib Lost.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—Bark Amanda, at Fleetwood from Portland, Me., lost her bowsprit and jib on the passage.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE.

An Important Bill Concerning Employment Offices—The Gothenburg System.

BOSTON, Jan. 18.—A bill was introduced into the house which contemplates a complete overturn in the intelligence office business. The bill provides for the establishment and maintenance of free employment offices in such cities of the commonwealth as shall accept the act, under the direction of the chief of the bureau of statistics and labor.

The bill provides for the appointment of a superintendent to have charge of each office, who shall make weekly reports to the chief of the bureau, and that no fees, direct or indirect, shall in any case be taken from those seeking the benefit of the offices, which shall be confined to residents of the state. The bill further provides for rooms and furniture for each officer, at the expense of the commonwealth, to be refunded in the form of taxes by the cities which take advantage of the act.

There are undoubtedly intelligence offices whose manner of doing business imposes a hardship upon their clients, but there would seem to be no especial reason, therefore, for the commonwealth to go into the employment office business—unless, indeed, it is in the interest of the people for the state to enter into every department of industry; in that case this bill is admittedly in the right direction.

There is a distinct sentiment against the Gothenburg system of dealing with the liquor traffic. The argument is advanced that it is neither expedient nor in the line of good morals for the commonwealth to go into the rum business, and that, if it were, it is extremely doubtful that reputable men could be induced to embark in the undertaking.

But it will be observed that the same objections which are brought against the Gothenburg plan are equally applicable to the high license system now in vogue in Massachusetts; but at the same time high license has probably done as much as a prohibitory law could have accomplished, if not a great deal more, and although the Gothenburg system may not be an ideal plan, if it will restrict liquor drinking, it is thought to be a proper thing for trial.

The order introduced in the senate calling for information from the railroad commissioners relative to the number of trains discontinued on the Old Colony system of the New York, New Haven and Hartford, etc., came up for adoption. Senator Milton offered an amendment to the effect that "the board of railroad commissioners be requested to furnish the legislature with such information as it may possess or be able to obtain relative to all changes in the running of trains by discontinuance or otherwise, and the reasons therefor, on the Old Colony system since the lease of the Old Colony railroad to the New York, New Haven and Hartford," etc. In its amended form the order passed.

Among petitions presented in the house were these: For the repeal of so much of chapter 276 of the acts of 1886 as prohibits the taking of eggs of undomesticated birds for food purposes within the limit of Nantucket county; Theodore E. Davis, for $13,822.15 compensation for services rendered in the prosecution of the commonwealth for a refund of the direct tax paid to the United States; relative to co-operative production and distribution under the direction of the chief of the bureau of the statistics of labor; for more equal representation in the election of senators and representatives in the general court.

A Crooked Politician.

WHEELING, Jan. 18.—Benjamin Earnshaw, one of the most prominent Democratic politicians in the state and for 10 years a member of the Wetzel county court, was arrested here while attempting to negotiate forged county orders. When arrested he attempted to swallow a $1000 order he held in his hand. Forged orders for $5400 were found on his person.

Close Watch on Anarchists.

BARCELONA, Jan. 18.—The anarchists connected with the Liceo theater bomb outrage have been removed from the prison to secure quarters in the fortress of Mont Juich. Great military precautions have been taken in this city on account of the discovery of a plot among the prisoners to obtain their liberty and to perpetrate fresh outrages.

Nearly Ten Thousand Idle.

WORCESTER, Mass., Jan. 18.—Reports made to the Central Labor union by a committee appointed to make a census of the unemployed show that so far as the census has been taken there are 6730 out of work, with a probability that full returns will add 3000 to the number.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

A TWO PER CENT TAX

Will Be Levied Upon Incomes of Over Four Thousand Dollars.

THE INTERNAL REVENUE BILL

Has Many Features of an Interesting Nature.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The full text of the internal revenue bill, including the important income tax, has been agreed upon by the Democratic members of the ways and means committee. A complete summary of the essential features of the tax as it will be submitted follows:

The bill provides that the income tax is to go into effect Jan. 1, 1895, and that the first collection on incomes is to be made July 1, 1895. All classes of incomes are included in the measure, and the uniform rate of 2 per cent tax on incomes over $4000 is fixed.

The most important detail of the bill is the method provided for the levying and collection of taxes. It is made obligatory on all persons receiving individual incomes of over $3500 to make a return to the local collector of internal revenue. No tax is levied on those making a return under $4000. In case a person having an income of over $3500 fails to make a return, it becomes the duty of the revenue assessor to make inquiry as to the amount of the person's income.

If this explanation discloses that the income is above $4000, the income is subjected to twice the ordinary tax under the law, and the party failing to make his return is deemed guilty of a criminal offense and is made subject to fine and imprisonment.

Information Kept Secret.

It is estimated that not more than 85,000 persons will be subject to this tax. Provisions are also made by which no information can be made public as to the details of the incomes represented by customs. If such details become public it might injure the credit of a firm or individual, and any person who divulges any part of this information concerning incomes is made subject to criminal prosecution, with heavy fine and penalty.

This provision is in line with the English law of 1857. Prior to that time the British income tax was very unpopular, because it made public the details of private business. But after the law of 1857 was passed, there was little further objection to the tax.

Particular provision is made for the collection of the income tax due on salaries, not only official salaries, but the salaries of individuals received from business firms, corporations, etc. The individual receiving the salary does not pay the tax, but it is made the duty of every government, state, county and municipal distributing officer to retain 2 per cent of all salaries over the taxable amount.

This 2 per cent is to be taken out of the salaries in bulk at the last payment of salary for the year and not at the end of each week or month.

The tax upon corporations includes every phase of corporate stock. This tax is general and is without the $4000 exemption allowed to individual incomes. It is provided that in collecting the tax on corporate stock the corporation shall pay the tax and deduct the amount from the dividends of the stockholder.

PARANAGUA FALLS.

Important Brazilian Town Now In the Hands of Insurgents.

BUENOS AYRES, Jan. 19.—Advices from Rio Janeiro say that the insurgent warships continued the bombardment of the batteries at Nictheroy three nights ago and killed 50 of the government forces.

The government forces will make an attempt to capture the island of Vienna, with a view to preventing the insurgents from renewing their stores there.

It is stated that President Peixoto is becoming suspicious of the fidelity of the government troops.

According to news from Rio Grande do Sul the insurgents have captured Paranagua, one of the most important towns in the province of Parana.

AMESBURY, Mass., Jan. 19.—A bold swindling scheme was perpetrated here by a prepossessing woman giving the name of Ellen Aiken. She went to many stores soliciting money for Amesbury's poor. She had an accomplice, a young man, but he cannot be found. She tells many stories and $10 was found in her possession. The police are searching for the missing man, who is said to have much money which she collected.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE

A Large Number of Bills on Various Subjects Introduced In the House.

BOSTON, Jan. 19.—Attorney General Knowlton has reappointed George C. Train as his first assistant, and his second assistant, Charles N. Harris, will also remain for the present.

A bill was introduced in the senate to authorize appeals from the rulings of moderators in town meetings, which was referred to the committee on towns; also relating to official stenographers of the superior court.

Representative Myers introduced a bill to enable cities and towns to construct, maintain and lease conduits and the connected structures for electrical wires, cables and conductors. The bill provides that any city or town in which electrical wires, cables, etc., are in use over, along or across any public way, may accept the provisions of the act, and thereupon proceed to construct, operate and maintain conduits, manholes and the necessary distributing boxes and service pipes connected therewith, and may compel any and all corporations, firms and individuals using the wires, etc., to place the same in such conduits and manholes and compel owners of wires within 90 days after the service of notice to remove the same from over or across public ways; if the wires are not removed within 90 days, the city or town may remove them at the cost of the owner; a city or town may defray the cost of such conduit by issues of bonds to be called "Conduit loan bonds," to run not over 30 years, and bear interest at the rate of not more than 5 per cent; a rental not exceeding $500 per mile annually for each three-inch duct in the conduit may be charged for the use of the conduit. Nothing in the act is to be construed as referring to trolley wires of street railway companies or supporting wires for the same. In case there is an existing conduit in a city or town it may be taken upon terms agreed upon by the parties, or at a price, in case of disagreement, fixed by a method provided for by the bill. No public highway is to be interfered with without consent of the public highway commission.

Other bills introduced: Amending the act providing a penalty for intimidating laborers; to authorize the printing of a larger edition of the blue book; to provide for the extermination of caterpillars within the limits of highways; providing for the election of boards of health in towns; relative to the compensation to be paid owners of cattle killed by order of the cattle commission; relative to granting licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquors to apothecaries; appropriating $56,000 for salaries and expenses at the reformatory prison for women at Sherborn.

Resolves were introduced to provide for an addition to the Bridgewater normal school and to establish a normal school at Lowell.

FIGHT STILL ON.

Danbury Hat Manufacturers and Employes Fail to Agree.

DANBURY, Conn., Jan. 19.—The conference between the manufacturers' committee and the hatters last night ended in a row, and a settlement of the trouble now seems impossible. The meeting was a stormy one all through. The manufacturers made propositions to the hatters which were acceptable, and just as a settlement was about to be arranged, the manufacturers' committee stated that the wages would be reduced until the manufacturers could recover what they lost in consequence of the long fight. This the hatters' committee refused to accept, and the meeting broke up in disorder at midnight. The committees did not decide on holding any other meeting, and a long fight in the hat trade is now threatened.

Leone made his escape.

A TALE OF THE DEEP

Awful Experience of the Crew of the Maggie E. Wells.

MASTS FAIRLY UNDER WATER.

Fourteen Lives Finally Saved by a Gloucester Boat.

HALIFAX, Jan. 19.—The report made at New York by the Dutch steamer Amsterdam on Wednesday, narrating the loss of Chief Officer Mayer and five of the crew of the steamer while attempting a rescue at sea, seemed to indicate that the crew of the fishing schooner Maggie E. Wells, numbering 14, had all perished.

Good news came to Halifax yesterday. The Gloucester (Mass.) schooner Magnolia, Captain Day, arrived with the Maggie E. Wells' crew. They were taken Monday from their vessel, which was then set on fire 160 miles east by southeast of Sable island.

The Maggie E. Wells sailed from Gloucester, Mass., Dec. 23, on a halibut expedition. She proceeded to Quero banks, off Sable island, and fished there without interruption of storm or accident until Friday last. Ten thousand pounds of halibut had been captured by that time and the voyage promised to be a profitable one for all concerned.

Early Friday morning the wind came in puffs from the south and the sky darkened; the sea rolled rapidly and the wind kept freshening.

In a Hurricane.

About 9 a. m. the cable parted and a futile attempt was made to let go the other anchor. The schooner was tossing about so badly that the attention of the crew was directed to keeping her into the wind and securing movable articles about the deck.

At 10:30 o'clock the wind was blowing a perfect hurricane, and huge black clouds swept across the heavens. Wave after wave rolled around the little schooner, causing her to leak. Suddenly, just after 11 o'clock, an immense column of water struck the Maggie Wells on her quarter, tearing away her after house and opening a hole in her deck, which filled with water.

The cabin and holds were half full of water. The wind blew the foresail and other sails to ribbons, and threw the schooner so far down on her beam ends that the mastheads were buried in the ocean. Captain Davidson, R. K. Peach and J. A. Williams were washed overboard by the waves. All three came up again.

When she righted the schooner presented a scene of wreck and despair. Every boat was smashed to atoms; not a sail was left standing; ropes and blocks and lines were confused and hopelessly tangled, and worst of all, her deck planks were started and leaking like a sieve.

Her Hold Flooded.

A great hole aft, where the house had been, allowed hundred of gallons into the hold. The vessel, from the weight of water, was sunk two feet deeper than she had been. Captain Davidson's left eye was cut and bleeding and the thumb and index finger of his left hand were split. Beds, sacks and boards were laid over the hole in the deck and the pumps were set going to keep the schooner free.

During Friday night and Saturday the vessel drifted helplessly at the mercy of the wind and sea. The captain reckons he drifted 100 miles to the southeast.

It was 12 o'clock Sunday when the Dutch tank steamer Amsterdam bore down to within a quarter of a mile of the lee of the schooner. The crew of the Maggie E. Wells were exhausted with pumping and exposure and living on food for 70 hours that was saturated with salt water.

They signaled that they were sinking and wanted to be taken off. The steamer hauled around to the schooner's weather bow and launched a lifeboat with which to reach the Maggie E. Wells, and from that position had to stem a cross sea. The consequence was that before the lifeboat had gotten 50 yards from the steamer's side it was capsized.

A man in the Maggie E. Wells' rigging saw one man floating in the water and distinctly made out three others clinging to the overturned boat. This lookout was positive that the Amsterdam afterwards rescued those three that were on top of the boat.

A Fatal Error.

Captain Davidson says that had the captain of the steamer laid off toward windward from the Maggie E. Wells the accident to the brave fellows who manned the lifeboat might not have occurred.

After picking up the men from the boat the Amsterdam circled around the sinking vessel two or three times, and then moved off without making any signals or any further attempt to save the men on the schooner's deck. It was 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon when the steamer drew away, and at 5:30 o'clock her receding form was still visible against the western horizon.

Sunday night the weather moderated, but the Maggie E. Wells drifted 40 miles further to southeast of Sable island, the wind having shifted on Friday night to west-northwest.

On Monday the Gloucester schooner Magnolia hove in sight and rescued Captain Davidson and his men without much difficulty. The Maggie E. Wells was then fired, being waterlogged and a menace to navigation. The shipwrecked crew succeeded in saving their personal effects, and the captain brought off his papers and instruments.

Gloucester Schooner Lost.

Captain Davidson reports that shortly after leaving his own vessel he saw another vessel which had met the same fate as the Maggie E. Wells. She was about 10 miles west of where the Wells had been drifting. The vessel was partly on her beam ends, waterlogged and on fire, and there was an ocean steamer near by.

They found she was the Porter S. Roberts of Gloucester, and as there was no sign of life on board, it was supposed that the crew had been rescued by the steamer and the vessel set on fire. The Porter S. Roberts was built in Essex, Mass., in 1882, and hailed from Gloucester.

Editorial Comment.

THE AUDITOR'S statement for the year ending Dec. 31, 1893, shows the expenses of the poor department of the city to have been but $7,491.98; and of this amount $3,256.07 was for the almshouse. Few cities have taken care of the poor so well, and for so little money. Overseer Field has a balance as usual.

PITTSFIELD ADOPTED its city charter since Quincy became a city, but now has a special committee at work on revision. Among the changes suggested are the election of a city clerk, tax collector, auditor and city solicitor by popular ballot, instead of by the city council. Neither way is good as the Quincy idea.

THE AUDITOR'S statement for the year 1893, affords an interesting study. First in the totals. These show $445,922 46 to have been appropriated outside the water account, and to this was added receipts to the amount of $8,624 27. For the water supply and service $12,140 was appropriated, and for extensions $90,000 more. It is not a billion dollar Congress, but a half-million Council.

Not all of this amount has been expended, as a balance of $123,026.20 of the $322,896.26 remains, but this will be spent in 1894, as in 1893 there was spent $85,-310.82 on account of 1892. Among the larger balances of 1893 are $61,895 48 for the new High schoolhouse and $35,032.18 for playgrounds. It is very gratifying to see balances to nearly every account and none overrun.

The appropriations, however, have increased very rapidly year by year; the limit in the amount that could be raised under the law and the amounts appropriated being:

	Limit.	Appropriated.
1891,	$141,563.00	$265,976.25
1892,	159,968.43	413,704.21
1893,	172,880.34	445,922.46

The limit that could be raised is not the amount of the tax levy, as the law permits the payment of debt and interest, State and county tax and overlayings in addition. The difference between the limit and amount appropriated as above is not therefore an increase in debt, but it is a fact that the debt has increased each year.

Coming to the Treasurer's statement of the receipts and expenditures of 1893, the totals are nearly a million and one-half dollars. The receipts of the year being $1,450,157.03, and the disbursements were $85,310.82 on account of 1892, and (including $120,691.79 cash on hand) $1,364,864.21 in 1893. It is the transfer of the water works that makes the totals so unusually large.

MILTON.

When news arrived from Washington this week that M. J. Barry had been appointed postmaster at East Milton it created quite a storm. Inquiry brought out the fact that it was obtained through Congressman McEttrick. The petition being presented by an ex-Democratic representative who refused to sign his own name to it for various reasons, and the members of the local Democratic club repudiate him as a Democrat. It was also learned that the petition was signed by Lower Mills and Mattapan Democrats and none in East Milton can be found who signed it, and it is quite probable that a remonstrance will be made through Mr. Morse of Canton.

The parlor concert held this week at the home of Mrs. Albert Huckins was largely attended and an enjoyable evening was passed.

The grip continues to reign supreme over the village.

Baptist Church.

The dedicatory services of the East Milton Baptist church, will occur on Tuesday, Jan. 23; a service will be held in the afternoon at 3 o'clock, at which Rev. W. H. Eaton of the Massachusetts Baptist convention and Rev. C. H. Spalding of the Baptist Publication society and others will deliver addresses. The dedication proper will take place in the evening at 7.30. Rev. A. S. Gumpart, of Dudley Street Baptist church of Boston, will preach the sermon. Rev. N. S. Greet of Somerville will also speak. There will be preaching services in the new church Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings. The services Thursday evening, will be for young men, at which service Rev. Dr. Vosburg of Dorchester will preach.

Neighborly Club.

Miss Annette Burrows entertained the members of the Neighborly club, and guests from Boston and Weymouth, Thursday evening at her residence on South street. The entertainment provided for the guests of the evening was a very enjoyable one and opened with the presentation of a short farce entitled "The Two Pudifoots', in which several members of the club were afforded an opportunity to display their talents as actors and actresses. To their credit, let it be said, they did finely.

This was followed by a short musicale in which Miss Burrows, was heard in a solo, "Consider the Lillies;" Mrs. J. M. Hannum, in "Good-by Sweet Day," and "The Widow;" Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Garey in a piano duett; Dr. Garey and Miss Burrows in a duett, "Come Back;" and Miss Litchfield in piano solos.

DESIRABLE $2,000 COTTAGE.

An Attractive Exterior and Convenient Interior Arrangement.

[Copyright, 1893, by American Press Association.]

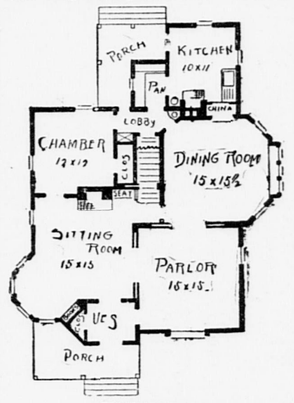

In designing homes we must follow the laws of common sense and not sacrifice interior comfort for the satisfaction of displaying an outside show which is offensive to the cultivated eye. But let us have homes wherein nothing is conceded to a false luxury, and where harmony says that, though here is a small and there a large opening to suit the interior requirements, they are so grouped and blended together that they produce a pleasing and picturesque exterior, and which, when finished, will cost us no more, as we have nothing concealed, nothing artificial, nothing useless. This sort of construction is the only satisfactory one to people of sense and taste, there being a good reason for it. The most convenient houses are those which are planned with a special reference to the needs of its occupants and so as to avoid all useless expenditures, and, we might add, those are the most pleasing in point of aspect for the simple reason that they clearly show the purpose for which they are built.

PERSPECTIVE VIEW.

I show herewith perspective view and floor plans of a cottage of eight main rooms, very conveniently and economically arranged, with an exterior conceived in a picturesque but chaste style of design, free from current extravagances. The effect obtained is hardly rendered by the illustrations on account of their small scale, but it is very prominent in the actual building and very readily felt as the eye is passed around the neighboring houses of the usual type. The rooms are well shaped and proportioned to each other, and a general air of light and cheerfulness pervades the house.

The building is set well above the grade and entered from the front by a porch, through a vestibule into the sitting room. This room is 15 by 15 feet, with the addition of an octagonal bay 9 feet across. The bay is alcoved by means of artistic grille work and fitted with built in bookcases, altogether making a very cozy reading nook. The general aspect of the room is enlivened by an open grate. To the right is a parlor of the same size and back of this the dining room.

To the rear of the sitting room is a chamber 12 by 12 feet, furnished with rear outlet and connected with the kitchen and dining room through a lobby. In the lobby is a dumb waiter, furnishing convenient connection with the cellar, which we reach by stairs from the lobby. The pantry is well furnished with all the modern conveniences. The kitchen has a sink and brick set range, with water back and boiler, and communicates with the dining room through the lobby and china closet. A cellar is provided under the dining room 8 feet deep, under the chamber 7 feet and under the remainder of the house 6 feet deep.

Going up stairs, we land in a small hall, from which are accessible the three chambers and bathroom and the stairs to the attic. The interior of the first floor is trimmed in natural finished cypress. The second floor is finished in white pine.

Constructionally, the house is of the very best, using good materials and workmanship. The cellar walls are of stone to one course above the grade; thence a frame underpinning of 2 by 8 studding, sheathed diagonally, papered and covered with sheet steel brick and plastered inside. The outside walls are sheathed diagonally, papered and covered with half inch siding. The second story of the octagonal tower is shingled; roof covered with cypress shingles. The entire first floor is double, of yellow pine, with paper between. The plastering is of three coat work on seasoned pine lath. The hardware of the two floors is of bronze. The painting outside is of three coat work in colors well selected. The house is heated by a furnace placed under the dining room. Dimensions, 35 by 46 feet over all except projection of front porch. Height of stories, 9 feet 8 inches and 8 feet 6 inches respectively. The house can be built thus in any locality for from $2,000 to $2,600, according to style and quality of interior finish employed.

WEYMOUTH.

The fire department of Weymouth was entertained by Orphan Hope lodge of Masons, Wednesday evening, in recognition of their services recently. There was a banquet followed by speeches, etc., and it was an enjoyable occasion.

Deputy Sheriff George W. White, celebrated the 75th anniversary of his birth Thursday evening by a gathering of his relatives and friends to the number of 100, at Lincoln hall. His friends presented him with a gold headed cane suitably inscribed, and his grandchildren gave him a handsome banquet lamp. Mr. White has been a deputy sheriff for 27 years and was also for a number of years postmaster at the Weymouth office, being removed by President Cleveland about 10 years ago.

More Shoes Exported.

William B. Rice representing the boot and shoe industry, was one of the speakers at the banquet of the New England Tariff Reform league on Thursday. He said that so far as his business was concerned he was not afraid of any reduction of the tariff, even if it went as far as free trade. He did not believe, however that the country was ready for free trade. The exports of boots and shoes from America this year were about three times as much as last year. "As far as pauper labor is concerned, why, I should rather compete with all the shoe factories in Europe than with one factory that I could name in Massachusetts."

Atlantic Literary Society.

A new literary society of Atlantic completed its organization Monday evening, at the residence of Mrs. Jane Clean. Its object is the mutual improvement of the members, and anyone interested may join. The following officers were chosen:

President,—Rev. J. H. Yeoman.
Vice-President,—Charles F. Merrick.
Secretary and Treasurer,—Miss Lilian Waterhouse.
Board of Managers,—Mrs. D. A. Bruce, Frank A. Emery, Miss Annie Briggs.

The next meeting will be held with Miss Briggs on Appleton street, Jan. 26. Subject: "An evening with James Whitcomb Riley," all meetings are to begin promptly at 8.00 and close at 9.30.

Epworth League Officers.

The West Quincy Epworth League held its annual meeting Monday evening. The following were elected:—Rev. W. W. Baldwin president; Miss Louise Shackley first vice president; Miss Maggie M. Badger second vice president; Miss Emma F. Kimball third vice president; Miss Grace Doble fourth vice president; Miss Helen G. Nutting secretary; Miss Cassie Thayer treasurer. These officers constitute the Cabinet in which much of the work is blocked out. The League voted to assume part of the expenses of the church, and is planning an "Experience Meeting" to cover the parsonage tax bill. Two new members were elected.

Trout, Jackrabbits and Quail.

The Norfolk County Fish and Game Protective Association has procured 800 of the Von Beer species of trout between six and seven months old to stock Blue Hill and Capen rivers and Great pond. Arrangements are now being made to place a large number of jackrabbits and California quail in the woods.

A $40,000 Monument.

The U. S. Senate passed a bill Thurday appropriating $40,000 for an equestrian statue to Maj. Gen. John Stark in the city of Manchester, N. H.

FOR HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENT.

How Present Methods May Be Changed For the General Benefit.

Good roads have been considered from the remotest past accurate and certain tests of the progress and intelligence of a community. It would naturally be expected as the necessity for them increased and their numbers multiplied that the theories and principles of their construction would attract an extended investigation and lead to a constant and rapid system of improvement. Still, from the present general condition of many places in this country, it does not appear that this branch of political economy has attracted that attention from a progressive people, wishing to attract city residents to suburban homes, which its importance demands.

The present management of country roads is open to serious objection and criticism, and while it is scarcely possible to find excuse for perpetuating it the sole difficulty in the way of modifying it probably lies in the fact that public attention, except in very rare instances, has not been called to it with sufficient directness and intelligence. It has appeared to many that the money levied for this purpose is more than double what is necessary for doing most thoroughly the work which is often done in a very slovenly manner, and sometimes not done at all.

It is urged by men who have had experience in this line that if the money raised by road tax, or its equivalent of labor, should be wisely and economically expended, if the roadmasters and commissioners were selected for their fitness and held accountable for anything short of a result commensurate to the fullest with the means placed at their disposal, there is no doubt but that the condition of the roads could be vastly improved with the present expenditures and present results obtained at one-half the present cost.

By the present system repairs are made at long intervals, resulting in an enlargement of the work needed to an extent that would be otherwise unnecessary. The work being most frequently performed at the wrong season, the evil results of bad roads naturally follow, and they are continued and prolonged immeasurably as a direct consequence of the system now in vogue.

The question is sometimes asked, "Do farmers understand how much poor roads cost them in lost time, wear and tear of horses, harness and wagons?"

Many roads are laid out badly, and for a score of reasons that may be given why they are so situated perhaps not one will have the merit of general convenience.

As to the effect of grade, it has been estimated that on a slope of 1 foot in 44 feet, or 120 feet to the mile, a horse can only draw three-quarters as much as he can upon a level; on a slope of 1 in 24, or 220 feet to the mile, he can only draw one-half as much, and on a slope of 1 in 10, or 528 feet to the mile, only one-quarter as much.

It will be seen that when either of these conditions in the road exists, if but once or twice in a length of 1 or 10 miles, since the load must be carried over the whole road, it must be reduced to what can be carried up the ascent. Thus, if a slope 1 to 24 occurs, as a horse can draw up it only one-half a full load, he must carry over the level parts of the road only one-half as much as he should draw there.

By reason of defects of surfaces of level roads, the farmer, at scarcely any season of the year, is able to derive more than 50 per cent of the value of a day's work from his horses or cattle while making use of the means of communication existing in his neighborhood.—New York Times.

Points For Roadbuilders.

In laying out the road don't think it absolutely necessary to slavishly follow the road allowances, as is so customary. A straight road is not an interesting road to drive on. It is tedious, and it implies climbing the hills, when by a graceful sweep around the hill an easy grade may be often had, the road made pleasanter, little if anything added to its length, its usefulness increased and economy in time and horseflesh secured.

I know of four roads meeting on the top of a steep hill. Much money has been expended in reducing grades to enable people to drag up half a load, when common sense would suggest a sweep around the hill, the saving of much expense and the avoidance of a nuisance which has cost incalculable money, in that it has lessened every load that ever went over it, has injured horses, harness and vehicles and provoked accidents.

Grade properly the proper width and in the proper place before putting on gravel.

Make the roads very round—they wear down. A flat road is a bad road at the time when a good road is most needed. Make clean, straight edges, not jagged, irregular and slovenly.

Make all ditches clean and decided, with such care as to the levels as will insure that they won't hold the water instead of leading it off. At every natural outlet make a culvert—that the water may escape from both sides and get away. It is the water in the subsoil freezing in winter which bursts up the road in spring and swallows up the gravel.

Drainage is the secret of good roads. If any springy place gets its water from the adjoining land, tap the water before it reaches the road and lead it off.

In many places the cheapest method of curing a bad piece of road is to put a tile drain, four feet deep, right down the center until a natural outlet is reached, and if a similar tile drain could be put on the side of the road from which the water comes it would be true economy.

When there are long inclines, don't let the water in the ditches go all the way down. It tears the road. Let it off at every opportunity. Put several belts of gravel in the form of a reversed V on the face of long inclines to turn the water into the ditches instead of letting it gully out the road by running down the center.—Toronto Globe.

MISS "TOM KING."

The Story of the Escape of This Beautiful but Notorious Thief.

The escape of the notorious female horse thief, known in the territory as "Tom King," from the county jail turns out to be one of the romances of the new country.

"Tom" is a very handsome and fascinating young lady of about 22 years, with a voice like a dove and an eye that knows no deceit. She is a quarter blood Cherokee Indian, and many of her relatives and people live near Springfield, Mo., whence her ancestors emigrated to the Cherokee country. Her operations in the territory have been extensive and notorious, and her captures frequent, but she is never brought to trial. About a year ago she was arrested for complicity in some of the Wharton train robberies, and after being held in the Guthrie jail for some time unaccountably escaped. A while later she was held in the Oklahoma City jail, and thence escaped in the same inexplicable way. For the last three months she has been in the new jail of Canadian county.

Last night she walked out the open doors of the jail dressed in her ordinary female habiliments, but under which she had taken the precaution to wear her full suit of men's clothing, which the courtesy of the officers allowed her to keep. Outside of the door the skirts disappeared, and a very good looking, youthful man apparently bestrode a convenient horse and rode safely out of the city. It would mystify the most expert to detect the woman in the garb she wore. The under sheriff of the county has not been seen since a few minutes before the escape, and two of his five horses are not to be found.

Bloodhounds were put upon the trail, but they trailed to where the horse stood and there stopped. The grand jury investigated the case of the escape, and it is reported that a bill was found against one of the deputy sheriffs. It is known that the disappearing officer was much taken with the comely woman. She was being held here for horse stealing, at which she was expert, but other charges of horse stealing and train robbery were standing against her.—Cor. St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

WHAT WILL THEY DO WITH IT?

The Vanderbilts, Who Are Not Sportsmen, Buying Up the Adirondacks.

It will soon be impossible for a fellow to go into the Adirondacks without a permit from the Vanderbilts. That enterprising family seems bent on buying up the entire region, to what end no one seems to know. There is not a sportsman in the entire Vanderbilt family—I mean the kind of sportsman that likes to work for his game.

Cornelius, the eldest son, never pulled a trigger in his life or got on top of a horse. Willie K. can cast a fly out of his parlor window and might be able to kill a pheasant if it sat very still. Fred is a good fisherman, but doesn't shoot or ride, and George is a dilettante in books.

Of course there is great profit in Adirondack lands. They can be let out to "parties" who do love to fish and shoot, but there is also profit in suburban property where the only game is goat or yaller dog. Why should the Vanderbilts go in for sporting property when they do not sport?—Cholly Knickerbocker in New York Recorder.

The Unemployed.

Bradstreet's reports that 119 cities of the country show 801,000 unemployed persons in the United States at this time upon whom 1,956,000 persons depend for bread.

This makes a total of 2,757,000 persons without visible means of support in these 119 cities alone. Leaving all other cities and towns out of the question, we have close to one-twentieth of the entire population of the United States out of the means to procure the necessaries of life unless they have some earnings laid by for such a direful emergency.

The following table shows the classified summary of Bradstreet's reports:

	Unemployed.	Dependent.
New England	66,200	154,400
New York and New Jersey	223,250	563,750
Pennsylvania	151,500	449,200
Central western	227,340	443,310
Northwestern	64,900	175,800
Pacific coast	25,800	47,000
Southern	42,065	122,650
Totals	801,055	3,956,110

Immigration For December.

Ellis island reports state that during December there were landed 11,262 immigrants. Of these Italy brought the largest number—3,784. These brought with them $45,981. Germany contributed 1,821, who brought $34,096. Russia contributed 1,492, who brought $15,191. Hungary came next, with 755 immigrants and $8,324. Of the immigrants, 95 had professions, 2,050 were skilled mechanics, 4,794 were of miscellaneous occupations and 4,476 had no occupations. Of the total number, 2,45 5 could neither read nor write. The number returned was 117.

A Long Level Under the Pacific.

Any persons interested in the work of the vessels which surveyed the cable route between Hawaii and the California coast who would like to see the survey made by the Thetis can inspect the chart now in the office of this paper. They would be surprised to see how very level the ocean bed is—"so level," as one of the officers remarked, "that, if on dry land, a railroad train could run over a stretch of 500 miles of the bed at a speed of 60 miles an hour without the grade being altered anywhere."—Pacific Commercial Advertiser.

A Hustling Postmaster.

The postmaster of Lecompton, Kan., has a unique letterhead on his stationery. It reads: "United States of America, Postoffice department, W. S. Bissell, postmaster general. Local headquarters, Lecompton, Kan. W. R. Smith, postmaster. Stamps sold good to carry mail matter to all parts of the world. Prompt attention given to all business intrusted to me. Patronize home institutions."—Kansas City Star.

LOVE AND I.

Once I found Love sleeping
And caged him with a smile,
"Now that I have caught you
You must stay awhile."
But he pined and fretted,
Sighing ceaselessly,
As he beat against the bars,
"Give me liberty."
Touched by his lamenting,
I set wide the door;
Out he flew and vanished,
And I was as before.
By my lonely hearthstone
Bitterly I wept,
When with twilight's shadows
Through the door Love crept.
"Though I die when prisoned,"
He whispered, "yet when free—
Oh! woman heed the lesson—
I straight return to thee."

Women as Farmers.

California boasts of a number of women farmers who manage large estates, make money and keep healthy and happy. The comforts of farm life here are greater than they are in the east, and there is a possibility of gaining more than a mere living. Some of the women farmers have won more than mere local fame. Mrs. Theodosia Shepherd of Ventura is known in the east as a cultivator of California flower seeds and bulbs. Mrs. Strong is known far and wide as the woman who makes a good income by raising and selling pampas grass. Mrs. E. P. Buckingham of Vacaville is an orchardist whose fruit commands the highest price in eastern markets.

Another successful agriculturist is Mrs. Georgia McBride. A dozen years ago she was an invalid, a widow, poor, with four boys to bring up. She knew nothing of fruit raising, but with feminine recklessness she purchased 38 acres of land near San Jose and set it out as an orchard. Now she is prosperous, healthy and wealthy, as the wage earners go, and an enthusiastic advocate of farming for women.—San Francisco Correspondent.

Hiram Maxim's Youth.

When Hiram Maxim, the famous inventor, lived in Sangerville, anxious mammas used to warn their hopefuls not to play with "that wicked Maxim boy." In fact, young Maxim grew up under the doubtful reputation of being the very worst boy in the neighborhood. This isn't said for the purpose of encouraging any other Maine incorrigibles who are in the depths of their misdeeds. If Hiram had been a perfectly good little boy and had devoted his time to studying his lessons, he might have had that flying machine all completed by this time.

Hiram used to work at carriage painting in Abbot and was hired by D. D. Flynt. He was an artist with the brush. One day a man called to see Flynt while the latter was out. "There has been a man in to see you," said young Maxim. "What's his name?" "I don't know, but that's how he looks," and the boy pointed to a board on which he had roughly daubed a face. "I forgot to ask him his name," said the boy, "and so I drew that." Flynt knew his man.—Lewiston Journal.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

Down the Stream.

Love! It began with a glance,
Grew with the growing of flowers,
Smiled in a dreamful trance,
Recked not the passage of hours.
Our passion's flood rose ever,
Flowing for her and me,
Till the brook became a river,
And the river became a sea.

Grief! It began with a word,
Grew with the winds that raved;
A prayer for pardon unheard,
Pardon in turn uncraved;
The bridge so easy to sever,
The stream so swift to be free,
Till the brook became a river
And the river became a sea.

Life! It began with a sigh,
Grew with the leaves that are dead;
Its pleasure with wings to fly,
Its sorrows with limbs of lead,
And rest remaineth never
For the wearier years to be,
Till the brook shall become a river
And the river become a sea.

ATTACKED WITH VERTIGO.

George W. Childs Is Said to Be In a Critical Condition.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19. — George W. Childs, the philanthropist, and the editor and proprietor of The Public Ledger, is said to be seriously ill and grave fears are entertained regarding his condition. All that can be positively learned concerning his illness is contained in the following statement, which was issued from the office of The Ledger at midnight:

"As George W. Childs was preparing to leave The Ledger office for his home, about 5 o'clock this afternoon, he was seized with a sudden attack of vertigo, which, for a time, alarmed those present. Medical aid was promptly summoned, a carriage was called, and in company with his physician, Professor J. M. DaCosta, Mr. Childs was shortly afterward taken to his residence, where, tonight, he was resting easily."

At Mr. Childs' home it was said that there was nothing to be added to the above statement and Dr. DaCosta positively declined to be interviewed.

Persons who profess to be correctly informed say that Mr. Childs was unconscious for more than an hour after the attack and intimate that it is apoplectic in its nature.

It is known that he has had at least two attacks of a similar nature within the past year, and the evident desire on the part of those surrounding him has excited the gravest apprehensions regarding the exact nature of the trouble.

HER SKULL FRACTURED.

A Woman Thought to Have Been Killed by a Companion.

BOSTON, Jan. 19.—What is thought to be a cold-blooded murder was discovered at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon on the second floor of 62 Shawmut avenue when Nellie Fay, 30 years old, was found lying in a pool of blood with her skull crushed in. The affair is somewhat wrapped in mystery and the police are working hard upon the case.

The house has a somewhat shady reputation and the suite of rooms was rnn by the murdered woman as an illicit barroom. It is stated that a party of four men visited the place on Tuesday afternoon about 6 o'clock, and a royal time was kept up all the night and continued until Wednesday. The murdered woman had a companion staying with her named Ida Matthews, who left the house with the party on Wednesday night and did not return again.

Medical Examiner Draper was immediately notified, and pronounced death from a fractured skull, caused by some blunt instrument.

The murdered woman was a native of Taunton, and her mother and several sisters reside in that place.

The police arrested John J. Walsh and George Goddard of Chelsea who, it is claimed, were of the party that caroused at the woman's house last.

D. A. Munroe and a companion visited the home of the murdered woman late last night, and Munroe learning that he was wanted by the police went direct to station 4 and gave such evidence that it was decided to let the four men go.

The police are searching for Ida Matthews, the woman's companion, as it is suspected that she probably returned during the night, quarreled with the murdered woman, and in the heat of passion struck the fatal blow.

TICKETS FOR THE FIGHT

Will Range In the Neighborhood of $25. The New Battleground.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 19.—It has been decided by the Duval Athletic club to fix the price of tickets for the Corbett-Mitchell contest according to the size of the crowd present at the train on the morning of the battle. The club officials say $25,000 is wanted to clear them from debt. Should 1000 people be present $25 per ticket will be charged and in corresponding ratio.

The location of the battleground of the Corbett-Mitchell contest will be in Nassau county, between the town of Fernandina and the city of Jacksonville. Fernandina is a little over 20 miles north-northeast of Jacksonville. The site of the battleground will be within six miles of Fernandina. A tent has been leased and will be pitched after the train arrives at the place of the contest.

Chief Douglass' Case.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Jan. 19.—The hearing of Chief of Police Douglass before the mayor and board of aldermen began yesterday afternoon. The principal feature of the affair thus far is the summoning as witnesses of ex-Mayor Brock, David L. Parker and Andrew Hathaway to tell what they know regarding the selling of pools at Evergreen park last year under the Brock administration. The hearing will probably occupy 10 days, and it is the consensus of opinion that the charges will be sustained.

Bled to Death.

STAFFORD SPRINGS, Conn., Jan. 19.—Charles Burns, 35, a prisoner at the Tolland county jail, was serving a six months' sentence for aggravated assault upon his father-in-law, and about a month ago had attempted suicide by slashing his throat and wrists with an old pocket knife. He tore open the old wounds yesterday with a piece of stout wire and bled to death.

Tried to Kill Himself.

TIFFIN, O., Jan. 19.—F. D. Wanamaker was arrested at Fostoria and brought here, charged with disposing of a fraudulent draft to the proprietor of the Empire hotel of this city. Wanamaker attempted suicide by hanging, but was cut down in time to save his life.

WALKER DENIES IT.

Did Not "Smother" a Petition of a Labor Organization.

FREE WOOL AGAIN CONSIDERED.

Senate Favors Appropriation For the Stark Monument.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19. — With Mr. Richardson (Dem., Tenn.) in the chair, the house went into committee of the whole to consider the Wilson bill. The early speakers were Mr. Hare (Dem., O.), Mr. Grosvenor (Rep., O.), Mr. Hunter (Dem., Ills.), Mr. Ellis (Rep., Or.), Mr. Davis (Pop., Kan.), Mr. Cannon (Rep., Ills.), Mr. Pendleton (Dem., W. Va.), and Mr. Outhwaite (Dem., O.), and their remarks were in substance on the free wool amendment, and not of lively interest.

Mr. Fithian (Dem., Ills.) created some excitement by arraigning the secretary of the treasury for attempting to sell bonds.

Mr. Johnson referred to petitions in favor of free wool which had been presented to the house by Mr. Brookshire, and asserted that he had presented a number of petitions on the other side, but having been placed in the "petition box" they had never been heard of again. This intimation that the right of petition had been violated caused a buzz of excitement.

Mr. Pence defended Mr. Brookshire's right to present petitions and the honesty of the petition box.

Maguire Attacks Walker.

Mr. Maguire said that members had refused to submit petitions or had "smothered" them when they did not agree with the views held by the signers. He had the clerk read a petition from a labor organization of Massachusetts. This petition had first been sent to Mr. Walker, who had refused to present it, and it had been sent to him (Mr. Maguire) in virtue of his having been a native of Massachusetts. The petition thanked the Democratic members of the ways and means committee for their efforts to reduce the tariff, realizing that it had been reduced as low as was safe at present. The petition, Mr. Maguire said, showed how the Republican party in Massachusetts had degenerated sadly since he was a boy there.

Mr. Walker then said he would always present a petition, no matter from which party it came, if he believed it was honestly obtained. He had not presented the petition sent to the desk by Mr. Maguire because he did not believe it represented the sentiment of the majority of the union, and had analyzed the signers of that petition and found that they were free traders, single taxers and "philosophical anarchists."

Argument Goes On.

Mr. Sickles defended the purpose of the secretary of the treasury to issue bonds, and paid a tribute to "the gold bugs of Wall street," who in the dark days of the rebellion poured forth their wealth to clothe and feed the soldiers.

Mr. Springer spoke briefly in favor of free wool.

Mr. Pendleton and Mr. Crain spoke in favor of the Wilson bill, and Mr. Loud in opposition.

Mr. Dingley defended the amendment proposed by Mr. Burrows substituting the present law for the woolen schedule in the Wilson bill.

Mr. Pearson and Chairman Wilson spoke against the proposed amendment, and Messrs. Thomas, Hicks and Burrows closed the debate for the Republicans.

The vote was immediately taken by tellers, resulting in the defeat of the amendment by a strict party vote of: Yeas, 77; nays, 151.

Steel Rails.

Mr. Johnson, who is a large manufacturer of steel rails, then introduced an amendment putting steel rails on the free list.

An acrimonious discussion followed, in which Mr. Dalzell accused Mr. Johnson of making false statements in the house recently and of altering the Congressional Record. He devoted considerable time to the question of Mr. Johnson's payment of his employes in scrip.

Without action on the amendment the house took a recess.

Sibley's Bombshell.

At the night session Mr. Sibley (Dem., Pa.) created something of a sensation by a bitter speech against the Wilson bill. He said he did not believe that tariffs made or unmade prosperity. In his opinion the business interests were in the position of the Kilkenny cats. "The politicians," he said, "had tied their tails together over the line, and were now shaking it to see the fur fly."

The cause of the present conditions was the monetary policy of the government. He did not believe the ways and means committee was competent, or, if competent, that it was advisable to tear down in a few weeks the temple of our industries created through a hundred years of progress. They should have corrected only the bad features of the McKinley law and allowed the rest to stand. Prosperity was promised by Mr. Wilson when the silver repeal bill was passed, but only paupers and prisons and graves had followed it.

Why should he now follow Mr. Wilson? He would support, he declared, a revenue tariff bill, such as was demanded by the Chicago platform, but he would never vote for this bill, which was a hybrid half-free trade and half-protection, with the vices of both and the virtues of neither.

The other speakers were Mr. McKeeghan (Pop., Neb.), De Forest (Dem., Conn.), and Mr. Russell (Rep., Conn.)

Tariff Reformers Meet.

BOSTON, Jan. 19.—The New England Tariff Reform league held a meeting last evening to urge the speedy passage of the Wilson bill and to show the sentiment of Boston business men in its favor. There was a large attendance of prominent tariff reformers and much enthusiasm prevailed.

TRENTON, Jan. 19.—Caleb F. Aaronson, local agent of the United States Express company, shot and killed himself in the company's stables. Chief Topping says that Aaronson was from $1500 to $1800 behind in his accounts.

STEVENS' ESTIMATE

Of the President's Recent Message on the Hawaiian Question.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Hon. John L. Stevens of Maine, ex-minister to Hawaii, is here to testify before the senate investigation committee. Mr. Stevens said that he was not surprised at the revelation of the president's dealing with Queen Liliuokalani, made in the documents sent to congress last Saturday.

"I must admit that the queen's announcement that she would behead her enemies surprised me," he said, "because I supposed her advisors would not let her make such a mistake. That she should hold such intentions is not at all surprising, because the spirit she manifested was in perfect harmony with her character. It seemed that she had perfect confidence in President Cleveland's intention to restore her, and his absolute power to carry them out. She thought she held the cards in her own hands.

"Had the queen been restored to power on the conditions imposed by the president," Mr. Stevens continued, "there would have been no guaranty that she would keep her promise a day after the reins were in her own hands, or that there would not have been a slaughter of the Americans who had taken part in establishing the provisional government.

"The only fear for Hawaii," said Mr. Stevens, "is that if this government refuses aid to the provisional government the Canadian Pacific railroad or some other power may secure concessions for a cable and for docks and coaling, which would give another government the upper hand."

A SEVERE REBUKE

Administered to a Prosecuting Attorney In the Coughlin Case.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—"I say that the conduct of the attorney, if he did write that article, is unprofessional and outrageous."

Such was the rebuke Judge Tuthill administered to Associate Prosecuting Attorney Scanlan in the Coughlin trial yesterday. Judge Wing, Coughlin's defense, had read to the court an article which appeared in a Chicago newspaper, in which Mr. Scanlan was quoted as saying that he feared the Coughlin jury had been "fixed," and intimated that officials high in authority were responsible. An affidavit setting forth several public stories assailing the prosecution, in addition to the charge of jury bribing, was presented.

Judge Tuthill began a scoring of Scanlan, and when that attorney interrupted the judge said: "No I do not care to hear from you. Such a communication as yours is an outrage upon the jury. I don't want to hear anything from you unless you want to deny you wrote it. You have done an outrageous thing and if you get the opinion of any fair-minded lawyer you will hear the same from him."

"But I think ——"

"Never mind what you think, your position is absolutely indefensible."

Attorney Scanlan acknowledged that he had done wrong in going into print and offered to apologize for his error, but insisted that what the article said was true.

WILL BE KEPT SECRET.

Secretary Carlisle Won't Give Out Names of Bond Purchasers.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—It was announced at the treasury department last evening that Secretary Carlisle would decline to make public the names of the persons offering to take bonds, the amount they subscribed or the figure they offered. To make public the figures, it was pointed out, would give late bidders an opportunity to offer better terms than those offered by the earlier bidders.

It was said, however, that a New Yorker had offered to take the whole $50,000,000 at the minimum premium of $117.223. There is said to be no likelihood of the acceptance of this or any similar offer, as it is contrary to the secretary's desire to make the loan a popular one to which the public generally may subscribe.

It is believed at the treasury department, from orders already received, that the total offering will aggregate nearly $200,000,000 and that the price will reach $120, making the bond practically bear but 2 1-2 per cent interest.

The issue for the present will be confined to denominations of $50, $100 and $1000 of coupon bonds, and $50, $100, $1000, and $10,000 of registered bonds.

Senate Confirmations.

O. Drake, Gardner; J. E. Brown, East Pepperell; M. Z. Woodward, Shelburne; Miss L. I. Guiney, Auburndale.

The Sugar Fight.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The contest over the sugar schedule will be precipitated by Representative Harter, who will move an amendment to the Wilson bill doing away with the sugar bounty and putting a tax of 1 cent a pound on sugar. Representative Johnson will champion absolute free sugar without bounty or duty.

Biddeford Man Missing.

BIDDEFORD, Me., Jan. 19.—Louis Coutlee, a prominent French citizen, head clerk in Dumas' dry goods store, is missing. He has not been heard from since Tuesday. Before leaving he tried to borrow money from friends and no good reason is given for his disappearance.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

BAY STATE'S LOSS.

Ex-Governor Gaston Dies at His Home In Boston.

LONG AND HONORABLE CAREER.

A Successful Lawyer and a Conservative Statesman.

BOSTON, Jan. 20.—Ex-Governor William Gaston died yesterday at his home, 177 Marlboro street.

Mr. Gaston was critically ill for several months in the late summer and autumn of 1892, and his physicians at that time pronounced his case hopeless, but he rallied and was able to go out, but had not since then been able to practice his profession.

WILLIAM GASTON.

Mr. Gaston was the son of Alexander and Kesia (Arnold) Gaston, and was born in Killingly, Conn., Oct. 3, 1820. On the paternal side he was a descendant from John Gaston, born in France, probably about the year 1600, a Huguenot, who was banished on account of his religion, and settled in Scotland; and on the maternal side from Thomas Arnold, who, with his brother William, came to New England in 1636.

William Gaston's father was a well-known merchant of Connecticut and was for many years in the legislature, as was his father before him. With his parents William Gaston moved to Roxbury (now a part of Boston) in the summer of 1838. He was educated at the academy in Brooklyn, Conn., the Plainfield academy and Brown university, which he entered at the age of 15. Graduating in 1840, he at once began his law studies. He was admitted to the bar in 1844.

In Politics.

Mr. Gaston was city solicitor of Roxbury for five years, and in 1861 and 1862 mayor of the city; and after the annexation of Roxbury to Boston he was mayor of Boston in 1871 and 1872. In 1853 and 1854 he was elected to the legislature as a Whig and re-elected in 1856 by a fusion of Whigs and Democrats, in opposition to the Know-Nothing candidate. In 1868 he was elected as a Democrat to the senate. In 1874 he was nominated by the Democrats against Governor Talbot, and was elected by over 7000 plurality. His administration was a very conservative one.

In 1870 he was a candidate for congress, but failed of an election. In 1875 Harvard university and Brown university conferred upon him the degree of LL. D.

Mr. Gaston was married May 27, 1852, to Miss Louisa A. Beecher. They had one daughter and two sons—Sarah, William and Theodore. Theodore, born in 1861, died in 1869.

A Brilliant Lawyer.

Mr. Gaston early took rank as one of the leading lawyers at the bar. His practice was not confined to any department of the law—he was distinguished in all. Criminal practice he had little taste for. As a real estate lawyer he had but few equals, and in cases of contract and tort he was remarkably successful.

His zeal in defending the interests of his clients, and his implicit faith in the righteousness of their cause, frequently led him to conduct their cases to a successful conclusion when he had little hope of reward.

Although not what might strictly be termed a student, he had a profound knowledge of the law, which he seemed to acquire instinctively and intuitively.

It is safe to say that he never knowingly aided any one by his advice in evading the law or countenanced the use of the courts as instruments of oppression. Any suggestion of trickery or double dealing called forth his most emphatic condemnation.

The poor and the friendless always found him a kind and courteous counsellor, ready at all times to patiently listen to their complaints and advise them for their good. He discouraged lawsuits as an evil to be avoided, if possible, and so advised his clients, however large their prospective retainers might be.

Charged With Theft.

BOSTON, Jan. 20.—Harry Brett, 21 years old, living in Maine, was arrested in this city on the charge of breaking and entering into the house of Peter Woodward of Brunswick, Me., on Jan. 6, and the larceny of two watches, two chains, lockets and old coin. He will be handed over to the Maine authorities.

Sad Double Drowning.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 20.—Theresa Jones, 17, and Martha Hartford, 16, both mill girls, were drowned while skating on the Westfield river at Mittineague last night. A crowd gathered on the shore, but no one dared venture on the thin ice to save the girls, who sank before their eyes.

IN CONGRESS.

The House Will Wrestle With the Sugar Question on Monday.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—With Mr. Richardson in the chair the house went into committee of the whole to go on with the consideration of the Wilson bill, and it was at once agreed that three hours immediately after the house goes into committee of the whole next Monday will be given to debate on the sugar schedule and the vote will then be taken on any amendments which may be offered.

Mr. Dalzell then took up the line of attack against Mr. Johnson, on which he was engaged when the house took a recess Thursday evening. The amendment proposed by Mr. Johnson, putting steel rails on the free list, was lost by a vote of 79 to 100.

Mr. Henderson offered as an amendment to the agricultural schedule of the Wilson bill the corresponding schedule of the McKinley law. The debate drifted along throughout the day in a desultory way and was taken part in by many members of both sides of the house without any definite conclusions being arrived at.

At the night session set apart for general debate, Mr. Bell spoke in favor of the bill, although it did not go far enough to suit him. Mr. Shaw opposed it, especially the proposed reduction of duty on barley. Mr. Morgan, while he endorsed the provisions of the bill generally, condemned in strong terms the proposition to place lead ore on the free list. In conclusion he appealed to the house to remove from this bill any suspicion of jobbery. Mr. Childs closed the debate in opposition to the bill.

AGREEMENT REACHED

Whereby Some of the Danbury Factories Will Resume Work.

DANBURY, Conn., Jan. 20.—The broken off negotiations between the committee of trade and the manufacturers in the hat lockout has caused a big row in the Manufacturers' association. In trying to arrive at a settlement the committee from the trade granted all privileges that the manufacturers asked for seven months ago. Negotiations were broken off because the manufacturers insisted that unions guarantee non-interference with independent shops.

Half of the manufacturers in the association are satisfied to resume work on the concessions granted by the union, and last night a committee of them met the trade leaders by appointment to arrange for a settlement whereby they will open their shops fair. The committee stated that perhaps 10 factories will resume work on the basis of concessions granted by the unions. The unions will hold a ratification meeting this evening, when agreements entered into by the trade committee and the manufacturers will be ratified.

LABOR'S PROTEST

Not Likely to Interfere With Secretary Carlisle's Bond Plan.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The Baltimore dispatch announcing a threatened injunction by the Knights of Labor against Secretary Carlisle to restrain him from issuing $50,000,000 in bonds was taken to the treasury department and shown to the secretary. Mr. Carlisle merely read the dispatch, but declined to say anything whatever on the subject for publication.

Other officials of the department to whom the dispatch was shown were not surprised on learning its contents. The feeling of the Knights of Labor and of labor unions generally on the bond question was known to be unfavorable. The officials were a unit in the opinion that the secretary had nothing more than a temporary delay to fear from injunction proceedings, and this they did not think in the least degree probable. The general opinion is that the proceedings would have no standing in court.

Harvard Won.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 20.—The fifth debate between Harvard and Yale was held in Sanders theater last night. The contest waged fiercely but decorously for two hours, and the judges, after only a few minutes' consultation, gave the victory to Harvard. This makes the third victory for the crimson, and Harvard's prestige seems well established on the rostrum, while yielding the palm to Yale in the football field.

Married on the Stage.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Jan. 20.—Field and Hanson's variety company appeared at the Casino last night. After the last act a justice of the peace came upon the stage, followed by Miss May Langton and Carl Melford. Justice Wiggins made them man and wife. Miss Langton was formerly with the Howard Athenæum company and Kiralfy.

Father Doran Promoted.

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 20.—Bishop Harkins has appointed Very Rev. Thomas F. Doran vicar general of the diocese of Providence. Father Doran was born at Mayatt Point, R. I., Oct. 5, 1856, and ordained July 1, 1880. He has served as chancellor of the diocese for six years.

Lost at Sea.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Cable information was received from London that the Norwegian bark Agdar, from Philadelphia, Dec. 11, with oil, bound for Cork, had been lost at sea. It is not known whether any lives were lost. She carried 12 men.

Rough Weather Off Newfoundland.

HALIFAX, Jan. 20.—The British steamer St. Pierre, from the south coast of Newfoundland, reports weather very stormy at intervals. One schooner was totally lost and several others were stranded and more or less damanged at St. Pierre.

Miners Out of Work.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 20.—A number of the largest colleries are to shut down until the large amount of coal on hand is disposed of. Fully 10,000 men will be idle in the coal region next week.

A ROYALIST UPRISING

Would Be Quickly Squelched by Liliuokalani's Opponents.

FIRMNESS OF PRESIDENT DOLE

Shown In Answer to Willis' Alleged Proposition.

HONOLULU, Jan. 12, via San Francisco, Jan. 20.—Political affairs have been a drug in Honolulu. The government has been pursuing a waiting policy, on the ground that no definite action can be taken until some definite policy regarding Hawaii has been announced by the United States.

The government has determined to celebrate Jan. 17 as a holiday, and preparations are being made to carry out a big demonstration, which will include a military display in the afternoon and a torchlight procession and fireworks at night. Both the American league and Annexation club will take part, as will the new German political organization to be organized in favor of annexation.

Prepared to Meet Outbreaks.

The question of a republic still occupies attention, but the government delays action awaiting absolute rejection of Hawaii's hopes by the United States congress. Rumors of an expected royalist uprising have been prevalent recently. In an interview with Marshal Hitchcock, that officer said: "The government is fully prepared to meet any outbreak, either here or on other islands. The royalists have threatened so long that the royal standard would be raised on one of the other islands that we have prepared to thoroughly squelch any uprising that may be made either through irresponsible persons or through the influence of the Spreckels-Cornwell faction."

Lobbyists Are Out.

The marshal also said: "The royalists have sent several lobbyists to the United States lately, and I understand that Hon. C. W. Ashford goes by the Monowai today to appear before a committee of congress at its present session. Ashford was preceded by Hon. E. C. MacFarlane and Arthur Peterson, accompanied by Hon. Samuel Parker, for the avowed purpose of enlisting Claus Spreckels in the lobby campaign in favor of restoration."

The showing of the finance department since the taxes began to come in on Dec. 15 continues to improve. The cash balance yesterday was over $278,000, and the minister of finance announces that all expenses of the government to Dec. 1, 1893, have been paid, together with all official salaries and payrolls to Jan. 1, 1894.

Dole's Firmness.

Just previous to the sailing of the Monowai, a sensational rumor was current, which was traced to an authoritative source, that a few days after President Dole's reply was delivered to Mr. Willis, and before full details of Willis' demand and Dole's reply had become public, Willis called on Dole and endeavored to persuade him to return all of his (Willis') correspondence on the subject of restoration, and to expunge from the records Dole's reply and everything pertaining to the subject, and to maintain absolute secrecy about the whole transaction.

Dole flatly refused to enter into such a plan, and it is said that Willis then attempted to force Dole to act according to his wishes, threatening to take the American man-of-war out of the harbor, and practically break off diplomatic relation between the United States and Hawaii. Dole still refused to enter into the project, and Willis' alleged attempt to nullify his restoration policy failed.

SLAVERS DISPERSED.

Many of the Suffering Victims Released by British Troops.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—The foreign office has received a dispatch from Lieutenant Colonel Ellis, the British officer in command of the troops in Sierra Leone. The colonel furnishes details of the engagement between the frontier police and Sofas recently. He reports that Inspector Taylor of the frontier police was pursuing the Sofas, who had been ravaging a friendly country.

The column arrived at the town of Kerrayemma on Dec. 31, and found the place to be a perfect charnel house. The police found the place strongly protected by blockades and other defenses. The police, however, killed 200 Sofas and wounded 75 others. They also captured all the guns and ammunition and rescued 400 slaves, the majority of whom were women and children.

The victory completely dispersed a horde of bloody slavers whose crimes had long been the terror of that portion of Africa. Some of the women and children released by the British force were in a terrible state of weakness, due from sickness and lack of food. Numbers of them had been brutally beaten and upon their bodies were large sores made by the chains and ropes with which the unfortunate captives had been bound. The frontier police only lost two wounded. Four days before the Sofas attacked the police prison at Tonkia, but were repulsed with a loss of 50 killed and a large number wounded

The Third Trial.

Counsel Study Evidence.

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—Counsel in the Coughlin case gave up their time yesterday to a close study of the evidence. It is stated that Captain Schaack will be one of the first witnesses called.

Another Slump In Gold.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—A further loss of treasury gold of $600,000 was recorded yesterday. The gold reserve is down to $69,077,847.

Editorial Comment.

How does our contemporary like the appointments of Mayor Hodges? We ask the question because we find no reference to the same, either in the news or editorial columns. And there are some ugly rumors of dissatisfaction afloat.

The theatre contest among the firemen will begin on Monday.

The Quincy Young Men's Congress will meet next Tuesday evening.

The Willards and the Corn Cakes play polo this afternoon at Hancock hall.

The recent minstrel show of the Cycle club netted about $75.

The County commissioners advertise today for proposals for additions and alterations to the court house at Dedham.

Thomas Foley, carpenter for the O. T. Rogers Granite Co., had his leg broken Friday afternoon by a plank falling upon it.

Mr. George F. Wilson proved to his many friends this week that he still takes an interest in business, by driving a sharp bargain in a horse trade.

The bean contest at D. Bamford's for a custom sxit of clothes, was decided Thursday evening. It was won by S. Stewart, who guessed 6,010. By actual count there were 6,018.

The dance given by the Wollaston Unitarians at the Knights of Honor hall on Friday evening attracted a large party of well known people. The affair was in charge of Mrs. George W. Bennett, Mrs. Joseph N. Smith and Mrs. Edward L. Mitchell.

Mrs. George W. Prescott, the Misses Prescott, and Miss Emily C. Wilde, attended the Harvard-Yale debate at Cambridge last evening. Mr. Henry Lee Prescott was the first speaker on the Harvard side, and was also on the winning side as the judges decided in favor of Harvard.

The life of a letter carrier, like that of a policeman is not always a happy one. This morning when delivering mail at the residence of Mr. Fred Drake the dog attacked Mr. Thomas tearing a large piece of cloth from his trousers. Had it not been for his high boots he would have lost a piece of flesh also.

The Quincy teachers, assistants and trainers will be addressed Jan. 23 by George H. Martin and on Jan. 30 by Robert C. Metcalf. Both gentlemen are members of the Boston Board of Supervisors and are well-known educators. On Feb. 13 Henry T. Bailey, agent of the Board of Education, will speak. No man is ever more welcome to the teachers than Mr. Bailey.

A pleasing concert was given Friday evening by the First church Social club, the following well known artists contributing: Mrs. Blackmur, soprano; Miss Everett, contralto; Myron Whitney, Jr., baritone; Arnand Fontin, tenor; L. Dowley Williams, pianist; James F. Harlow, accompanist and the Lynn Banjo and Mandolin club.

For and Against.

A petition will probably be circulated in Wollaston requesting Mellen Bray & Co., to desist from blowing their whistle at six o'clock mornings. It is said that a counter petition will be presented asking the company to continue blowing the whistle at six o'clock, as it is a great convenience to hundreds of people in Wollaston, Quincy Atlantic, Neponset and East Milton, who work in the factory or take the early train to Boston. To discontinue the whistle would benefit a few while to continue it would be of inestimable help to a great number of people, say the opponents of the petition.

—The new union depot of the Boston & Maine railroad will cost when completed, $1,500,000, about three times the amount first estimated to be necessary to do the work. But the Company will have a magnificent building to show for their money. We have seen it stated that it will be the largest railroad station in the world, its capacity for holding trains exceeding the one in London, England, which has heretofore had the honor of being more extensive than any other ever built.

—Mrs. Hetty Green is more watched and dreaded in her ventures on the street than most of Wall street's kings. She is reputed to be worth about $40,000,000.

ODD FELLOWS' BALL.

The Tenth Annual a Large and Enjoyable Party.

123 COUPLES IN GRAND MARCH.

A Novelty in Music, an Excellent Supper and a Merry Time.

With the many attractions last evening it would not be surprising if all did not have crowded houses, but the Odd Fellows party in Guy's Coliseum was a large and happy one, of about the usual size, nearly 125 couples participating in the grand march.

The hall looked more attractive than usual. The platform, on which the orchestra was located, was nearly hid behind a bower of green plants and pines. Flags and streamers were festooned overhead and around the sides were mottoes, emblems and other decorations.

First on the programme was a grand concert from eight to nine o'clock, given by Brigham's orchestra of Marlboro. Five numbers were rendered as follows:

Overture,—Lustspiel.	Kela-bela
Selection,—Wang.	Morse
Cornet Solo,—Remembrance of S. E. Brigham.	Liberate.
Selection,—Martha.	Flotow
Finale,—Berton Sec.	Catlin

While the music was excellent it did not come quite up to the standard for concerts which Monk's orchestra has established in the past, but any deficiency in this part of the programme was fully made up when the order of dances was reached. The musicians being in practice together almost nightly at dances, have learned what pleases the lovers of the Terpsichorean art, and quickly came into popular favor. The singing introduced was a pleasing innovation.

The grand march at nine o'clock was led by Mr. James Thompson the floor director and Mrs. Tisdale. They were followed by Mayor Hodges and his wife's sister, Mrs. Howe, President Bass of the City Council and his wife, City Clerk Spear and Miss Fannie Cannon, Mr. Wilson Tisdale and Mrs. Thompson, Mr. H. P. Kittredge and lady, Representative and Miss Hammond, and Mr. and Mrs. James P. Clare. These eight couples as they came up the hall abreast followed by the mighty host made an imposing array. Participating in the grand march were many of our prominent citizens and the youth and beauty of Quincy Milton, Braintree, Boston and other places.

At 11.30, during intermission, Tufts of Boston, furnished a very satisfactory supper in the upper hall.

It was after four A. M., before the last number on the order of dances was completed, and the tenth annual of Mt. Wollaston lodge was numbered with the past.

Past Grand Frank W. Folsom was chairman of the committee of arrangement, and Past Grand Franklin Jacobs of the reception committee. Floor Director Thompson was assisted by Mr. H. P. Kittredge and Past Grand Charles L. Hammond, and a corps of efficient aids.

WHO FOR POSTMASTER!

Complications Have Arisen Since the Appointment of City Officials.

As the end of the term of the Quincy postmaster draws near the interest in who will get the appointment increases. It was generally admitted a week ago that the appointment lay between Fred F. Green and James F. Burke, although West Quincy seemed almost certain that Mr. Burke would be the lucky man, but the announcement of Mayor Hodges' appointments has changed the aspect of affairs, and if the rumors are true Mr. Burke's chances are growing less every day.

The cause is said to be the removal of City Solicitor McAnarney the change being laid to the influence exerted by Mr. Burke.

It seems that among Congressman McEttrick's firm friends is a well known Boston lawyer who is also a near friend as well as a business associate of Mr. McAnarney.

Mr. McAnarney being removed, and the cause of his removal being laid to Mr. Burke, it is rumored that within twelve hours of the announcement of the appointments a letter was on its way to Congressman McEttrick at Washington telling him to withold the papers of Mr. Burke. This first letter has been followed by others recommending the reappointment of Mr. Adams, as a number of the prominent Democrats preferred him to either of their two candidates, so as the matter now stands the Quincy postoffice plum is anybody's.

Unusual interest is taken in the location of the proposed new state normal school. North Adams has practically offered to raise $50,000 if the state will raise $100,000 more and build the school house in that town. People in the adjoining town of Adams are eager for it and have signed a petition in good numbers, asking that it be in North Adams. Now comes Lowell, greatly richer and more populous than North Adams, with a proposition to take $150,000 from the state treasury for the site and building. Other places which want it have as yet made no bids.

—The Abington tax collector had $54,000 committed to him to collect for 1893, and has collected $35,000. Hingham's collector had $60,000 and has collected $52,000.

THE MILITARY BALL.

Governor Greenhalge and Staff at Braintree Last Evening.

A brilliantly lighted and charmingly decorated hall, the Governor, and members of his staff in their new uniforms, officers of the military of the Commonwealth, beautifully and charmingly dressed ladies, civillians in swallow tails or prince Alberts and the members of Co. K., 5th regiment, all combined to form a georgeous Kaleidoscopic picture at the annual of Co. K., at Long's hall, Braintree, last evening. It was a pronounced success, everything in the way of a celebration or entertainment which Co. K, essays is a success, and we congratulate the state and the town in the posession of so capable a body of soldiers.

No combinations of colors lent themselves so effectively to the decoration of rooms or the exterior of buildings, as the tri-color of the United States and of France, and its profuse use in the shape of flags and bunting, very tastefully arranged in festoons and masses about the hall last evening, was one of the most important of the embellishing features, which helped give the room its very cheerful and attractive aspect.

Gov. Greenhalge had with him Adjt.-Gen. Dalton, Gen. Davidson, Gen. Champlin, Col. Benton, Col. B. S. Lovell, Col. Kenney and Private secretary Henry A. Thomas.

Approach to Reservation.

The principal approach to the Blue Hills, says the Herald, is by way of the Providence division of the New York, New Haven & Hartford and the New York & New England railroads to Readville, whence it is something less than two miles by road to the nearest point of the reservation, at the beginning of the way to the summit of the Great Blue. On the east side the nearest railway station is that at West Quincy, on the Granite branch of the Old Colony, whence it is about two-thirds of a mile to the entrance to the reservation on that side.

—Nathaniel Holbrook died at his home in Neponset yesterday morning aged 86 years. He was a large real estate owner and a widely known tavern keeper. Mrs. Horatio N. Glover, Jr., is his only daughter.

—The Boston and Maine railroad is to discontinue several trains after the 21st, owing to lack of patronage.

Civil Government.

"The Executive Department of our Civil Government" was the subject presented at the Young Men's Christian Association rooms Thursday evening by Mr. Charles A. Foster.

Mr. Foster began by saying that he regretted that the old time Lyceum has ceased to exist, for he believed that it was one of the best means of educating the people in good citizenship that has ever been organized. The average man of that time knew more about the form of government than the average man of today. The growth of the executive department of a government from the earliest form, when a chief ruled the tribe, down to the present forms, where we have the absolute and the constitutional monarchies and the republic, were clearly explained. The Czar makes and executes the laws without interference, while the Queen of England has no executive power except through the cabinet. She cannot even grant a pardon without the consent of the cabinet.

The early forms of governments in our own country were particularly interesting. The gradual growth of the national, state and municipal governments were clearly traced, and many of the peculiarities of each mentioned. The growing tendancy to place more power in the hands of the executive, especially in the case of the the governor and the mayor was spoken of.

Mr. Foster recommended the young men to read Brier's "American Commonwealth."

The last talk in the "Civil Government" course will be given Feb. 1st by ex-Gov. John D. Long. Next Thursday evening Dr. Sheahan will speak on "Physology of Digestion."

BRAINTREE.

Wednesday night the M. A. Perkins Hose Company, No. 2, of South Braintree, held their annual supper in the snug little engine hall, allotted to the use of the company by the town on Franklin street.

The supper proved to be one of the best ever sat down to, and that is saying a great deal in its praise, for there has been some excellent suppers served there.

The skating has been almost perfect on the Quincy reservoir this past week and with the beautiful moon makes it most enjoyable. A sharp game of polo is expected to be played between Quincy and Braintrees' this afternoon. But the pleasure of the week was marred by several unfortunate accidents. One little fellow fell and was out of his head all the way home. But Samuel Greenough received quite a severe injury, while turning around his foot struck a rock and he was thrown heavily, besides being injured about the hips received a severe concussion of the brain. At the last accounts he was resting comfortably.

The teachers of the Union school are to take Monday as a visiting day. They expect to go to Hingham.

Monday the selectmen appointed as engineers for the ensuing year, Frank O. Whitmarsh, Jeremiah F. Gallivan and Oliver B. Battles.

A few friends from Braintree and Boston took Mr. and Mrs. Watkins by surprise, Wednesday the occasion being the eleventh anniversary of their marriage. The evening was pleasantly spent in music and whist.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Simonds, of Tremont street, South Braintree, are sick, the former we regret seriously so. They are a fine couple and we hope they will come out of their trouble all right. Good people are always scarce.

Mr. Edward A. Fisher visited Sachem's Rock Lodge, Knights of Honor at East Bridgwater Monday evening and installed the Officers Elect of that Lodge. He also visited Brockton Lodge of Brockton Thursday evening and performed the same duty upon the Officers Elect of that Lodge.

On Wednesday Charles W. Hollis began the cutting and storing of ice in connection with his butchery business. The ice was taken from Morrison's pond and measured ten inches in thickness. Charles puts in about fifty tons. End of last week it was pretty good ice making weather.

The entertainment at the Town hall on Wednesday evening, given under the auspices of the Baptist society, turned out a grand success in every way. The hall was comfortably filled with a highly appreciative and (judging from the enthusiasm manifested) satisfied audience. Space would not admit of our mentioning every excellent feature, as every number of the long programme was of the best. But still we feel in duty bound to give our old friend and former resident of South Braintree, Mr. Charles Borden, a little preference, as he appeared at his very best and simply "brought the house down" on every appearance. The after-piece, "Fun in a Doctor's office," was one continuous laugh from beginning to end, and the holding of the audience to so late an hour speaks more for the talent than our limited space could warrant us in doing.

The society will add about $40 to the building fund; and for good earnest workers we can recommend the Braintree Baptists.

Monatiquot lodge, No. 83, K. of P., worked the third rank last Tuesday night under the inspection of V. G. C. Col. John J. Whipple of Brockton and suite.

A hot supper was served at the Hotel Monatiquot by Bro. Fred B. Merritt.

The meeting of the Woman's Relief Corps Monday evening was quite largely attended and was a very enthusiastic and enjoyable one. After the business session for the "Good of the Order," a reading which was enjoyed by all, was given by one of the members. The outlook for the year is encouraging. Surely the cause in which we are engaged is a noble one and should interest all. It is hoped there will be a still larger attendance at the next meeting.

CORN CAKES NOT IN IT.

Friends of Mrs. Smith and Mr. McLeod Rally and Push Ahead.

There was a shower of votes this morning. They came in small quantities from different sources, but mostly for Mrs. Smith and Mr. McLeod. First one was ahead and then the other. Mrs. Smith was leading shortly before the polls closed, but a batch of 30 came for McLeod and in the summary he leads by 2 only.

The representative of the Corn Cake club made no gain today. A promising new candidate is President O'Connor of he Lazy club. His friends are talking oud, and it would be well to look out for him.

Young Men's Christian Association.

H. L. Hastings, the veteran anti infidel lecturer and editor of "The Christian" will address the young men Sunday afternoon at 3.30, on "Mistakes of Moses." The meeting will be held in South Quincy, in the Presbyterian church.

The quarterly meeting of the Association will be held Wednesday evening, Jan. 24th at 7.45 o'clock. There will be reports of officers and committees and a short entertainment.

Ex-Governor Long has been obliged to postpone his address on Judical Department of our Civil Government until Thursday evening in February. Dr. J. M. Sheahan has consented to speak one week earlier, so that next Thursday evening the subject will be "The Physiology of Digestion."

The Bible class on next Sunday afternoon will be omitted, owing to the fact that the men's meeting will be held in South Quincy. The training class will be held Monday evening as usual. Twenty-eight members, two-thirds of whom have entered the Christian life during the past year, gathered around the tea table in the association hall last Thursday evening. After supper, Mr. Page, assistant pastor of the Dudley street Baptist church, Boston, spoke on "Personal Work." Following this, nearly all present spoke of the blessings which they had received during the past year. A number of the workers in the association are assisting in the district conference at Whitman this week.

All the boys who are going to Woburn should be present at the boys' meeting Monday evening at 7 o'clock.

The regular session of the Young Men's Congress will be held next evening. There will be one or two debates by prominent members, which promises to be exceedingly lively. A number of new members have recently joined.

Quincy Directory.

I wish to state to the business men and residents of Quincy that I have sold to W. A. Greenough & Co. of Boston, Directory publishers, all my right, title, good will and interest in the Quincy directory, and hereafter they will publish the directory of Quincy. I desire to thank the business men and residents for their generous patronage in the past and ask for the new publishers a continuance of the same.

E. B. BUTTERFIELD,
A. B. SPARROW.

To the Citizens of Quincy:

Trinity Chapel of Braintree.

To the Editors of the Daily Ledger:

Perhaps an account of the building of Trinity chapel, Mayflower Park, might be interesting to your readers at this time.

Before our chapel was built meetings had been held in the schoolhouse and at different houses of various denominations united. But the meetings were not very well encouraged. Finally the use of the schoolhouse was forbidden, on account of the school furnishings having been disturbed and services were abandoned.

One day while talking with some of the people, I remarked that services would probably be well attended if they had some place of worship and that I knew I could secure subscriptions to help them build such a place.

Afterwards several of the ladies came to me and literally begged me to try to help them, which I very gladly attempted.

I am a member of the Congregational church, but I have attended the Episcopal church a great deal and love it equally with my own. I felt that the chapel should be Episcopal and the people all agreed with me.

Then I asked for subscriptions, and in a few weeks had nearly eleven hundred dollars pledged by funds in Randolph, Holbrook, and Braintree, people of all denominations gladly united in helping the good work.

Rev. William J. Harris, D. D., then at St. Paul's church, Boston, took charge of the work. He designed and drew the plans for the chapel. He also conducted services for several months after the chapel was built.

A great many people gave labor some a day's carpentering, some a day's work on the cellar, etc.

I, myself, hired the laborers, bought the bricks, the lumber, etc., and was able to get very generous discounts, so that our chapel has been built for a very small sum in comparison to its actual value.

Rev. Dr. Harris secured nearly $200 from kind friends in Boston, for the work, and Taunton friends subscribed about $50 more. We have had no other outside help save $25, from Rev. David H. Greer of New York; $25 from a Pittsburg, Pa., lady, and $25 from Col. Babbitt of New York.

The deed was made out to the Trustees of Donations to the Episcopal church, but they receive no property which is not clear from debt and so they deeded it back again to the original owners until such a time as it can be made free from debt.

Dr. David Thayer of Boston and myself, gave the land and so the property came back to us.

Dr. Thayer has recently died, and it is especially desirable now, that we go on with our work with renewed vigor and try to clear the church from debt as soon as we can. Since September we have raised nearly one hundred dollars by holding concerts at the chapel. We have painted the edifice and the people are taking hold of church work with earnestness. Altogether everything looks very bright for us.

In November the committee suggested an entertainment to be be given in Braintree town hall, and I thought I would write a dialogue which might take half an hour, perhaps, to perform. I had written several successful dramas previously, so I made the attempt, and the drama lengthened and music kept suggesting itself until the work was completed, when it proved to be an operetta which will take about an hour and three-quarters to perform.

The work has been submitted to authorities and pronounced of more than ordinary ability.

I had written a good deal of music before which had been sung at church services, Sabbath school concerts, memorial anniversaries, etc.

The first public performance of our operetta will take place at Hancock hall, Quincy, Tuesday night, Jan. 23. All the characters are most talented artists and they perform their parts in a highly satisfactory manner. It is hoped that many of the Quincy people will kindly attend and help us along and at the same time see what sort of a musical and dramatic composition one of their own number can create, for I am proud to claim Quincy as my native place. Most respectfully submitted, MENETTA M. BABBITT.

—A bill to enable cities and towns to manufacture and distribute gas and electricity for municipal purposes is to be introduced in the legislature by a Brockton member. The act provides that any city or town in Massachusetts may construct and maintain within its limits one or more plants for the manufacture and distribution of gas and electricity for furnishing light, heat and motive power for municipal use, and may also furnish the product to adjoining cities and towns at prices to be fixed by city councils, boards of selectmen or gas commissioners of such cities and towns.

—Two of the electric cars which run between Plymouth and Kingston are to be heated by electricity as an experiment. It is claimed that a car can be heated at an expense of ten cents per day, the electric heater deriving its current from the same wire which carries the propelling force.

PATENTS
NOTICE TO INVENTORS.
THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

Truth.

"Certainly, but it will be necessary for some one whom we know to give you an introduction to us."

She drew back and regarded him haughtily.

Japan's Great Artist.

Meizan is the name of Japan's greatest decorator of Satsuma art ware. A writer on the subject says Meizan is beyond question the first artist in Japan. No one can blend colors as harmoniously or paint flowers so delicately. No one is such a master of design as applied to borders. No one save Meizan, to put the case concretely, knows how to fill a bowl 2½ inches in diameter with 2,000 cho-cho, or butterflies, making each distinct and a thing of beauty.—Philadelphia Press.

"No?"

"No, for all the world loves a lover," and his gentle wit won her over to a reconsideration of the question.—Detroit Free Press.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE.

State Highways—School Superintendence in Small Towns—The Ocean Gem.

BOSTON, Jan. 20.—The special committee on caucus reform, appointed by the legislature of 1893, has unanimously agreed upon a report. Among the recommendations is the election of all the delegates to a state convention on the same day throughout this state, in order that each city and town may act independent of outside influence. This is made obligatory in the bill which the committee has drafted, and which contains many provisions applicable to cities and towns of more than 10,000 inhabitants.

A bill was introduced in the senate relative to the construction and maintenance of state highways. The bill provides "that the Massachusetts highway commissioners are hereby authorized to designate such main traveled roads in the commonwealth as state highways as it may deem best when recommended by a majority of the towns through which such roads pass. These roads shall be under care and control of said commission, and the reconstruction shall be undertaken and carried forward with such expedition as said commission deem for the best interests of the commonwealth. All sums received by the treasurer in the year 1893 and thereafter under the provisions of chapter 425 of the acts of the year 1891 shall be set apart for the purposes of this act, subject to draft only by the said Massachusetts highway commission."

A bill was introduced in the house to amend an act relating to superintendents of public schools for small towns, so that the amendment shall read in section 4: "There shall be annually appropriated by the legislature a sum necessary to carry out the provisions of chapter 131, acts of 1888, entitled 'An act to aid small towns in providing themselves with superintendents.'"

A bill was introduced prescribing the fee for sixth-class licenses by proving that such license fee shall "not be less than $50 nor more than $500," instead of $1, as at present.

The matter of passing an order appropriating $3500 for repairs on the steamer Ocean Gem created somewhat of a breeze. It was explained that the steamer is owned by the commonwealth and is used to protect the fishing industries of the state. Mr. Allen, whose motion to table the resolve had stirred up the discussion, said that he knew the boat needed repairs, but he understood the steamer had been used as a pleasure boat. He would, however, withdraw his motion. The resolve was ordered to a third reading.

BUENOS AYRES, Jan. 20.—President Peixoto has ordered the dismissal of the commander of Fort Santa Cruz for allowing two torpedo boats to re-enter the bay and a quantity of arms and stores to reach the insurgents.

Admiral Da Gama sent re-enforcements to the insurgent garrison on Conceicao island, and subsequently repelled a vigorous attack by the government troops, who lost about 120 men killed.

Admiral Da Gama has strongly occupied a position commanding the railway leading to Petropolis and the Nictheroy gasworks.

Alarm has been caused in commercial circles by the renewal of the circular of bank notes issued under the empire, and which were supposed to have been destroyed some time ago.

NINETEEN KNOTS AN HOUR

Made by the Cruiser Montgomery on Her Official Trial Trip.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Jan. 20.—The new cruiser Montgomery made her official trial trip yesterday, acquiring the title of "Queen of her class." She made nineteen knots an hour, with the tide against her going out, and in her favor returning, subjecting these figures to a slight correction for tidal changes, but which are likely to be in her favor. The result of the trial assures the builders of earned premiums of at least $175,000, and perhaps $250,000.

THE GAIN IS SLOW.

Business Experiences a Restoration of Confidence.

UNCERTAINTY AS TO THE FUTURE

Prevents Rapid Progress In the Industrial World.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says today:

The event of the week is the offer of $50,000,000 United States 5 per cent 10-year bonds. The decision of the secretary gives much satisfaction to all who care for sound currency, because the necessities of the treasury were dangerously strengthening those who urged the issue of $50,000,000 more silver certificates against silver "seigniorage" to be coined.

The gold note, represented by certificates, has fallen below $70,000,000. The revenue continues to fall behind that of last year about $5,000,000 a month, and action in congress on various financial measures is liable at any time to excite doubts whether gold payments can be maintained. Hence replenishment of the gold reserve was necessary to a restoration of confidence and a revival of business.

While industrial improvement continues, the gain is slow, and increase in the purchasing power of the people by enlargement of the force at work is, in a measure, counterbalanced by the loss to the purchasing power of the people through reduction in wages paid.

Decrease In Clearings.

The volume of business has increased in leading branches, but not largely; clearings fall below those of last year, for the same week, 22.6 per cent, and uncertainty regarding the future as yet prevents the ventures essential to prosperous activity.

Textile works resuming are mostly carpet and knit goods concerns, with some worsted works. Though more mills are at work, and there is more speculative buying, prices, nevertheless, decline, so that sales at Boston are about 1 cent below prices asked two weeks ago.

The demand for woolen goods increases, but is very small and is largely confined to goods of low cost but known repute for quality, and trade in dress goods is decreasing.

Cotton goods are weaker.

In silk manufacture the depression is indicated by imports of raw silk for six months not a third as large as those of a year ago.

Most shoe manufacturers are doing little more than half the usual business, though some are well employed, and the shipments from Boston this year thus far have been 20 per cent less than last year to date.

There is reported more business in iron and steel products, but at lower prices.

Speculative markets have been weaker.

A Drop In Cotton.

Cotton has fallen 14 cents, as receipts continue much larger than a year ago, and the demand for consumption is narrow.

Gain in retail distribution of products is still small.

Imports at New York show for January, thus far, a decrease of more than 30 per cent, while in exports a gain of $2,300,000, or nearly 20 per cent, appears.

Failures for the week have been 407 in the United States, against 29 last year, and 46 in Canada, against 42 last year. For the first 11 days in January the reported liabilities of firms failing were $9,041,225, of which $3,069,053 were in manufacturing and $5,346,372 in trading concerns. But the number of failures about the first of the year does not necessarily indicate a bad state of business.

Protecting Lobsters.

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 20.—Fish Warden Peabody of Rockland and Warden Cushing of this city are making war against violators of the short lobster law. Lobsterers are ugly and threaten to fight if interfered with. Cushing means to arrest ringleaders among lobsterers or shoot them. Many short lobsters are being caught.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Representative O'Neil introduced a bill authorizing the secretary of the treasury to construct a lightship, with fog signals, to be placed about six miles southeast of Boston light at a cost not to exceed $7000, and also to establish range lights in Boston harbor at a cost of $1000.

A FAMILY DEBAUCH

Has Its End In the Mysterious Death of the Mother.

BOSTON, Jan. 20.—A suspicious case of death and what may probably turn out to be a case of matricide occurred at West Roxbury last night. On Thursday morning Police Officer Moulton was called into a house occupied by John Welch, to stop a disturbance between Mrs. Bridget Welch and her son John J. Welch.

It seems that all the family had been engaged in a debauch, with the exception of the father, an old man of 70 years, who was lying ill with pneumonia. The mother told the police officers that her son had struck her and blackened her eye and also bruised her nose.

Matters were apparently straightened out and no more disturbance was heard. In the evening Mrs. Welch, who is 70 years old, was seen around the house. It is stated that she retired for the night about 8 o'clock, and a short time afterwards was found to be unconscious, and she remained in that condition until her death, which occurred at 5 o'clock last night.

About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the family began to get alarmed and called in Dr. Stevens, who remained with the woman until her death. He then called in the services of Dr. Gerry, and a consultation was held, which resulted in Dr. Stevens refusing to give a certificate of death and the police were notified.

Captain Brown and Officer Moulton went to the house, and after investigation they arrested the son, and will hold him until the medical examiner has held an autopsy.

It is stated that the son has been arrested several times for drunkenness, and that he has no occupation. At the house last night a wake was in full blast, and the rooms were crowded with the friends of the deceased.

KILLED HER BABY.

Damaging Evidence Against Eliza Newcomb, a Girl of Eighteen.

WORCESTER, Mass., Jan. 20.—Eliza Newcomb, an 18-year-old girl of Brookfield, is charged with the murder of her infant child, to which she gave birth at the Knowles maternity ward of the city hospital. A short time ago, when sufficiently recovered, she was discharged, after being given some under clothing and the child clothed with garments bearing the letter K.

She returned to Brookfield without the child, and when questioned regarding it said she had left it with parties in Worcester. Tuesday the dead body of an infant was found in the woods near East Brookfield, and close by was a bundle of baby clothes marked K.

When confronted with this evidence the girl said her child was a girl and stoutly maintained that she had left it in Worcester. The clothing was brought to Worcester and identified by the hospital authorities as that given the Newcomb girl. She was arrested yesterday and brought to the county jail to await trial for infanticide.

A PRETTY PAIR.

Daring Robbery by Two Italians Results In Their Arrest.

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 20.—Two Italians entered the store of Giovani Camproni, an Italian banker on Spruce street, last night, and decoyed him to a room hired by them, merely on the pretense that a friend was inside. Once inside the house they locked the door. One placed a revolver at Camproni's head, and the other drew a dirk demanding his money and valuables. He resisted and was savagely beaten. They forced him to surrender all he had about him. They wanted more, and they marched him through the public street at the point of a revolver to his store, where, under threats of killing him, they forced him to order his cashier to turn over additional money. They then departed, only to return for more, and were captured by Detective Morse. The prisoners' names are Dante Rigoli and Augustrie Ferrari. The latter belongs in Pawtucket.

The defense claims that the character of the plaintiff could not be smirched.

PATENTS
FOR INVENTIONS.
Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.
With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to
Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.
If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

THE SUGAR QUESTION

Will Probably Lead to a Lively Fight In the House.

COAL AND IRON COME NEXT.

Bond Question Will Receive Attention In the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—This week will see the conclusion of the tariff debate in the house. According to the special order the voting will begin a week from today at noon.

During the past week no amendments of substantial importance have been voted on with any chance of adoption except that fixing the date upon which free wool would go into effect, which was carried by the radical Democrats, with the aid of some Republicans, over the protest of the Democratic members of the ways and means committee.

This week, however, will witness the fight over the big amendments to be offered from the Democratic side. The full measure of the Democratic opposition to the bill will then develop, and considerable bad blood will be manifested. The first fight will come on the sugar schedule. Three hours have been set apart for the consideration of the propositions to be offered by the sugar men. Four amendments will be offered to the paragraph placing sugar on the free list if the present plan is adhered to.

The first will be that of Mr. McRae to abolish the provision relating to the sugar bounty in the Wilson bill, which contemplates its gradual reduction of 1-4 of a cent a year for eight years until it is wiped out. To this Mr. Price will offer an amendment to substitute, in place of a bounty, a duty of 1 cent a pound on sugar. A substitute for this to retain the McKinley bounty of 2 cents will be offered by Mr. Meyer, and Mr. Boatner will offer an amendment to the substitute to place a 1 1-2 cent duty on sugars.

This will exhaust the amendments that can be pending. The votes will be taken in the reverse order. The sugar men will make a strong fight on the ground that sugar is a revenue article, and in accordwith the dictates of the Chicago platform should be made dutiable to supply the deficit which it is estimated the customs schedules of the Wilson bill will cause. They will have the support of all the Democrats who are opposed to the income tax.

While it is generally admitted that they will probably be able to muster a majority of the Democrats, the Republicans who are pledged to the free sugar feature of the McKinley law will give them no aid. The chances of the adoption of a sugar duty for the above reasons are slim.

Coal and Iron.

Tuesday has been set apart for the consideration of the amendments to the free coal and free iron ore schedules. The present duty on both these articles is 75 cents a ton. The coal men, especially in Virginia, West Virginia and Alabama, are at the back of this opposition, and have the support pretty generally of the Democratic representatives from those states. The iron interests of the south, Alabama and Tennessee, and of the Lake Superior district, including the vessel interests of the lakes, are fighting against free iron ore.

Both are willing to yield a portion of the duty, and amendments ranging from 35 to 50 cents a ton will be offered. Raw materials are made the backbone of the Wilson bill, and a herculean effort will be made to prevent defeat here. The Republicans, if they join with the coal and iron men, as they probably will, may make the vote close, but the Democrats of the ways and means committee manifest no alarm.

Later in the week the internal revenue bill, including the income tax, will probably be offered as an amendment to the bill, probably by Mr. McMillan, although this has not been decided upon fully. If it is, this fight will be the feature of the debate.

Other amendments relating to the tobacco schedule, lead ore, etc., will consume the rest of the week. Mr. Richardson, chairman of the committee of the whole, already has in his possession 77 amendments.

Senate Forecast.

The present indications are that the senate will devote this week between the federal elections bill and the policy of a bond issue, as decided upon by the secretary of the treasury.

Many Republican senators have given public assurance that they would not seek to delay the final vote upon the elections bill beyond a reasonable time for debate, and the fact that the Republican caucus took no action looking to decide upon a policy concerning this measure would seem to indicate that no such course will be pursued.

On the other hand the continued postponement of the uninterrupted discussion of the subject seems to indicate some design of brushing the subject aside by pleading for delay until the tariff bill reaches the senate and absorb its entire time. It is evident that the Democratic leaders have some apprehension of a policy of this kind and are determined that if such a purpose is entertained it shall not succeed.

Senator Lodge has given formal notice of an intention to speak on the bill on Wednesday, and Senators Hoar, Frye, Chandler, Higgins and Hawley have indicated that they would ask to be heard upon the subject before it shall be definitely disposed of. Among Democrats who will probably speak upon the bill are Senators Gray and Hill.

It will be impossible to keep the bond question entirely out of the senate, and there is a possibility that it may be made the subject of a number of speeches, if not of considerable debate. Senators Peffer and Allen both have resolutions before the senate taking Secretary Carlisle to task for his course, and Mr. Allen has given notice of a speech on Thursday based upon his resolution.

Mr. Peffer's resolution comes up today, and it may be the means of precipitating this question the first thing in the week's proceedings. There are other senators primed with speeches on the bond issue, so that it will be very surprising if there is not as much attention given to bonds as to any other subject before the senate.

TO LEAVE THE TABERNACLE.

Talmage Surprises His Flock by Announcing His Resignation.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, at the close of his sermon at the Brooklyn Tabernacle last night, announced that he intended to resign, the resignation to take effect on the 25th anniversary of his taking charge of the Tabernacle.

No intimation of this had been given by Dr. Talmage, and the announcement was a surprise to the congregation. Dr. Talmage said at the close of his sermon:

"I have an announcement to make which may be of interest to this congregation. The coming spring I shall have been pastor of this church 25 years. A quarter of a century is enough for any minister to preach in one place. At that anniversary I will resign the pulpit.

"Though the work has been arduous because of the necessity of building three great churches, two of these destroyed by fire, the field has been delightful and blest of God. My plans after resignation have not been developed, but I shall preach both by voice and through the newspaper press as long as my life and health are continued by the grace of God.

"I have no vocabulary intense enough to express my gratitude to the newspaper press for the generous manner in which they have treated me and augmented my work for this quarter of a century. After such a long pastorate it is a fearful thing to break the ties of affection, but I hope our friendship will be renewed in heaven."

At the conclusion of his remarks Dr. Talmage nearly broke down. After tremulously pronouncing the benediction he hurriedly left the church for home. When seen later at his residence he refused to discuss the cause of his resignation. Dr. Talmage has recently shown opposition to the scheme of the board of trustees to have the congregation pay 10 cents admission to his church.

DICK O'BRIEN IN JAIL.

His Bride-to-Be Gives Ample Proof of Her Love For Him.

BANGOR, Me., Jan. 22.—Mrs. Lizzie Banford of Machias arrived in Bangor Saturday afternoon, having walked all the way, 97 miles, from Machias to see her lover, Dick O'Brien, who is a prisoner in Bangor jail. Mrs. Banford is 49 years old, but looks to be 60. She is a widow, her husband having died in 1881. She became infatuated with O'Brien some months ago, and they were just about to be married when Dick got on a spree, was arrested and sent to Bangor jail for three months. This was on Dec. 20.

Mrs. Banford mourned the absence of her lover until last Thursday, when, with only 50 cents in money, she started to walk to Bangor. She arrived as above stated, after a journey full of suffering, and immediately went to the jail, where she had a joyful meeting with her fiance. She slept at the police station Saturday night and on Sunday was taken in charge by members of the Salvation Army, who provided for her immediate wants. She says that she will stay here until her lover gets out of jail in April, and that then they will be married.

Chief of Police Childs received a letter Saturday, informing him that a bomb would be exploded during the meeting. Thousands of people who read of the threat blocked the surrounding streets, keeping a safe distance from the hall, awaiting the explosion, but it didn't take place. Fifteen hundred attended the meeting.

THE SERVIAN MUDDLE

Appears to Be Growing More Complicated Than Ever.

EX-KING MILAN VISITS BELGRADE

Whereupon Premier Gruitch Tenders His Resignation.

BELGRADE, Jan. 22.—Ex-King Milan arrived here yesterday afternoon in answer to the summons from King Alexander. Premier Gruitch immediately tendered his resignation to Alexander, giving Milan's arrival as a reason for his action. It is said that a coalition, presided over by Nicolaievitch, is forming.

ALEXANDER I. MILAN. NATALIE.

VIENNA, Jan. 22.—It is believed here that the rupture between the radicals and King Alexander is the work of ex-King Milan, and that the latter intends to help his son in forming a military government. It is no longer a question of parties, but will King Alexander be able to keep the throne. With him the Obrenovitch dynasty must stand or fall, and Milan has gone to Belgrade to avert the danger.

A part of the Radicals, it says, are led by the fanatical priest, Guritch, and ex-Premier Pasitch, a partisan of Russia, has openly declared in favor of the descendants of Kara Georg, Servia's redeemer from the Turkish yoke.

The real pretender to the dynasty is Prince Asten Kara Georgevitch, a Russian officer who married the Princess Demikoff, and is a great favorite of the czar.

A dispatch to The Standard says that the Servian cabinet resigned because of the presence of ex-King Milan of Bulgaria. This they declared to be illegal, but they did not dare to commence an open conflict with the crown by Milan's arrest and expulsion.

Alexander Threatened to Abdicate.

M. Pasitch, president of the Skupitschina, is en route to Belgrade from St. Petersburg. If he is willing to form a new cabinet possibly the crisis may be deferred.

The real cause of Milan's arrival at Belgrade, the dispatch says, was the difference between King Alexander and his radical ministers. The king appealed to his father, who advised him not to break with the radicals unless he wanted to suspend the constitution and institute a military regime, which Milan strongly deprecated.

King Alexander replied that if he could not have his own way he would abdicate and leave Servia, whereupon Milan started immediately for Belgrade.

AT A RIPE OLD AGE.

Death of General Mellinet, Father of the French Army.

PARIS, Jan. 22.—General Emile Mellinet, the father of the French army, is dead. He was born at Nantes, June 11, 1798, and was the son of a general of the empire.

He took part in the Spanish war in 1822, and was present at the siege of San Sebastian. In 1840 he was promoted to the grade of chief of battalion and sent to Algiers, where he distinguished himself in 1842. He was recalled to France and promoted to the rank of general of brigade on Dec. 2, 1850. In April, 1855, he served with the army of the east at Sebastopol. His bravery at the attack of the Malakaoff on June 18, the same year, led to his being made general of division four days afterward.

Returning to France he took part in the Italian campaign. On Oct. 3, 1863, he was made general commandant of the National Guard of the Seine. He contributed greatly to the improvement of regimental music.

Editorial Comment.

A DENIAL from Mr. James F. Burke that he used any influence against the reappointment of City Solicitor McAnarney, and a denial from Mr. McAnarney that he is working directly or indirectly against the aspirations of Mr. Burke for the postmastership, would indicate that some busybody was endeavoring to break friendship between these two gentlemen. The Mayor's appointments seem to indicate that the chairman of the Democratic City Committee did not figure, or have any influence, and the qualification of Mr. McAnarney, that letters had not been sent to any other Congressman, is a denial of another rumor that it was Congressman O'Neil and not Congressman McEtrick' That the rumors had obtained a wide circulation before published in the LEDGER cannot be denied, and on the whole the publication has straightened out matters, and for this both gentlemen should be thankful. We are pleased to publish the letters in another column.

THE QUESTION has been asked, How will the taking of Blue Hills for a reservation affect the rights of the city of Quincy acquired in the waters of Blue Hill river, the watershed of which is largely in the new park? The act establishing the Metropolitan Park Commission seems to anticipate just such a situation for in Section 4 it provides "that nothing in this act shall be construed to limit existing rights of any city or town in relation to water supply purposes, or in any way obstruct their taking advantage of such rights." Luckily for Quincy it accepted the act a few weeks before the land was taken and therefore has "existing rights." The taking of the land for a reservation ensures the city a supply of pure water forever. Perhaps this item alone is worth all that the Blue Hill reservation will cost the city in assessments, as the watershed will not be built upon or polluted.

WHATEVER MAY have been lacking in the Advertiser by way of comment on the appointment of city officials, is fully made up by the Monitor, which handles the Mayor without gloves. It criticises the inaugural and the appointments fearlessly. The comparison of the politics of the appointees of three Mayors was interesting as showing the partisanship or non-partisanship displayed. It is republished below:

	Porter,	Fairbanks,	Hodges.
Com. of Pub. Works	Rep.	Rep.	Dem.
City Clerk	Rep.	Rep.	Dem.
City Treasurer	Dem.	Dem.	Dem.

The appointment of Principal Assessor might be qualified, as Mayor Fairbanks appointed one year a Democrat and last year a Republican. If a clean sweep was deemed necessary it would have strengthened Mayor Hodges in the estimation of independents had a few Republicans been appointed. With the pressure brought to bear, however, and the disappointment of some Democrats who got left, there seems to have been none too many positions to fill to please all Democratic aspirants.

THE NEW England Conference of Educational Workers should flourish now, Messrs. J. F. Suckling, H .G. Kingman and T. B. Pollard, principals of this city and prominent members of the Quincy Congress, were admitted to membership on Satudray. A little Quincy blood in educational work is always beneficial.

THE FALL RIVER judge evidently thinks it something more than technical guilt to tamper with the election laws. A politician in that city who forged names to a nomination paper has been fined $200 and sentenced to six months in the house of correction.

A LOW DEATH RATE.

Less Deaths in 1893 Than in the Year 1890.

JUST ONE-HALF WERE MINORS.

Ten Deaths from Accidental Causes and Three Suicides.

Were it not for the records of births, marriages and deaths which the law obliges the clerks of cities and towns to keep, many interesting facts would be lost, and it is well that it is so, for they form an interesting bit of history. What untold tales of joy and sorrow they do tell of! As one was heard to observe, these books might be appropriately named Joy, Happiness and Sorrow.

By consulting the records of deaths of the past year we find that the total number recorded was 376, an increase of 58 over the preceding year, but when we take into consideration the increase in population, the increase is not so large, for estimating the population to be 20,000, the death rate was less than 19 per thousand, which certainly is low. The total number of deaths was less than in 1890.

The death rate among infants shows quite an increase as does the rate at other ages. A comparison by the following table will show where the increases occurred during the past five years:

	1893.	1892.	1891.	1890.	1889.
Under one year,	117	97	94	122	101

Over 100	0	0	0	1	1
Unknown	0	0	1	0	1
	376	318	321	379	323

Of the deaths recorded, 183 were males and 193 females, and of the total number 155 had been married. Seventeen who died out of town were brought here for burial and 16 who died in Quincy claimed their residence in other places, and 68 of those who died in this city were buried in other places. Of the total number 360 were residents of Quincy.

Of the burials in Quincy, 158 were at Mt. Wollaston, 105 at St. Mary's, 27 at the Catholic, 14 at the Hall and 1 at Sailors' Snug harbor.

Of the causes of death, 38 are attributed to disease of the heart; 33 to pneumonia; 20 to consumption; 14 to cholera infantum; 11 to typhoid fever; 10 from accidental causes; 9 from brights disease; 8 from old age; 4 from diptheria; 5 from scarlet fever; 3 suicide and the balance from various diseases the names of which would not be generally understood.

May and July were the months in which the most deaths occurred each having 38, while the healthiest month was November when but 24 deaths were recorded.

A comparison with other years will be interesting:

Many Injured.

The polo match at Hancock hall, Saturday afternoon, might more appropriately be called a slugging match, if one may judge by the injuries received. Frank Stoddard received a cut on the forehead, necessitating seven stitches. Bert Curtis had two teeth knocked out, and Henry Ring his nose injured. These are only a few of the more important accidents. Dr. Jones, a medical student, who was present, rendered good service.

The Corn Cakes made 9 points to the Willards 3 in the first half, and the latter was leading in the second half. So it was decided a draw when the play was interrupted.

Ex-Mayor Porter of this city was re-elected secretary and treasurer of the Mayors' club on Saturday, and A. B. Algers of Cambridge is the president. An interesting and instructive paper on "Improved Highways" was presented by W. E. McClinsock of the State Board of Highway Commissioners.

Remembered in Qnincy.

The Minneapolis Times reports the death in that city, Jan. 16, of Elizabeth Brackett, aged 83 years, at her residence, 3200 Stevens avenue. Deceased was an old settler in Minneapolis, having come here 27 years ago. She leaves three sons and one daughter to mourn her death, viz: Mrs. C. S. Gold, H. C. Brackett, F. E. Brackett and George Brackett. The latter is a member of the Minneapolis police force.

Mrs. Brackett resided in the Totman house on Elm street, and Mrs. Rollo H. Newcomb (Miss Ella Brackett) is a granddaughter. The children mentioned above were born in Quincy, we believe.

The Mistakes of Moses.

The men's meeting Sunday afternoon at the Presbyterian church was one of the largest in the history of the Young Men's Christian association. The speaker was the world-renowned anti-infidel editor, publisher and lecturer. Rev. H. L. Hastings. He spoke on "The Mistakes of Moses," and for a solid hour held the closest attention of the men present.

He said: Moses led the world's first emancipation movement, liberating three million slaves. Moses organized this horde of bondmen into the world's first republic, the United States of Israel, with most of the varied advantages of which modern republics boast. Moses legislated for the first constitutional monarchy—a government of laws and not of men—where kings and rulers, as well as people, were amendable to law. Moses made every Israelite a landholder, with unalienable rights; introduced homestead exemption; cancelled debts after six years; gave every weary toiler a weekly rest; protected the poor; made the person of every Israelite sacred; guarded captives from outrage and abuse; protected bondmen from bodily injury and limited their terms of servitude; prohibited usury; forbade cruelty to animals; and ordained a system of legislation more humane than any the world has known. Moses organized the world's first total abstinence society, with stringent rules and an iron-clad pledge. Moses introduced the world's best sanitary system. Moses organized a new nation, and, after more than thirty stormy centuries, they are today the healthiest, purest-blooded and most law-abiding people on the earth, their death rate, even in the United States of America, being only about one-half the death rate of the people at large.

The legislators and statesmen of antiquity are forgotten; their literature and laws are lost in oblivion; but the laws of Moses have been translated into more languages, read in more lands, and have influenced more people than all the laws of ancient monarchs and legislators combined. Are these men some of the "mistakes" of Moses?

REUNION OF 39th COMPANY.

The Old Regiment in Which Co. D of Quincy Went to the Front.

The members of Co. H, 39th Massachusetts Volunteer association, held their fifth annual reunion at the Crawford house on Saturday evening. The 39th regiment was prominently connected with Quincy, Co. D being from this city under the command of Col. Charles H. Porter.

The men who sat about the festive board Saturday evening were heroes whose courage and patriotism were tried in the dark days of '61. There were others who went out to the front whose faces were missing. They had gone forth never to return; some had found a resting place in the dark soil of Virginia, others weakened by cause of wounds returned to the Old Bay State to die.

But the survivors of this little band renewed old acquaintences, they, in spirit, were back on the scene of carnage, they were bivouacing along the rebel lines and fighting again among the thickets of the wilderness for the old flag and union.

The invited guests of the evening were Col. Charles H. Porter; Past Department Commander of the G. A. R. J. D. Billings, of the Tenth Massachusetts Battery; and Gen. Charles L. Pierson, of the 39th Regiment.

The other comrades present were: C. J. Childs, Charles Kimball, John Dussault, C. Craig, W. S. Sumner, Capt. Charles N. Hunt, Lieut. E. Bradshaw, J. Frank Childs and Benjamin Prescott.

In the early part of the evening a business meeting was held and the following officers elected for the ensuing year:

President,—Capt. Charles N. Hunt.
Vice President,—J. Frank Childs.
Secretary and Treasurer,—Lieut. E. Bradshaw.

After the election of officers, the company repaired to the dining hall where a tempting menu was served.

Dinner over, the company adjourned to room 20 where the remainder of the evening was spent in stories and personal reminiscences of the great struggle. Col. Porter proved to be a regular fountain of information pertaining to the battles fought by the 39th and added much to the evening's enjoyment.

An original humorous poem, entitled "The night we celebrate," was effectively delivered by Past Department Commander Billings. The comrades departed imbued with the spirit contained in the following lines which were composed by Lieut. E. Bradshaw:

"Then let us keep our ranks filled up,
In every kind of weather;
For Auld Lang Syne was but a 'kid'
When we fought Rebs together."

A Smart Old Lady.

Mrs. John Hall, who lives with her daughter Mrs. Edward Brackett on Granite street, observed her 87th birthday on Saturday. There was a gathering of the family and a few friends, who found the lady in excellent health and spirits. She has two daughters and a son living, Mrs. Brackett, Mrs. Eunice Bent, and Mr. John Hall.

February Magazines.

The February Forum will contain an impartial review of the whole Hawaiian controversy by the eminent historian, Mr. James Schouler of Boston, who as a student of international law has gone over the whole matter especially for The Forum—to make it plain, without any partisan purpose to serve.

The "Human documents," in McClure' Magazine for February, will comprise portraits of Robert Louis Stevenson, Hamlin Garland and Philip D. Armour. The Stevenson portraits are especially interesting, showing Mr. Stevenson at ages ranging from twenty months to forty-two years.

The opening tale in the February number of Short Stories, "A Fair Substitute," is a story of the stage by Nathaniel Childs of the Tremont Theatre, Boston. Following this are to be noted a prize story from the "best story" competition, called "The Mother of 'Pills'" by Ella Higginson.

The February issue of the Delineator is called the Midwinter Number, and its contents are as instructive and entertaining as usual. The fashions displayed are handsome and becoming, and ladies who have not yet completed their winter wardrobes cannot do better than follow the styles of this month. The wants of Misses, Girls and Little Folks are also fully considered.

PATENTS
NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtenances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

DENIAL FROM MR. BURKE.

He Says He Had Nothing to Do with Any of the City Appointments.

QUINCY, Jan. 21, 1894.

To the Editors of the Daily Ledger:

In your issue of Saturday, Jan. 20, appeared a piece headed, "Who for Postmaster," and stating complications had arisen since the appointment of city officials, changing the aspect of affairs. The cause is said to be the removal of City Solicitor McAnarney, the change being laid to the influence exerted by me. I wish to state that I had absolutely nothing to do in reference to Mayor Hodges' appointments. As for me using my influence against Mr. McAnarney or any other appointment is an absolute falsehood and a scheme concocted by some one who is jealous of my seeking the position of postmaster, and trying to injure me, thinking they could secure the support of Mr. McAnarney and his friends. I have the highest regards for Mr. McAnarney, and the ability he possesses I admire, but I am sorry to know that some treacherous person, who would delight in not only breaking the bond of friendship that has existed between us, but also trying to stir up personal jealousy and prejudice against me, because I am an applicant for said position.

Yours respectfully,
JAMES F. BURKE.

NOT IN THE FIGHT.

City Solicitor McAnarney Denies Using His Influence for Postmaster.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

A news item entitled "Who for Postmaster?" published in your paper on the 20th inst., intimates that soon after Mr. Hodges announced his appointments to the administrative offices of the City Government, I either wrote or caused letters to be written and forwarded to Congressman McEttrick for the purpose of preventing Mr. Burke's appointment to the office of postmaster of this city.

To this I would state that I have neither written or caused any letters to be written and forwarded to Congressman McEttrick or any other Congressman supporting or condemning the candidacy of either of the applicants for said office.

The Boston lawyer to whom you referred has not in any way interested himself in behalf of or against either of said applicants and instead of being one of "Congressman McEttrick's firm friends" I do not believe that the two gentlemen have even a speaking acquaintanceship, or have ever met each other.

Yours truly,
JOHN W. MCANARNEY.

Authors' Matinee.

The New England Woman's Press association comes to the front with its usual enterprise and will give an authors' matinee next Thursday afternoon, at the Hollis Street Theatre, in aid of the poor of Boston.

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe will preside. Mr. William Dean Howells will come over from New York, and Mark Twain has accepted definitely. Col. T. W. Higginson will be present if possible, although his voice is troubling him. Mrs. Louise Chandler Moulton will read some of her poems, also Mrs. Julia C. R. Dorr. Others whom the committee have invited are Dr. Hale, Robert Grant, Arlo Bates and James Jeffrey Roche. Miss Lena Little will sing a group of songs by Clayton Johns and another by Ethelbert Nevins. Miss Priscilla White will sing three new songs of Mrs. Beach's, never before sung in public, and another singer will give a group of Mr. Arthur Foote's songs. In each case the composers will play the accompaniments. Mr. Foote taking the place of Mr. Nevins who is seriously ill. The Fadette Ladies' orchestra has offered to take the place of the regular theatre orchestra and will play before and after the matinee.

The following well known ladies are patronesses: Mrs. Louis Agassiz, Mrs. Martin Brimmer, Mrs. J. S. Copley-Greene, Mrs. Samuel Eliot, Mrs. James T. Fields, Mrs. Arthur Foote, Mrs. John L. Gardner, Mrs. Frederick T. Greenhalge, Mrs. C. D. Homans, Mrs. Henry L. Higginson, Mrs. William Lawrence, Mrs. Robert Treat Paine, Mrs. Nathan Matthews, Jr., Mrs. William E. Russell, Mrs. J. Montgomery Sears and Mrs. Barthold Schlesinger.

The Corn Cake man has added a few and there are other gains.

Today the first coupon in the firemen's contest appears. People are anxious to know if Mr. Bowditch is going to be a candidate. If not there are likely to be many entries.

The Late George W. Hersey.

Mr. George W. Hersey, who died in Weymouth on the 16th inst., was a gentleman well-known and greatly respected in this city. He was born in Quincy and resided here for many years. About thirty years ago he moved to Weymouth, but always kept his interest in Quincy affairs and people.

Mr. Hersey has an honorable army and navy record. He enlisted in the fall of '62 in the 39th regiment and one year later was transferred to the navy. He fought under Farragut at the capture of Mobile and was wounded in the engagement. He was taken to the Pensacola hospital and later brought to Chelsea.

Mr. Hersey, was a member of Reynolds Post, Weymouth, and belonged to the order of the Knights of Pythias. He was buried from his late residence on Thursday, and delegations from both orders attended his funeral and performed a portion of the ceremonies. Rev. Mr. Eaton of Worcester officiated.

Mr. Hersey left a widow and one daughter, Mrs. Thayer of Cambridge.

The Model Wife.

Rev. W. Sherman Thompson delivered the second in his series of sermons on "The Family" on Sunday evening. His subject was the "The Model Wife," and the discourse proved interesting, instructive and taking. The vestry was filled, and should the attendance increase, as seems every way likely, judging from the interest manifested in the initial lectures, it will soon be necessary to open the auditorium.

Mr. Thompson is a young man of much promise and his style of delivery impressive. Come and hear the remainder of the course; you may get old truths, but you will certainly get them in a new form.

Personal.

We find the following notice of our townsman in the Randolph Register:

It is with many regrets that we announce the illness of Clift R. Crane, bookkeeper for manufacturer John Peach, at his home in Quincy. Mr. Crane's health has been precarious for several years, passing a year or more in California. He came to Randolph as the book-keeper of John Peach, later for George H. Burt & Co., and later for Mr. Peach. In the several changes of the firms he has been a faithful and efficient accountant, and his many friends will learn of his illness with sincere sorrow,

A Rumor Denied.

It was reported about town this morning that Peter J. Williams had declined to accept the office of chief engineer on the ground that the Mayor had appointed the assistant engineers. Mr. Williams was seen this morning and asked about the matter. He says that the rumor is false and that there is not a particle of truth in it.

—It is said that the car wheels of the Cape trains wear out a couple of months sooner than they do elsewhere, owing to sand.

A Lost Gallo-Roman City Unearthed.

A dispatch to the London News from Paris says: "Excavations in Oisseau le Petit, department of the Sarthe, have revealed a Gallo-Roman city which appears to have been destroyed by an earthquake. The city probably contained some 30,000 inhabitants, but its name is not known in French history. The ruins include a great temple, part of which is still standing; also a theater and monuments. A number of medals have been found which include one of the time of Emperor Constantine."

Snow Statues For Charity.

London is talking about the adoption of an interesting winter fad, which has been popular for several seasons in Brussels. All the sculptors of the city were invited to spend two or three days creating snow statues and groups in one of the public parks, and then the public was invited to view the collection upon payment of a small fee for the benefit of the poor.

DUVAL CLUB'S CHECK

Must Be Converted Into Cash Before the Big Fight Comes Off.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 22.—It has finally been decided that the Duval Athletic club be compelled to turn into cash the check Referee John Kelley holds in trust for the winner of the big fight. Kelley last night waited on Jim Corbett at Mayport and had a long talk with the champion, Bradley and Delaney. Kelley showed the check he held and remarked that he had heard that Mitchell had entered a protest against a piece of paper which, by injunction, could be tied up and made unavailable.

Kelley stated that he did not care to take part in a transaction which might terminate as Mitchell feared. He had no doubts as to the sincerity of the club in the matter, but he wanted both of the principals satisfied before he left for the scene of the contest. He then flatly put to Corbett the question: "Are you satisfied to fight for the purse in its present shape." Corbett thought a moment, and then said:

"I am satisfied with anything that Mr. Mitchell is. If Mitchell wants the check converted into cash, as is his privilege, I see no reason why it should not be done. It is not an unreasonable demand, and it will tend to promote confidence in the contest. I shall back up Mitchell if he insists that the money be put up."

Mitchell does insist, and there is nothing for the club to do but comply with the demand, which the sports here agree is the proper thing to do. It is argued if the club is on the "square" there can be no objections interposed. Tonight W. A. Brady, representing Corbett, and Bat Masterson, on behalf of Mitchell, will take Referee Kelley before the club and a formal demand will be made for the cash.

"Keeping Up With the Band."

—Puck.

She Wasn't His Wife.

The man got into a street car comfortably filled and crowded into a seat next to a sharp faced woman in the corner. He squeezed her up against the end of the car, took out a newspaper, and shoving it half across her face began to read. She stood it for about five minutes.

"Excuse me," she said then, "are you a married man?"

He dropped his paper and looked at her.

"Yes," he replied curtly.

"I thought so," she went on. "Ain't your wife a little woman that won't say her soul's her own and lets you impose on her all you want to? I suppose she carries in the coal, builds the fires, gets your slippers, does the marketing, mends your clothes, tends to the children, submits like a lamb when you find fault and is generally an excellent wife, ain't she?"

"Madam"— he began.

"Don't say a word," she interrupted. "I'm not your wife, am I?"

"No, and I'm"——

"That's all right. And as I'm not I don't propose to have you sitting down on me and crowding me up in this corner till I can't breathe without wheezing like a steam engine. Why don't you get out and walk?" and the passengers snickered so that he did.—Detroit Free Press.

Found Them Invaluable.

"I suppose typewriters are very common now," said she musingly as she settled back in her favorite rocking chair after dinner.

"Oh, yes," he said, "they're quite a necessity in every line of business."

"You have one?" she asked.

"Yes, indeed," he replied as he hastily looked over the evening paper. "I'd feel lost without one."

"Lightens your work, does it?"

"Lightens it? Why, it makes it an absolute pleasure. I wouldn't be without one for the world."

"Saves time, too, I suppose?"

"It makes it pass so rapidly that you hardly notice it."

"How much does a good typewriter cost, John?"

"Oh, not much," he said absentmindedly. "You can get a rattling pretty one for $12 or $15 a week."

Before he had time to read the first sentence of the article he had started on he was suddenly jarred into consciousness of the fact that wife was referring to machines, not operators, and that somehow he had made a serious mistake.—Chicago Post.

Peg Tankards.

The pegging or marking of drinking cups was introduced by St. Dunstan to check the intemperate habits of the times by preventing one man from taking a larger draft than his companions. But the device proved the means of increasing the evil it was intended to remedy, for, refining upon St. Dunstan's plan, the most abstemious were required to drink precisely to a peg or pin, whether they could soberly take such a quantity of liquor or not. To the use of such cups may be traced the origin of many of our popular phrases. When a person is much elated, we will say, "He is in a merry pin," and "He is a peg too low," when he is not in good spirits. On the same principle we talk of "taking a man down a peg" when we would check forwardness.—Sala's Journal.

An Active Mind.

Fond Mother—My boy has a very active mind, don't you think?

Teacher—Assuredly. I wish you could hear the dear little fellow talk when he gets caught at something and tries to make me believe that he didn't do it.—Good News.

MOB AT BRIDGEPORT

Making Things Unpleasant For Traction Company Officials.

NEW MEN ROUGHLY HANDLED.

A Street Car Overturned and Set on Fire.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Jan. 22.—The outcome of the conference between Mayor Bostwick and the board of police commissioners on one side and the committee representing the strikers on the other side does not indicate that the trouble between the Traction company and their employees are any nearer settlement.

Conductor Thompson, chairman of the strikers' committee, announced that the strikers had organized as the Bridgeport Surface Railway association, and that they would not now treat with the Traction company as individuals, but as a union. The work of organizing was conducted by representatives of the Federation of Labor.

The committee refused to accept the Traction company's proposition to re-employ all but the nine ringleaders, stating that every one of the 117 strikers must be re-employed. This ultimatum will be given to the railway officials. It is not believed that the Traction company will agree to this basis of settlement.

Mob Was Ugly.

There was another exciting scene at the depot between 5 and 6 o'clock last evening. Thirty men arrived from New York to take the places of the strikers. The mob of nearly 2000 people, who were expecting them, surrounded the newcomers, who, realizing their danger, attempted to escape unnoticed though the crowd.

Some of them escaped with nothing worse than a few cuffs upon the head, but others had their clothing torn and were seriously injured through kicks. Only four of them succeeded in reaching the Traction company's depot. Nine of the others at 10 o'clock last night were furnished by the strikers with money to pay their fares back to New York. The rest are too badly scared to put in an appearance.

The car which was upset and set on fire at the corner of Main and Congress streets yesterday afternoon still lies upon its side under a police guard. It will not be possible to restore it to a fit condition for service. Traction company officials are occupying the main offices under a strong police guard, and in addition have a supply of Winchester repeating rifles.

Threats of Dynamite.

Every regular policeman who can be spared is detailed to guard the Traction company's property, as the report has spread that a quantity of fulminate and dynamite, which was stolen from the Metallic Cartridge company yesterday, is to be used to blow up the main depot of the Traction company.

About a dozen men, arrested after Mayor Bostwick read the riot act yesterday, are held at the second precinct police station. The militia are ready to respond at a moment's notice to stay by the mayor, as it is feared that bloodshed will certainly follow the proposed attempt to run the cars.

No Trace of Howard.

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 22.—James B. Howard of Cornish, the man who was last seen two weeks ago on his way to this city, in company with a suspicious character, has not been heard from and is thought to have met with foul play. Howard had in his possession about $300. A dispatch from Oxford states that he was seen there 10 days ago in company with a hard-looking character.

A Newburyport Sensation.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Jan. 22.—The police are anxious to ascertain the whereabouts of Henry W. Scott, who disappeared from here Saturday, taking with him over $100 belonging to Mrs. S. S. Seaton. He had been a trusted member of her family for years. It is known that he left town in company with a young lady who has been employed in a restaurant here.

The Gold Cure and Prayer.

BOSTON, Jan. 22.—In the course of a sermon on temperance last evening, Rev. Charles A. Dickenson of the Berkeley Temple Congregational church strongly argued for the Keeley cure for drunkenness. He created a mild sensation when he said that while prayer alone might save a drunkard, it was sure to when augmented by the gold cure.

A Big Raid.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The Essex Market police court held a bigger crowd of prisoners yesterday than it had ever seen before. Over 400 men and women taken in Saturday night in raids on dives in the lower part of the city were arraigned. The men and women found in the places were discharged and their proprietors held for trial.

Victimized Hoosiers.

VALPARAISO, Ind., Jan. 22.—Thomas Payne, who said he was from Boston, arrived in Chestertown last week and secured options on some big pieces of land. He paid for the options in large bills, receiving considerable money in change, and his bills are now thought to be counterfeit. He has disappeared.

Heroes Not Forgotten.

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 22.—The Annapolis heroes who lost their lives in Apia in March, 1889, were honored by the unveiling of a beautiful memorial window at the Naval academy. This is the tribute of the United States Naval association. Dr. Clark, chaplain of the Naval academy, delivered a special sermon.

Rabbi Friedman Called to Boston.

BOSTON, Jan. 22.—Rabbi William S. Friedman of Denver is to officiate in the Temple Adath Israel, Columbus avenue. At a meeting of the congregation held in the vestry of the temple yesterday noon he was unanimously chosen.

An Old Man's Suicide.

LOWELL, Mass., Jan. 22.—Isaac St. Armaud, aged 68, living on Hall street, suicided yesterday. He was despondent from ill health and on Saturday made preparations to hang himself.

Inventor and Soldier.

BUCKSPORT, Me., Jan. 22.—Dr. Willard Clark Collins, inventor of Collins' voltaic plaster and a veteran with a brilliant war record, is dead.

REPUTATION DAMAGED.

Lieutenant Fillette's Record at Portsmouth Is Not of the Best.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Jan. 22.—On Tuesday a court of inquiry will be held here to see what ground there is for the charges of intoxication and desertion preferred against Lieutenant Fillette, U. S. M. C. About a month ago he was summoned to Washington to testify on the Davenport case, and on giving his evidence left for his station here. Upon his arrival in New York, it is claimed, that he got beastly drunk and remained there for three days.

When he finally put in an appearance he found his wife insane as a result of his mysterious absence. For months he has been in the company of girls whose ages average about 15 years On Friday afternoon he sent a note to a prominent citizen's daughter, which instead went into the hands of her parents. The father was so enraged that he went gunning for the author and met him on Daniel street. A lively encounter followed, and the police had to remove the lieutenant to headquarters to protect him.

He has endeavored to entice other children to accompany him on his midnight rackets, and his life has been endangered in consequence. He was arrested Saturday in a barroom while engaged in a drunken row. He had a revolver in his hand. The fact that Lieutenant Fillette traveled in leading society when he came here about a year ago makes the affair scandalous in the extreme.

A Failure.

DENVER, Jan. 22.—The parade which was held yesterday under a call to labor organizations to protest against adjournment of the legislature without enacting laws for the relief of distress by affording employment numbered fewer than 2000 men. Very little enthusiasm was manifested. One marcher proposed three cheers for Governor Waite, but there was no response.

Fought Over a Woman.

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 22.—In a row over a servant girl at 45 Mathewson street last night, Sylvanus Cleveland and Payson Butcher attacked each other with knives. Cleveland received a stab in the groin. It is thought that he will not recover. Butcher was slashed, but not seriously. He was arrested. He has served several terms at state institutions.

Returned When Fire Was Out.

BOSTON, Jan. 22.—Fire was discovered in a closet in the rear of the third story of Music hall yesterday afternoon while the Tremont Temple services were being conducted. The congregation left in an orderly manner and returned after the fire had been extinguished. The loss is estimated at $1000.

Expectations Realized.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Jan. 22.—At noon yesterday the naval board finished its work and announced the corrected time made by the cruiser Montgomery in her speed trial. The speed award is 19.056, a fraction over 19 knots, and brings her builders a bonus of $200,000.

Electricity at Yale.

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 22 —A valuable electrical plant is being set up in the Sheffield scientific school of Yale for the use of students taking the electrical course. It is thought that the next freshman class will show by its increase that the move is a good one.

Cashier Surprised Them.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 22.—An attempt was made to rob the Park bank at Parkville, but the robbers were disturbed by the unexpected appearance of the cashier, who had come to light the night lamp. He went for assistance and when he returned the robbers had fled.

She Threatened Suicide.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Florence Gmabling, 35 years, a typewriter operator, has been committed to Bellevue hospital for examination as to her sanity, at the instance of her uncle, Martin J. Cook, a retired merchant of Boston. She threatened to kill herself.

—It is said that the growth of ivy on the walls of houses renders the walls entirely free from damp, the ivy extracting every particle of moisture from wood, brick or stone for its own sustenance, by means of its tiny roots, which work their way into the hardest stone. The overlapping leaves of the ivy conduct water falling upon them from point to point until it reaches the ground, without allowing the walls to receive any moisture from the rain.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

BOUNTY IS ABOLISHED

McRae Succeeds In Having Sugar Put on the Free List.

ANOTHER MESSAGE ON HAWAII

Causes Boutelle to Incur the Speaker's Displeasure.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The third and last week of the tariff debate in the house opened with a slim attendance of members and visitors. The house went into the committee of the whole to consider the tariff bill. Mr. Richardson (Dem., Tenn.) took the chair, and then, pursuant to the special order adopted last Friday, the sugar schedule was taken up. One hour of the three was allowed to Louisiana alone.

Mr. McRae move an amendment abolishing the sugar bounty and to put it on the free list.

Mr. Meiklejohn proposed a bounty of 1 3-4 to 2 cents, in fact a substitution of the present law.

Mr. Dockery said the sorghum, beet and maple sugar industries were petty larcenies, having received a bounty of $600,000, while the cane sugar industry was grand larceny, as it took $8,584,000 out of the treasury.

Mr. Bryan, in reply to the claim made by the minority that the Fifty-first congress having provided for the continuance of the bounty for 15 years, the Fifty-third congress had no right to abrogate that provision, said that it was not allowable for one congress to bind another in its actions.

Boutelle Raises a Row.

At this time the president's message on Hawaii came in, was read and referred to the committee on foreign affairs.

Mr. Boutelle arose to a question of personal privilege. The correspondence showed, he said, that the government of the United States and its ministers abroad were still engaged in an attempt to incite insurrection in a country with which we were at peace, and the duty of congress in the matter was so obvious that he could not conceive that the speaker would any longer persist in interposing his will against an expression by the house in the matter. He would, therefore, call up his privileged resolution which was reported to the house some time ago.

The speaker tried to call Mr. Boutelle to order, and there were cries from the Democratic side for the regular order, and Mr. Hatch called the speaker's attention to the fact that the gentleman from Maine was violating the rules of the house in not taking his seat when called to order.

Mr. Boutelle—I rise to a point of order.

The Speaker—The gentleman cannot rise to a question of privilege and violate the rules.

Mr. Boutelle—Am I not allowed to speak?

The Speaker—The sergeant-at-arms will request the gentleman to take his seat.

The sergeant-at-arms appeared, bearing the mace, and Mr. Boutelle took his seat.

Down to Business.

The speaker then put the question upon Mr. Wilson's motion, that the house resolve itself into committee of the whole, and as the Republicans refrained from voting, and only 170 Democrats voted in the affirmative, Mr. Boutelle made the point of no quorum, and asked for tellers, and they were appointed.

A quorum of Democrats appeared, and the speaker announced the vote as being 180 in the affirmative and none in the negative. The house, thereupon, resolved itself into committee of the whole, and Mr. Richardson resumed the chair.

Mr. Boatner favored a revenue duty on sugar, which would provide incidental protection.

Mr. Wilson then spoke briefly against any change in the tariff bill as prepared by the committee on ways and means.

Then came the amendments and substitutes for voting. All of the latter and all of the former, with the exception of Mr. McRae's, were defeated.

The vote was then taken on the McRae amendment, and it was agreed to on a vote by tellers by yeas, 135, nays, 69.

Mr. Robertson offered an amendment providing for a tariff tax on sugar. To this amendment, Mr. Warner offered an amendment putting refined sugar on the free list.

Mr. Breckinridge offered a substitute providing for a duty of 1 cent a pound on molasses, syrups, and all raw products of cane juice, beet juice, tank bottoms, sugar sweepings, etc.

Mr. Warner's amendment was first voted on, and was agreed to by a vote of 137 in the affirmative to 52 in the negative.

The Breckinridge amendment was then lost by a vote of 67 to 144.

The committee rose, but immediately resumed its sittings, in the hope that the Robertson amendment might be passed; but the committee could not agree, and at 5:40 it rose and the house took a recess.

At the night session of the house the following members spoke: Brookshire, McCreary, Goldzier, Broderick, Hilbern and Avery.

Senate Did But Little.

There was nothing of public importance in the session of the senate beyond the presentation of several remonstrances against the Wilson tariff bill. Many industries were represented in these remonstrances, but particularly the clothing and woolen goods industry.

AN IRONCLAD BILL.

Proposing a Tax of Two Per Cent on All Incomes Above $4000.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The internal revenue bill, as submitted to the full committee by the ways and means committee, calls for a tax of 2 per cent upon all incomes of citizens of the United States, either at home or abroad, from any kind of property rents, interest divisions or salaries, on all amounts over and above $4000. The bill goes into effect Jan. 1, 1895.

In addition to the $4000 exemption, all national, state and county taxes paid within the year shall be deducted from the profits of the person who has actually paid them; also losses sustained during the year from fires, shipwreck and other causes not covered by insurance and compensated for, and worthless debts, but excluding estimated depreciation of values and losses on sales of real estate. No deduction shall be made for improvements which may increase the value of the property or estate. Only one deduction of $4000 shall be made from the aggregate income of the members of any family.

As a penalty for refusing to make a statement of income, the deputy collector may make up such according to the best information attainable and add 50 per cent to the amount. In cases where a fraudulent list has been rendered, a penalty of 100 per cent shall be added.

Section 11 of the bill relates to corporations. It requires them to make return before the 10th day of the month following the declaration of dividends under oath by the principal officer.

Section 20 fixes the tax, on and after the second calendar month after the passage of the act, on all distilled spirits produced in the United States, on which the tax is not paid before that day, at $1 per proof gallon.

AT THEIR OWN PERIL.

Sailors of the Cephalonia Rescue Many Shipwrecked Brothers.

BOSTON, Jan. 23.—The Cunard steamer Cephalonia, which made her dock at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, brought with her 16 shipwrecked sailors, taken from their own foundering craft one week ago Saturday by a brave boat crew of the Cunarder men, who made the rescue at the risk of their own lives.

Captain Seccombe reports that he left Liverpool Jan. 11, and encountered strong northwest gales and squalls during the entire passage. "On Jan. 13, at 6 o'clock a. m.," he says, "when in lat. 51 deg. 31 minutes north, lon. 13 deg. 3 minutes west, we sighted a vessel showing signals of distress. Immediately we bore down upon her, and at 6:25 a. m. launched away the lifeboat in charge of Chief Officer John Wilkins. His crew consisted of Thomas Ellis, Robert Firth, John Doherty, Augustus Svalich, John Gunnison and Fred Taylor.

"The men pulled for the abandoned vessel through a terrible sea and found her to be the bark Doggry of Frederikstadt, Captain Queenland, from Bahia, Argentine, Brazil, Oct. 18, for Falmouth, England. It was a most heroic undertaking to transfer the crew, 16 in number, from the Doggry to the Cephalonia, the sea running so high, and when the steamer's boat returned overladen, the Cunarder's crew was obliged to hoist the shipwrecked seamen on board with a bowline.

"It was impossible to secure the lifeboat, which was valued at about $600; it was allowed to go adrift—but this monetary loss was nothing when the seamen realized that they had saved so many lives."

FAYERWEATHER'S MILLIONS

Will Once Again Be Fought Over In Behalf of Colleges.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—The trial of the suit brought by Amherst, Dartmouth, Hamilton and Williams colleges and the University of Rochester against J. L. Buckley, Thomas B. Rich and Henry B. Vaughn, trustees under the will of the late millionaire leather merchant, Daniel B. Fayerweather, to recover the residue of Fayerweather's estate, amounting to $3,000,000, began yesterday afternoon before Judge Truax in the supreme court.

This suit is a test case, and if won by the plaintiff 15 other colleges, beneficiaries under the will, may bring similar suits. Fayerweather divided $2,100,000 among these colleges in specific bequests, and directed the trustees to also divide the residue of the estate among the colleges equally. The residue has not been paid over, and it is claimed that the trustees otherwise disregarded the wishes of the testator.

DUVAL CLUB'S MOVE.

Injunction Proceedings to Restrain Sheriff From Interfering.

FINAL ARRANGEMENTS ARE MADE

To Have the Battle Pulled Off In a Circus Tent.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 23.—The Duval Athletic club has made a new move. Entirely new legal counsel were brought into the situation, and yesterday morning there was a conference with a recess for lunch. In the afternoon there were more legal conferences, with a recess for supper.

A determination, however, had been meantime reached. The law firm of A. W. Cockerell & Son had been called into the case as allies of the club, and late in the afternoon a bill was filed by the club's counsel in the fourth circuit court of the state of Florida praying for an injunction restraining the sheriff or any of his representatives or agents from interfering in any way with the proposed exhibition, and from preventing any person from entering the grounds, etc.

The bill sets forth the declarations made by the sheriff of a purpose to take possession of the property of the club, arena, etc. It further sets forth that the continued reiteration by the sheriff of this intention has already seriously interfered with the sale of tickets and the prospective success of a business enterprise engaged in by the club. Notice was served upon Sheriff Broward of the action, and a hearing will be had before Judge Call.

"Jacksonville's Duty."

Mayor Fletcher declared last night that the city had passed an ordinance permitting such contests as that proposed between Mitchell and Corbett and had accepted from their representatives the money for a license.

Under these circumstances he believed it to be the duty of the city of Jacksonville to protect the club and the fighters as far as it can, though he did not feel justified in swearing in special policemen for the purpose. The chief of police would be at the ringside if the fight came off and see that the gloves weighed not less than five ounces, when the men could proceed. If the county or state authorities stepped in to stop the fight it was no affair of the city's.

"The city council," said Mayor Fletcher, "cannot by passing an ordinance render void the common law, which I understand Governor Mitchell declares will be violated. Whether or not the law is being violated is a matter for the courts."

Off For the Battle Ground.

Two box cars, a caboose and an engine pulled out of the siding in the yards of the Florida Central and Peninsular Railroad company at 7 o'clock last night. There was nothing very strange about the incident, and it excited no particular comment at the time. The two cars had been standing on a siding for days up against a bumper, and when the caboose, coupled to a passenger engine, was backed down and made fast to the cars, the only significant circumstance in the proceeding lay in the fact that a locomotive of the freight order was not used to furnish the motive power for the load.

Inside the two cars were packed a circus tent and portable seats of a circus. In the caboose, the blinds and sliding shades of which were tightly drawn, there were 35 picked men, armed each with a brace of Colts' 44. Every man of them had been sworn in as a deputy sheriff, the oath having been administered by the sheriff of an adjacent county, friendly to the promoters of the contest wherein Corbett and Mitchell fight.

Where the tent was bound for, no one outside the inner circle of the Duval club knows, and those who do, for obvious reasons, will not divulge it.

This move was inconsistent with the tip sent out yesterday afternoon. It was admitted that the club would make a strong effort to bring off the fight in the arena out at the race track, and, failing there, would be prepared to load fighters and spectators on special trains for a point at which the men could fight without molestation, in a place already provided for, which would be in readiness for the mill the day before the date set for the contest.

Tent or Building?

It was said that the last legal straw would be exhausted to force the sheriff to terms. If the armed forces which are to invade the city, and which, under the adjutant general, are subject to the call of the sheriff, can be dislodged by the issuance of the injunction, the fight will take place in the cockle shell built for that purpose. If the injunction does not issue, then the men will be take to the tented arena.

The rumor about the injury to Mitchell's leg amounts to very little. It is said that a small tendon was slightly strained in his right foot during his exercises, but that it practically amounts to nothing. It gives him very little trouble, and it is not thought that it will have the slightest effect on his condition on going into the ring. In fact, many sporting men are inclined to think the thing was exaggerated for betting purposes.

Manager Bowden created consternation in the Duval clubroom last night in the presence of a lot of newspaper men by making the announcement that the prize-fighters were going out on a train to fight, and that no newspaper was to have more than one representative free of charge, and then only the most reputable papers of the country. He stated that the club was fully $50,000 in the hole, and he did not propose to have newspaper men aboard displacing patrons who would put up their $25 for tickets.

John L. to Challenge.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 23.—John L. Sullivan appeared in the Opera House here last night. After the performance the ex-champion said he would leave for Jacksonville to witness the fight on Thursday between Corbett and Mitchell. He says he will challenge the winner.

Editorial Comment.

WE HAVE previously noted the novel signal adopted by the police department of Dedham, but the idea seems such a practical one that a fuller description will be of interest:

The Dedham Electric Light Company is engaged in putting in an electric police signal between Dedham Centre and East Dedham. Set high upon a post in Memorial square, Dedham Centre, at the extreme point of a wooden arm, is a small glass globe, bright red in color, and set upon a post in Boyden square, East Dedham, is a similar device. When the night police of either section desire the aid of the police of the other section, all that is needed is to turn a button, which turns the light on in the globe and attracts the attention of the policemen in another part of the town and lets them know they are wanted. The idea of originating this signal code is credited to Chief of Police Drugan.

In towns and small cities where night patrolmen are necessarily few, some such method would seem very desirable. Quincy covers a wide territory and seven patrolmen who do not see each other during the night, are expected to protect our lives and property. If a murder, or robbery, or other crime was committed in either ward, ten to one the other wards would not know it for some hours. One patrolman would be powerless to capture a gang of burglars or run down a murderer, but if he could summon help, or give notice of the direction the offenders had taken, it would improve the service and it could be done at small cost. What does Chief-elect Hayden say to the idea?

NEWS FROM the Legislature informs our taxpayers that the Committee on County Estimates has reported a bill authorizing the expenditure of another $125,000 on the court house at Dedham. This is quite an item in Norfolk county expenditures, and some of our citizens would have liked a hearing as to the feasibility of making the outlay at this time and keeping the county tax high. A large sum has been spent within two or three years in enlarging the court house, and the cost was paid so quickly that the county tax jumped up considerably. A reduction was looked for this year, but it now seems improbable. If a hearing was given, it should have been advertised in one of the Quincy papers, as we are the only city, publish the only daily newspaper and pay a large proportion of the tax.

MUCH INDIGNATION is rightly felt over the course of a certain small storekeeper in selling cigarettes to primary school children and supplying them with matches to be used as "lights." Not only is there a severe legal penalty, but it is a matter of wonder that any person should consider it necessary, in order to make a living, to supply mere infants who are too small to understand the evil of the transaction, with such things. The attention of the authorities has been called to the facts, and no doubt swift and sure action will be taken.

IT IS by comparison that we can best see that the death rate of Quincy is small. As stated yesterday it was less than 19 per 1000 in 1893. The death rate of Boston last week was 24.4, and it has been even higher than this recently In Brockton last year there were 493 deaths against 376 in this city.

THE NEW WOODWARD

Miss Carrie E. Small of Plymouth Elected Principal.

INSTITUTE TO OPEN SHORTLY

The Principal Eminently Fitted by Qualifications and Experience.

The Board of Management of the Woodward Institute, composed of the clergymen of the city, met Monday to decide upon a principal for the school. The special committee consisting of Rev. H. A. Philbrook, Rev. A. F. Rocke and Rev. J. H. Yeoman, who were appointed to select a principal, presented two names, Mr. Charles H. Clarke, principal of the Sanborn seminary at Kingston, N. H., and Miss Carrie E. Small, principal of the Plymouth high school.

The committee were unanimous in the choice of Miss Small at a salary of $2300.

Miss Small was born at Nashua, N. H., and was educated in the public schools of that place, being a medal scholar and prize graduate of the Nashua High school. She then went to Canada where she studied the French language, and has since travelled extensively in this country and abroad.

Returning from Canada she entered Wellesley college and completed the course there. Upon graduating she was appointed assistant principal of the Nashua, N. H., High school. Afterward she accepted a similar position at the Plymouth High school.

About eight years ago she was appointed principal of the Plymouth high school, which position she now holds, being the first woman to be elected in Massachusetts as principal of a high school.

In her governing methods she is quiet but effective, having a moral influence over her students. Nothing more commendatory of her teachings can be said than of the many she has fitted for Harvard, Wellesley and the Institute of Technology, all have been admitted without conditions.

Several members of the Board of Management have visited her school at Plymouth from time to time and all praise her very highly.

A special committee was appointed to arrange a course of studies to be pursued at the seminary which it is expected will be opened before April 1. Other teachers will be selected soon.

A CLOSE VOTE.

Atlantic Citizens Express Their Preference on Site for Playground.

The Park Commissioners gave the citizens of Atlantic another hearing Monday evening, on the location of a public playground, at Music hall.

Hon. Charles Francis Adams, president of the board, presided.

There was a large audience present and the several sites proposed came in for considerable discussion.

Of the several sites proposed the plot near the depot, called "the Pit," and the site at the end of Bayfield road, received the most support.

Councilman Moxon, ex-Councilman Harry W. Reed, W. F. Cummings, C. F. Merrick, W. P. Cherrington, H. W. Cunningham, George H. DeHuff and others, spoke in favor of the depot lot, and John A. Duggan, ex-Councilman Rinn, Michael Lyons, J. F. McKenna, ex-Councilman Badger and others favored the Bayfield road.

A vote of those present was taken with the following result: Depot site, 64; Bayfield road, 54; Squantum street site, 4.

Proposed Soldiers' Monument.

J. P. Rinn, the architect, of Malden, has submitted a design for the proposed soldiers' monument in that city. The Malden Mail states that it is very handsome and dignified, and gives this description of it: "It is fifty feet high, to be built of square blocks of granite, with rough rock face. On each face there will be a tablet. The blocks will be tapered so that the monument will curve gradually as it nears the top until it curves nearly to a point, on which will be placed a cannon ball, and on that an eagle with outspread wings. On the ground at each corner of the monument will be placed the four cannon belonging to Post 40, muzzle down." This, with the other plans submitted to the committee, were considered at a meeting last evening, and it is hoped that a public exhibition of all the designs will be made in Malden before a final decision is made.

Granite Railway Company.

The stockholders of the Granite Railway Company, with works at Concord, N. H., and Quincy, held their annual meeting at the Boston office, on Devonshire street, on Monday, and elected these officers:

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE.

A Bill Intended to Prohibit the Tontining of Insurance Dividends.

BOSTON, Jan. 23.—A bill was submitted at the hearing before the insurance committee today, the purpose of which is to prohibit the issuance of life insurance policies having for their object the confiscation of dividends in the event of the insured lapsing or dying before the end of the distribution period, which is generally 20 years. The bill further provides that the first dividend period shall terminate at the expiration of two years from the date of issue, and that every year thereafter shall constitute a dividend period until the policy is terminated by death or maturity, and that if the insured should surrender his or her policy at the expiration of two years from date of issue, a paid-up policy participating in the surplus dividends shall be issued.

In a word, it is the prohibition of the tontining of dividends, a practice not only not permitted, but actually forbidden, to domestic companies by existing laws, although foreign companies doing business in this state are allowed to do it. It is not customary to place special restrictions on foreign companies, as it would tend to destroy the mutuality existing between the states.

A bill is to be introduced to supply a serious omission in the law relative to the intimidation of voters, the purpose of the intended legislation being to prevent the punishment of voters for their action or non-action at an election past by discharge or reduction of wages.

The committee on county estimates reported a bill authorizing the county commissioners of Norfolk county to borrow $125,000 to complete the court house at Dedham.

The bill appropriating $3500 for repairs on the steamer Ocean Gem was passed to be engrossed, after it had been amended by striking out of the bill the words "to make her in good seaworthy condition."

Seven Portland Boys on a Bobsled Meet With a Serious Mishap.

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 23.—A serious coasting accident occurred at 10 o'clock last evening in which nine people were severely hurt. A young man named Johnson was driving along Washington street with two girls in a sleigh, when a bob-sled, on which were seven boys, coming down Cumberland street hill, struck the forward part of the sleigh, overturning it and throwing Johnson and the girls across the street. The girls were stunned, but, as far as known, escaped serious injury. One of the horse's legs was broken and the boys on the sled were distributed about the street in all directions. El Baker's hip was badly hurt, Frank Griffin, Clarence Fowler, Clarence Willard, Jacob Dodge and William Page were all cut about the head, had teeth knocked out, and were generally smashed up. Alfred Littlejohn had his left cheek laid open, an eye gouged out and his head cut badly. Considering the speed of the sled when it struck the sleigh it is a miracle that all were not killed.

The coffin was surrounded by flowers and wreaths of ivy sent by the city of Boston, the state, the old Roxbury city government and others. The burial was at Forest Hills.

MILTON'S NEW CHURCH.

A Description of the Baptist Church Dedicated Today at East Milton.

The new church edifice of the East Milton Baptist society is completed and was dedicated this afternoon. It is situated on Edge Hill road about 300 feet from the East Milton station of the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R.

It is of a Gothic style of architecture with tower 75 feet high, built outside of the main building, under which is the vestibule opening into the main auditorium and vestry, which will seat 240. The auditorium is connected with the vestry by six large folding doors, making a room 70 feet long and 35 feet wide with a seating capacity of 400.

On the left of the vestry there is a wing which contains the infant class or committee rooms which is connected with the vestry by sliding doors. The platform and baptistry are in an alcove in the rear of the building.

The foundation, steps and buttresses are of Quincy granite and the building is of wood. The interior is finished in white wood and plaster, the plaster being tinted in old rose color, on the walls with a frieze of maroon color. George E. Thomas of Wollaston was the builder and the original plans were by L. B. Valk of Brooklyn, N. Y. Owing to the bids largely over-running the estimate the plans were reconstructed by Frederic Schluns, of Hagenew, Germany, who resides at present in East Milton.

The new edifice cost $8,000 and it will take $2,000 more to finish it.

The completion of this edifice marks a new era in this village, as it was just fifty years ago that the Congregational church was erected.

The East Milton Baptist church had its begining in a mission established in September, 1886. Meetings were commenced in Washington hall under the direction of Rev. Nathan Hunt, the pastor of the church at Milton Lower Mills. A Sunday School of 33 members was organized in the spring of 1887 under the superintendency of Mr. Murdock McDonald. In the summer of 1888 an effort was made toward the erection of a house of worship. This effort resulted in the purchase of a building formerly used for a private school standing on the estate of Malcolm Forbes on Milton Hill which was moved to East Milton and placed on land purchased for the purpose on Bryant avenue. This was done at a cost of $800. Meanwhile there had been numerous conversions, those converted being baptised into the fellowship of the Lower Mills church.

In February, 1890, Mr. Hunt became pastor of this church, also of the Calvary Baptist church at South Quincy. The East Milton church was organized that year with 22 members, 17 of whom had been dismissed from the Lower Mills church. The present membership is 60. The Sunday School is under the superintendency of Mr. D. J. Brown, who came to this church from the Warren avenue church of Boston in 1891, and numbers about 115.

In 1892 a new lot of land was purchased of Edward Cunningham, being a part of the old Blue Bell property. Building operation were commenced during the summer and the new house of worship with the exception of the audience room is now completed.

The dedication of the church commenced today at three o'clock when the first service was held in the vestry, at which there were addresses. Among the speakers were Rev. Dr. W. H. Eaton, of the Massachusetts Baptist convention, and Rev. C. H. Spaulding, of the Baptist Publication society.

This evening the dedicatory services proper, will be held. Rev. A. S. Gumbart of the Dudley street church will preach the sermon and Rev. N. S. Greet of Somerville will give an address.

Wednesday evening there will be a preaching service in the church by Rev. Dr. Johnson, of Middleboro.

Thursday evening there will be a preaching service especially, and only, for young men by Rev. George B. Vosburg, D. D., of Stoughton street church. There will also be singing by a male quartette of Weymouth.

Friday evening there will be preaching services conducted by Prof English, of the Newton Theological Institute.

NOT ALL QUALIFY.

Seven of the Mayor's Appointees Don't Come to Time.

THE CITY CLERK ELECT IS ONE

The Time Limit Fixed by the City Charter Has Expired.

Nearly all of the appointees for city offices announced by Mayor Hodges to the City Council, Jan. 15, have qualified by taking the oath of office as required. Those who have not qualified are Harrison A. Keith, as City Clerk; E. C. Bumpus, Harrison A. Keith, George W. Morton and James Thompson, of the Board of Trustees of the Thomas Crane Public Library; Frederick B. Rice of the Board of Managers of the Adams Academy; and Frederick F. Green of the Board of Managers of Public Burial Places.

The City Charter requires that appointees shall qualify within five days, Section 41 reading as follows:

Every person elected or appointed to the office of auditor of accounts or comptroller, or to any administrative office named in the preceding title of this act, shall, within five days after notice of such election or appointment, except as herein otherwise provided, take and subscribe, before the mayor or city clerk, or a justice of the peace, an oath or affirmation faithfully to perform the duties of his office, which oath or affirmation, or a certified copy thereof, shall be filed in the office of the city clerk.

The above section has never been rigidly enforced and was probably unknown to most appointees, but this year City Clerk Spear on Wednesday last notified the appointees of the law, and the time has expired. It having been brought directly to their attention the law should be enforced. It is not difficult, however, to overcome, as the Mayor can immediately reappoint if he wishes.

A ROUSING VOTE.

Surprising Large Figures for Winners in Contest No. 3.

The theatre contest among the presiding officers came to a close last evening at five o'clock. The vote in the afternoon was surprisingly large, particularly for Messrs. McLeod and Field. The former's friends had made an early start in the contest to win, while the Corn Cake boys lost several valuable days.

Mr. A. M. I. McLeod of Bay View Lodge, L. O. L., is the winner, with a grand total of over 2000 votes. He owes some of his success to the fact that some thought they were voting for Mr. Archibald McLeod, a popular clerk. Mr. McLeod will please signify at his earliest convenience his choice of the Park, Boston or Columbia theatre for next Monday evening.

Again, we desire to compliment earnest workers and will give a second prize to Mr. George F. Field of the Corn Cake club, who will please select a partner to accompany him to the theatre next Monday evening.

Mrs. Smith, Mr. Holmes and others had many friends, as the final summary below will show:

McLAUGHLIN—In Quincy, Jan. 23, Mrs. Sarah A., wife of Mr. John J. McLaughlin, aged 51 years and 5 months.

THE SICILIAN REVOLT.

Due to the Indignation of the Poor Over Injustice In Collecting Tax.

The Sicilian trouble began at Mazzara, a town of 14,000 inhabitants. The system of local taxation, which is the grievance of the masses throughout Italy, exists in Sicily. The rich escape through corruption, and the poor carry the whole burden. The people met in mass meeting and voted to abolish the municipal taxes. The authorities, after pretending to yield, sent for troops. The mob was enraged and burned all the public buildings. The troops attacked them, but were overmatched, surrounded and unable to return to their barracks. They tried to bivouac in the square. The mob renewed the attack, and this battle lasted all night, and many were killed on both sides. In the morning the people went home, and more troops came and prevented a renewal of the hostility.

Then the people of Salemi followed the example of Mazzara. The officials had warning and garrisoned the public buildings. When the mob attacked them, it was at first repulsed. The rebels turned their attention to other buildings and houses. The rich half of the town was destroyed, and much loss of life occurred before the troops gained control.

At Castelvetrano a mob of 7,000 attacked the jail, freed the prisoners and then held a meeting and voted to lynch the tax collector and dismiss the municipal officers. Both resolutions were duly executed. The president of the Workmen's league was installed as mayor, or sydic.

The inhabitants of Pietraperzia made demands upon the local authorities, which were refused, and the troops were called out. After a bloody battle, in which many fell, the troops retreated. The mob burned all the public buildings and houses of the wealthy. Only the poor quarters of the town remain. These scenes were repeated at Valguarnera, Marines, Canicatti, Trapani, Santa Nifa and other places.—New York Sun's London Letter.

A REMARKABLE ESCAPE.

A Party of Duck Hunters Found a Dog on a Sunken Steamer.

A big Newfoundland dog, in the last stages of starvation, was found one day last week in the hold of the wrecked tank steamer Gluckauff, which went ashore east of the Lone Hill life saving station on the south side of Long Island in a blinding snowstorm about a year ago. A party of duck hunters from Sayville clambered inside the wreck out of curiosity and saw the dog crouching on one of the boilers. The boiler was surrounded by water, and the dog was so weak that he was unable to get off.

How the animal got there is not known, but he must have been washed overboard from some passing vessel, and while making for the shore must have been carried into a big hole that exists in the side of the wreck. There he found lodgment on the boiler. By means of ladders the duck hunters succeeded in rescuing the animal, and he was taken to a cabin on the beach and fed. He is now in the possession of Vinal Terry.

Mahogany Streets In Paris.

The laying down of mahogany roadways sounds almost like a dream of oriental magnificence, but it is what the Paris municipal council are engaged in at the present moment. A portion of that almost interminable thoroughfare, the Rue Lafayette—that portion nearest to the Eastern of France railway terminus—has been pulled up, and workmen are laying down blocks of real Brazilian mahogany of a peculiarly fine texture and color. It is confessedly an experiment, as the mahogany is dearer than the woods ordinarily used for the same purpose. Mahogany, however, is not as dear as it used to be. The actual cost of the new roadway will be 50 francs a square meter, which is considerably less than £2 a square yard. It is hoped that the extra outlay incurred will be more than compensated for by greater durability.—London News.

"Down With the Lords!"

A New York newspaper man writing from London says: Havelock Wilson, M. P., leader of the Seamen's Firemen's union, tells me that he has been testing public sentiment on the question of the house of lords at meetings which he addressed recently through the country. Contrary to the feeling in London, he declares that no topic appeals so strongly to workingmen in the country as the obstruction of the aristocracy. Every time he advocated the dissolution of the house of lords the suggestion was received with wild enthusiasm. "Down with the lords!" would be the best election cry of the next campaign, in his opinion.

Germany's Crown Prince.

Poor little crown prince of Germany! The drastic system of royal German education has almost killed him, according to all accounts. He has been seized with fits of trembling and nervousness, and much anxiety is being felt about him. It is at once gratifying and pathetic to learn that he is to have "as much as possible" the life of a child for a whole year! This brief statement tells by contrast a volume of what sort of life the little soldier-student has had.—New York Times.

Satisfying Him.

"I have called," said the captious critic, "to find out what reason you can give for representing the new year as a nude small boy."

"That is done," responded the art editor, "because the year does not get its close till the 31st of December."

Then the captious critic went out and broke his nice new pledge.—Indianapolis Journal.

Broke Into Jail.

The keeper of the Portland (Mich.) jail left the jail the other evening to visit an acquaintance. And as it contained no prisoners he neglected to lock it during his absence. When he returned, he found that three men had entered, built a fire in the stove and were occupying three of the cells.—Portland Dispatch.

The Governors of 33 States.

Out of 44 governors of the U. S., 33 are using H-O. This seems to be an overwhelming vote in favor of the greatest of all breakfast foods.

Unquestionably, H-O is the best cereal on the market. No expense is spared to make it the best in the world.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

A Movement for Its Reform and the Abolition of Spoils System.

The Anti-Spoils League believes that the moment is ripe for the consolidation of public sentiment in favor of good government by the formation of a new and larger National League for the complete abolition of the spoils system. Its declaration is for a worthy object as will be seen:

By the reform of the civil service it is meant that every competent citizen of the United States shall have an equal chance to enter the service, and that it shall no longer be kept for the support of the party politicians; that in order to enter the service a man must show that he is competent; that when he has entered the service he shall be kept there as long as he faithfully and efficiently performs the duties of his office, and not be compelled to give up his position because it is wanted for a party hack or a henchman of a boss; that a citizen shall be able to go freely to the primary meeting and to the polls, and not have his political action controlled by a body of office-holders; that office-holders shall not be assessed by party politicians for political purposes; that if salaries are so large as to admit of such assessment, they should be reduced.

A poor man has a personal interest in the abolition of the spoils system, because he is not incompetent in consequence of being poor, and he has a right to a chance for appointment if he wishes it; because if not competent himself, his son or daughter, educated in the public school, may readily become so; because the spoils system wastes the public money, and the poor man pays his full share of taxes, in house rent and food and clothing, and everything he uses; because it is the interest of every citizen that the business of the government shall be honestly managed because the politician who is trying to feather his own nest is always the worst enemy of the citizen, while pretending to be his friend, and the abolition of the spoils system means the destruction of the boss, whose power rests on the distribution of offices as spoils; because no other reform is safe or can ever be successfully prosecuted until the abolition of the spoils system has been secured.

Particulars may be obtained at the office, 54 William street, New York.

A Judicious Selection.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

The high terms of praise in which so many of our intelligent and self-respecting citizens of all parties speak of Mayor Hodges, because of his admirable and judicious selection of appointees to fill the various official positions under his administration, must be most pleasing to him. Mayor Hodges is recognized throughout the state as a very able man, and one also who has the courage of his convictions. Few mayors in Massachusetts are so well known or so popular as the present chief magistrate of the City of Quincy.

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

THE MECCA OF LEISURE.

A Place For Wealthy People Who Desire Comfortable Indolence.

Washington is rapidly becoming a favorite place of residence for people who have made fortunes elsewhere, and who are devoting the remainder of their lives to having a good time in a quiet way. There is a large colony of such families, and they contribute enormously to the general stock of elegant and comfortable indolence for which the city is noted. Then there are the retired army and navy officers. Their name is legion, and Washington is their favorite place to live. You see them in great numbers in the clubs, on the thoroughfares, in society. Nor must the widows be overlooked. There are more widows in Washington than in any other city in this country, size for size. The widows of public men, of army and navy officers, of private citizens in all ranks of life, gravitate to the Capital City as the pleasantest place they know of to pass the autumn of life.

The diplomatic corps comprises several hundred more or less idle and fashionable men and women. Literary and scientific men, especially those enjoying incomes and independence from inherited or other sources, are numerous in Washington. Always the city contains thousands of visitors attracted by the peculiar interest which attaches to the seat of government.

Is it any wonder that we have here an ease loving and an ease enjoying population? Are you surprised that Washington laziness has become proverbial throughout the country? Do you marvel that our streets and avenues are rialtoes in which comfortableness, fashion, superficiality, even insincerity, are constantly displayed?

The street life of Washington is always interesting. The good dressing gives an air of elegance to the thoroughfares, which, with their famous shade trees and pavements smooth and clean as a floor, are themselves elegant. The number of noted men and beautiful women to be seen in any given walk or drive adds to the charm of the scene. The bicycles, numbered literally by thousands, add the spice of rapidity and whirl to a picture that might otherwise lack somewhat of action.—Washington Letter.

Prepared to Meet Bandits.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—General A. D. McCook has been notified by the Mexican government of an apprehended raid across the border into New Mexico. General McCook says that if any attempt will be made the bandits will be captured or worse will happen.

No Signs of Settlement of the Bridgeport Trouble.

STRIKERS ARE COOLING DOWN.

Unsuccessful Effort to Have Militia Called Out.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Jan. 23.—It is comparatively quiet in the city and there is but little excitement. The Traction company has not attempted to move any cars and the strikers have caused but little trouble. Police still guard the company's property and the new men brought here from New York are not to be found.

Last evening one of the "scabs" was found near the Washington street stables and attacked by the crowd. He was rescued by the police and received but a few bruises. Mayor Bostwick attempted to address the strikers from the city hall steps yesterday afternoon, but was hooted by the crowd. The Salvation Army is here from Ansonia trying to quiet the strikers. Several men who are said to be Pinkerton detectives arrived from New York, and they are now being closely watched by the strikers and their friends.

Governor Wouldn't Interfere.

Police Commissioners Seeley and Atwater went to New Haven last evening and called on Governor Morris to induce him to call out the militia, but they returned without receiving any satisfaction, and the governor refuses to state what he will do just now.

Most of the labor unions in the city voted not to patronize the road unless the management conceded the demands of the strikers. The iron moulders voted to give the proceeds of their ball Thursday night to the strikers.

An independent bus line is being run to accommodate the public and is well patronized. The managers of the company still assert that they will not give in to the men, and will be able to run the cars. It is understood that an attempt will at once be made to start the cars.

Insurgents Routed by Federals.

CITY OF MEXICO, Jan. 23.—Colonel Susano Ortis of the Federal army telegraphed from Chihuahua yesterday as follows: "I overtook at 4 o'clock a. m. a band and defeated it after some fighting. All their horses, saddles and ammunition are in my possession. They lost 26 killed, and among them Lujan, the leader. The Federal troops and the armed citizens accompanying us are pursuing the flying enemy.

Gave Too Big a Handicap.

WORCESTER, Mass., Jan. 23.—George H. Hosmer, the Boston pedestrian and oarsman, was defeated in a 10-mile walking match with William F. Ryan last night. The race was for $300 and the gate receipts.

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 23.—The entire fire department was called out at midnight for a fire in F. E. Hovey's lumber yard, the largest in the city. The fire consumed the main buildings and the larger part of the yard. The loss is $35,000. Fuller's iron works were damaged to the extent of $5000.

THE OTHER SIDE.

The Hawaiian Patriotic League Makes a Plea For Monarchy.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The president transmitted an additional installment of Hawaiian papers received from Mr. Willis. The retirement of Vice President Hatch and the election of W. C. Wilder to succeed him is announced. The executive council has been increased from four to five persons, a minister of foreign affairs being added. The president has heretofore discharged the duties of that office. A petition and memorial addressed to President Cleveland from the "Hawaiian Patriotic league," claiming to represent 8000 legal voters, is enclosed by Minister Willis.

The memorial says that the request of the American government to the provisional government "to relinquish its power to our legitimate sovereign" has created feelings of admiration and respect among the Hawaiian people who have suffered in deprivation of their liberties and sometimes in their livelihood more than even the queen.

It is emphatically denied that the provisional government represents the Hawaiian nation. A trial at the ballot boxes would show that the native Hawaiians and the half whites are virtually a unit against the provisional government. It is declared that the government was established by a conspiracy with Minister Stevens, and continues to exist by the use of alien bayonets, on which the public funds have been outrageously squandered.

All the natives and foreign royalists have been disarmed, while arms have been distributed wholesale to all aliens professing sympathy with the provisional government, and especially to the ignorant and vicious Portuguese. Attention is called to the organizations of clubs and leagues of foreigners who have socialistic tendencies, and have threatened murder and violence against all those not in sympathy with the present state of things.

It is asserted that the population would be under a hopeless reign of terror but for the foreign men-of-war, and that the provisional government has never been a legally constituted administration.

PORTER WAS INSANE

According to the Testimony Given by Two Experts on the Subject.

STAMFORD, Conn., Jan. 23.—The insanity proceedings against Millionaire Timothy H. Porter were resumed yesterday afternoon. Porter's son Blatchley related several incidents of his father's recent eccentricities, and told about his father shutting himself up in a room in the house and preparing a document appointing three men to distribute the sons' shares of the estate. Louis, the eldest son, was cut off entirely from receiving any part of the estate.

Blatchley then told about Miss Clark's visit to the house at the time that the engagement with his father was broken off with Miss Clark. At that time Porter was in a mad fit. Miss Clark was so angry that she left the house without speaking to Porter. Letters written to a woman in Boston, whose name was withheld, were produced in court.

Blatchley said that Miss Earle was two days as governess when he saw his father embracing her. Dr. Hamilton, the insane expert, of New York, testified that he had examined Porter and he had no doubt that Porter was insane. Dr. Giber, also an insanity expert, said that Porter was undoubtedly insane.

The Fahey Murder.

BOSTON, Jan. 23.—That Ellen F. Fahey met her death from blows inflicted upon her head and after a severe strugle with her slayer is substantially what Medical Examiner Draper says in his report of the autopsy. He found on the head of the woman 19 recent contused wounds, representing blows with a weapon or instrument having rectangular corners, but not sharp. There were 11 further bruises upon the limbs. No new developments in the murder case are reported.

India's Financial Crisis.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—The Globe says that the Indian financial prospects are in a state of chaos and without any tendency to a satisfactory solution. The St. James' Gazette severely criticises the past Indian policy and says that after demoralizing trade since June the Indian government's unfortunate experiment has completely broken down.

Jabez Balfour Located.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—A dispatch from Buenos Ayres says that Jabez S. Balfour, formerly a member of parliament, who is wanted by the police in England in connection with the Liberator Building society failure, has arrived in Salta, and that, by authority of the British consul, he will be taken to England on Saturday.

Cockran Hasn't Accepted.

BROOKLYN, Jan. 23.—When Mr. Roderick moved for a separate trial in the case of John Y. McKane, Judge Bartlett said that each of the defendants had that right. The defense has tried to secure the services of W. Bourke Cockran as counsel, but as yet the congressman has not accepted.

Senator Allen's Advice.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Senator Allen (Pop., Neb.) says his duties as a senator will not permit his acting as chief counsel for the Knights of Labor in their efforts to enjoin the issuance of bonds. He suggests that an injunction be asked for against their payment when issued.

For the Supreme Bench.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The president has nominated Wheeler H. Peckham of New York to be associate justice of the supreme court of the United States. Mr. Peckham was born in Albany Jan. 1, 1833. For many years he has practiced law in New York city.

IMPECUNIOUS LOVERS

THEY BUY ENGAGEMENT AND WEDDING RINGS ON CREDIT.

Contract to Pay on the Installment Plan, and the Fair Sweethearts Never Know About It—An Interesting Talk With a Confidential Clerk.

An engagement ring contracted for on the installment plan is now as common a business transaction as the fitting up of a boarding house on the same easy payment plan. There are several New York jewelry firms which do a prosperous business among prospective bridegrooms on the credit system.

One of these is located on a prominent down town stret. Engagement rings and wedding rings are here sold on credit, the weekly payment being 50 cents. At this store the other day a bashful young man asked the chief clerk to show him some rings suitable to present to a young lady.

"Engagement ring, eh?" said the clerk in a confidential undertone. "Here you are, sir, the very latest. Forty-five dollars—exquisite stone—payment in 10 months. This shell ring is our own design. Any girl would have fits over it. See that dainty spiral thread of gold about the setting? That emphasizes the gem and makes it appear worth more than it is. You can t better yourself, sir. Pay cash and you'll get a discount of $5."

The young man seemed much impressed. He gave the measurement of the little finger of his fair charmer and left his name and references.

In his pocket as he went out he carried a stupendous contract printed in red ink, which stipulated that "in case of nonpayment according to the terms of contract, etc., the ring must be forfeited."

"That's a fair sample," said the clerk in answer to a question. "That fellow represents a certain element of middle class society. Most of the hard-working young men buy rings for their sweethearts that way. The girls would never get any engagement ring at all if the money had to be paid outright."

Another shy young man was ushered in, and the clerk motioned him to a private room adjoining the main office. There they were closeted for several minutes, and then the clerk emerged to seal a contract with the new customer. The necessity of the private audience room, it seems, is because financial embarrassment, coupled with native modesty, prevents lovers in the first stage from divulging the terms upon which they wish to pay for a ring. They prefer to state their case unheard by any one except the head clerk, who, in the course of his business, has cultivated a profound sympathy for the entire race of sweethearts.

"Oh, they tell some pathetic stories," said the clerk. "They let me into all their secrets gratuitously. One very devoted young lover told me the other day that he earned $4 a week, but couldn't get married until he had been raised to $5. When advanced to this position of opulence, he thought he could afford to buy a diamond ring on installments of 50 cents a week.

"But it is in the case of lapses that I hear the most pathetic tales. As a rule our customers are straightforward and honest. As long as a young man has work we have no difficulty in getting his money. When he loses his position, he usually lets us know, and then if the fellow is honest we ease up on him just a little."

"But what if the girl and the ring disappear simultaneously?" he was asked.

"Oh, the young man always pays up, and if the girl has thrown him over you can bet he never tells any one about it.

"There are lots of well to do young men who spend $30 or $40 in a night for pleasure and who do business with us because they prefer to regard jewelry as a luxury and pay for it on time.

"Here, for instance, is a ring made to order for a broker down town," and the clerk held up a diamond ring valued at $250, which had been made to fit the finger of some metropolitan belle who may never know the "terms of the contract."

"I don't know of a single instance where a girl has had to forfeit her ring. In case she had a dishonest man or a sneak for a lover the case would be rather embarrassing. But as a rule the blushing bride elect knows nothing about the installments, for our customers come promptly to the office and pay up every Saturday.

"There are some cases where we have to unbend a trifle, as, for instance, where there has been a death in the family. When a sad faced young fellow steps into my private office and tells me confidentially that he has lost his father and must help pay the funeral expenses, or that he has spent all his available capital in celebrating Thanksgiving or Fourth of July the day before, then he can usually count upon the sympathy of the firm.

"Of course we run great risks, but we never sell to anybody without looking up their references."

The investigation blank, which, when filled, establishes the purchaser's integrity of character, should contain the date of contract, name of applicant, house address, business occupation, business address, references, time employed in present position, description of engagement or wedding ring and a host of other details.

The form of contract is suitably verbose, and the red tape involved is sufficient to make a young lover feel the responsibility and importance of having creditors.—New York World.

Considerate.

"Why don't you take me with you sometimes of evenings, dear? I get so tired of staying at home alone."

"Because I can't afford to dress you as well as myself. I don't want to be seen around with a woman dressed as you are."—Indianapolis Journal.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

MORE ABOUT THE BIG CHECK.

Both Pugilists Fully Prepared For Battle.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 24.—The troops came to town last evening. There were in all 135 young fellows, who felt the dignity of the errand and the responsibility of their positions. They had spectators enough to make the occasion all important to them.

The pomp and pageantry of military display had been discounted somewhat by their long-threatened coming. At 5:30 a train pulled into the depot of the Florida Central and Peninsular railroad. Four cars of the train were devoted to the use of the troops.

The men of each company had brought along private impedimenta to make themselves comfortable while soldiering, and this baggage was loaded upon a light truck, one being provided for each company. A detail of eight men was assigned to each truck of baggage, and the wagons, thus guarded, proceeded up though Bay street. There had been no outpouring of the population to welcome the soldier boys. There was no widespread excitement in the town, but among the many who were on the streets there was a great deal of curious interest in the spectacle.

There were sporadic cheers and there were many jibes and much laughter over the comments of both white and black spectators upon the personnel of some particular soldier of exceedingly long, short, lean or full stature.

Passing beyond the thickest business locality the spectators were confined to people upon the sidewalks, and the troops were soon housed and partaking of supper.

Hissed by a Crowd.

Something of a sensational nature occurred when the soldiers were passing in front of the Globe saloon. All the way yells and hisses, occasional taunting remarks being sandwiched in. Crowds thronged the streets, the galleries and the windows, and a great commotion was created.

In front of the Globe saloon there was an unusually large crowd, which gave vent to its displeasure by such a volley of hisses that it must have made the ears of the soldiers tingle. The hisses increased until the noise became a growl, when the soldiers suddenly, under an order from their captains, lowered their guns to a position to load, and went through the motion. This significant action was at once noticed by the crowd and only renewed the ridicule.

At the armory they marched in and were lined up in battalion while the general orders were read them. The men are divided up into companies A, B, C and D. The men were very angry, claiming that the hisses and other insults which they were subjected to on the march from the railroad station had left them with no good feeling toward the people of Jacksonville. One private said that had they not received strict orders not to fire unless commanded, some one in the crowd would have been hurt when the hissing began.

"If we face a mob," said one lieutenant, "and get orders to fire, we will do so, and not in the air either. After the treatment we received I know my men are very ill-humored, and I believe that they will shoot to kill should occasion require it."

Similar expressions were made by others of the battalion, and the fact is evident that there is much bad feeling among the boys in blue from the outside districts over the reception accorded them by a large portion of the people on Jacksonville's streets.

That Check Again.

The much-endorsed and much-talked of $20,000 check, which represents the purse for which Corbett and Mitchell are to fight for, has not yet gone down the back entry of time. It is yet an element in the equation and will remain so to the end. When Referee Kelley called on the club to convert this check into cash the club decided to do so. In some way or other it seems that something stuck to the check, and it is still dangling there.

There is at least one clear, cool head in the management of the Duval Athletic club, whose possessor has held throughout, that a certified check is cash; that the club and not the pugilists should do the club's business, and that until the club chooses to convert the check into money the check ought to stand.

This attitude is not the result of an obstinate determination to pursue only one way, and it is not altogether the result of the club's pride in its own word and pledge.

It was generally understood that the check matter had been ended, and that Referee Kelley would receive $20,000 in cold cash yesterday. Mr. Kelley, however, has not yet handled any money realized from this check.

He had a session yesterday at the club rooms and heard some views of the situation which he had probably never before thought of. It is pointed out that should the currency of the United States to the amount of the purse be openly placed as the prize for an illegal contest, and the contest should be declared illegal, those who are involved in such use of United States currency may become answerable under the federal laws. In this connection it is pointed out that a scrap of paper, though certified and thus good for its face value, is clear of all collateral complications such as might attend the use of slips of paper which Uncle Sam had placed his stamp upon.

Mr. Kelley says that he has every confidence in the Duval club, and although malicious stories had been circulated to the effect that it was not playing square, he thinks that they came from men who were trying to make capital from nothing. He believes, he said, that everything will be satisfactorily arranged.

Mitchell Is All Ready.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Jan. 24.—Charley Mitchell is now entirely ready for the fight. His last work, a run of six miles, followed by a rubdown, was completed at 10 o'clock yesterday, and from now on he will quietly rest until he enters the ring, doing no more work than is necessary to keep him in condition. He is still very confident of the outcome, and only laughs at the odds quoted against him.

Mitchell said: "I don't care where the fight comes off, so long as it does come off. Of course, I prefer a comfortable arena to a fight in the bushes, but I want the fight to come off."

Word was received by Mitchell from Billy Thompson, his representative in Jacksonville, that if the permanent injunction is not granted this afternoon the Duval Athletic club will formally drop the fight and allow the pugilists to work out their own salvation. The Mitchell party believe the fight may ultimately be pulled off, despite the probable flunk of the club, but are not very specific concerning methods.

Corbett Has Left Mayport.

WAYCROSS, Ga., Jan. 24.—Corbett is not at Mayport and is supposed to have gone to the rendezvous prepared by the club to be ready in case the battle must come off in the woods. He is all ready for battle Can't Fight In Georgia.

Perry of Providence have been confirmed as permanent receivers of the New York and New England railroad in an opinion handed down in the United States circuit court. "The receivers are directed [illegible] on the condition of the property, and of debts and liabilities owing by the defendant. Financial officers of the order. Paine is rich broken down by his arrest, which caused a tremendous sensation in the city, and will be a surprise to Odd Fellows everywhere. GERMANY REJOICING

At the Reconciliation Between the Kaiser and Prince Bismarck.

THE EXCITEMENT IS INTENSE.

Ex-Chancellor to Pay a Visit to the Emperor.

BERLIN, Jan. 24.—Colonel von Moltke called at Friedrichsruhe and presented Prince Bismarck with a bottle of old wine, sent to the ex-chancellor by the emperor. The wine was accompanied by an autograph letter, in which the emperor congratulated Prince Bismarck upon his recovery from his recent attack of influenza.

The greatest importance is attached in this city and throughout Germany to the reconciliation between Prince Bismarck and Emperor William, as announced by the present of a bottle of wine and by the prince's determination to wait upon the emperor in Berlin after his birthday. Especial attention is paid to the effect which the reconciliation will have upon the internal policy of Germany, as it is now declared that Prince Bismarck is also in full accord with Chancellor von Caprivi and with Baron Marschall von Bieberstein, the imperial secretary of state for foreign affairs.

The reconciliation, as announced, has served to increase the popularity of the emperor, of his chancellor and of the government.

The effect of the reconciliation between the emperor and the ex-chancellor was most marked. There was a general rise in stocks and bonds and a much stronger and more healthy feeling on all sides.

Everybody Is Happy.

The newspapers hail the announcement of the reconciliation as the happiest event which has happened for a long while. One of the results of the reconciliation is that preparations to celebrate the emperor's birthday on Saturday next have been multiplied, and that this event will now probably be made the signal for a general outburst of patriotic enthusiasm throughout Germany.

The excitement is not confined to political circles; in the army, among the bourgeoisie, among the clergy, among the aristocracy and among the peasants, here, there and everywhere, all ranks and all ages rejoice to hear that there is no longer any angry feeling between the ruler of the German empire and the great servant of the country, who has done so much for Germany's strength and unity.

Count von Moltke arrived at Friedrichsruhe Monday morning and drove with him. The best of feeling was displayed on both sides.

Prince Bismarck is said to have been much affected by the kind messages conveyed to him by the emperor's aide-de-camp. The emperor's aide-de-camp returned to Berlin bearing an autograph letter from Prince Bismarck to the emperor, in which the iron chancellor thanked his imperial majesty for his extreme kindness and thoughtfulness, and assured the emperor that he (Prince Bismarck) would be most pleased to wait upon his majesty after the latter's birthday celebration.

Agrarians Are Downcast.

The agrarians, who relied upon Prince Bismarck's support against the Russian-German treaty, are downcast and apparently convinced that there is no longer much strength in their opposition to this measure. In the reichstag, the statement of Herr Kardorff, Imperialist, who said that the existing distress could only be relieved by the protection of national labor, which, he added, Prince Bismarck initiated, was greeted with loud cheering, and loud and prolonged applause was occasioned by Herr Kardorff's announcement that he felt the greatest satisfaction at Prince Bismarck's impending journey to Berlin.

Emperor William delights in surprises, and according to the story he allowed no intimation of his intention to seek a reconciliation with Prince Bismarck to leak out until after the reconciliation was a fait accompli.

Mrs. Martin's Fight.

LONDON, Jan. 24.—The libel case of Mrs. Martin, formerly Victoria C. Woodhull, against the British museum for allowing books touching upon the Beecher-Tilton scandal in the reading room came before the court of queen's bench yesterday. The museum's appeal was discussed. The museum representatives pleaded privilege and absence of malice. This is only a step in a litigation which promises to be long and interesting.

Editorial Comment.

THE MAYOR of Everett don't have everything his own way, for the aldermen take a hand and have rejected the nominations for city physician, assistant engineers of the fire department, city auditor, assessor, street commissioner, city solicitor and board of health.

OUR ENTERPRISING Universalist ladies are always on the lookout for a novelty in the supper and entertainment line, but it was for our Scotch friends to get something really new to most people, a "haggis supper," and they do say it was among the best, but all our people may not be as fond of Scotch pudding, of hearts, livers, lights etc., with suet, onions, oatmeal, etc., as our Scottish citizens.

WE ARE informed that the two persons whose names were submitted to the board of Instruction of the Woodward Institute were not applicants for position of principal of the school. They were sought by the committee, who made several visits to their schools. The question of sex, determined the decision of the board. The salary question was easily settled, as it was conceded that if a woman was qualified to do a man's work and she did it as well as a man could perform it then she should have a man's salary.

Puffer, the Milton Lower Mills druggist, who will fit it up as a first-class [illegible] with [illegible] other store. The other two stores are to be let for business purposes. The second floor there will be a fine room especially fitted up for the East Milton reading room and Branch Public Library. This room has been secured by the trustees of the Milton Public Library. There will also be a fine hall, with spacious and finely appointed dressing rooms, besides two or three other rooms for office and business purposes. Work on building will be rushed and finished as soon as possible.

With its new engine house, new schoolhouse, new church and a large modern block and other improvements East Milton seems to be "in it," and Quincy will be the more anxious to annex the village.

YOUNG MEN'S CONGRESS.

New Bills, Several Reports and a Debate on Hawaiian Policy.

The regular session of the Young Men's Congress was held Tuesday evening, Speaker Foster in the chair.

New Bills.

Congressman Pinkham of Mississippi, introduced a bill amending the city charter of Quincy relatives to the election of Councilmen. The amendment provides for the election of nine Councilmen-at-large and three from each ward, voters not to vote for but six at large and two from the ward. This was placed in the orders of the day, after those already there.

Congressman Branch of Rhode Island offered a resolution to the effect that it was unwise for the United States to consider any project to annex the Hawaiian islands. This was placed first in the orders of the day.

Congressman Holden of Georgia, introduced a municipal bill, entitled an act to compel riders of bicycle and tricycles to carry during the day a gong, horn or bell that could be heard 25 yards, and a lighted lantern at night. Referred to Committee on Fire Department and Police.

Reports of Committees.

The committee on State bill No. 2, relating to biennial elections, reported ought not to pass. The reason given for thus reporting was that the bill was so drawn that if passed it would not have any effect. The bill was rejected.

The committee on the bill providing for the use of the United States warship Columbia to carry mails to the Hawaiian Islands reported ought not to pass, as it did not seem to the committee that the government should appropriate its war vessels to carry mails. Bill rejected.

The committee on Fire Department and Police, on the bill providing for the purchase by the city of the gas light and electric plants, reported ought not to pass owing to the financial conditions of the city. The Congress refused to accept the report.

The executive committee reported favorably on the applications for membership of A. W. Furguson, W. C. Sampson, William Patterson, Arthur S. Fitts and Earnest D. Fitts and upon ballot they were elected as members.

W. C. Sampson was elected assistant clerk.

Orders of the Day.

The resolution offered relative to annexing the Hawaiian Islands was the first in order.

Congressman Nowland of Indiana was called to the chair.

Congressman Foster of South Dakota, said if we assume Commissioner Blunt was truthful and candid in his report, we must determine what is the proper course for the United States to pursue. That the President did intend to restore the Queen is undoubted. Assuming that there was a right to overthrow it, and from the report of Commissioner Blunt it appears that the presence of the marines aided in establishing the provisional government.

The more intelligent opinion was that anything like annexation was unwise.

Congressman Atkins of Louisiana thought Minister Stevens was unjustly criticised and he could not see wherein the United States should attempt to place the queen back upon the throne against the will of the people.

Congressman Harlow of Colorado thought that Stevens had gone beyond his authority and that Blount was right in pulling down the flag.

Congressman Pollard of Tennesee compared the act of this government with the last. Suppose Stevens did act hasily, is it right to place a semi-barbarian queen over an intelligent people.

Congressman Litchfield of Nevada thought that the fact of no opposition being made for 48 hours before the United States troops landed shows that the Queen had no backing.

Congressman Pinkham of Mississippi thought the revolution was brought about by the best people as there was no question but what the revolution took place before the United States troops landed.

Congressman Foster did not believe the present government could support itself without the protection of the United States.

Congressman Holden would be favorable of this government going there, cutting off the Queen's head and establishing government of its own.

Congressman Colton of Missouri thought while Stevens might have been little hasty it was not our business to put the Queen back.

The resolution passed and the Congress adjourned at 9 55.

MISS. BABBIT'S OPERETA.

Lord Ton-tons High-ton's Choice Pulled in Hancock Hall.

The operetta of "Lord Ton-ton-high-ton's Choice" in aid of Trinity church at Mayflower Park, Braintree, was given by an amateur company at Hancock hall Tuesday evening, before a fair audience. Miss Agnes Hyde in a leading role the only professional, and she was assisted by Miss Cornelia Elliott of Quincy, Miss Frances B. Adams, Fraulein Juliller, Mr. G. Woodward Babbitt, Mr. John Harris Gutterson, Mr. Albert King and others.

In the hands of amateurs the operetta did not appear at its best, but it was pleasing and very well acted. It is perhaps rather too sentimental on the whole.

Before the operetta and between acts there was a contralto solo by Miss Seiler, guitar solos by Mr. Louis Fernandez, character songs by Mr. Babbitt, and other numbers.

Sociability and Art.

The custom of ex tempore preaching at the Congregational church so successfully continued for many years may have had something to do with the formation of opinions which led to the hasty announcement on Sunday that a Sunday School reception and sociable would occur Tuesday evening, and that pure desire for social intercourse must be the prompting spirit, which should bring success or failure, rather than the attractive tables of the usual sociable. More than three hundred testified by their presence that "loaves and fishes" are not the only attractions needed for a "good time."

The superintendent, aided by the advice and cooperation of a few workers, secured an active committee of introduction—a few young men to initiate games and amusements for the intermediate classes and for the young people, so that from beginning to end there was enough for their constant employment. There being an overflow of the exuberant spirit of youth, the skill of the artist was subsidized, and Instructor C. W. Guy was domiciled in the smaller chapel room over a class eager to win renown with pencil and paper. Drawing lessons, interspersed with occasional confections, provided souvenirs for the audience, and wonderful exhibitions of "high art" were noticeable, when the stalwart instructor with arms aloof made distribution of the sweet rewards.

At half-past nine o'clock, after songs and promenades, the announcement was made that the home-walk would be in order, and the very enjoyable hour was ended.

The second and last term of Miss O'Brien's dancing class will begin on Saturday afternoon, Feb. 3, at three o'clock at Faxon hall. Only advanced pupils will be received. lp 1t

BURNS THE POET.

An Entertainment and Haggis Supper in His Honor at Doble's Hall.

There was a lad was born in Kyle:—
But what'na day or what'na style,
I doubt it's hardly worth my while
To be sa nice wi Robin.

A century has well nigh elapsed since the life career of Robert Burns ended, and the soul of Scotland's national poet passed to that silent country where reigns the long night whose dawn never breaks.

Born at Alloway, Ayrshire on the 25th of Jan. 1759; he died at Dumfres on the 21st of May, 1795, at the early age of 37.

The brief meteor-like career of Burns was sad and stormy, but his extraordinary genius has made him a name which will live in the hearts of his countrymen as long as Scottish songs exists. No greater proof of the continued popularity of the writings of Burns could be wished, than is shown by the fact that year by year the anniversary of his birth is celebrated with increasing enthusiasm in all parts of the world where the mother tongue of Scotland is known and understood.

Seldom has a more

Gay and Sociable Gathering

been held, than that which assembled in Doble's hall, on Tuesday evening, the occasion being a Burns entertainment and haggis supper, which was tendered the "Loyal Ladies" of Quincy by their husbands, sweethearts and friends.

Shortly after eight o'clock, the company, which numbered about 175, took possession of the hall, and installed Dr. R. McLennan, the popular South Quincy physician, as chairman for the evening. After a few remarks from the doctor the following program was rendered. Mrs. Maggie Smith accompanying the singers on the piano with an artistic skill which was highly appreciated by all.

Song and Chorus, "There was a lad"
Song,—"Castles in the air,"
Mr. Alex. Kemp
Reading, Miss M. Ellis
Song,—"Girl I left behind," Mr. C. Craig
Song,—"Twas within a mile,"
Miss H. Essno
Song,—"The lea Rig," Mr. Wm. Skinner
Duett,—"Afe Banks and Braes,"
Misses Smith

At this stage Mr. A. M. Craig was called upon to deliver an Address upon Burns.

In the course of his remarks Mr. Craig said: "Time is the most unerring test that any works can get; only that which is worthy and true can survive. The ever-growing influence of Burns' poetry speaks volumes for its value. His personality was so identified with his productions that they form his best biography. His powers were varied and bright. In dealing with women he was particularly happy. They were the subjects of some of his brightest poems. Other diversions were tame and insignificant compared with the delights experienced in their society. The chief charm of Burns' poetry lies in its intense truthfulness to human nature. His men and women are real—those with whom he was daily associated. He shed a lustre of honor around the humblest station of man. He was dear to us because of his faults, they attested his common humanity and inspired love and devotion among others. The general appreciation of his works is ever developing, and his domestic songs of cheering affection now envelope the world in a continuous circuit of divine melody."

Part Two.

Song,—"Molly O," Mr. John Daley
Duett,—"I'm wearin' a'wa,"
Misses Esson and Milne
Song,—"Gae bring sae me,"
Mr. George Bowman
Song,—(comic with banjo accompaniment)
Mr. Pierce
Song,—"Soldiers Tear" Mr. D. Drummond
Trio, Messrs. Daley, Craig and Pierce.

The various items on the programme well received; responses being called for in almost every case. The rendering of the songs and readings was decidedly good, and the applause which the artists received was well merited.

At the close of the entertainment, the hall was cleared, and dancing was soon in full swing, under the floor directorship of Messrs. Wm. Pratt and John Westland. Scotch dances seemed to be much in favor, and under the inspiring influence of the music, young and old enjoyed themselves heartily. Shortly after twelve o'clock the word was passed that supper was ready, and the company adjourned to the smaller halls where

The Tables Were Set.

Here a supper was served which was certainly one of the best ever set before an assembly in Quincy. In fact, the whole arrangements reflected the highest credit upon the skill and energy of the caterer, Mr. John Wood of Trafford street, who was ably assisted by Mrs. Wood, their daughter, Mrs. Marshall and Mrs. John McDonald.

The supper over, dancing was resumed and kept up with spirit until two o'clock A. M., when the company dispersed, after singing the time-honored melody, "Auld Lang Syne."

The work of Mr. A. D. Smith and the committee who arranged and carried this affair to such a successful issue, is much to be commended. Good times like these do much to foster good fellowship and sociability in a community, and if this has been accomplished even in a small degree, the time and labor given by the promoters of this anniversary celebration of the birth of Burns will not have been given in vain.

WOODWARD PRINCIPAL.

The Board Unanimous in Favor of a Lady at Man's Salary.

A wish has been expressed to have published the report of the special committee to select a principal for the Woodward Institute. The committee has complied with the request, and furnish a copy for today's LEDGER.

To the President of the Board of Instruction of Woodward Institute:

The Special Committee appointed to present the name of some suitable person as Principal of Woodward Institute would report as follows:

We have considered a number of applications and have personally consulted several of the applicants. We have also visited a number of the schools to ascertain the methods of instruction pursued and the form of discipline maintained.

As the Board may not care to be informed of the results of our labor in detail we briefly report by recommending:

That the names of two persons, every way qualified to fill the position, be presented.

First,—Mr. Charles H. Clark, Principal of Sanborn Seminary, Kingston, N. H.

Second,—Miss Carrie E. Small, Principal of Plymouth High School, Plymouth, Mass.

Possibly there may be a difference of opinion in the Board as to whether a man or woman should be placed at the head of the school. We are reluctant as a Committee to express our opinion upon this question. Hence we have referred it to the deliberations of the Board. Should the Board decide that the best interests of the school require a man as Principal, we unhesitatingly recommend Mr. Clark. If, on the other hand, a woman is to be placed at the head of the school, we as strongly recommend Miss Small.

The former was graduated from Bowdoin College, and has had upwards of eighteen years of experience as Principal of High schools and endowed seminaries.

The latter was educated at Wellesley College and has had fifteen years' experience in teaching, seven of them having been spent in the Plymouth High school as Principal.

GREATER BOSTON.

A Bill Framed Allowing Annexation of Quincy and Other Places.

Boston has got the Chicago fever bad, and if her suburban cities and towns are not very careful they will all be gobbled up in a very few years. Boston dailies report Mr. Norcross of Boston to have in preparation a bill looking to a realization of the popular sentiment in behalf of a greater Boston. The bill describes the towns and cities which are annexable, covering all within ten miles of the State House and all along the shore from Marblehead to Hull, both inclusive.

The bill provides that the first step toward annexation shall be taken by the city or town. If it desires to come in, it so informs the Mayor of Boston, and a Boston committee is then appointed to negotiate terms of union, with a committee of the annexable city or town, and a report must be made to both municipalities concerned before the first day of July. The question of annexation shall be first submitted to the voters of the outside municipality. If a majority are not in favor of annexation, the matter goes no farther, but if the outside municipality votes to come in, the question of receiving it shall next be submitted to the voters of Boston. This is to be done at a special election held in October, so as to give time for the division of the new district into wards and for making all arrangements for the participation of the voters of the new district in the regular city election in the December following.

If Boston votes in favor of the proposed annexation such annexation shall take complete effect from the first Monday of January following, and if either municipality votes against annexation the question shall not be submitted again for two years. Officers of the city or town which has voted to come in shall hold over until union with Boston is complete. Provision is made for a division of the new territory into wards and for the participation of the new wards in the annual Boston city election in the year in which they come in. All questions relating to county property and liability for county debts shall be adjusted by a commission appointed by the Supreme Judicial court.

New Magazines.

The February number of Godey's Magazine appears in a new and most attractive cover, and with many innovations and improvements in the inside of the magazine. It has a choice and varied contents, the opening article, "How to Make Money in Wall Street," being the pen of Henry Clews. There are the opening chapters of a novel, "This Man and This Woman," by Margaret Lee, with illustrations by Paul Nimmo Moran: short stories, short sketches, numerous illustrations, and poems, and a new department for Our Boys which ought to attract universal attention.

The department articles, always notably fine in Worthington's, giving it an individuality and spirit widely different from that of most magazines, are well up to the standard in the February number. To many readers, these articles are first sought for, and read with an appreciation that shows itself in many enthusiastic letters of praise and encouragement.

HAVENS OF THE SICK.

What It Costs to Run the Suburban Hospitals.

The Herald today publishes some interesting comparisons of the cost of the suburban hospitals about Boston, that in Quincy being one of the six. Table No. 1 compares the average number cost per patient as follows:

Hospital.	Total number patients.	Average number patients.	Av. weekly cost per patient.
Cambridge,	347	26	$14.73
Newton,	446	25 1-2	12.00
Waltham,	355	16 1-2	12 52
Quincy,	204	18	10.50
Malden (Est. returns of 1893),	175	13	13.50
Somerville (7 1-2 months),	148	14	11.76

It will be noticed that it costs over a dollar less per patient in the Quincy Hospital than in any of the others, while one costs over $4 more per patient.

Table No. 2 gives the items of expenditures more in detail. In nearly every item our hospital is run more economically, but particularly in salary and wages. Here is the Herald summary:

Hospital.	Salaries and wages.	Food.	Medical and surgical supplies.	Fuel.	Other expenses.	Total.
Cambridge,	$7.37	$3.91	$1.32	$0.83	$1.50	$14.73
Newton,	4.15	3.79	1.30	1.24	1.52	12.00
Waltham,	4.40	4.01	.69	.88	2.03	12.32
Quincy,	3.83	3.32	.85	.71	1.78	10.50
Malden (first 8 months),	6.46	4.66	.91	2 21	1.12	15.30
Somerville (first 7 1-2 months,	5.54	3.48	.80	1.01	.93	11.76
Average,	$5.29	$3.86	$0.96	$1.14	$1.45	$12 77

The third table shows the various sources from which the revenue is obtained, and the Herald arrives at the conclusion that Quincy and Cambridge should get more from their patients, and that Quincy, Cambridge and Waltham might derive more from an appeal to the churches.

Hospital.	Weekly sum carried per patient.	From churches.	From endowments.	From other than churches.	From free beds by societies.	From ladies' societies.
Cambridge,	$3.02	$1.16	$1.01	$0.46	$0.02
Newton,	4.29	4.40	.66	.82	.71
Waltham,	4.89	1.13	1.11	1.85	2.27
Quincy,	1.07	.21	2 13	.32	3.80
Malden (first 8 months)	7 81		2.22	.45
Somerville (7 1-2 months),	4.78	2.60			2.55
Average,	$4.34	$1.58	$1.02	$.65	$1.55

In conclusion, the average cost for caring for a patient in these six institutions is $12 43, and $10 would seem to be a fair price for the city to pay for those who need hospital treatment. Patients from Quincy pay $7 per week.

The ideal way of maintaining such a hospital says the Herald, is by a liberal endowment, but unfortunately such a fund is not easy to obtain. Only one of the charities named has any considerable endowment, none have enough to live upon without appeals to the public, and some have no funds at all and must be supported entirely on what they earn and people give.

TODAY'S COURT.

Partrick H. Kelliher for drunkenness at Braintree, was fined $6.

I like to put myself on record as saying that all the poverty, all the crime and all the vice which attract public attention in Boston among what we call the poorer classes, may be ascribed to the free use of intoxicating liquors. I have a hundred times, and I am willing to say it again, that if anybody will take care of all the poverty and crime which results from drunkenness, the South Congregational church, of which I have the honor to be minister, will alone take charge of all the rest of the poverty which needs "outdoor relief" in the city of Boston. If that church could satisfy its conscience with as small work work as that, it would certainly relieve its visiting forces and its treasury of a very considerable part of the demands now made upon them.—Edward Everett Hale.

—Figures show that three in every 200 business concerns throughout the country were unable to understand the difficulties of the past year, and were forced to the the wall.

Care Should Be Used In Washing White, Colored, Embroidered and Damask.

Be sure that your linen goes into no vessel that is not clean and freshly rinsed. See that it is put to boil inside a bag of clean cheese cloth. If stained, wet the spots with alcohol, and wash out in clear cold water before allowing suds to touch it. Stains of milk or soft eggs must be soaked in clear cold water for 10 minutes, then washed out. Use a mild white soap, or the Brown Windsor that comes in long bars. Make a strong lather, only letting the soap touch the fabric at some obstinate grease spot. Tea cloths or others with delicate colors wash brighter if a handful of salt is added to the first suds, which should be barely lukewarm. The second may be hotter. Wash quickly through both. Fold smoothly for the wringer, then pop into your bag and set to boil in cold water for 10 minutes. Rinse first in hot, then in lukewarm water. Have your bluing water cold and free from specks of color. Dip your linen in very thin starch containing a suspicion of bluing, and hang, if possible, in the sun. See that the line is clean. Take pains to hang each piece square, as if dried awry it will be very hard to make it even again.

Let everything dry thoroughly and do not dampen or fold until a little before ironing time. After a cloth is properly wet pull the diagonal corners as hard as possible and fold with a lengthwise crease through the middle. Roll smooth and tight and let it lie for 20 minutes. For rich damask or embroidered cloths put an extra blanket on the ironing table under its muslin cover. Lay the embroidered part smoothly over it, right side down and press with a heavy iron just below scorching heat. When almost dry and very smooth, turn and iron on the right side, using very light irons on the embroidery and heavy ones on the plain round. Stretch the fabric well with the hands before pressing embroidery.

When the right side is properly done, fold it lengthwise along the middle, then begin at one end and lay about six inches lightly over; do not fold it down but roll until all the length is coiled. Go over the cloth twice or thrice with a hot iron, changing irons frequently. Iron till the pattern shows plain on a glossy white surface. If not thoroughly dry when ironed, hang upon the horse for an hour or two, then fold or roll to such compass as required for the closet.

How to Wring Out Hot Wet Flannels.

Put them inside a towel and hold the ends in the hand while wringing. A square bag with a stick run through each end and an opening in the middle of one side is better. Drop the dripping cloth into the bag, then use the stick to turn it by.

How to Care For a Refrigerator.

Place your refrigerator in a cool spot, but one having light and air. Once a week remove everything from it, and take out all shelves or movable parts. Wash these well in hot soapsuds, rinse freely in boiling water. Put them in the sun or before the range to dry. Wash in the same way the rack on which the ice sets, but use greater care, as this is generally corrugated or grooved, and secretions of dirt may be overlooked. Wash the inside of the entire refrigerator with suds and boiling water, being careful to wipe all perfectly dry. Use a flexible wire for running down the tube where the refuse water runs off. Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of washing soda in a quart of boiling water on the stove. After it boils pour it into the ice compartment, follow it quickly with a kettle full of boiling water and wipe dry. Leave the refrigerator open for an hour and then put back your ice and food. The best day in the week for this work is when the iceman is expected. Attend to it immediately after breakfast. Never put warm food in a refrigerator, as it will absorb the flavors of other food, and also heat the refrigerator.

How to Make Paint Shine Without Varnish.

Paint mixed with a liquid composed of one gallon of linseed oil, two ounces each of burnt umber and black lead, and a quarter of a pound of litharge, boiled together, will dry quickly, with a hard finish and a glosslike varnish.

How the Odor of Food May Be Removed From Cooking Vessels.

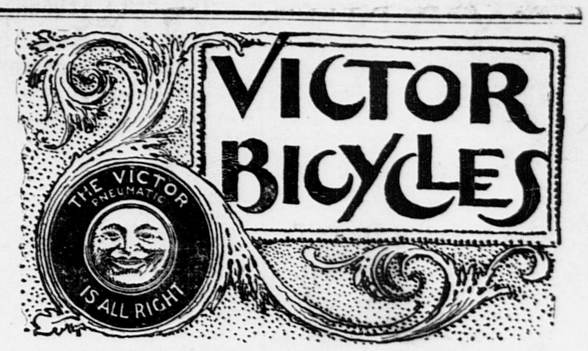

Sometimes the most careful washing will not wholly remove the flavor or odor of food from the utensil in which it was cooked. This is frequently the case with fish, onions, cabbage, etc., but there is a remedy which, though a little trouble, is well worth trying. After any of these articles have been cooked, wash the utensil carefully with soap and water. Nearly fill it with cold water, and for each quart of water add about a tablespoonful of dissolved washing soda. Place on the fire and let the water get boiling hot. Now turn this water into the sink. Rinse the utensil with clean warm water, and on wiping it dry it will be found perfectly sweet.

How to Prevent Cold Feet.

Do not wear the same stockings on two successive days, but keep two pairs going alternately, hanging each to dry and air when not in use. Every night bathe the feet in tepid water and rub hard with a coarse towel.

How to Make Virginia Eggnog.

To make a gallon of eggnog take one dozen eggs; separate the whites and the yolks very carefully. Beat each until it becomes as light as practicable. Add a pound of pulverized white sugar to the yolks and mix. Then add a quart of cognac brandy and half a pint of Jamaica rum, pouring them in a small stream while stirring actively. Add half a gallon of rich milk. Then add not less than three-fourths of the bulk of the whites. The remainder of the whites should be put upon the surface merely as an ornament. A large portion of the white of the eggs should always be mixed to render it light and wholesome.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

FELT HER BROTHER'S DEATH.

A Curious Circumstance Which Indicated Mental Telepathy.

A curious circumstance that may be looked upon as a confirmation of the doctrine of mental telepathy took place here recently in a family of importance in the history of the state. This family numbers among its members a lady and her twin brother, a young man who for the past few years has been in business in New Zealand, but who has been expected home on a visit to his sister.

One evening lately the lady was sitting surrounded by friends when all at once she gave a piercing cry, and placing her hand to her side fell fainting to the floor. On reviving she declared that she had been suddenly stabbed just above the heart and under the left arm, indicating the spots. She was assured that she was laboring under the purest imagination, but was hard to convince that this was the case, so plainly had she felt the knife enter the body.

That night a little daughter was born to her, and the child was found to be marked on the places indicated by the mother as the wounds she had imagined. The marks on the child looked as if they might be the cicatrix of old knife wounds. The next day a cablegram was received from friends of the twin brother in New Zealand, informing his sister that he had been stabbed to death by a native in a quarrel, and the date given of the young man's death was that of the night when his sister had felt the pang of a knife entering her own body.

She prevailed on her husband to inquire by cable where her brother's murderer had struck him, and to complete the coincidence learned that he had been stabbed twice, once above the heart and again under the left arm. She is convinced that through her affinity with her brother she felt his death even as he received it.—New Orleans Letter.

Literary Chicago.

In Chicago there are literary men and men of literary ability. There is a distinction and a difference between the two classes. The literary men are those who write unsalable novels of many pages, and finally dispose of their works by the pound. They spend the remainder of their lives in despairing of the future of a western literature and in running The Cleaners' and Menders' Monthly.

There is also Hobart C. Chatfield-Taylor, who twitters through a bower of wide margin and extra paper and sells numerous copies of his works because there happen to be 400 people in his set. He forms a separate class by himself, being the sole member of Chicago's literati who has bridged the great gulf fixed between Bohemia and Belgravia.—Chicago Mail.

ON THE FREE LIST.

House Has at Last Disposed of the Sugar Schedule.

THE COAL QUESTION IS NOW UP.

The Hawaiian Matter Again Before the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—After the transaction of some routine business the house went into committee of the whole to consider the tariff bill.

After two hours' labor the house voted that Mr. Warner's proposition looking to free refined sugar, adopted Monday afternoon, shall be treated as a substitute and not as an amendment. This releases the house from the tangle in which it adjourned. The paragraph, as amended, was then adopted by a rising vote of yeas 161, nays 38.

The effect of this vote is to put all sugars, raw and refined, on the free list. The bounty was abolished by a vote yesterday afternoon.

The coal schedule was taken up, and Mr. Oates offered an amendment striking coal from the free list and putting a duty of 40 cents a ton upon it and 20 cents a ton on slack.

Mr. Wise offered an amendment to this amendment placing the duty at 50 cents a ton.

Mr. McKaig submitted a substitute providing for the retention of the present law—75 cents a ton on coal and 30 cents a ton on slack.

Mr. Hitt offered the following amendment to the substitute: Insert at the end of paragraph 439: "Provided, that if any article is imported, the product of any country which imposes a duty on said article exported from the United States, then there shall be levied, collected and paid upon said imported article the rate of duty prior to the passage of this act."

Mr. Wilson made the point of order against the amendment that it was not germane to the subject under discussion, and also that it was in the nature of retaliation.

Mr. Hitt spoke briefly against the point of order, but it was sustained. Mr. Hitt then altered his amendment by specifying that any article "on the free list" is imported, but Mr. Burrows made the point of order against it that it was not germane, and the chairman sustained the point of order.

Morse's Agument.

With all these texts discussion progressed in one way or another, chiefly by western or southern members, until Mr. Walker of Massachusetts said there was no man in the house who did not know there was no section of the country which would be so benefited by free coal, free iron and free wool as New England, and especially Massachusetts. But New England had not asked for these things, believing that the interest of the country was of more importance than the interest of Massachusetts. Massachusetts would gladly vote for a tariff of 75 cents a ton. She had no iron mines, no coal mines and no natural gas; but she had cold facts, which had never been controverted by the Democratic side.

Mr. Simpson presented a letter from the Central Labor union of Worcester, Mass., regarding a petition from them which Mr. Walker had refused to present on the ground that it did not represent the sentiment of the majority of the union. The letter was drafted by a committee of the union, and denied in toto the assertions of Mr. Walker.

Some Voting.

Mr. Turpin offered an amendment to Mr. McKaig's substitute, providing that the tax of 75 cents a ton should be decreased 12 1-2 cents a year, and cease altogether after the sixth year.

A vote was then taken on the amendment offered by Mr. Wise raising the tariff to 50 cents, and it was defeated by a viva voce vote.

The vote was then taken on the amendment offered by Mr. Turpin, and it was lost—ayes, 2; nays, 172.

The substitute offered by Mr. McKaig to insert the provisions of the McKinley law in place of the clause in the Wilson bill, was defeated—yeas, 91; nays, 146.

The amendment of Mr. Oates, putting a tax of 40 cents a ton, was then defeated—yeas, 81; nays, 131.

The house then took up the iron ore schedule. Mr. Oates offered an amendment to take iron ore (including manganiferous iron ore; also the dross or residuum from burnt pyrites and sulphur ore, as pyrites or sulphruret of iron in its natural state) off the free list, and put a tariff tax of 40 cents upon it.

Discussion upon this went on until recess was taken.

At the evening session the house listened to more speeches, but adjourned without taking any action.

In the Senate.

Mr. Turpie reported to the senate from the committee on foreign relations the following resolution:

Resolved, That from the facts and papers laid before the senate, it is unwise and inexpedient, under existing conditions, to consider at this time any project of annexation of the Hawaiian territory to the United States; that the provisional government therein having been duly recognized, the highest international interests require that it shall pursue its own line of policy; foreign intervention in the political affairs of the islands will be regarded as an act unfriendly to the government of the United States.

After discussion the resolution went over.

The resolution offered by Mr. Peffer declaring that in the opinion of the senate the secretary of the treasury has no lawful authority for issuing and selling bonds as proposed in his recent notice went to the committee on finance.

The senate then resumed consideration of the house bill to repeal the federal elections laws, and after a discussion it was laid aside informally.

Mr. Cullom then addressed the senate on the resolution offered by Mr. Frye declaring that, pending the investigation by the committee on foreign relations, there should be no interference on the part of the United States government, by moral influence or physical force, for the restoration of the queen or the maintenance of the provisional government in the Hawaiian Islands. Mr. Cullom's address was mainly an arraignment of the government for its course in the matter.

The bill for the repeal of the elections laws was again taken up, and Mr. Chandler addressed the senate in opposition to the bill, but, without concluding, he yielded to a motion to proceed to executive business, and that accomplished, the senate adjourned.

THE BRIDGEPORT STRIKE.

Mayor Will Call Out Militia if Police Can't Handle Strikers.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Jan. 24.—The strikers are active and meetings were held last night at which the situation was talked over. Trouble is feared, for the Traction company have declared their intention of running the cars, and they have enlisted the services of the police commissioners and other city officials to aid them to keep the cars running.

The cars will be in charge of men who have been brought here from outside places. All the supernumeraries and specials available in the city have been summoned by the commissioners to report at headquarters prepared for duty. These men will be stationed all along the line ready for any outbreak among the strikers. Sheriff Clarkson swore in a number of deputies, and the entire re-inforcements to the police will number about 100.

The mayor has given the Traction company the order to start the cars, and the police will be ready all along the line two hours in advance to guard the cars should an attempt be made to do any damage on the part of the strikers. The strikers were all paid off yesterday. Applications have been received from men in New Haven, Springfield and Worcester, Mass., and Pittsburg for the strikers' places.

The road is now in the hands of the city, which is instructing the company to run the cars. If the police are unable to cope with the crowd, the mayor will call out the militia.

NOW FOR A FIGHT!

President Peixoto Orders His New Ships to Attack Insurgents.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 24.—After a long delay, puzzling alike to the people who continue loyal to the government and to the insurgent leaders, Peixoto has given orders to his new warships, purchased in Great Britain and the United States, to sail southward and begin the long expected naval contest which in all probability will decide the struggle for supremacy between Brazil's chief magistrate and those who are seeking to overthrow him.

The Nictheroy, America, Aurora and Paranahyba reached Bahia yesterday, on their way from Pernambuco to Rio. They are fully manned and in a better condition for fighting than it was supposed their officers would be able to get them, considering the fact that their crews are made up of mixed nationalities. The dynamite gun aboard the Nictheroy has been subjected to further tests, and is now said to be working satisfactorily.

A great deal of comment has been excited by the visit of the insurgent Admiral Da Gama to Admiral Benham. It confirms the rumors current here for some time that Da Gama has made proposals to Admiral Benham to act as mediator between the insurgents and the Brazilian government.

The information that the government's war vessels had sailed from Pernambuco, it is believed, was conveyed to Da Gama by some of his adherents in the north, and his visit to Admiral Benham was the result of this news.

Saved From State Prison.

BOSTON, Jan. 24.—At a special meeting of the Life Underwriters' association the resignation of W. G. Williams was accepted. Williams resigned from the association because he was found guilty of rebating premiums, and paid a fine of $100 therefor. Rebating is a state prison offense in this state, but this, being the first case that has come up since the law passed, was lightly dealt with by the court.

Hartz Found at Last.

CHICAGO, Jan. 24.—Jacob Hartz, who was in the employ of Liveryman Dinan on the night of the Cronin murder, and who so long eluded the detectives, was arrested yesterday at West Hammond, Ind. Hartz is the man by whom the prosecution will endeavor to identify Dan Coughlin as one of Dr. Cronin's assassins.

New Jersey's Deadlock.

TRENTON, Jan. 24.—Governor Wert proposes securing a decision on the senate deadlock by quo warranto proceedings in the supreme court. The plan is not approved by the Republican senators. They say if the governor wants to get the matter before the courts let him proceed upon some of the bills which they may pass.

Satisfies Fitchburg Aldermen.

FITCHBURG, Mass., Jan. 24.—Ex-Chief of Police Douglass of New Bedford, dismissed from that place by Mayor Brownell on specific charges, was confirmed as chief of police in the board of aldermen, in executive session last night, by a vote of 4 to 1.

An Incendiary's Work.

ST. JOHNSBURY, Vt., Jan. 24.—Fire last night destroyed M. J. Caldbeck's carpenter shops. Loss about $10,000. It is thought to be incendiary, as Caldbeck had enemies and his buildings have been fired several times before.

Donoghue's Record Lowered.

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 24.—John S. Johnson, the Minneapolis skater, covered a quarter of a mile here in 31 1-4s. with a flying start. The best previous record was made by Joe Donoghue, whose time was 35s.

BE CAREFUL, M. CRAPAUD.

The Frenchman Allowing His Dislike of England to Annoy Americans.

French hostility to England has been unusually violent for some months past, and the English in Paris complain that they are made aware of it in ways that offend them or even render their stay there unpleasant. This is something in which we are not concerned. For another reason, however, it is our duty to give the Parisians a warning. Life in Paris has been made disagreeable to some Americans of late because the anti-English Frenchmen have failed to draw the line between Englishmen and Americans, and as Americans speak the English language have assumed that they were English and have acted accordingly. This will not do.

We tell these shoulder shrugging and mustache twisting Parisians that they had better look out when they are in the presence of Americans. Americans will not tolerate their blague. They can't treat young Brother Jonathan as if he were old John Bull. They must be respectful toward Americans in France if they want to get the money of American tourists. Americans are a self asserting people, not destitute of patriotic pride, not so patient as Job, not at all arrogant or ill tempered, yet conscious of their inviolable Americanism. They have grown beyond dueling, but it is not safe to act toward them as if they were of a timid disposition. True, they speak the English language, but they can't help that, and we may say that they like it.

There were 8,599 Americans living permanently in Paris three months ago, when the census of foreign residents was taken, and hundreds of American tourists visit the city every week of the year. These Americans spend lots of money in Paris. It is possible that they spend 20,000,000 francs there every year, and this sum is but a small part of the aggregate amount which Parisians draw from Americans annually. Let the shoulder shruggers think of this when they see an American dressed in French clothes and shelling out his dollars for their enrichment.

The Americans like France well, and they give proof of their liking for her. They appreciate the good qualities of the French and give them full credit for all their merits. It is to be regretted that there are some coxcombs among the French, mostly in Paris.

The craziest thing that M. Crapaud can do is to confound Brother Jonathan with John Bull.—New York Sun.

VALUABLE MAPS CHEAP.

Completion of the United States Geological Survey In Three New England States.

The complete topographical map of the state of Connecticut has been completed by the United States geological survey, and the sheets having been combined in a single large map it is now ready for distribution. The original sheets are on a scale of an inch to the mile, with 20 foot contours, but the reduction is on a two inch scale, with 100 foot contours. The cost of the entire work was about $50,000, of which the geological survey bore half, and the state of Connecticut the other half. The mapping of the entire states of Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island has now been finished, and work during the past year was pushed forward on the state of New York, which is now under Herbert M. Wilson and well under way.

These maps, which are the only accurate and comprehensive topographic work done in the United States, are in steady demand. They are too valuable and expensive for promiscuous distribution like the average government document, but they are given free to all who apply for them. They are the basis for nearly all of the development and improvement schemes of the country where accurate maps are required, and it is from this point of view that they are a popular institution with the people. The maps are given free of charge, but many who want them and do not know this offer good round prices for them, as much as $100 having been offered for a single sectional sheet, the bidder probably being agreeably surprised on receiving the map and his money back as well.—Washington Post.

Great Hop Yards of the Northwest.

The palm for possessing the largest single hop ranch in the world, which has for a long time been the proud boast of King county, will soon pass to the east side of the Cascade mountains. Yakima county has laid claim to the distinction, and by next summer will have every right to it, for there will be growing at that time upon her rich valley lands 600 acres of hops in one body.

The big Snoqualmie hop ranch in this county contains 340 acres in one body planted to hops, and the Lilienthals of San Francisco own a yard at Pleasanton, Alameda county, Cal., of 350 acres, to which they are adding 400 acres more, which when fully planted will be larger than the Yakima yard.—Seattle Telegraph.

A Day That Is a Blank.

After lying months in a critical condition, resulting from the severe injuries he received in the wreck on the Harlem railroad in August last, Mr. De Witt Heermance is on the road to recovery. In connection with the fearful accident Mr. Heermance remembers nothing; his mind is a blank. He fails to call to mind even his getting on the train on that unfortunate day, and of the accident and what followed he of course knows nothing. He is unable to call to mind, he says, the least thing connected with his movements or the transpirings of that day as relating to his business trip.—Poughkeepsie Eagle.

Striking Exhibit of Destitution.

The most striking exhibit of London's destitution ever made was the annual supper to the waifs and strays on Thursday, the coldest night for years. Two thousand small, hungry, half clad boys and girls were fed. Many walked barefooted six miles on the icy pavements. Hundreds were turned away still hungry, there being only room and food enough for 2,000.—London Letter.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

WILL FIGHT TODAY.

All Obstacles to the Corbett-Mitchell Battle Removed.

JUDGE GRANTS AN INJUNCTION

And Martial Law Is Not Declared In Jacksonville.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 25.—Sharply at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon Judge Call ascended the bench of the circuit court to render his decision upon the injunction case presented during the morning. The courtroom was completely packed.

The judge recited that the ground taken by the counsel for the state was that the projected contest should be governed by the state law against duelling. The voice of the court was opposed to the contention.

A contest without dangerous weapons could not be construed to be a duel. As this proposed contest was not only without even bare hands, but with padded gloves, he could not view the affair otherwise than a glove contest to determine the scientific superiority of the two men engaged. Hence he ruled that the temporary injunction restraining interference should not be vacated, as the state desired, but that it should be continued, as the Duval club had contested.

Pleased the Crowd.

The instant the drift of the court's opinion became known to the crowd, there began to spread a hum of approval, and when the judge closed there burst forth a prolonged cheer, with the southern yell attachment, that might have startled the Seminole chiefs in their graves. The furious rapping for order did no good, and threats of arrest did not deter the crowd which was surging out into the streets. They yelled all the time, and the neighborhood was awake with the clatter and the entire town soon caught it up.

In 10 minutes the news was known in every hotel and sporting resort. Crowds surrounded the telegraph office and the saloons where sporting men congregate, and the sidewalk for a block in either direction from the entrance to the Duval Athletic club held a long conference after the action of the court became known and stated that the fight would surely be pulled off.

Fired With New Zeal.

The sympathizers with the contest promoters had the town yesterday afternoon. The feeling akin to chagrin that possessed them Tuesday night when uniformed and armed soldiers marched gaily down the street was remembered only in its humorous light yesterday after the decision of Judge Call. The news of the decision spread faster than does a rumor of a plague.

When the words maintaining the injunction fell from the lips of the judge there was a mad rush for the telegraph office and the news went over the wire like wildfire. The situation was changed from suspense to certainty, and the club members, lately listless, were suddenly fired with a new zeal. Plans half fulfilled, schemes not materialized for lack of confidence, were renewed.

At the rooms of the Duval Athletic club the crowd was so great that it took half a dozen men to keep a pathway open for pedestrians. The demand for tickets was such that nothing but system prevented wild confusion and a crush. Finally a scheme was arranged by which the men went in one at a time, finding an egress at another door, and the stream of ticket buyers was continuous for hours.

As the wagon advertising the fight rolled through the streets it was greeted with rousing cheers, and in front of the principal hotels and saloons it was given an ovation. In the residence portion of the city hundreds of people crowded out to see it, and clapped their hands for joy. Every one felt the enthusiasm as an infection, and the town went wild. Even those opposed to the fight could not but smile at the spirit and joyousness displayed.

Fight Is Certain.

Governor Mitchell has gone upon record, through Attorney General Lamar, who says that now, the matter having been settled by the courts, he will not declare martial law in Jacksonville. The militia which has been brought here to suppress the fight will probably attend it, as a special safeguard. They are very grateful to the governor.

In spite of the statement that the First battalion was ordered out yesterday it did not put in an appearance, even the Jacksonville company not being called to duty further than to assemble at the armory for a few minutes, and then the men returned to their respective places of business. It is understood that some of the outside companies of the battalion were under arms, but the order to move was not given.

Adjutant General Houston received orders late last night from Governor Mitchell instructing him to order the troops of the Second battalion to their homes. They were dismissed this morning, but many will remain and witness the fight.

All obstacles to the fight have been removed, and there seems at the present moment to be absolutely nothing which can prevent its coming off. Hundreds of sporting men are thronging the streets and packing the hotels to overflowing. The betting is more strongly in favor of Corbett than at any time yet.

Attorney General Lamar gave out a statement announcing that he would abide by the decision of the circuit court, and that any contemplated action by the state would only be taken after the contest.

Corbett the Favorite.

The betting is stronger than ever in Corbett's favor. The odds jumped rapidly from two to one to three to one. Some of the bets were $1000 to $330, $1000 to $400, $1000 to $350. Steve Brodie said he would bet $1000 to $300 on Corbett winning in six rounds, but the crowd only smiled. Even money is being put on Corbett winning in 20 rounds.

Mitchell is in his room at the Everett hotel and Corbett is at the St. James.

Both men are said to be in the very pink of condition, and both have declared that they will make the effort of their lives. The bitter feeling between them has been intensified of late, and the struggle, without a doubt, will be a desperate one.

A KNOCKOUT FOR HATTERS.

Decision of Manufacturers Makes Matters Bad For the Workmen.

DANBURY, Conn., Jan. 25.—The statement made by 12 out of 18 manufacturers that under no conditions would they operate factories other than independent of trade unions produced a pronounced sensation among labor leaders and locked-out hatters. The 12 factories are the largest in the manufacturers' association, and employ over 3000 people.

It stops all further efforts on the part of leaders to win them over. The leaders have been sanguine of winning six of the 12 shops heretofore. Every leader said that it means a loss of the struggle and eventual victory for the manufacturers, who are certain of desertion from the workmen's ranks, and, if obliged to, will import help. The statement gives hope to the faint-hearted members of unions who are sure of protection if they go to work.

Friction between President Ellen Foote of the Trimmers' union and the labor leaders has disgusted many hatters and endangered the Trimmers' union, and this gives manufacturers an additional advantage. This ninth week of the lockout shows many cases of extreme poverty among the hatters. A soup kitchen was opened Monday for the relief of distressed working people, and it is crowded daily.

Six other hat firms in the lockout announce that they will open their factories under trade rules whenever they can secure consent from their association and when unions grant certain liberties recently asked for. They will not open their factories till others do. These factories are the smallest in the association, employing 600 persons.

MELLO'S SICKNESS

Said to Have Been Due to an Attempt at Poisoning.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 25.—A report in circulation here says that while Admiral de Mello was at Des Terro a boat from the shore came alongside one afternoon, and two very attractive ladies, apparently mother and daughter, asked to see Admiral de Mello.

When questioned as to their business, the ladies are reported to have replied that they were in sympathy with the rebel cause and that they had brought other delicacies. Accordingly, the ladies were allowed on board, and from the boat which brought them alongside a number of cases of wine, preserves and fruit were hoisted on board.

The ladies are said to have been met by Admiral de Mello, who escorted them to his cabin and entertained them for about half an hour, after which the fair visitors left. The admiral is said to have partaken of some of the wine and to have become violently ill soon after. The ladies made good their escape.

The story has it that Admiral de Mello's lady visitors were no other than the mother and sister of a young Brazilian officer who was shot and killed by order of De Mello early in the civil war. The insurgents say this is not true, but that Mello suffered from one of the coast fevers.

THE TAX ON INCOMES

The Most Important Feature of the Internal Revenue Bill.

COMMITTEE SEES NO HARDSHIP

In Placing a Tax Upon Those Who Are Wealthy.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Representative McMillin has presented the majority report from the committee on ways and means on the internal revenue bill, the most important feature of which is the income tax.

The committee recommends an increase of the tax on distilled spirits from 90 cents a gallon to $1 a gallon, and an increase in the tax on cigarets from 50 cents a thousand to $1 a thousand; the imposition of a tax of 2 cents a pack on all playing cards offered for sale in the United States, and a tax of 2 per cent on all net incomes of corporations and on incomes of individuals in excess of $4000.

The committee discusses the income tax question at length, saying they believe in life and liberty. But in addition to this those who have been blessed with large fortunes are also interested in having them protected against the rapacity of the lawless. "The wealth of this country amounts to more than $65,000,000,000, and the question arises whether it is not just and fair that a portion of this money should be raised by a tax on it. It is eminently just and proper that the amount proposed by this bill should be collected from a tax on incomes, instead of placing all of it on the necessaries of life, which are consumed by all but are not used in proportion to their ability to pay taxes, but according to the necessities of existence."

Not Inquisitorial.

The committee sees no hardship in requiring those who have incomes of more than $4000 a year to pay 2 per cent of all in excess of that amount to carry on the government under which it has been accumulated and by which it is protected. They have provided by the bill for the simplest machinery consistent with efficiency. One of the complaints made against an income tax is that it is inquisitorial in its nature, oppressive in its administration.

The committee thinks that this has been guarded against as amply as can be in any tax, and that an inspection of it will prove it to possess as little that is inquisitorial as any state, county, municipal or government tax in existence. The report states that the tax can be collected cheaply and with few new officials, and that, taking the estimate of the commissioner of internal revenue, it should yield "five or six millions." "By making our tariff laws what they should be, and imposing an income tax to raise a portion of the revenue, it will be possible to raise or lower this tax to meet the requirements of the treasury and avoid the necessity of changing the rates that affect our industries so frequently. Stability will help our manufacturers most. The taxes ought to be so placed that it will not be necessary to either issue bonds or change tariff rates with every fluctuation of the revenue."

Church, Rink and Tenement House Gone.

BROCKTON, Mass., Jan. 25.—At 10:10 o'clock last night fire broke out in the skating rink in the rear of 655 Main street, in the center of the city, and spread to a tenement house near by. The rink was quickly gutted and the house practically destroyed. The Second Congregational church near by also took fire and in five minutes the flames had spread throughout the building and to the top of the spire. The fire was soon beyond the control of the local department and help was summoned from Boston and Bridgewater. The steeple of the church fell shortly before midnight, but did no damage. By 12:30 the fire was under control. All of the buildings destroyed were old structures and it is believed the loss will not exceed $60,000. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Doctors Gave Testimony.

CHICAGO, Jan. 25.—In the Coughlin trial yesterday, Professor Will testified that the time elapsing between death and the post-mortem might have so affected the corpse that it would be impossible to distinguish a cut made by a sharp instrument from one inflicted by a blunt weapon. Dr. Copeland testified that he could not form an opinion as to the cause of death.

Editorial Comment.

BROCKTON SEEMS to get more than its share of large fires, the rink, Congregational church and other buildings being destroyed last night. Mayor Whipple had an opportunity to see the practical workings of his fire department, one of his houses being burned, and his own residence threatened. Although Brockton has three or four steamers it often finds it has none too many.

THE SPECIAL appropriation which the Norfolk County Commissioners have asked of the legislature is causing comment and adverse criticism. Those who know whereof they speak say the improvements contemplated are wholly uncalled for and a bit of extravagance, yet in advance of the authority, plans have been prepared and proposals asked. As Quincy, Hyde Park, Brookline and possibly Dedham and other Norfolk county towns are likely to be annexed to Boston within ten or twenty years, it would be well to move prudently. Keep the taxes down, gentlemen.

THE ANNUAL report of the State Board of Education is of interest in its statistics showing the cost per pupil by counties. In 1893 the amount of money raised by taxation for the support of schools in the State was $9,663,707, or $24.77 for each child between the ages of five and fifteen. In the year 1891-92, Norfolk county cities and towns appropriated the most per child, Suffolk being second, and Middlesex third. In 1892, Suffolk came to the front with $22.20 per child; Norfolk was second with $19.16 per child, Middlesex third with $17.49, and the amount decreases rapidly, being $16.54 in Barnstable, 15.43 in Plymouth, $14.02 in Worcester, $13.97 in Essex, $12.90 in Hampden, with Nantucket at $11.15 $16.39. Norfolk county is therefore about $3 per child above the average, and Quincy is undoubtedly above the average in Norfolk county.

According to the per cent. of taxable property, the appropriation in Norfolk county stands number eleven in each of the last two years, it being .00284 against 00274 for the State. In ratio of attendance Norfolk county moved up two places, from sixth in 1891-92, to fourth in 1892-93.

HAVE NOT the managers of the Woodward Institute been a little extravagant in placing the salary of the principal of that institute at $2,300. It would seem so with the limited income and the uncertainties as to how many will attend, etc. We find this to be the prevailing sentiment. The criticism is not made because a woman has been selected, for people are willing that a woman who does a man's work should receive a man's salary. But is the principalship of the Woodward Institute more important than any other position in the city? Should it command higher salary than the superintendent of our public schools, the principal of our High school or the Commissioner of Public Works, twice as much as the Mayor of our city, the City Treasurer, the City Clerk, City Auditor, or many of the clergymen who constitute the board?

Thayer academy of Braintree, a richly endowed institution has a head master, four sub-masters, and two instructors. Thayer, by its latest report, has 77 pupils. The Woodward being open to young ladies from ten to twenty years of age, may have over twice as many pupils. Can the managers with an income of about $15,000 per annum, afford to pay generous salaries to a large corps of teachers, the other running expenses, janitor, fuel, repairs, etc., and at the same time increase the fund for future requirements?

Dancing School Reception.

The closing reception of the dancing class of Prof. J. F. Holmes was held Wednesday evening at Faxon hall, and was not only attended by the members of the class but by many friends of Prof. Holmes and his pupils.

The young misses were gowned in light evening costumes of varied shades which presented a beautiful scene as they gayly went through the steps of the several dances on the programme.

During the evening the pupils were treated to an exhibition of fancy dancing by Miss Audrey Rhines, which showed that she is constantly reaching that point called perfection.

—The Somerville Journal says: "There is legislation, we believe, which prohibits the use of the United States flag for advertising purposes. It would be well to go a step further, and prohibit the use of the names of presidents in a similar way. The wretched caricatures of a murdered president which deface the walls of Somerville now for the purpose of advertising a patent medicine are an example of the results of an evil practice that should be stopped by law, if it cannot be stopped in any other way."

—B. F. Keith the successful theatre manager and proprietor of theatres in New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Providence, has in process of construction and nearly completed, a new play house in Boston which will cost nearly $600,000. THE COUNTRY SCHOOL.

Well Known Ladies and Gentlemen Among the Pupils in Attendance.

In spite of the weather, the West Quincy Methodist church was well filled Wednesday evening with an enthusiastic audience who had gathered there to witness the production of the "Country School" by the ladies of the church circle.

The programme opened with an organ voluntary by Miss Helen Nutting, which was followed by a reading by Miss Berkett of Charlestown, and a vocal duett by Misses Moir and Geer.

The Country School was then ushered in and the fun began. Miss Snodgrass (Mrs. C. F. Badger) was teacher, and Squire Green (T. L. Williams) officiated as school committee-man and Mrs. Crane (Mrs. Albert Turner) took the part of mother to Seth Crane, an unruly school boy.

The pupils, some fifteen in number, who made up the school, were Miss Lou Shackley, E. V. Trask, Miss Lou Smart, Jonas Shackley, Miss Abby C. Nutting, Miss Addie Miller, H. F. Geer, Frank Folsom, C. H. Bearse, John Keast, S. Gourd, Mrs. E. V. Trask, Mrs. Wm. A. McCormick and C. A. Goucher. These pupils had good old fashioned jaw breaking names, and their talk and action showed that they had been brought up in the backwoods. They were about as green as one could possibly imagine. They were attired in costumes suitable to the time they were supposed to represent regardless of styles.

The children were put through a course of sprouts as to their knowledge in the fundamental principles of the English language as well as in their vocal culture.

When Squire Green arrived he conducted an impartial examination of the pupils, which if not quite up to the standard followed by our present board, it answered the purpose very well and showed that the pupils were well booked.

The conducting of the school produced an amount of amusement and at its conclusion they received a well deserved ovation.

After the entertainment refreshments of cake and cocoa were served in the vestry.

Plymouth Unwilling.

Miss Carrie E. Small of Plymouth has not yet accepted the call of the managers of the Woodward Institute to become its principal and there are said to be some doubts whether she will. The news was unwelcome at Plymouth, who they are very unwilling to part with, their favorite teacher. It is said an effort will be made to increase her salary there, sufficient to retain her services. It is now but $1,500 and the Woodward managers have offered her $2,300. Miss Small will visit Quincy in a few days, probably on Saturday.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE.

Insolvent Copartnerships—The Old Colony Lease Again—Tariff Resolutions.

BOSTON, Jan. 25.—The bill to give courts of insolvency additional jurisdiction in cases of insolvent copartnerships was considered by the committee on probate and insolvency. At present a petition in insolvency in case of a copartnership can only be considered in the county where the copartnership has its usual place of business. The bill proposed gives the court in the county where either partner resides concurrent jurisdiction over petitions.

The Massachusetts Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals presented petitions to prohibit the leading or driving of bears or other wild animals through the public streets; the exhibition of vivisection in the public schools; and for the protection of horses mutilated by docking.

The order offered in the senate relating to the legality of the lease of the Old Colony railroad came up for adoption. After discussion it was referred to the joint committee on railroads.

The resolutions relative to the tariff on cotton manufactures were adopted by a strict party vote; those relative to Sumatra tobacco were also adopted. The resolutions as to the tariff on carpets and relative to the Wilson bill were laid over until Monday.

The house committee on rules reported an amendment to the rules requiring all committees to report on or before the second Wednesday of March, instead of the fourth Wednesday; also an amendment allowing members of the governor's council to come upon the floor of the house without permission being first obtained from the speaker. Both amendments went over till today.

The committee on military affairs reported a resolve appropriating $30,000 for the Soldiers' home; by the committee on towns, a bill authorizing the appointment of superintendent of streets by boards of selectmen in towns which do not elect road commissioners or surveyors of highways.

The committee on cities reported a bill allowing the city of Chelsea to refund its debt.

QUINCY AND RUSSELL

Are Said to Be Slated For the Position Now Occupied by Bissell.

BOSTON, Jan. 25.—It is stated on the authority of an intimate friend of Attorney General Olney that his much-talked-of resignation will become a fact very shortly. It is claimed that Mr. Olney was reluctant in accepting the law portfolio, but accepted on the condition that he should be allowed to resign when the administration fairly settled down to business. To friends here he has recently expressed his dislike for the duties of the office and the criticisms of his official acts.

It is said that Josiah Quincy's present visit to Washington is at the request of the president, and that he will either accept the postmaster generalship, which will be vacated by Bissell's promotion to Olney's position, or urge Hon. John E. Russell to accept the place. It is understood that the Boston and Maine railroad requires Mr. Olney's services in important cases to come up soon, and that it is partly for this that he will resign at once.

Victory For the Traction Company.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Jan. 25.—The railroad strike was settled yesterday afternoon, and the cars are running on their usual time. The strikers notified the Traction company at 3 o'clock that they would accept the terms of the road and return to work. Half an hour later they sent another message to the company stating that they would not return unless two obnoxious employes were discharged. The road refused to agree to this, and after another consultation the strikers, at 4:45, yielded. Ten minutes later the cars were started by the old employes. The result is a complete victory for the company.

Charged to Vaccination.

LOWELL, Mass., Jan. 25.—Wilfred Savery, aged 10 years, and Joseph Savery, aged 8 years, brothers, died yesterday afternoon as an apparent result of vaccination. They had been sick since vaccinated and had suffered fearful agony.

THE FENCING BELLES OF BOSTON.

The Boston girl more graceful grows,
Her blood in healthier heart beats flows,
Because the arts of foil she knows.

A mask upon her pretty nose,
She blushes like a sweet June rose.

THAT PICTURE.

During five or six years Marcel had worked at that famous painting which he affirmed should represent the crossing of the Red sea, and for five or six years this masterpiece of color had been obstinately refused by the jury at the annual salon.

So, from force of habit in going and coming so often from the studio to the musee and from the musee to the studio, the picture knew the road so well that, if one had set it on wheels, it would have been able to go all alone to the Louvre.

Marcel, who had ten times repainted and rearranged this canvas from top to bottom, attributed to a personal hostility of the members of the jury against himself the ostracism which rejected it annually from the Square salon, and in his idle moments he had composed in honor of the Cerberuses of the institute a little dictionary of curses with some illustrations of a savage ferocity. This collection, which had become celebrated, had obtained in the studios and at the School of the Fine Arts the popular success which is attached to the immortal complaint of Jean Belin, painter in ordinary to the grand sultan of Turkey. All the daubers of Paris had a copy of it in their memory.

For a long time Marcel was not discouraged by the determined rejections which he received at each annual exhibition. He was comfortably settled in the opinion that his picture was, in its least proportions, the long sought for pendant to the "Marriage Feast at Cana," that gigantic masterpiece whose brilliant splendor the dust of three centuries has not been able to tarnish. So, every year at the epoch of the salon, Marcel sent his picture to be examined by the jury. Only—in order to throw the examiners off the scent and to try to baffle them in their preconceived determination to exclude it, which prejudice they seemed to have against the "Crossing of the Red Sea"—without changing anything in the general composition of the painting, he modified certain details and changed the title of his picture. Thus, one year it came before the jury under the name of "The Crossing of the Rubicon." But Pharaoh, badly disguised under Cæsar's mantle, was instantly recognized and rejected with all the honors due him.

The following year Marcel threw upon the foreground of his canvas a layer of white paint to represent snow, planted a tree in one corner, and dressing up an Egyptian in the uniform of the imperial guard of France he baptized his picture "The Crossing of the Beresina." The jury, which had rubbed up its spectacles that day upon the tails of its green palmed coats—on official occasions the members of the institute wear dress coats having green palms embroidered on the lapels and collars—was not duped by this new ruse. It recognized perfectly the obstinate canvas, especially by a big devil of a many colored horse that pranced about on top of a wave of the Red sea. The dressing of this horse served Marcel for all his experiments in coloring, and in his everyday speech he called it "a synoptical tableau of fine tones," because it reproduced all the most varied combinations of color with their plays of light and shade. But once more, unmoved by this fine detail, the jury had not black balls enough to fully express their feelings in rejecting "The Crossing of the Beresina."

"Very well," said Marcel, "I'll wait! Next year I shall send it again under the title of the 'Passage des Panoramas.'"

A few days later, and when Macrel had already forgotten terrible threats of vengeance he had uttered against his persecutors, he received a visit from Father Medicis. Thus the bohemians had nicknamed a Jew named Solomon, who at that epoch was well known to all members of artistic and literary Bohemia, with whom he was in perpetual relations. Pere Medicis did business in all sorts of bric-a-brac. He sold complete sets of furniture at from 12 francs up to 3,000. He bought everything and knew how to sell it again at a profit.

The exchange bank of M. Proudhon was a very little affair compared to the system applied by Medicis, who possessed the genius of traffic to a degree never before attained by even the most able of his fellow believers. His shop, which was situated in the Place du Carrousel, was a fairyland where one found everything to be desired. All the products of nature, all the creations of art, all that comes forth from the bowels of the earth and of genius, Medicis made of it an object of negotiation.

His business touched everything, absolutely everything that exists; he dealt even in the ideal. Medicis bought ideas in order to exploit them himself or to sell them again. Known to all the litterateurs and all the artists, an intimate of the palette and a familiar friend of the writing desk, he was the Asmodeus of the art. He would sell you some cigars for the plot of a novel, some slippers for a sonnet, some fresh fish for paradoxes; he chatted "by the hour" with writers whose business it was to relate in the newspapers the scandal of society; he would procure you places in the galleries of the house of parliament and invitations to private soirees; he lodged by the night, the week or the month the wandering danbers who paid him in copies of the works of Flavius Josephus.

On entering the house of the bohemians, with that intelligent air which distinguished him, the Jew divined that he had arrived at a propitious moment. In fact, the four friends found themselves at that moment met in council, and under the presidency of a ferocious appetite they were discussing the grave question of bread and meat. It was on a Sunday, and the end of the month! Fatal day and sinister date! The entrance of Medicis was therefore greeted with a joyous chorus, for they knew that the Jew was too miserly of his time to spend it in visits of mere politeness. Therefore his presence always announced an affair of business.

"M. Marcel," said Medicis, "I have come here solely to make your fortune. That is to say, I've come to offer you a superb chance to enter the artistic world. Art, as you well know, M. Marcel, is an arid road of which glory is the oasis."

"Pere Medicis," said Marcel, on the hot coals of impatience, "in the name of 50 per cent, you venerated patron saint, be brief!"

"This is the affair," said Medicis. "A wealthy lover of paintings who is making a collection of pictures destined to make the tour of Europe has ordered me to procure for him a series of remarkable works. I have come to offer you an entrance into that gallery of art. In a word, I have come to buy your 'Crossing of the Red Sea.'"

"Cash?" said Marcel.

"Cash," responded the Jew, making the orchestra in his breeches pocket play a lively tune.

"Go on, Medicis," said Marcel, displaying his painting. "I wish to leave to yourself the honor of fixing the price of this work, which is beyond all price."

The Jew placed on the table 50 crowns in beautiful new silver pieces.

"Go on," said Marcel; "that is only the advance guard."

"M. Marcel," said Medicis, "you well know I shall add nothing. Reflect! Fifty crowns. That makes 150 francs. That's a sum, that is!"

"A feeble sum," replied the artist. "Why, know that my first word is always my last, merely in the robe of my Pharaoh there are 50 crowns' worth of cobalt. Pay me at least the material. Equalize those piles, round up the figures, and I will call you Leo X."

"Here's my last word," said the Jew. "I'll not add a sou more, but I offer a dinner to all of you, various wines at your own discretion, and at the dessert I'll pay in gold."

"Does any gentleman wish to make any further bid?" yelled Colline, rapping three times with his fist on the table. "Going, going, gone!"

"Agreed," said Marcel.

"I will send for the picture tomorrow," said the Jew. "Now let us start, gentlemen; the table is laid."

The four friends descended the stairs, singing the chorus from "Les Huguenots," "A table, a table!"

Eight days after that feast Marcel learned in what gallery his picture had taken its place. While walking through the Faubourg Saint Honore he stopped in the midst of a group that was gazing with curiosity at the hanging of a sign over a shop. That sign was none other than Marcel's famous picture, sold by Medicis to a dealer in provisions. Only, the "Crossing of the Red Sea" had once more suffered a modification and bore a new title. Some one had added to it a steamboat and had called it, "At the Port of Marseilles." A flattering ovation arose among the loungers when they discovered the painting. So Marcel turned away, delighted by this triumph, and murmured, "The voice of the people is the voice of God!"—Boston Transcript.

Politeness Pays.

"I have often heard my uncle," said the nephew of a noted lawyer who died lately, "dwell upon the fact that he owed much of his success in life to a habit of invariable politeness, without any element of todyism, which had been instilled into his nature by the teachings of a wise mother. His first start in his profession came through an old scrubwoman who was employed about the house where he boarded when a young man. One morning he passed out as she was scrubbing the front steps, and he saluted her politely, as usual. She stopped him. 'They tell me ye are a lawyer,' she said. 'Yes.' 'Well, I know a poor widdy woman that wants a lawyer, and if you will give me your address I'll tell her.' The 'poor widdy' proved to be the chief heir to a large estate in Delaware county. My uncle became her attorney and trustee of her children, recovered her interest in the estate and derived a good income from its management for many years."—Philadelphia Record.

Roaming Chinese Tribes.

In the plains on the western borders of the Chinese empire, in the very heart of Asia, there live roaming tribes who seldom visit towns, except it may be in the way of trade. They dwell in tents which they pitch wherever they may happen for the moment to be wandering or working. The tent used by some of the roving Mongolian folk is made of felt and is usually low, small and pointed toward the top. The wooden door frame is no higher than half a window frame in our houses, but the tent, although not equal to the wants of a large family, is snug and comfortable enough in summer, but cold in winter. —Western Mail.

Sells Worthless Securities.

There is an individual in New York who makes a good living by dealing in securities which have a purely speculative value, and which, in many cases, are known to be worthless. He buys these cheap for cash and sells them to men who go into fraudulent bankruptcies and want to make a showing of assets to their creditors. He has been making money in it for years and has had a share in filling out the schedules of a great many bankrupts who have taken advantage of his sagacity in supplying them with collateral.—New York Letter.

PATENTS
NOTICE TO INVENTORS.
THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

Giving Wine Away.

There is such a tremendous quantity of wine in Spain this year that they absolutely do not know what to do with it. Good red wines are being sold for 3 farthings a quart, and even at that price there are not enough purchasers to take it all, and in many places the winegrowers are simply throwing it away, because they have no room to keep it and cannot sell it. IRON ORE IS FREE.

The Internal Revenue Bill Is Now Before the House.

THE FEDERAL ELECTIONS BILL

Reviewed In a Forcible Manner by Senator Lodge.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—The house quickly went into committee of the whole, with Mr. Richardson in the chair.

The early part of the day was given to a consideration of the amendments to the iron ore schedule, which came over from Tuesday as unfinished business. The pending amendments were one proposed by Mr. Oates, proposing a duty of 40 cents a ton, and another by Mr. Taylor, proposing to substitute for the iron ore schedule of the Wilson bill the provisions of the McKinley law. Both amendments were defeated, thus leaving iron ore on the free list.

Amendments were then offered to the paragraph of the bill which put agricultural implements on the free list, the first being presented by Mr. Robbins, and provided for the addition of cotton machinery to the free list. This was followed by a substitute presented by Mr. Payne, which proposed to strike out Mr. Robbins' amendment and insert a retaliation or reciprocal provision.

Mr. Terry offered an amendment to the amendment which had for its object the free admission of agricultural implements and cotton machinery.

An amendment was offered to the substitute by Mr. Hare providing for a tax of 35 per cent ad valorem on agricultural implements from this country free of duty.

The Internal Revenue Bill.

The action was taken on the amendments, and when, just before the hour arrived at which the house should take a recess, Mr. McMillin arose to report the internal revenue bill, containing the income tax feature, a sharp fight was precipitated. The New York delegation tried to effect an adjournment to prevent the report, but were beaten on every move, and the bill was then reported, after which the house took a recess until 8 o'clock.

At the night session Messrs. Wagner, Johnson, Moon, Keifer, Hines and Updegraff spoke against the bill, and Messrs. Ryan, Baker, Iker and Cummings spoke in favor of it.

In the Senate.

The vice president laid before the senate a letter from Mrs. Curtis, tendering to the senate a bust of Charles Sumner, owned by her late husband. Mrs. Curtis is the widow of George William Curtis, and the bust had been presented to him by the commonwealth of Massachusetts. The letter was referred to the committee on the library.

The resolution reported from the committee on foreign relations against the consideration, at present, of any project of annexation of the Hawaiian Islands to the United States was laid before the senate.

After some discussion the resolution went over without action, and the unfinished business was taken up, being the house bill to repeal the federal elections law.

Mr. Lodge Speaks.

Mr. Lodge addressed the senate in opposition to the bill.

Mr. Lodge reviewed the decisions of the supreme court regarding the unconstitutionality of the national elections law and gave a history of the origin of the elections law, saying that it grew out of certain gigantic frauds in New York in 1870. He briefly quoted from the official returns of registration and balloting on that occasion and analyzed the figures to show the irregularities.

Mr. Lodge cited a number of instances of loose naturalization, some where the papers had been left at the house of the immigrants after they had been but a few days in New York. He gave a summarized history of the doings of John Y. McKane of Gravesend, L. I., at the election, and said that in national elections for congressmen it becomes the duty of the United States to protect its voters against such crimes as those perpetrated at Gravesend. While such outrages as these are possible in our northern cities, the voters of the United States have a right to demand that the national power should be exerted to prevent their occurrence at congressional elections.

Elections In the South.

Touching upon the elections in the south, Mr. Lodge said: "In the south the case is widely different, for there the subject is complicated with a race question and with sentiments which are the evil legacies of slavery and civil war. The future of the negro race in the United States is one of the gravest problems to be met by the American people. It is not a problem which can be settled this year or next. The right solution of the problem is a matter of vast importance to the welfare of the republic, and the burden of it rests upon us all alike.

"Thus the case stands today. The suffrage is given to the negro with one hand and taken away with the other. With him we 'keep the word of promise to the ear and break it to the hope.' He has just emerged from slavery. The United States has no power to protect him, except when he votes for congressmen, and in that vote he should have every protection, and not only the advantage of the law which it is proposed to repeal, but far better laws.

Negro Vote Suppressed.

"I have tried to show that this law should not be repealed, because citizens of the United States, entitled to its protection, are either deprived of their right to vote for congressmen, or are threatened with such deprivation.

"No one doubts that the negro vote—whether Republican or Democratic, it matters not—has been suppressed as such throughout the south. When such facts exist we should have proper elections law.

"But the crowning defect of this law and of the efforts which have been made to add to it, is not that it goes too far, but that it is ill constructed and does not go far enough. National elections—elections, that is, of congressmen—are, by the constitution, wholly within the power of congress. Congress should exert that power. The United States has no right to meddle in any way with state, city or county elections, and in my theory of the constitution the state should not be permitted to meddle in any way with elections of members of the national house.

"The present attempt is an effort to invade the domain of national authority, to break down national power, to sweep from the statute books any recognition of national rights. On this ground I oppose this bill. And I also oppose it because I believe that national elections, separate from all local elections, should be under the control and conduct of the United States, to the end that citizens of the United States, when in that capacity they exercise their highest right, might be able to do so without fear or favor.

When Mr. Lodge finished speaking the bill went over.

MRS. MAPLESON DEAD.

She Had Acquired a World-Wide Reputation as a Singer.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Laura Schirmer Mapleson died yesterday at the Everett House of pneumonia, the result of a cold contracted at Pittsburg.

Her husband said for the past week she had been gradually sinking, and he knew it was only a question of a few hours. Dr. Mott applied all manner of restoratives, hoping against hope to keep her alive until her mother, Mme. Schirmer, should arrive from Boston, having left there on the 10 o'clock train. But the heart failed to respond, and she died precisely as the clock struck 12.

The stage career of the deceased, from the moment almost of her debut, when a girl of 7 years, in December, 1869, has been a romantic and brilliant one. Besides playing the piano and organ, as if by instinct, the child could sing the most difficult music at sight, and possessed the gift of improvisation to a remarkable degree.

Miss Schirmer was repeatedly taken to Europe by her mother and benefited by the instruction of the greatest masters of the time. She made her first appearance in New York on Feb. 9, 1879, at a concert.

She gave such a satisfactory performance that she was at once engaged for a season of grand opera, in which she first appeared at the Globe theater, Boston, in 1879. Miss Schirmer was trained in grand opera, and the next season her repertory embraced "Lucia," "Faust," "Fra Diavolo" and "Somnambula."

Mme. Mapleson at length made her debut in opera as Lucia at Pisa on Feb. 14, 1884. In Milan she met and married Arthur Byron, a tenor. At the conclusion of an operatic tour of the continental capitals she attracted the attention of Abdul Hamud II, Sultan of Turkey, and was appointed the imperial Ottoman court singer, at a fabulous salary. Mr. Byron died in Constantinople, but Mme. Mapleson remained at the sultan's court for two years.

After that she appeared in Paris as Ophelia, and was married to Henry Mapleson there. Mme. Schirmer Mapleson sang in Berlin, London and other European cities, and then came to America.

EIGHT UNFORTUNATES

Roasted Alive In a Fire Trap Belonging to a County Poorhouse.

BOONE, Ia., Jan. 25.—The building on the Boone county poor farm, in which the incurably insane were confined, was destroyed by fire, and eight of the nine inmates were burned to death. It is not known how the fire originated unless a defective flue was the cause.

The building burned was an old two-story frame structure, which was as dry as tinder. To add to the inflammable nature of the place, many of the partitions were padded with cotton and some of the bed clothing was of cotton batting three inches thick. This was because the incurably insane who returned from the state asylum were kept there. These patients were nearly all violent and the great amount of cotton padding was used to prevent them injuring themselves.

The building was heated by a furnace which was last summer condemned as unsafe, and the fire undoubtedly resulted from neglect to replace this furnace with a better one. Keeper Holcomb says he first knew of the fire when alarmed by Mrs. Hibbard, the only inmate who escaped from the building. He was in the main building which stands about three feet from the crazy house.

When he got out doors the flames were bursting from all of the windows of the frame structure and it was a mass of flame inside. He burst open a door, but was driven back by the flames, which, in a few minutes, had burned the building to the ground.

The main building was saved by pouring water, which the heat of the fire melted from a huge snowdrift alongside the building. There seems to have been no attendant of any kind in the building where the insane people were locked up.

Looks Bad For Prawda.

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 25.—The jury in the Prawda case went to Yarmouth yesterday afternoon to inspect the house in which Mrs. Myers was murdered. The proceedings have shown that the government has a stronger case against Prawda than at first thought. The defence is said to have evidence of a startling nature to disclose. Great interest is shown in the trial here, which promises to rival the Lizzie Borden trial.

Dynamite In a Car Stove.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Jan. 25.—Just as the Missouri, Kansas and Texas train was leaving San Marcos, a dynamite cartridge, which had been placed in the smoking car stove, exploded, half the car being shattered into pieces. Two men were instantly killed and six others were injured.

A Society Event.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—The Count De Langier Villar, secretary of the French legation in Hayti, and Miss Carola Livingston, eldest daughter of John Livingston, were married in St. Patrick's cathedral by Archbishop Corrigan.

Found In the Woods.

HARTFORD, Jan. 25.—The body of Miss Minnie Porter, who wandered away from her home in Norwalk, Jan. 6, was found in the woods not far from her home yesterday afternoon by a farmer. Miss Porter was wealthy and mildly insane.

Carlisle Not Disturbed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Secretary Carlisle is not in the least disturbed by the statements as to the validity of the proposed new bond issue. The attempt to discredit these bonds, he says, will have no effect whatever.

Fifteen Persons Were Killed.

BERLIN, Jan. 25.—A dispatch from Orenburg says that a passenger train collided with a freight train near Samara, Russia. Five naphtha trucks were set on fire and 15 persons lost their lives.

Bismarck's Visit to Berlin.

BERLIN, Jan. 25.—It is reported Prince Bismarck will arrive in Berlin on Friday in order to enable him to be present at the emperor's birthday celebration on Jan. 27.

HOW TO BECOME PRETTY.

Timely Hints as to the Acquisition of Loveliness.

The hot bath is the bath most esteemed by our world famed beautiful women, so hot at first to be carefully entered; this done with due caution, let the water be fragrant with benzoin and foaming with the finest of soap. Use a linen or Turkish washrag and rub and scrub every inch of the body until it is glowing with healthy vigor. After the scrub, let out the hot water very gradually while the cold spigot empties the cold into the bath—but you must not get out—and the temperature of the bath will be so gradually reduced that no shock will be felt; then rinse as carefully as possible, and you will rise from it feeling splendidly.

The diet is of almost as much import as bathing. Avoid pastry, French sweets, fat meat and gravies. Eschew pork if you would have a beautiful skin. Choose cereals, lean meat, beef, mutton, fowls, fish, fruit and all vegetables, salads, greens and lettuce simply dressed. Avoid every kind of diet that is of oleaginous nature. For an oily face use benzoin lotion frequently and a triweekly vapor bath. Freckles are stubborn things to many, but the use of lemon juice and borax very often meets with great success.

How Small Photographs Were Called "Cartes de Visites."

The photographic portraits called "cartes de visites" were so designated because the Duke of Parma, in 1857, had his portrait photographed by M. Ferrier at Nice, and copies affixed to his visiting cards—a fashion which soon extended to Paris and London. The name is still used all over the civilized world, though no longer applicable.

How to Cleanse Red Tablecloths.

Turkey red cloths, if of good quality, will wash without fading, but it is a wise precaution to put a handful of black pepper in the first wash water for any colored napery.

Red cloth must not be starched. For buff or cream ones, use starch colored with clear black coffee. Very delicate tints are somewhat preserved by soaking before washing in sugar of lead water for half an hour.

Very fine or delicate doilies are best cleaned with naphtha.

Lay them in a white earthen vessel and cover with the fluid; agitate rapidly. If all the dirt is not removed, put into another vessel and pour on more naphtha. They will of course need several days' airing to be rid of the smell.

If not too much soiled, they may be pinned out on a table covered with a sheet and strewn thickly with powdered cornstarch. Rub it well in, let it remain half an hour, then brush off with a soft brush, after which lay your doilies a few minutes in the sun or before the stove and shake or beat out against the hands the little starch that clings to them.

Embroidered bits, such as traycloths, center pieces and carving cloths, may be cleaned by covering them with good white soapsuds and setting them for two hours in sunshine, after which rinse and hang to drain, without wringing, and iron as directed for an embroidered cloth.

How Ivory May Be Prepared For Painting.

Ivory may be prepared as a ground for miniature painting by cleansing the leaves or plates and rubbing them over with the juice of garlic. This will remove its greasy quality, which prevents the color from fixing on the ground, and it is said to be more useful than either soap or ox gall.

How to Shine In Society.

A notebook, a retentive memory and an ordinary command of the English language are necessary if you want to become a brilliant conversationist.

Into the notebook should go those good stories, those admirable bits of repartee, which are floating about. Anecdotes about persons who are of passing interest should also be jotted down.

It is even advisable for the would be conversationist to go to those older and more brilliant than herself and humbly ask to be "coached." It would be a mark of flattering regard for which the coacher ought to be willing to pay in choice jokes and rare stories—always provided that he or she did not need the entire stock on hand for the same dinner. There need be no deceit about using such stories. The woman who says, "Oh, by the way, have you heard Mr. Jones' last?" will have satisfied every claim of honesty, and at the same time will have contributed to the success of the party. And if one is willing to study colors and styles for one's dinner gown why not stories for one's table talk?

How to Wash Merino Stockings.

Wash them in a warm lather made by boiling soap in water, then rinse in another lather, also warm. Merino must not be rubbed with soap, nor washed or rinsed in cold water.

Why Inks Are Called "Invisible."

Sympathetic inks are preparations used for forming characters which only become visible on the application of heat or of some chemical agent. Many chemicals which form in themselves colorless solutions, but which develop color under the influence of re-agents, may be used as sympathetic inks, but they are of little practical utility. Characters written in a weak solution of gall develop a dark color on being treated with a weak solution of copperas, or vice versa. Writings done in various preparations develop color on heating, which fades as the paper cools. Among such substances are solutions of the acetate and the chloride of cobalt and the chloride of nickel. Characters traced in a weak solution of nitrate of silver darken on exposure to light.

PATENTS
FOR INVENTIONS.
Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.
With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to
Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.
If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

CORBETT SHOWED NO MERCY.

England's Champion Hammered by the American Gladiator.

MITCHELL SIMPLY WASN'T IN IT.

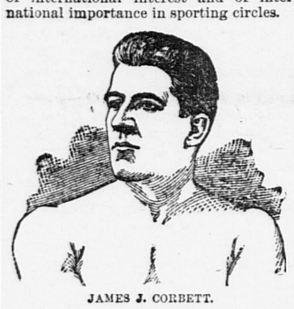

Was Completely Knocked Out In the Third Round.

Those In the Ring Had All They Could Do to Restrain Corbett From Punishing His Antagonist While Lying Down. Formality of Shaking Hands Dispensed With Upon Entering the Ring, but the Chasm Between Them Is Bridged After the Battle—Records of the Conqueror and the Defeated.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 26.—All things considered, the battle between James J. Corbett and Charles Mitchell was the most important event in the annals of the prize ring. It marked a turning point in fistic athletics.

Corbett belongs to the new school of scientific boxers, representing perhaps the most advanced ideas in that line of pugilists. Mitchell, while not strictly identified with the old line, received his earliest impressions and much of his earlier training from the old bare-knuckle boxers, and was reared in that pugilistic atmosphere which was largely responsible for the longevity of the rules of the London prize ring, and for the tardiness with which those of the Marquis of Queensbury crept into public favor on either side of the Atlantic.

There has been no great event in the prize ring since the defeat of John L. Sullivan by Corbett in September, 1892, and the class and records, as well as the standing and the titles of the two men, gave the contest from the very day that it was first suggested an unusual degree of international interest and of international importance in sporting circles.

JAMES J. CORBETT.

In order to fully appreciate this condition it will be necessary to glance at the records of the two men. They both are young, but they had both been fighting as an occupation almost since they were boys. Mitchell is five years older than Corbett, but he fought his first pitched battle when he was only 16 years of age, while Corbett was 18, and had, perhaps, a longer training than the Englishman prior to "coming out" as a fighter.

Story of the Fight.

It was a short, sharp and decisive fight. It was a foregone conclusion from the moment the men stepped to the center of the ring, and Corbett refused to shake hands with the man who had so informally abused and insulted him. There was all but murder in Corbett's eyes.

They faced each other, and the intense feeling of hatred almost gave Corbett the fight as he cornered the Englishman, and as his long arms shot out with the force of a catapult there was vengeance in the wind.

Mitchell showed wonderful cleverness in the beginning in feeling out of the close quarters into which the superior size, reach and weight of his opponent bore him, but there was no faltering in Corbett's plan of campaign, and he slowly surrounded the Briton, raining in upon his head and sides a shower of savage punches. There was despair in Mitchell's face as he tried vainly to elude his agile pursuer, and finally, when Corbett closed with his opponent in an off corner, Mitchell realized that it was no longer possible for him to escape the battery of the American.

He pluckily tried to spar, and failing, sought to clinch, but Corbett finally beat him off and with a sharp blow on the side of the jaw brought the Englishman on all fours. With the cheers of his friends ringing in his ears, and with the memories of the past crowding fast upon him, Corbett lost his head, and with the agility of a tiger and the terrible anger of a lion sprang toward the pitiable Englishman on the rough rosined platform and describing a semi-circle with his right tried to land a knockout blow.

Twice he tried this, but Mitchell's weak and wobbling body saved the American from foolishly sacrificing the honor and the glory that have come to him from his decisive battle with the Englishman. There were cries of foul, though the sentiment of the vast throng was then plainly with the American. Corbett's seconds, with presence of mind, shoved through the ropes. John Kelly ran to the side of the downfallen pugilist and Corbett was dragged away.

Mitchell was conscious and he knew that Corbett was standing over him ready to deal without mercy the blow that should end the fight. When the Englishman finally struggled to his feet, Corbett, without a tithe of pity, pounded his big gloves into the face of his foe until the latter staggered and fell against the ropes

MIGHTY BISMARCK

Given a Reception Which an Emperor Might Be Proud Of.

BERLIN, Jan. 26.—The general public was not admitted to the Hanoverian railroad station upon the arrival there, at noon today, of Prince Bismarck. The governor of Berlin and the commander of the garrison were upon the platform with their respective staffs, and welcomed the ex-chancellor and Prince Henry of Prussia. Emperor William's brother welcomed Bismarck on behalf of the emperor.

Prince Bismarck was escorted to the castle by a detachment of Cuirassiers of the Guard. At the castle lunch was served, at which only the imperial family and Prince Bismarck were present. The decorations of the route from the railroad station to the castle were profuse, and every window which could be hired was engaged at a fabulous price.

The different societies alone gave the man of blood and iron a reception which even an emperor might be proud to receive.

AT IT AGAIN.

Bridgeport Street Car Employes Again Tie Up the Traction Road.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Jan. 26.—The employes of the Traction company struck again last evening. At 6 o'clock all the cars, with one exception, were run into the barn. A crowd ran one car down the street and overturned it. The trouble started when two new men were put on whom the old men refused to instruct in their duties, claiming they were not members of the union.

The carmen state that they returned to work on the condition that their union be recognized, but this the company officials deny. A special police detail guard the company's property. The strikers have determined to stay out until their full demands are satisfied. The company will not accede to the strikers' demand, and will start cars with men from out of town, looking to the city for aid and protection

An Ill Omen Indeed.

VIENNA, Jan. 26.—When M. Simitsch tried to read to the skuptschina the king's rescript proroguing the house, the Radicals created a scene of indescribable uproar, shaking their fists at Simitsch, stamping upon the floor, banging their desks and all shouting: "Clear out; we won't hear you." The reception of the premier is regarded as an ill omen to the new ministry.

A Bad Crowd.

RICHMOND, Me., Jan. 26.—Police Officer Rowe was jumped upon and knocked down by a gang of tramps yesterday afternoon. The parties were quartered in the lockup and met the officer at the door as he approached from the outside and choked and beat him. They fled at the sight of approaching aid. Three of the gang were captured after a hard struggle.

A FEW AMENDMENTS

To the Wilson Tariff Bill Accepted In the House.

M'KINLEY RECIPROCITY CLAUSE

Specifically Repealed by an Amendment of Wilson's.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—As soon as the journal was read in the house Mr. Cockran took the first filibustering step against the income tax bill by suggesting the absence of a quorum. The rollcall showed the presence of 202 members—13 more than a quorum.

At 11:30 the house went into committee of the whole to consider the tariff bill, and Mr. Richardson took the chair.

When the house took a recess Wednesday there were pending four amendments to the agricultural implement schedule. The first was one offered by Mr. Robbins putting cotton machinery on the free list. To this Mr. Payne proposed a substitute striking out the above amendment and providing for reciprocity.

The last amendment was one offered by Mr. Hare to the substitute of Mr. Payne, and provided for a tariff of 35 per cent on agricultural implements, with provisions for reciprocity.

Even after the house went into committee of the whole, Mr. Cockran continued to fight against the income tax bill and tried to block every move made by the majority.

Five Minutes Each.

The rule limiting debate to five minutes was strictly enforced, and brief speeches were made by Messrs. Marsh, Wheeler, Dingley and Springer.

Mr. Cockran continued his fight, and one by one all the pending amendments were lost. The standing vote on the original amendment offered by Mr. Robbins was—yeas, 63; nays, 130. and the amendment was lost.

Mr. Wilson, after other amendments had been offered and defeated, offered several amendments which were agreed to without debate. One was to take crude opium from the free list, and impose a tax of $1 per pound. The clause regarding binding twine was amended so as to include that made from New Zealand hemp. A tariff of 15 per cent ad valorem (instead of 20 per cent) was also imposed on cod liver oil.

On an amendment making a change in the phraseology of the button schedule, Mr. Tracey began to filibuster, and made the point of no quorum. Tellers were appointed and the amendment was agreed to when a quorum was procured. Mr. Breckinridge offered an amendment changing the phraseology of the section referring to colors and dyes, and as it met with the approval of Mr. Wilson, the amendment was adopted.

An amendment was also adopted adding to the medals of gold, silver or copper entitled to free admission, and other metallic articles manufactured as trophies or prizes and actually received as trophies of honor or distinction.

Reciprocity.

Mr. Wilson offered an amendment specifically repealing the reciprocity clause of the McKinley law.

This precipitated a discussion of some length. Toward the close Mr. Cockran spoke in support of the action taken by the committee on ways and means. After Mr. Wilson had spoken the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. Wilson then proposed an amendment fixing the duty on chocolate worth not exceeding 35 cents a pound at 2 cents a pound; chocolate confectionery, 25 per cent ad valorem. Mr. Morse spoke against the amendment and suggested a tariff of 4 cents a pound. Mr. Wilson's amendment was agreed to.

An amendment was then offered to the oil schedule, striking out the reciprocity feature. This was carried.

Just before the last vote was taken, Mr. Sickles delivered an earnest plea against the proposed income tax.

Mr. Wilson offered another amendment, which provided that the schedule relating to dolls' heads, bisque figures, etc., should go into effect on Oct. 1, 1894.

The house then took a recess.

At the night session Mr. Hicks took strong ground against the Wilson bill and denounced it as an act to abolish revenue and to destroy American industries. The other speakers were Hutchison, Cobb, Goodnight and Hines.

In the Senate.

In the senate a proposition of the National Reform association to amend the preamble to the constitution so as to make it recognize the divinity of Jesus Christ was presented by Mr. Frye and referred to the judiciary committee.

The Hawaiian resolutions were laid aside without action, and Mr. Allen addressed the senate in advocacy of the resolution declaring the proposed issue of 5 per cent bonds illegal.

At the conclusion of Mr. Allen's speech his resolution went over without action, and the house bill to repeal the federal elections law was taken up, and Mr. Chandler concluded the speech he began a few days ago. Mr. Call and Mr. Frye took some part in the debate, and then the bill went over without action.

Business was suspended to pay tribute to the memory of the late Representative Chipman of Michigan. Eulogies were delivered by several senators, resolutions were adopted, and then the senate, as a further token of respect, adjourned.

Against Prawda.

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 26.—The Prawda murder case was resumed yesterday. The first witness was Dr. Hanson of Yarmouth. He said that he was called at 7:50 o'clock, Nov. 28, to attend Mrs. Meyer; he found her badly wounded in the face and with her jaw shattered; this wound was the direct cause of her death. The bulk of the testimony was against Prawda.

Editorial Comment.

IT IS said to have been only Brockton luck that stopped the conflagration in that city. Quincy is lucky not to have such fires.

BROCKTON COUNCILMEN went on record Thursday evening in favor of increase in salary of several city officials, while in Woburn a special committee was appointed to revise and reduce salaries.

WEST QUINCY people who received the DAILY LEDGER yesterday before 3.30 were surprised to read therein of the fire in their midst which had occurred within an hour. LEDGER enterprise was complimented, and the publishers are encouraged to print news while it is news.

INSTEAD OF a district government as is proposed for "Greater Boston," would it not be much more advisable to enlarge Suffolk county to include all these cities and towns. A regular county government could then be established with a board of three or twenty-five commissioners under special laws if desirable, and everything accomplished that could be done by a district government. With a national government, a state government, a county government, and a city government, there is quite enough conflict without a district government.

A RETURN VISIT.

Members of the Barre Granite Manufacturing Association to Visit Quincy.

Our city is to have an important visitation in February, from the members of the Barre, Vermont, Granite Manufacturers Association. A vote to that effect was taken at a meeting held Tuesday evening, and the excursionists will leave Barre, Sunday evening, Feb. 11, by a special train, arriving in Quincy Monday morning.

The association numbers 140 members and they are said to be enthusiastic over the visit. They should be given a good reception in this city, and the Quincy granite men who were pleasantly entertained in Barre last summer, will certainly do their utmost in this direction. The citizens generally should unite with the granite men as they did in Barre, providing a band to meet the visitors, and a banquet. Here is a chance for the new special committee of the City Council on Industries to do something to show that in Quincy, granite men are appreciated.

CONCERT AND DANCE.

A Pleasing Programme and an Enjoyable Evening at West Quincy.

The Ladies' Auxiliary C. T. A. of West Quincy held its second social in St. Mary's hall. Thursday evening. A very pleasing concert was given, consisting of the following numbers:

Solo,	Mr. John Phelan
Selection,	Columbian Quartette
Duet—piano and violin,	Masters Harry and Bennie Fitzgerald
Solo,	Miss Lizzie McGowan

Selection,	Columbian Quartette
Banjo solo,	Mr. William Graig

Harmonica solo,	Mr. Charles Barron
Solo,	Mr. John Phelan

All were heartily encored. After the concert, dancing began, and at one o'clock the assembly broke up, everyone pleased with their evening's entertainment.

The success was due largely to the efforts of Miss Falvey, chairman of the entertainment committee, and her associates, Miss McGowan, Miss Barry and Miss Crowley.

Authors' Matinee.

The Authors' matinee at the Hollis Street Theatre, Boston, Thursday afternoon was more than well attended, every seat being taken. The affair was under the auspices of the New England Woman's Press association and was given for the benefit of the poor of Boston. It is thought that over $1000 will be realized, as the authors, singers and participants gave their services; the printing and flowers were given and the piano loaned, also Mr. Isaac B. Rich the proprietor of the Hollis Street Theatre with his usual open handed liberality gave the use of the theatre.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE.

Regulation of Bicycles—The Old Colony and the Consolidated.

BOSTON, Jan. 26.—Mr. Durant introduced a bill in the senate to regulate the passage and rate of speed of bicycles in the streets and public ways of cities and towns. The bill provides that in cities and towns of 1000 inhabitants the rate of speed shall not exceed eight miles an hour, and that there shall be attached to the bicycle a bell, whistle or other mechanical device, which shall be sounded at least six times when the bicycle is within 20 feet of a vehicle, horse or foot passenger, also at all street crossings. No vehicle shall be ridden at a greater speed than three miles an hour in that portion of a street occupied by a funeral procession. Bicycles shall not be ridden on sidewalks, and towns are required to post notices every 500 feet. Bicycles shall be kept under control when descending a grade. The act does not prevent children under 12 years of age using the sidewalks for velocipedes and tricycles. Penalties are affixed to the bill of not exceeding $20 fine in addition to damages.

A bill was introduced authorizing insurance companies to reinsure risks, but limiting a single hazard to one-tenth of a company's assets. A mutual boiler insurance company is allowed to insure not exceeding one-fourth of its net assets.

Senator Fitzgerald wanted to reconsider the action whereby his order touching the legality of the Old Colony lease was sent to the joint committee on railroads. The senator moved that the order be brought back from the house for reconsideration. The motion passed. The other branch, however, had adjourned. Senator Fitzgerald insisted that circumstances had robbed him of his rights. He gave notice that he would offer a similar order in the near future.

An order was offered, which was laid over, for an amendment of the rules so that the roll may be called on the request of one-eighth instead of one-fifth of the members. The object is to give the seven Democratic members power to demand a rollcall.

The house received the senate order calling upon the attorney general to inform the legislature as to the legality of the lease of the Old Colony Railroad to the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company, and the house concurred with the upper branch in sending the matter to the committee on railroads.

Yesterday's Fire.

The alarm from Box 45 at 2.25 P. M., Thursday was rung in for what at first looked like a bad fire in the house on California avenue owned and occupied by Patrick King. The fire originated in a bed in a back chamber and was doubtless caused by some careless smoker. The family down stairs were aware of the presence of smoke for some time before they discovered that it was their building that was on fire. When the department arrived the building was filled with smoke and it was almost impossible to tell just how much fire there was. Hose 3 soon had a good stream upon the fire which was quickly extinguished. The loss on the building will not exceed $10 and on the contents $15, both of which are insured in the Quincy Mutual.

THE COUNTY TAX.

Some Figures of Interest to the Taxpayers—Large Surplus Raised.

The movement of the County Commissioners to obtain authority to make a special loan of $125,000 for improvements, has led to an investigation of county expenditures and county taxes. For the ten years prior to 1892, the county tax was as follows:

Year.	Amount.
1882,	$62,000
1883,	65,000
1884,	55,000
1885,	60,000
1886,	60,000
1887,	60,000
1888,	68,000
1889,	80,000
1890,	85,000
1891,	105,000
	$700,000

Average for 10 years, $70,000.

During the above period there were several items of extra work such as:

Repairing Aqueduct about $3,000.
Repairing and Heating about $6,000.
Truant School about $13,000.
New drainage about $7,000.

While expenses have increased to some extent, the amount to be raisd by taxation need not exceed $85,000 a year for current expenses.

Contracts for Court house work, amount to about $155,000, for which amount the sum of $83,000 has already been paid, leaving a balance of $72,000, to be provided for.

There was a balance in the treasury Jan. 1, 1894, of $47,433.85. Deduct this amount from $72,000 leaves a balance of about $24,567 to be provided for.

For the last two years the county tax has been $140,000 a year, and as the ordinary expenses do not exceed $85,000, if the same amount, $140,000, is raised the present year it will furnish enough money to pay the ordinary expenses of the County, and furnish a surplus of $55,000 to be applied to finishing the work on the Court house. Is there any need of a special loan?

ANOTHER SCHEME.

A District Government for the Metropolitan District About the Hub.

Mr. Bennett of Everett introduced a bill in the Legislature Thursday authorizing appointment of three metropolitan district commissioners, who shall hold office for one year, from May 1, 1894; such commissioners to consider the advisability for the establishment of some form of district government for Boston and the surrounding cities and towns, generally denominated the "Metropolitan district," allowing each municipality independent government in local affairs, while providing for a general government in such matters as can be better managed for the general good than by individual municipalities separately. The report of the commissioners to be made to the next General Court.

WEYMOUTH.

Chief Engineer Thayer reports the number of fires for 1893 to be 23. The value of buildings was $11,100; damage to same, $3,296; insurance, $8,600; insurance paid, $2,046; value of contents, $6,009; damage to same, $1,009; insurance, $5,005; insurance paid, $4,008.

This does not include the Holbrook fire the insurance on which was $6,000 and the loss $8,000.

The value of the engine houses of the town is $13,000 and the apparatus $16,000.

The Town will be asked to make these appropriations: Salaries of firemen $2,200; care, fuel and supplies for the engine houses, $1,600; fire alarm $700; chemical extinguishers, $300; repairs of engine houses, $400.

MILTON.

Thomas Hope of Granite avenue is dangerously ill with typhoid pneumonia.

The Granite house is undergoing repairs and several new rooms are being finished.

The blacksmith shop at the corner of Granite avenue and Mechanic street is closed. No business is given as the cause.

Street Railway Superintendents.

Supt. Weeks of this city presided over the meeting of the Massachusetts Street Railway Superintendents' association on Thursday at the Quincy House, Boston. There were 28 out of 33 street railroads in the State represented. The matters discussed were: snow ploughs, ice cutting trolley wheels, best way of bonding rails, cost of running power stations and th subject of changing the name of the association to the New England Association. This matter will be decided upon at the next meeting. A banquet was served.

Wollaston Sociable.

The Wollaston Unitarians enjoyed their regular monthly sociable in the church parlors on Thursday evening. The new game of "stocks" amused the large company for upwards of an hour. The prize for the holder of the winning stock was given to Mrs. I. W. Faunce, and for the possessor of the largest number of beans to Mrs. Charles T. Baker. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the game.

WEYMOUTH.

The County Commissioners have just relocated Bridge street in this town, and small damages are awarded to the many abutters. It has been in use for over a century, yet there was no record of its ever having been laid out.

Gipsy Moth.

The annual report of the work that is being done toward exterminating the gipsy moth has been submitted to the State Board of Agriculture. Professor Fernald says the results of the work for the past year have been very encouraging. Various insecticides have been tried, including Paris green, Paris green and lime, London purple, acetate of lead, maiden white, Moulton's insectine and gypsine. The best results have been obtained from the last, which while being destructive to the caterpillars, is not in the least injurious to the foliage. Experiments were begun in 1891 toward entrapping the male moths by the females. In the spring of 1893 Professor Shaler recommended that the monitor trap be tried on a large scale. Fifteen traps were exposed in Malden and 1771 male moths were caught. This is an effectual method of preventing an increase of the insects which is very inexpensive, and will doubtless be made more use of. Why would it not be well that the commission should destroy other noxious insects as well as the gipsy moth?

Tongue Twisters.

SOCIAL ASPECT OF GOOD ROADS.

Advantages Improved Highways Would Bring to the Farmer's Family.

The social effect of good roads upon country life cannot be overestimated. The improvement of our highways would do away with much of the difficulty of visiting in our rural districts. Bad roads often render social intercourse almost impossible. The evening is dark, there are no side paths or lampposts along the way, the roads are almost impassable with mud or drifted snow, and as the family look out toward the light in the window of their neighbor's house the gush of social life that a moment before was moving in full tide is now checked by these many difficulties. Life in the country, otherwise full of happiness, now sinks into a tame existence, all for the want of a pleasant highway connecting the homes of adjoining neighbors.

There can be no doubt that poor roads have much to do with the small attendance at our public schools. The country boy and girl obtain the greater part of their education in early life. After the age of 15 the children are busily engaged in the care of the farm or the dairy. During the late fall and winter when work upon the farm is at a standstill, there is an opportunity given for school attendance. But this is at the time when our public highways are at their worst, and the two or three miles between the farm and schoolhouse are traveled with the greatest difficulty. Were our highways in a proper condition the number of days of school attendance by these children would be more than doubled, and the preliminary education of the farmers' sons and daughters would be made to equal that of their city cousins, and a good common school education might be obtained where now even an ordinary intelligence is lacking.

Church attendance would also be greatly increased if our roads were uniformly good. During half the year the pleasure of church attendance is denied because of almost impassable highways. The Sabbath in the country becomes, therefore, a day of languor devoid of religious thought, with no care for religious teaching, instead of a day devoted to moral development and Christian attainments.

Our vital statistics show that a larger percentage of farmers, and especially of farmers' wives, become insane than any other class, and that the ratio of this insanity is increased in proportion as the parties are isolated from society. This ought not to be. The occupation of a farmer is not a disagreeable one; it is full of interest. Nature has a thousand charms for him that no other occupation would provide. But this condition results from his self imposed isolation, caused in many instances by neglected and impassable highways. In the old dungeons of a more barbarous age prisoners after a few years nearly all became demented. A complete separation from human sympathy and social intercourse was the cause of this insanity. This condition of things was only a little worse, however, than that often produced upon the farmer by impassable highways.

Open up the avenues of intercourse with schools, churches and society by improved roads and increased facilities for contact with our fellow men, and country life, otherwise beautiful and attractive, would become indeed what it should be—an approach to our original Eden.—N. G. Spalding in Good Roads.

Good Roads In Massachusetts.

Movements for state roads are in progress in nearly every part of Massachusetts. The commissioners say that there are some 20,000 miles of highway in the state, and that it is likely that about 10 per cent, or 2,000 miles, will sooner or later come under the provisions of the new law. The cost to the state in round numbers of this vast improvement is set at $10,000,000.

It is the plan of the commissioners to distribute the benefits among the different counties as equally as is practicable, considering their population and wealth. Figuring roughly, if each county should have from 10 to 15 miles of state road built in it each year, it would take from 10 to 15 years to complete the work for the 14 counties in the state. It is hoped that the state will be willing to carry on this large internal improvement at the rate of an appropriation of $500,000 every year.

A collection of roadbuilding material is being made at the office of the state commission. This collection includes rocks, gravels, sands and clays, and the idea is that eventually every part of the state will be represented, so that by turning to their cabinets the commissioners can tell at once what sort of material is at hand for building a road in any particular town, how far it must be hauled and how abundant it is.—Boston Herald.

What Is Needed.

What is chiefly needed in the agitation for good roads is the education of the people generally to appreciate their importance. The rural population have so long been satisfied with what they have in this respect that they hardly hope for anything better. If the demand for better highways can once be created they will be supplied beyond doubt.—New York Tribune.

The Bureau of Road Improvement.

In making of itself a bureau of road improvement and starting out to collect valuable information concerning the methods and cost of building good roads, the agricultural department is taking a step of vastly greater importance to the farmers of the country than any yet attempted by that vigorous branch of the executive government.—Kansas City Times.

HOW TO SLEEP.

The Matter of Position Is of Very Great Importance.

In sleeping, much depends on securing a comfortable position. Lying on the back would seem to give the most ease, but general experience and practice prove that it does not, and it is liable to some definite objections. In a weakly state of the heart and blood vessels, and in certain morbid conditions of the brain, the blood seems to gravitate to the back of the head and to produce troublesome dreams. Persons who have contracted chests, and who have had pleurisy and retain adhesions of the lungs do not sleep well on the back. Nearly all who are inclined to snore do so in that position.

For these and other reasons it is therefore better to lie on the side, and in lung disease to lie on the weak side, so as to leave the healthy lung free to expand. It is well to choose the right side, because, when the body is thus placed, the food gravitates more easily out of the stomach into the intestines.

Sleeping with the arm thrown over the head is to be deprecated, but this position is often assumed during sleep, because circulation is then free in the extremities and the head and neck, and the muscles in the chest are drawn up and fixed by the shoulders, and thus expansion of the thorax is easy. The chief objections to this position are that it creates a tendency to cramp and cold in the arms, and sometimes seems to cause headaches and dreams.

The best sleep is obtained when the shutters are closed so as to make the room dark and the windows are adjusted so as to admit plenty of fresh air.

How to Make Oyster Soup.

Two quarts of oysters, a quart of milk, 2 tablespoonfuls of butter, a teacupful of hot water, pepper, salt. Strain all the liquor from the oysters, add the water and heat. When near the boil, add the seasoning; then the oysters. Cook about five minutes from the time they begin to simmer until they "ruffle." Stir in the butter, cook one minute and pour into the tureen. Stir in the boiling milk and send to table.

How Smoked Glasses Show Spots on the Sun.

It may be pretty generally known that the spots on the sun can be quite easily seen with an opera glass. The spots on the sun observe, with considerable regularity, a period. At the minimum the spots are small and very few in number, so that a telescope of some power is needed, but at the maximum they are numerous and of large size. This period is about 11 years, and it is now nearly at its maximum.

To appreciate this properly it is well to remember the magnitude of the object we are observing, and from that one can easily judge the size of the spots. The diameter of the sun is about 880,000 miles, and in comparison to the earth is as a large carriage wheel to a marble. If, therefore, the spots observed appear to be about one-twentieth the diameter of the disk, they occupy space about 44,000 miles in diameter.

To view the sun, take a hazy morning or evening, when the intervening mist gives it the appearance of a dull red ball, or get a couple of pieces of glass large enough to cover the eye pieces of the opera glass and smoke one of them until you can look at the sun through it easily. Put two strips of card between the ends with the smoked surface inside and attach to the instrument with a similar rubber band.

It will be best to get your opera glasses accurately focused on some distant object before adjusting the darkened glasses to them.

How to Make Toilet Cushions.

Buy or make an oblong cushion, about 4 by 5 inches. Take a half yard of pink china silk, draw the threads and hemstitch the four sides, making a hem about an inch deep. Trim the edge of the hem with apple green silk cord and sew tassels of the same color on each corner. Place the cushion in the center of the silk and tie this over the cushion in Grecian knot.

How to Make Angel Apples.

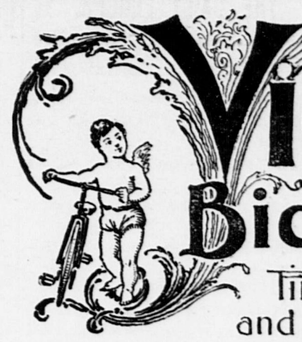

Peel them and carefully remove the cores, so that the apples remain whole. Put them into an enameled pan just large enough to hold them, and cover them with sirup made of sugar and water boiled together with a few cloves, and colored pink with cochineal. Put the pan into a moderate oven, and let the apples stew very gently till they become soft and clear without breaking. Remove them from the pan very carefully, and boil up the sirup in which they were stewed till it thickens sufficiently, adding a little more sugar if necessary. When the apples are quite cold, arrange them on a dish, fill them with apricot jam and put on the top of each a teaspoonful of cream or the same quantity of whipped cream; then pour the sirup around the apples.

How to Renew Wall Paper.

Wall paper that has become bruised or torn off in small patches and cannot be matched may be repaired with ordinary children's paints. Mix the colors till you get as nearly as possible the desired shade, and lightly touch up the broken places and at the distance of a foot or two the disfigurement will be quite unnoticed.

How Tattoo Marks May Be Taken Off.

Wash a bunch of six or eight cambric needles bound together with silk thread, dip them in glycerole of papoid and drive them with a sharp blow into the tattooed part. This is repeated over the entire stain and must be thorough to be effective. The method is said to cause no inflammatory reaction. The digestive principle of the papoid is disseminated about the deposit of pigment, thus liberating it, a portion is absorbed in a finely divided state by the lymphatics, another part probably finds its way into the upper layers of the epidermis and close to the surface. In this manner the pigment disappears.

"The Greatest of all our Periodicals."

The foremost men of the world write the literature of contemporaneous activity for THE FORUM.

Every great subject is taken up by The Forum when it naturally comes into public attention and is treated by the best authorities, without regard to parties or creeds. It will keep any thoughtful reader informed on the tasks and problems of the time, as no other periodical does.

To many thoughtful people, the price of The Forum has hitherto been prohibitory; indeed all the great Reviews have been too high in price for the masses of intelligent readers. But now the number of readers of thoughtful literature—men and women who wish really to know what is going on in the world outside the narrow limits of particular sects and parties—is great enough in the United States to warrant so revolutionary a reduction in price. The Forum discusses important subjects, but it is not dull. The literature of contemporaneous activity is, in fact, the most interesting of all literature. American citizenship implies that a man shall know the opinions of the foremost men and the latest great achievements in every direction of activity.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtenances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

To sleep! to sleep! The long, bright day is done,
And darkness rises from the fallen sun.
To sleep! to sleeep!
Whate'er thy joys, they vanish with the day;

To sleep! to sleep!
Sleep, mournful heart, and let the past be past!
Sleep, happy soul! all life will sleep at last.

SUFFERING OFF THE MAINE COAST.

Hundreds of Fishermen on Outlying Islands on the Verge of Starvation.

Hundreds of fishermen are on the verge of starvation and suffering for the want of proper clothing within 50 miles of Portland. There are hundreds of islands in Casco bay and scattered along the coast between Portland and the Kennebec river. These are for the most part inhabited by fishermen who depend entirely upon their nets and seines for food. During the past few weeks these people have not been able to set any nets on account of the frequent and severe storms which have swept the coast. The fishermen live out of the line of coasters and are visited only at infrequent intervals by fishing smacks and summer visitors.

Malaga island, where most of the suffering is found, is situated about a mile and a half from the mainland and is perhaps three miles in circumference. Upon this island are three huts built of logs and mud, and these huts are crowded with 35 to 40 people. They were visited by the crew of a fishing smack which was obliged to seek shelter from the storm behind the island. The story as told by one of the crew here shows that unless help arrives to these people soon they will starve to death. When the smack was seen nearing the islands, the half starved people rushed down to the beach and set up a howl of joy. They were barefooted for the most part and poorly clothed at the best. Some of the women were almost nude, and several children have died from exposure and want of proper food. The huts are said to be in a filthy condition and afford but scant shelter from the bitter cold.

The smack had but little food on board, having made a poor haul of fish. The crew gave the islanders such food as they could spare and almost robbed themselves of clothing to assist the ill clothed beings. The men on the island say that they were not able to obtain enough fish this fall to provide themselves with supplies for the winter, and when the storms prevented their setting their nets they were left without food.

The coast at this point is thinly settled with fishermen, who are reported to be in almost as bad a condition as the islanders. Yarmouth, Bear and Basket islanders are said to be as badly off as the Malaga islanders.—Portland Cor. Boston Herald.

CORBETT SHOWED NO MERCY.

and then lay almost sprawling on the floor, the blood smeared all over his face.

When Mitchell had gotten again to his feet the men closed in Corbett's corner, and there was a savage exchange, and when the gong sounded the seconds and the referee and the half dozen in the corner had to pry the enemies apart.

The Second Round.

It was hard work to bring Mitchell up again, but Corbett sprang out when the gong sounded. There was hardly a moment of sparring. Mitchell tried but once—a last desperate play—to tackle, but Corbett was remarkably foxy and alert, and he soon crowded the poor beaten Briton to the ropes again; then with another of his merciless jabs sat his rival flat on the floor.

Mitchell was evidently suffering severely, and his face was the picture of wounds. His mouth and nose were bleeding, and with his big gloves he had smeared the blood all over his face, until his appearance was almost ghastly. Again Corbett, losing his presence of mind, started toward Mitchell, and again his hands swung out, and again his seconds ran forward to save him from nominal defeat. John Kelly ran over to the ropes where Mitchell was lying, and Corbett was borne back to his seat.

Third and Last.

Mitchell hardly cared to rise, and Kelly's finger went up and down like the pendulum of a clock to count the seconds that must elapse before the battle is over. It was dangerously near the limit of time before Mitchell rose to his feet, but just before the gong rang out Mitchell did stand up.

He came up with his nostrils dilating and his regular teeth set on a mass of coagulated blood, which must have found its way upward from the fearful crashes that had been sent into the heart. Corbett was unscarred. There was not a scratch visible on his face. There were two fights which Corbett wanted to win. One in which a personal resentment was the stake, and the other which carried with it the $25,000 purse and side wager. The former had already been wiped off the calendar, and Corbett started in to pass on the other.

Mitchell was slow in coming up, Corbett going straight for him. Mitchell led his left in an attempt to keep Corbett at arm's length. It was the last lead Mitchell made. Getting inside of the lead the men clinched, Corbett brushing the alleged strong man off as if he were a boy. As he pushed him away, swift as a flash crashed in the deadly right of the American clear to the jaw. Mitchell went down under the force of the blow.

In the fall he swung across the lower rope, poised there an instant and then slipped off to the rosined floor. Corbett turned about after delivering the blow and nonchalantly walked to his corner. He sat down and watched the writhing form of his adversary as Kelly called off the fateful seconds. Mitchell had not fallen nor did he remain down to escape punishment this time. The powerful right of the American, had it landed right, might have felled an ox as if with a mallet.

Mitchell writhed about under the ropes, and finally labored to an upright position. Corbett thought that the fight had already been won. The referee stood between the recumbent form of Mitchell and Corbett, and when the former struggled dizzily to his feet, Kelly stepped aside so as not to obstruct the champion's view, calling his attention to the fact that the Englishman was in a fighting attitude.

Corbett leaped from his seat and with a bound flew at Mitchell. The latter was 15 feet away, dizzily leaning up against the ropes. Corbett came at him as if out of a catapult. It was a right hand swing which next was brought into play, and it was delivered while at full speed and landed squarely on the point of the jaw.

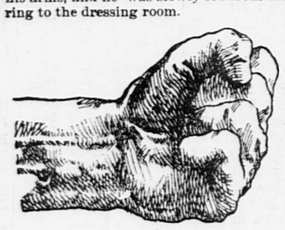

Knocked Out.

Mitchell's head fell forward on his breast, his lower jaw dropped, his left hand fell limply to his side, the right fall ing under his body in the descent. His body reached the floor face downward, and he lay there as lifeless as one dead. His face turned slightly to the right, and from his mouth and nostrils oozed the blood in tiny streams.

Kelly had counted the 10 seconds slowly enough, and in his deliberation about the matter there was much mercy. When the time had finally run its limit Kelly, with a wave of his hand toward Corbett's corner, shouted "Corbett wins," at the same time beckoning the seconds of Mitchell to their man.

"Pony" Moore, Jim Hall and Steve O'Donnell stooped down over Mitchell. O'Donnell applied a bottle of ammonia to the nostrils of the Englishman. He lay there despite this, and three picked up the limp body and slowly carried him to his corner. Here the bottle was again put to Mitchell and 19 seconds after the last blow had been sent in the eyes of the man from England opened dreamily.

"You're out," said Pony Moore. Mitchell made no response verbally, but shrugged his shoulders as if he was thinking of a spilled milk story. His long English bathing gown was forced over his arms, and he was slowly led from the ring to the dressing room.

Jas J Corbett

Corbett in the meantime was being besieged by a crowd of his friends. They fairly wrung off the arm of the victor. His first act after the fight had been won and lost was to throw his still gloved hands about the waist of his little manager and backer and the two indulged in what sounded very much like a kiss.

Kelly shook Corbett by the hand, flourished the $20,000 roll of bankbills toward him, and said that it belonged to him on demand, and the international battle, which has kept the political world, as well as the fistic world, agog for nearly a year, was over.

Corbett's Record.

James John Corbett was born in San Francisco Sept. 1, 1866, of Irish parents, and received a good education in the public schools of that city and at the College of the Sacred Heart. When a boy in his teens he was employed in a bank, and later held a clerkship in the same institution.

His first instruction in boxing was received from Professor Watkins of the Olympic Athletic club. In 1884 he made his first appearance in a professional way, his opponent being Dave Eiseman, whom the Californian disposed of very easily in two rounds. He then defeated Duncan McDonald of Butte, Mon., in four rounds. Corbett afterward defeated Choynski in one round, and later, in a hard fought battle of 27 rounds, he knocked him out a second time, breaking his own hand in the encounter. This latter victory by Corbett had been preceded with the knocking out of Mike Brennan, the "Port Costa Giant," and with an eight-round bout with Jack Burke, which was declared a draw.

A Series of Triumphs.

Corbett was then only 19 years old, but he went on from triumph to triumph, defeating, in rapid succession, Jim Daly in two rounds; Frank Smith in three; George Atkinson in two, and Frank Glover in two. After his barge battle with Choynski there was a four-round meet for points between Corbett and Joe McAuliffe, in which the former easily got the decision. Professor John Donaldson, who has been one of Corbett's trainers for this contest with Mitchell, was easily defeated by the Californian, while the latter was still an instructor in boxing at the Olympic club, and not long after this Professor William Miller, the famous Græco-Roman wrestler, went down before him in four rounds. The only other victory of any importance prior to Corbett's battle with Jake Kilrain was that over Dave Campbell of Portland, Ore.

Seeking Higher Honors.

On Feb. 17, 1890, Corbett met Jake Kilrain of Baltimore in a six-round glove contest before the Southern Athletic club of New Orleans for a purse of $3500, and was declared the winner. On April 14, 1890, at the Casino in Brooklyn, he defeated Dominick McCaffrey in a sharp and hotly contested battle during the fourth round.

Charles Mitchell

In the summer of 1890 Corbett issued a challenge to fight any man in the world for $5000 a side, and on the night of May 21-22, 1891, Peter Jackson, the negro pugilist, met him in San Francisco for a purse of $10,000 offered by the California Athletic club. At the close of the 61st round both men were physically unable to continue the battle, but the referee decided that it was a draw. It had lasted four hours and three minutes, and was one of the most stubborn fights in the history of the prize ring.

On the night of Sept. 7, 1892, Corbett defeated John L. Sullivan of Boston before the Olympic club of New Orleans for a stake of $20,000 and a purse of $25,000, thereby securing the title of American champion. The battle was finished in the 21st round, Sullivan being completely knocked out.

Mitchell's Record.

Charles Mitchell was born of Irish parents in Birmingham, Eng., Nov. 24, 1861. His first fight was with Bob Cunningham on Jan. 11, 1878, for five pounds sterling a side. He defeated his antagonist in 50 minutes. Next he worsted C. Smithers, on Nov. 22, 1879, then fought to a draw with Bill Kennedy, and finally defeated Billy Grey, "the black"—who weighed 176 pounds, Mitchell weighing 132—in one round of 11 minutes.

These mills were followed by one with Caryadon, the Belgian giant, in Antwerp, for 1000 francs, the young Britisher beating his opponent in four rounds, and 16 minutes. His next victory was over Tom Tully, and on June 16, 1881, he fought Jack Burke to a draw, darkness ending the fight. In December, 1882, Mitchell won the championship of England in Billy Madden's London competition.

His Fights In America.

Soon after Mitchell's arrival in this country in 1883 he defeated Mike Cleary, and at Madison Square Garden, on May 22, he boxed with John L. Sullivan, and succeeded in knocking the American champion down, but the police stopped the fight in the third round. A "meeting" between William Sheriff, the Prussian, and Mitchell on Long Island was decided to be a draw, and on March 26, 1884, Mitchell defeated Joe Denning in four rounds; his next battle, being with Jake Kilrain, in Boston, was a draw.

In May, 1884, Mitchell defeated Billy Edwards in a notable battle in New York, and in the following October fought four rounds with Dominick McCaffrey at the same place, the referee declaring the fight a draw.

The next match made by Mitchell was with Jack Burke of England at Chicago, and at the end of the 10th round Mitchell was declared the winner. A "meet" with Patsy Cardiff at Minneapolis ended in a draw, and in the summer of 1886 Mitchell returned to England. After his return to America in 1887 he defeated Steve Gallagher at Cleveland.

On March 10, 1888, Mitchell fought his memorable battle with John L. Sullivan at Chantilly, France, for 500 pounds sterling a side, the contest lasting three hours and eleven minutes, and ending in a draw in the 39th round. Since that time Mitchell has given many exhibitions, both in America and Europe, besides playing several theatrical engagements, but he has not been matched with a pugilist of his class in any notable battle.

Are Now Friends.

Corbett and Mitchell after the fight shook hands and bridged the chasm between them. The reconciliation was brought about by the officials of the club when the two fighters stood as companions before the bar of justice charged with breach of the peace. While waiting for the proceedings to begin, Joe Vendig said: "Jim, I want you to go with me and shake hands with Mitchell."

Corbett first declined, but when pressed consented. He walked over to Mitchell, who got up and warmly took the hand that was offered to him. Then there were explanations.

Mitchell said he had often been misquoted, but it was true that he had said mean things of Corbett. That was when he did not know what kind of a fellow the champion was. Now he was willing to let bygones be bygones, and to admit that he had ill-used Corbett, and then referring to the fight he said he had met a better man, and had been fairly licked.

Corbett and Mitchell were held in $5000 bonds for their appearance today. A number of others closely connected with the fight were also arrested, and each was held in $2000 bonds for appearance at the same time.

Talking with a crowd of sports in court Mitchell said he had met a better man in Corbett, whose style he acknowledged to have been a complete surprise to him.

Corbett appeared on the stage at the Zoological gardens last night to receive his $20,000 from Referee Kelly. The purse was paid over amid a storm of applause, which the champion recognized with a bow and then retired.

Mrs. Mitchell Felt Badly.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Mrs. Mitchell, the pugilist's wife, and her mother received the news of the Jacksonville fight at The Herald office. Mrs. Mitchell wept bitterly when the announcement of her husband's defeat came in.

DEVOTION OF A HUSBAND.

Untimely End of Dr. Dokitsch, President of King Alexander's Ministry.

Deep and widespread is the regret in Servia at the untimely death of Dr. Dokitsch, the young president of the ministry under King Alexander after his recent assumption of full power. It was a heroic death, however, for Dr. Dokitsch, whom many of his countryman considered the most promising man of his time, met his end through his devotion to his wife. The romance of his life had already endeared him to his people.

When a student a few years ago in Belgrade, Dokitsch, one of the most brilliant men at the university, saw a girl pass the house in which he lived. She was poorly clad, and her appearance proved that she had come from a poverty stricken home. But the beauty of her face and her kind eyes impressed the young man. He learned her name later and found that she was a seamstress, the main support of her family. Despite their difference in rank, he fell deeply in love with the girl and asked her to be his wife. Soon after his graduation he became professor of law at the university and prominent in politics, and then led her to the altar.

But the young wife was already afflicted with consumption, and the disease soon made rapid progress. Naturally of a melancholy disposition, she became despondent. Then came the hope inspiring message from Berlin that Professor Robert Koch had discovered a cure for tuberculosis. Dr. Dokitsch endeavored to induce his wife to go to the German capital, but the young woman was convinced that her case was hopeless and declined to carry out his wishes. He tried to raise her spirits and prove that her condition was not dangerous. He gave up his work, spent almost every moment of his time with her, drank from her glass and tried in other ways to convince her that he had no fear of her life or the disease. The "Koch cure" was tried, but in vain, and Mme. Dokitsch died.

The coup d'etat came and the professor was summoned to the highest office under the young King Alexander. But he had contracted consumption by his devotion to his wife, and his constitution was undermined. A few months ago he had become so weak that he was compelled to resign, much to the regret of his king. He sought relief in vain, and a few days ago the people of Belgrade heard with sorrow that he was dead. The cause of his untimely end was known, and hundreds of people who never knew him in life followed him to the grave.—New York Tribune.

AROUSED PUBLIC SPIRIT.

Lives of Human Beings May Be Sacrificed, but Not Dividends.

The wild speed of the Brooklyn trolley traction system is beginning to pinch where it hurts—in the pockets of capitalists. It is cutting down the profits and even draining the surplus of the Brooklyn Elevated Railway company.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of that elevated railway company its president, Mr. Adolph Ladenburg, told a heartrending tale as to the ruthlessness of the aggressions of the trolley upon the innocent and long suffering capitalist. The elevated road, with three more miles in operation, has carried 1,250,000 fewer passengers in 1893 than in 1892. Its surplus has diminished from $195,295 to $178,180.

"Why," exclaims President Ladenburg, "should a carriage coming faster than six miles an hour be stopped and a street car be allowed to run at 10 miles an hour legally and 15 miles per hour actually?"

Why, to be sure?

This is a question which the public may now reiterate.

The Brooklyn public has too patiently seen its first citizens, its firstborn babes, its gentle old ladies and its children with dolls or other toys in their grasp felled and crushed out of life by the reckless speed of the surface trolley cars. Now that it finds this speed a menace to the solvency of corporations and to the dividends of capitalists, it possibly may be aroused to some effective action.—New York Telegram.

Stately Elms to Fall.

A stately row of elms at Cambridge, which for many decades have formed a picturesque border to the Harvard college grounds, are to be cut down. Twenty-two in number, only two or three show any sign of decay. These trees are to fall before the widening of Harvard street, which is much too narrow for the street cars and trucks which in great number traverse it at all hours of the day. The city council has appropriated $17,000 for the improvement, and Harvard college gives a strip of land 10 feet wide on condition that the college shall not be called on to pay anything for betterments.—Boston Commonwealth.

M'ETTRICK AND CALL

Have Something to Say About the Laws of Massachusetts.

MANY AMENDMENTS BY WILSON

Are Agreed to by the House Without Debate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—During the tariff debate in committee of the whole in the house Mr. Outhwaite offered the following amendment to the tin plate schedule: On page 18, in lines 13 and 14, strike out the words, "and 1-5 cents a pound," and insert the following: "Cent a pound." And hereafter no rebate or drawback shall be allowed on any tin plate; but the whole duty on such tin plate shall be retained for the use of the government. The object of this amendment is to reduce the tariff from 1 1-5 cents a pound to 1 cent.

Mr. Breckinridge offered a substitute, putting tin plate on the free list.

A number of speeches were made, both for and against these amendments.

Mr. McEttrick contrasted the policy of the Democratic party and the the Republican to the children and workingmen of Massachusetts. It had been the policy of the Democratic party, he said, to have all the children in the state educated, while the Republican policy would have them employed in factories.

The poor children of Massachusetts are being sacrificed on the altar of human greed. The Democratic party said that the birthright of every child was education and sunshine, while the policy of the Republican party in regard to children in Massachusetts was a crime against humanity and a blot on its boasted civilization.

Exceptions Taken.

Mr. Dingley replied to Mr. McEttrick, and said that the wages paid in Massachusetts to men employed in the various textile industries were 68 per cent higher than the wages paid to similar operatives in Great Britain, whose system the gentleman desired to imitate.

Mr. McCall (Rep., Mass.) expressed regret that Mr. McEttrick had seen fit to assail his state, whose honor ought to be as sacred to him as his own.

Mr. McEttrick denied having made an attack on his state. The attack which he had made was on the Republican party of the state.

Mr. McCall remarked that if gentlemen on the other side who were so very ready with their applause would look at the facts they would see how much their ap plause was worth in this particular instance. Under the laws of Massachusetts children under 13 years of age could not be employed in factories, and all the laws of Massachusetts relating to education or labor had made that commonwealth a revered and cherished object wherever the English language was spoken. His colleague had, for the sake of getting the applause of the Democrats, slandered the good old commonwealth.

After further discussion Mr. Breckinridge's amendment was voted down—yeas, 30; nays, 184.

An amendment offered by Mr. Dalzell to substitute the tin plate paragraph of the McKinley law for that in the pending bill was rejected—86 yeas to 144 nays.

Mr. Outhwaite' amendment was then defeated—yeas, 77; nays, 136.

Diamond and Other Duties.

Mr. Wilson's amendment to the schedule relating to dolls, dolls' heads, toy marbles, etc., and all other toys not composed of rubber, china, porcelain, parian, bisque, earthern or stoneware, providing that it should take effect Oct. 1, 1894, was agreed to—yeas, 136; nays, 10.

Mr. Wilson also offered the following amendments, which were agreed to without debate. In the paragraph regarding fish, insert the words "salt water," so as to read: "herrings, pickled, frozen or salted, and salt water fish frozen or packed in ice, 3-4 of a cent a pound." In the free list, the clause reading: "Fish, fresh," was amended by adding the words: "frozen or packed in ice."

A lively debate was precipitated by Mr. Wilson's amendment proposing a reduction of duty on uncut diamonds and all precious stones from 15 per cent to 10 per cent ad valorem.

Mr. Alderson offered a substitute to the pending schedule, increasing the duty on cut diamonds from 15 per cent to 50 per cent, and on rough or uncut diamonds to 25 per cent.

Mr. Wilson's amendment, as amended by Mr. Alderson's, was, after a long discussion, agreed to, 111 to 83.

Mr. Boutelle moved to substitute the lumber paragraph in the McKinley act for that reported in the Wilson bill.

Mr. Oates replied to Mr. Boutelle, and after further discussion the lumber schedule went over and the house took a recess.

The speakers of the night session were Messrs. Martin, McCall, Dunn, Adams, Hiener, Terry, Hartman, Phillips, Haugan and Funston.

In the Senate.

The Hawaiian resolution was laid before the senate and was postponed until next Monday.

The house bill to repeal the federal elections law was then taken up. Mr. Chandler renewed his suggestion to let the bill go over till next December. He demanded the yeas and nays on his motion.

Mr. Bate, who had introduced the bill, opposed the motion to postpone, and then there went on a running debate in which part was taken by Mr. Chandler, Mr. Gray and Mr. Harris, at the close of which Mr. Chandler's motion to postpone was defeated by a strictly party vote—yeas, 29; nays, 28.

Then Mr. Chandler resumed his argument against the bill. Without finishing he yielded for an executive session, and presently the senate adjourned until Monday.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE.

Exemption of Cemetery Lots From Attachment—Liquor and Expressmen.

BOSTON, Jan. 27.—Senator Fitzgerald introduced a bill relative to tombs and lots in cemeteries. It provides that tombs and lots in cemeteries shall be exempt from attachment, levy on execution, as as shall be the interests in the same created by inheritance; the original purchase, before any interment has occurred, may alienate or convey the same: the act of interment shall create a perpetual right to undisturbed occupancy; the provisions do not apply to the closing of cemeteries or removal of the contents for reasons of public health.

Without debate and without opposition the senate adopted the order that the committee on rules consider the expediency of amending senate rule No. 56 by striking out in line 3, as printed in the manual, the word "one-fifth," and inserting in place thereof the word "one-eighth."

Mr. Cronan offered the following resolutions, which were laid over for Monday:

Whereas, The senate of Massachusetts has learned with deep regret of the death of William Gaston, formerly a governor of this commonwealth;

Resolved, That in his death this state has lost one of its most useful and honored citizens, whose purity of life and unselfish devotion to public duty as chief magistrate of the city of Roxbury, and subsequently of the city of Boston, whose skill as a legislator, whose conservative and dignified administration of the affairs of this city, and whose long, honorable and upright career at the bar, attest the wide range of his experience, ability and worth as a representative citizen.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the journal of the senate and another copy sent to the family of the deceased, to whom the senate respectfully tenders its sympathy.

A bill was introduced in the house providing that when any city or town votes no license, no expressman shall bring into such city or town any intoxicating liquors for or at the request of another, except upon the written order of some person residing therein who shall have been only authorized to sell the same.

The committee on insurance heard Commissioner Merrill on a proposed act allowing teachers' beneficiary insurance associations to insure teachers in state normal schools. There was no opposition. The commissioner also spoke in behalf of extending the authority of accident insurance companies. There was no opposition, the amendment being in the line of recent decisions of the supreme court.

The liquor law committee gave a hearing on the proposition that no license of the sixth class shall be granted to any person who is not a registered pharmacist actively engaged in business on his own account, nor to any registered pharmacist unless he shall present a certificate from the state board of registration in pharmacy stating that, in the judgment of the board, he is a proper person to be entrusted with such a license, and that the public good will be enhanced by the granting of such license. Several persons spoke in favor of the proposed law.

MITCHELL IS SATISFIED

That Corbett Is a Better Man Than Himself—Duval Club Disbands.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 27.—Charley Mitchell handed the following dispatch to the staff correspondent of the New York World, with the request that it be telegraphed to New York:

"I would have complied with the request made by your representative to write a letter explaining what I attributed my defeat to, but considered it better to wait until I could do so after a night's rest and calm reflection.

"All I can say is that I went against a weightier man than myself, and was beaten. My friends and many observers claimed he fought foul, but I have no complaint to make. I did my best and suffered defeat. I have no ill feeling against the victor, and am certain that he is well able to represent America pugilistically, and do so creditably and honorably.

"P. S. I would like to do as requested and describe the sensation that a man feels when he is knocked out, but do not consider it within the range of human possibility to do so."

J. E. T. Bowden says that the Duval club took in $31,000 in admissions to the fight, and out of this the $20,000 purse and $5000 training expenses of the principals had to come, making a balance to the club's credit of $6000, and out of this latter fees and other expenses have to be met. "We are $5000 loser by the governor's interference," he said. His statement is generally accepted with a grain of salt.

The old Duval club no longer exists. It broke up in a row yesterday. Some hard names passed between one of the members and Bowden, whose management was severely criticised. Bowden has washed his hands of the whole business.

After the reconciliation Mitchell suggested that Corbett and he might spar together the week of Feb. 28, when the Florida trial comes up. Corbett said he would leave the whole thing in Mitchell's hands and would help him out as much as possible. Mitchell has also asked to spar with Corbett on his first appearance in London.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 27.—The fight between Corbett and Jackson next June will likely take place in England. Jackson, who is playing at a local theater, received intelligence that Corbett preferred the contest to come off on the other side of the water.

Both men, it is said, are satisfied that the principals in the next mill fought in this country will encounter even greater obstacles than in the last one, and for that reason they would willingly agree to go to England if the inducement of a large purse was offered. Jackson states that he would meet the champion on English soil, or anywhere in the country north of the Mason and Dixon line, but he would not fight in the south.

Sharpening the Axe.

BOSTON, Jan. 27.—A telegram was received here from Josiah Quincy that he would remain in Washington until next week. Mr. Quincy's visit to Washington was partly to hurry appointments in Massachusetts, and it is now stated that the president will name the successors of the Collector of the Port Beard and Internal Revenue Collector Orcutt early next week. The nominations of several Massachusetts postmasters are expected to follow.

An Important Capture.

BROOKLYN, Jan. 27.—Aloie Fentman of 157 Eighteenth street and August Mederland and two others, whose names are unknown, had a regular mint for the manufacture of silver coins. The counterfeiters, in the manufacture of 10 cent, 25 cent and 50 cent pieces, did not use any spurious metal. They used only sterling silver and the coin was the same weight as that of the government money. They were captured by secret service officers.

Quite a Reduction.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27. — Chairman O'Neil of the appropriation sub-committee on pensions today reported the pension appropriation bill to the full committee. It shows a total reduction of about $15,000,000 from the appropriation of last year. The appropriation last year for payments, not including agencies, officials, etc., was about $165,000,000.

Miller's Big Drop.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Several changes in the official force of the treasury are announced. One of those affected is Charles H. Miller of Massachusetts, assistant chief of the warrant division at $2500, who is reduced to an $1800 clerkship. Burton T. Doyle of Tennessee is appointed to the place.

New Bedford Man Won.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Jan. 27.—George Dally of Australia and Patsey Downey of this city met here last night in an eight round contest. Downey punched Dally all over the ring from start to finish. Dally only succeeded in landing two weak blows throughout the fight.

BUENOS AYRES, Jan. 27.—Dispatches from Rio say that an incessant fire is kept up between the insurgent warships and the government forts, and that much damage has been done to Conceicao island. The insurgents are trying to cut off Rio's water supply.

Two Were Killed.

RALEIGH, Jan. 27. — An accommodation train which was standing at a water tank at Waterson was run into by a freight. L. Bowman and Rev. Mr. Shaw were killed and a man had his thigh broken. The first train was seven hours late.

Editorial Comment.

THE GREATEST drawback to temperance in the no-license cities and towns is the large quantities of liquor brought in by the expressmen, principally from Boston. A new law was proposed in the Legislature Friday, which would strike a blow at this traffic, but has the Legislature the backbone to pass it? The bill provides that when any city or town votes no-license no expressman shall bring into such city or town any intoxicating liquors for or at the request of another, except upon the written order of some person residing therein who shall have been duly authorized to sell the same.

Today's Storm.

A fierce storm raged early this morning which gave promise of being the most severe snow storm of the winter. It had abated some at noon and the prospect was rain. Sleighs are out.

Miss Small's Fitness.

Relative to the difference of salary now paid Miss Small as principal of the Plymouth High school and the $2,300 offered by the Woodward Institute managers, the LEDGER learns that within a year the lady has declined two offers of $2,500 showing that others realize her ability. Her reason for not accepting was because of an invalid mother with whom she lives.

The Plymouth authorities have suggested to Miss Small an increase of salary to remain, but as yet she has neither given them or the Woodward Managers any encouragement.

A principal of the institute will be expected to thoroughly organize the school, and to be responsible largely for its work. The Board of Managers, it is said, want to be relieved of this, and to be merely a board of visitors.

Subscription Party.

The dramatic club connected with Christ's church gave a very pretty subscription party last evening in Faxon hall. It was attended by about one hundred and ten, Mrs. W. W. Osborne, Mrs. S. B. Duffield and Mrs. Hazen E. Ricker matronized the party.

Music was furnished by Loud's orchestra and was very inspiring, calling for loud and prolonged encores after each dance. The order was made up almost entirely of round dances, the two Germans being especially enjoyable.

The hall was artistically decorated with potted plants, evergreen, fur rugs, draperies and banquet lamps, to all this add the handsome and many colored gowns worn by the ladies and the scene presented was a most brilliant one.

Built in 1827-28.

There has been some discussion between two well known citizens as to when the present Unitarian church was erected. On this subject Pattee's history says:

The cellar was commenced April 9, 1827, and on the 11th of June the corner stone was laid with appropriate solemnities. The new church was dedicated to the service and worship of the one living and true God, on Wednesday, Nov. 12, 1828.

Less Births, Less Deaths.

The Gazette says the forthcoming Weymouth report will show for the year 1893, 237 births in town, which is one less than for the year 1892. The deaths were 206, which is six less than for the previous year, and the marriages, by a singular coincidence, were the same as for last year, 111.

Today's Court.

John Veader of Weymouth was arraigned for keeping intoxicating liquors with intent to sell. Case continued until next Wednesday.

Charles Herbert of Quincy for assault on Leander M. Matthews was fined $7.

SCOTCHMEN'S DAY.

They Crowd Hancock Hall at a Concert and Dance

TO CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Of the Birth of Robert Burns—Address by Rev. F. H. Hinman.

Robert Burns. The very mention of that name is all that is necessary to send the blood coursing through the veins of every loyal Scotchmen, and whenever that name heads the announcement of an entertainment it is all that is necessary to draw a full house.

Thus it was last evening when Clan McGregor announced that it would celebrate the 135th anniversary of the birth of the famous poet at Hancock hall. Is it any wonder that every available seat in the hall was taken and that standing room was at a premium?

The committee in charge, Messrs. James Copland, William Pratt, Alex. Raleigh, William Traynor, A. I. Dixon, Alex. Emslie, William Elrick and Geo. Bowman, were exceedingly fortunate in securing some popular talent for the amusement of the large audience, which by the frequent applause showed that they enjoyed it.

The programme opened with a selection by the Merry Mount orchestra, followed by an address of welcome by Chief Thomas Johnston. Then there were solos by William Elrick, the silver toned vocalist of Clan McGregor, Miss Fannie W. Hatch of Holbrook, Mr. Francis L. Pratt, the city messenger of Cambridge, who could not seem to give the audience enough selections, and Miss Lizzie Hutchinson, whose singing gave evidence of a brilliant future in the vocal line. Miss B. Porterfield, Quincy's rising young elocutionist, gave a pleasing reading, and Mr. Alex. Raleigh a clarinet solo.

Rev. Frank H. Hinman of South Boston gave a brief address on Robert Burns. "Hearts are trumps," said the speaker. It is the heart that triumphs, every where it reigns supreme. Poetry is the very heart of literature. Burns was the revelation of the very hearts of Scotchmen and we learn from him about the heart of Scotland. To know a man we have to study them from different standpoints, and he believed Burns needed studying. Robert Burns himself was a hero from the fact that we pay tribute to him tonight. He can never be tested side by side with others, but the resistance from which he came to make himself. He died thinking that his life had been a failure because he had not accumulated wealth, which is the false method by which to measure men. There is never a great soul but there is a glimmer somewhere in his existence.

The five things we love him for are, "His great love for Scotland," as he had a love for his race that stamped him as a hero. "Although he loved Scotland he loved freedom better." We recognize him as the spirit that animated the spirit of freedom in America. "The great sincerity of the soul of Burns," for he hated shoddy. Sham was a thing he hated. "His love for truth." "He believed in common things" wherever he went he found the eternal harmony in common things. "He had true poetic genius." Though dead for so long a time he still plays on our hearts. Instead of being thought the poet of Scotchmen, he has become the Scotch poet of the world. God speed to every brother and sister of Robert Burns.

The last part of the programme was a short farce entitled, "Thirty Minutes for Refreshments," the several characters being taken by William Dickie, John Ross, James Grant, James McKean, Miss Hattie Birnie, Miss Mabel Ellis and Miss Bella Smith. Each took their part exceedingly well although that taken by Mr. Dickie was well nigh perfect, his make up being such as to make him look handsome and it is not to be wondered at that he captured the fluttering young heart of Miss Arabella Pepper (a maiden lady). Miss Effie Rhines officiated as accompanist.

At 10.30 dancing commenced and was continued until the early hours of this morning, with but a brief intermission, during which refreshments were served.

William Elrick officiated as floor director and Alex. Emslie as assistant, while William Dickie, R. McKean, James Grant and John Ross were the aids.

Box 25 Pulled Twice.

At 6.25 last evening Box 25, at the corner of Canal and Newcomb streets, was pulled for a slight fire in an unoccupied barn at the residence of Nicholas Garbarino on Brackett street. The fire department was promptly at the scene had its services been needed, and Chief Ripley responded remarkably quick from West Quincy.

When the apparatus was homeward bound some mischievous or curious person pulled the box a second time, and the apparatus came back flying, and citizens who wait for second alarms came out in large numbers. The recall followed the alarm quickly.

Seriously Injured.

Timothy E. Morrison, employed at Reinhalter's quarry, was blown up Friday afternoon and received painful injuries. Part of his face was blown off and his hands badly lacerated. He was also severely bruised about the lower limbs and body. He was engaged at the time the accident happened in charging a blast which in some way ignited, causing the explosion. The unfortunate man was removed to the city hospital.

He is a married man and has a wife and two children.

The Hospital Aid.

The first meeting for the year of the Hospital Aid association was held Thursday afternoon in the Probate court room, under the new administration. An unusually large number was present, giving inspiration and courage to go on with the work and determination to make this, the sixth year, even more fruitful than any previous one.

Following the transaction of business, the President of the Association, Mrs. W. T. Babcock addressed the assembly, urging our further growth and pointing out directions in which we might work to attain this object. It seemed to her that all interested in this one great cause would receive new enthusiasm and energy through meeting together in social reunion, when the ardor of some of us, which had been allowed to cool, might be awakened by seeing the earnestness with which others have entered into the work. This she suggests to be held at least once a year. At the time of the accident, the horrors of which are still so fresh in the minds of us all, our lists of members was more than trebled, and we hope every one will feel when once a member always a member. The Hospital needs our assistance, and we need every membership fee we can get. Mrs. Babcock further urges us to patronize our own tradesmen as much as possible. They have been kind to us, and with little effort we can do much in return. If every one realized how much help each added presence gives at these meeting, it is certain they would see the importance of making plans that no other interest should interfere with this meeting.

An earnest appeal is made to every member to make a strenuous effort to be present at our February meeting.

Predictions for a Week.

The snow storm today is a little ahead of scheduled time, but people will be interested in the Blue Hill predictions of yesterday morning, reported in the Norfolk County Gazette for the coming week:

The conditions are favorable for rising temperature Saturday and Sunday. It will be fair Saturday, followed by increased cloudiness Saturday night, and possibly light rain or snow during the night or Sunday morning. Monday and Monday night promise to be generally fair and slightly colder. Rising temperature is indicated for Tuesday, and another storm with snow or rain is due Tuesday night or Wednesday, possibly continuing through Wednesday night. A cold wave is due about Thursday, and the lowest temperature of the week promises to be Friday morning or Friday night. The close of the week, including Thursday, Friday and Saturday promises to be generally fair.

BRAINTREE.

Tuesday night the fortnightly meeting of the East Braintree Village Improvement Association was held in the Union hall; Mr. John W. West, president of the organization, in the chair. There was a fair attendance.

A horse belonging to J. F. Sheppard & Sons took it into his head, one day recently, while on his way to South Braintree with a load of coal, to indulge in a spasm of tomfoolery, defying all the coaxing and expletives of the driver to get him to go down the hill beginning at the junction of Union and Middle streets. When the affair seemed hopeless, a shrewd and observant housewife came out of her house carrying something under her apron, which turned out to be a red hot flat-iron. This was applied to the tail of the refractory animal, and down the hill he went like a streak of greased lightning.

'Tis a remarkable circumstance the great number of old people that have died in Braintree the past few weeks. There are three deaths reported this week, the average age being 74 years.

Such has been the remarkable mildness and spring-like nature of the weather, Mrs. Geo. A. Sproul of South Braintree, picked on Monday last a bunch of wild violets growing out of doors. Still everybody is not happy!

Henry B. Vinton was shrewd enough to secure his stock of ice from Morrison's pond one day this week. It was ten inches thick and of good quality. We may have ice making weather yet, but the chances grow smaller every day and "still beautifully less."

Mr. Elisha Thayer has begun the building of two cottages on Franklin street, well towards Five corners. They are to be either sold or let, when finished, just as either way will suit. The locality is admirable and Mr. Thayer expects that there will soon be a settlement take place there. Out west two houses make a city and the question is what will these two cottages make when they are built. John H. G. Robinson is the carpenter.

The East Braintree new school loan has been negotiated at 3 7-8 per cent. What is the matter with the town of Braintree's credit?

Teachers of the Ironworks school took Wednesday as a visiting day. Misses Wilde and Crowe were at the Monatiquot grammar in the morning.

John Moiles, a popular engineer of the N. Y. N. H. & H., and a Braintree boy is to take a two months' vacation. Which he will spend in the sunny South for his health.

Charles Clark, carpenter, has two fine boys, Albert and Willie, down with scarlet fever. Elliot Stetson's girl, Florence, is sick with the same disease. Both families live on River street and are neighbors to each other.

There being only three candidates so far for selectman, from the east part of the town, and this being a clear falling off from the number of former years, an anxiety akin to that which the icemen feel just now as to the prospects of securing a stock of the proper grit and dimensions, has taken possession of the public mind of that village. Should there be no more candidates forth coming, it is suggested that the three already in the field, have a joint debate and that the subject be "We are the boys! Walk up and take your choice! Heads I win, tails you loose!"

Monday evening Hook and Ladder, No. 2, of South Braintree, met and organized as follows:

Captain,—L. W. Thayer.
1st Lieutenant,—Henry J. Tripp.
2d Lieutenant,—Willie H. Simonds.
Secretary,—Willis H. Stoddard.

Wednesday evening the M. A. Perkins Hose, No. 2, organized with the following officers:

Captain,--John Simmons.
1st Lieutenant,—John W. Stiles.
2d Lieutenant,—Fredric R. Carmichael.
Secretary,—F. J. Mansfield.
Steward,—Frank W. Newhall.

AT THE WICKET.

The members of the Mount Joy Royal Black Preceptory No. 21 entertained a large number of their friends in Orangemen's hall, Thursday evening.

—President Elliot of Harvard College had better have left unexpressed his private opinions in a public manner, regarding the use of intoxicating beverages. Teachers of youths ought to have sense enough to know that the tendency toward drinking should always be frowned upon instead of encouraged. No man should for a moment hold a position as an instructor of young people who comes before his class with his breath redolent with last night's whiskey.

—The Columbian stamps will continue to be sold by the post-office department until the supply on hand is practically exhausted. In the mean time, the smaller stamps, of the old style, will not be supplied. Financially, the Columbian stamp has been a failure, since the demand by collectors has proved to be much smaller than expected. Nevertheless, collectors have taken considerable interest in them, and many persons have paid $16.35 each for a complete set of the sixteen stamps.

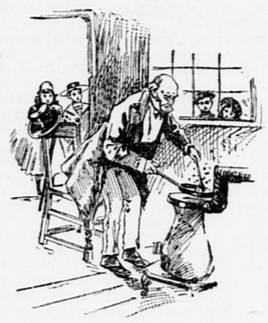

Good Music

furnished by Henry L. Kincaide & Co. for unprincipled competitors to dance by, and the tune is as follows: "Cut prices on everything." A few weeks ago a local dealer tried to stop our selling a certain range because we were cutting the price. It didn't work, however, and our customers will continue to reap the benefit. We buy as low as we can and sell as low as we like. The largest variety of ranges ever offered by any dealer at 96 Hancock street.

FOR LITTLE FOLKS.

The Popcorn Man.

There's a queer little man lives down the street,
Where two of the broadest highways meet,
In a queer little house that's half of it glass,
With windows open to all who pass,
And a low little roof that's nearly flat
And a chimney as black as papa's best hat.
Oh, the house is built on this funny plan
Because it's the home of the popcorn man!

How does he sleep, if he sleeps at all?
He must roll up like a rubber ball,
Or like a squirrel and store himself
All huddly cuddly under the shelf.
If he wanted to stretch, he'd scarce have space
In his bare little, spare little, square little place.
He seems like a rat cooped up in a can,
This brisk little, frisk little popcorn man!

I know he's wise by the way he looks,
For he's just like the men I've seen in books,
With his hair worn off, and his squinty eyes,
And his wrinkles, too—oh, I know he's wise!
And then just think of the way he makes
The corn all jump into snowy flakes
With a "pop! pop! pop!" in his covered pan,
This queer little, dear little popcorn man!
—Clinton Scollard in St. Nicholas.

A Lesson Learned.

It was a very hot day, and the little boy was lying on his stomach under the big linden tree reading the "Scottish Chiefs."

"Little boy," said his mother, "will you please go out in the garden and bring me a head of lettuce?"

"Oh, I—can't!" said the little boy. "I'm—too hot!"

The little boy's father happened to be close by weeding the geranium bed, and when he heard this he lifted the little boy gently by the shoulders and dipped him in the great tub of water that stood all ready for watering the plants.

"There, my son!" said the father. "Now you are cool enough to go and get the lettuce, but remember next time that it will be easier to go at once when you are told, as then you will not have to change your clothes."

Then the little boy went drip, drip, dripping out into the garden and brought the lettuce. Then he went drip, drip, dripping into the house and changed his clothes, but he said never a word, for he knew there was nothing to say.

That is the way they do things where that little boy lives. Would you like to live there? Perhaps not. Yet he is a very happy little boy, and he is learning the truth of the old saying:

Come when you're called, do as you're bid,
Shut the door after you, and you'll never be chid.

—Youth's Companion.

A Curious Image.

In the Japanese capital there is a gigantic image of a woman made of wood and plaster and dedicated to Hachiman, the god of war. In height it measures 54 feet; the head alone, which is reached by a winding stairway in the interior of the figure, being large enough to comfortably hold 20 persons. The figure holds a huge wooden sword in one hand, the blade of the weapon being 27 feet long, and a ball 12 feet in diameter in the other hand. Internally the model is fitted up with an extraordinary anatomical arrangement which is supposed to represent the different portions of the brain. A fine view of the country is obtained by looking through one of the eyes of the figure. The admission to all parts of the structure costs about a penny.—Exchange.

A Safe Sail.

Here is a charming picture for you. A safe sail! How happy the two little mariners look with their big, faithful companion. A broomstick is their mast, the greensward the ocean, but in fancy they are sailing far, far away in a gallant ship, over the wide waters, and ere their happy game is over they will visit, I know, wondrous lands and go through all sorts of hairbreadth escapes and dangers. The dog is as happy as they are. He feels the importance of his position and is keeping a good "lookout." I will tell you the names of these "sailors three"—Toto, Helen and Ruffy. Toto is the little son of the gentleman who has kindly sent the picture, and who has taken the photographs himself. Helen is a bonny little Scotch lassie and a great friend and playmate of Toto. Ruffy belongs to Toto's father and is the treasured pet of the whole household.—Pall Mall Budget.

The Corded Poodle's Lament.

When I was a young thing, I was a glossy, black, curly pup. My beauty was the beauty of nature. No art had yet been applied to my person. I was "young as beautiful and innocent as gay," as another poet has said, or as a little thing of my own has it:

I remember, I remember,
How my puphood fleeted by.
The clippers then had never clipped
My curls of blackest dye.
I used to wish they'd shave me then,
But now 'tis naught but pain,
No sooner have they shaved me once
Than I grow long again.

PATENTS
FOR INVENTIONS.
Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.
With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to
Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.
If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtenances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the nusafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

The Grave's Equality.

One was a king, and a wide domain
He ruled, as his sires had done;
A wooden hovel, a bed of pain,
Belonged to the other one.

The king was ill, and the world was sad—
But the monarch languished, the monarch died;
The beggar was sick unto death, but he had
No one to watch at his low bedside.

Then under the minster the king was laid,
While o'er him the marbles were piled;
But a shallow grave in the fields was made
By careless hands for Poverty's child.

But now there are those who profanely declare.
If you opened the tomb and the grave,
You could not distinguish, whatever your care,
The dust of the king and the slave.

—Charles Noble Gregory.

MORE DEFINITE GAIN

Industrial Circles Are Inspired With Greater Confidence.

A SLIGHT DECLINE IN STOCKS.

Clearings Are Much Smaller Than a Year Ago.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: Secretary Carlisle's decision to issue bonds, and the early reports of large bids for them, help to accelerate the recovery of industries and trade, as was hoped last week. The sale of the amount offered will check anxiety about maintenance of note redemption, remove the only pretext for further issues of paper, and thus give a solid basis for greater confidence regarding the financial future.

The industrial gain is more definite than a week ago. Few establishments have stopped work, while many have resumed or increased their production, and the aggregate increase is considerable. Reductions in wages continue, and about a quarter of them are 20 per cent, the rest ranging from 7 to 17 per cent.

In no direction are quotations of manufactured products higher, but the general tone is somewhat stronger. Thus distinct improvement is noticed for iron products at Philadelphia, though for some quotations have been reduced. The Tennessee Coal and Iron company has made contracts for ore, which reduced the cost of its iron 22 1-2 cents a ton.

The increase in demand for iron products is mainly in structural forms, cast pipe, wire rods, barbed wire and wire nails, while in rails and other railroad iron business is remarkably small. For the fourth quarter of 1893 the reported cost of new buildings in New York and Brooklyn was $6,221,770, against $13,706,215 in the same quarter of 1892.

More Mills to Start.

Textile industries have increased their working force, mainly in knit goods, underwear and carpets, though several woolen mills have started and others are reported about to start.

Sales of wool are larger, amounting at the chief markets to 4,933,200 pounds, against 5,661,350 for the same week last year; but prices at Philadelphia are 1-2 cent to 1 cent lower, while at New York there is more inquiry from carpet and other mills.

In overcoatings no samples of prominent makes are yet shown nor prices named, and the kerseys opened are from 25 to 35 cents below last year's prices. Worsteds appear to have a stronger position, and a better business in dress goods is generally reported for the week.

Cottons are not stimulated, as was hoped by the reductions announced, and the effect has been to make buyers of other goods hold off, so that the market is weaker.

Carpets report improvement, especially in lower grades, and orders to replenish stocks are nearly as large as a year ago.

The shoe and leather trades appear to gain a little, though shipments from Boston for the week are again 24 per cent smaller than last year.

Produce markets have been decidedly dull, though wheat for May fell at one time to the lowest point on record.

Coffee and petroleum are a shade lower.

Cotton has advanced a shade, although receipts continue heavy.

Big Break In Sugar.

The stock market has but slightly declined, though trusts were affected by a break of $6 a share in sugar.

Domestic trade is the key of the situation, and clearings outside New York are 24.1 per cent smaller than a year ago. This is partly because the average price of commodities is 9.8 per cent lower than a year ago, having fallen 4.3 per cent since Oct. 1, while British prices, according to the London Economist, fell 2.5 per cent Oct. 1 to Jan. 1.

Failures in the United States were 330 this week, against 255 last year, and 55 in Canada, against 40 last year. All small. The liabilities of firms failing, thus far reported this year, amount to $13,668,900, of which $6,072,837 were of manufacturing and $6,800,353 of trading concerns.

Union Men Are Weakening.

DANBURY, Conn., Jan. 27.—Leaders of the Hatters' union are disheartened over the prospects. Desertions from the unions are numerous. Among those who have left the union are two members of the executive board of trade unions. This has given hope to other men to do likewise. The factory of E. H. Marritt has secured a full complement of help, and is running full time.

Peaceable Settlement In View.

SANTIAGO, Jan. 27.—The senate has approved the protocol signed by Chili and Argentine in May last to determine the interpretation of the terms of the frontier treaty of 1881, which will be finally ratified on the arrival of the Argentine minister. The settlement is expected to end all differences.

Talk of a Foreclosure.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 27.—An evening paper says that there is a possibility that the Reading railroad may be foreclosed. Such action is now being seriously considered by the receivers of the property because of the determined opposition of the Poughkeepsie bridge bondholders to the reorganization scheme.

Confirmed by Judge Colt.

BOSTON, Jan. 27.—Judge Colt has confirmed Judge Wallace's appointments of Thomas C. Platt and Marsden G. Perry as permanent receivers of the New York and New England property. The bonds are set at $100,000 each, and a like order is directed for Rhode Island.

Ames Succeeds Ames.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Secretary Miller of the Union Pacific says that he has notified the secretary of the interior that Oliver Ames of Massachusetts has been appointed trustee to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Frederick L. Ames.

Khedive Toes the Mark.

CAIRO, Jan. 27.—The khedive has published an order praising the English and Egyptian officers. It is thus understood that Lord Cromer has triumphed and that the khedive bows once more to the dictation of England.

More Work For Unemployed.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Jan. 27.—The city government last night voted to increase the payroll on the relief works $400 a week, making a total of $1600 a week.

CARS ARE RUNNING.

Union Men at Bridgeport Appear to Have Lost the Strike.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Jan. 27.—The Traction company yesterday made an attempt to run their cars independently of their old employes and succeeded. Ten cars were sent over the main line without any special incident, except the arrest of a youth caught placing a big stone upon the track.

As the non-union men who took the cars out were confronted with no more serious subsequent demonstrations than here and there an occasional vocal outburst from the crowds of sympathizers with the strikers, who, after the closing of the factories, lined the principal streets through which the cars run.

At the corner of Main and Congress streets, where the mob last Sunday upset and set fire to one of the Traction company's cars, the police kept the crowd moving, and the scenes of violence which were expected to occur at that place did not materialize.

At the request of Captain Birmingham, who saw that the police force was played out and sadly in need of a night's rest, the company decided not to attempt to run any cars last night.

The cars were sent out on regular schedule time today, however, and will be run until the usual hour tonight.

VICTIMS MOSTLY WOMEN.

Private Banker In Quebec Creates a Sensation by His Failure.

HUNTINGDON, Que., Jan. 27.—The failure of Andrew Somerville, registrar of the county of Huntingdon, has caused a great sensation. Somerville conducted a private banking institution. He received money on which he paid a higher rate of interest than the banks or postoffice department. He loaned out a large amount of this money on mortgages and paid the interest regularly.

The George W. Cornwall Organ company, with which he was connected, made an assignment, and the next day Somerville followed suit. Rev. Dr. Muir loses over $6000. The Masonic lodge lost all the money it possessed. Somerville's filed statement shows liabilities $165,000, and assets $181,000, but a large shrinkage in the latter is expected.

The creditors number about 140, more than seven-eighths of them being women. The feeling is extremely high, and Somerville dare not leave his house.

Autopsy Resulted In Arrest.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Jan. 27.—James Fitzgerald died of lockjaw on Monday from a blow received at the hands of Patrick Kirby in a fight. His body was exhumed yesterday, and an autopsy was held by Medical Examiner Brown. The probable cause of death was a wound on the temple. Kirby was arrested yesterday afternoon.

Vessels Seek Shelter.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Jan. 27.—High northeast winds and severe cold weather have filled the harbor with marine craft bound east. A fleet of tugs brought in a tremendous volume of coal, estimated at more than 30,000 tons. All incoming boats are iced up badly, showing the severity of weather they have passed through.

With America's Support.

PARIS, Jan. 27.—The agricultural society of France has agreed upon a declaration that a Latin union, supported by America, will be strong enough to impose a monetary law upon the entire world. It was also resolved that if a new relation is adopted between silver and gold, a modification ought to be applied to the latter.

Enemy Held In Check.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—A special from Tegucigalpa, Honduras, says: The report that this city was in the hands of the enemy under General Ortiz was false. President Vasquez is holding the enemy in check with batteries placed on the surrounding hills. General Ortiz made four attacks, but was repulsed each time.

Wood's Tabernacle Account.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—John Wood, ex-treasurer of the Brooklyn Tabernacle, appeared before a meeting of the elders of the church last night and demanded an investigation of his accounts. A statement prepared by an expert accountant shows an apparent shortage of over $21,000 in Mr. Wood's accounts.

Piling Up Evidence.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Jan. 27.—Lieutenant Fillette sat before the court of inquiry at the navy yard yesterday, and for four hours he listened to the testimony of witnesses relative to an attempt to ruin young schoolgirls in this city. The investigation brings out damaging evidence, and it looks dark for Fillette.

Asked to "Resign or Die."

HARRISBURG, Jan. 27.—The Sixth Ward Democratic club of this city adopted a resolution calling upon the constituents of Congressman Beltzhoover to request that gentleman to "resign or die, so that a man can be elected who is a true tariff reform Democratic or an honest high tariff Republican."

Thin Ice.

NAUGATUCK, Conn., Jan. 27.—While skating on the pond known as the new dam, William Callahan, 16 years old, broke through a weak section in the ice and was drowned. Four other boys went through, but were rescued by William Ayres. Peter Conners will probably die from exposure.

Novelist Woolson Committed Suicide.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—A dispatch from Vienna says that it is reported that the American novelist, Constance Fennimore Woolson, whose death was reported the other day, committed suicide by jumping from a window. A seven-months' attack of influenza left symptoms of insanity.

Ice Dealers Are Worrying.

ALBANY, Jan. 27.—Reports all along the Hudson river indicate that the dealers in ice are very anxious over the chances for the ice harvest. Some ice has formed, but it is very thin and scarcely worth the cutting.

LOVE FOR BISMARCK

Shown Throughout the Whole German Empire.

THE EMPEROR'S GRACIOUS ACTS

Have Done Much Toward Endearing Him to His People.

BERLIN, Jan. 27.—Yesterday was a great day for Emperor William, Bismarck and the fatherland.

The German empire, through its length and breadth, has been filled with an enthusiasm almost indescribable over the apparently complete reconciliation between its two most illustrious sons. The capital has abandoned itself to a delirium of joy at the affecting sight of the high spirited young emperor and the grizzled patriot statesman clasping hands with the utmost cordiality of manner and embracing each other with a heartiness and warmth whose sincerity it seemed impossible to doubt.

From Friederichsruhe to Berlin there was a series of ovations to Bismarck at every station passed with his train as it bore him to the city where the greatest triumphs of his great career had been achieved.

Beginning with the episode of the presentation of flowers by the young women of the town where Bismarck resides, continuing with the large and excitedly cheering assemblages along the entire route to Berlin, and culminating in the grand reception by the immense multitude in the capital, the day was one that gratified the ex-chancellor to his heart's content, and fully convinced him of his unshaken hold upon the affections of his beloved countrymen.

Name and Fame Revered.

It was a fitting climax in his declining days to the long number of wonderful popular demonstrations which have been held during his illustrious career in his especial honor. In spite of all that has been said and done within the past few years, it showed the aged public servant that his name and fame were dear to the hearts of his fellow-citizens, and that in Berlin, which owes so much of her greatness to him, there was none who could out-rival him in the estimation of its inhabitants nor rob him of their unbounded love.

The emperor, by the graciousness of his receptions to Bismarck, aroused unbounded enthusiasm, and after their meeting everywhere William appeared the shouts of approval and goodwill were deafening. The widespread effect of the reconciliation cannot be doubted. Its full effect cannot at the present time be appreciated. It certainly has done a vast deal toward the unity and strength of the empire.

Bismarck's age precludes the likelihood of any further participation by him in German politics, and perhaps the most reasonable explanation that has yet been given for the emperor's initiative in restoring the friendliest relations between himself and the ex-chancellor is that Germany's ruler recognizes the fact that Bismarck's days are numbered, and he has canceled the past, with all its bitter feeling, before it is too late.

Those who have been most loudly clamoring for his downfall are disconcerted, and what is left of the opposition to Caprivi seems so inconsiderable as hardly to merit serious consideration.

Everybody Was Happy.

Prince Bismarck's arrival at the castle yesterday was followed by an enthusiastic succession of demonstrations upon the part of the people. Thousands upon thousands of people packed the square in front of the castle, singing the national anthem, "Wacht am Rhine," and "Deutsch Uenber Alles." The emperor and empress, the young princess and Prince Bismarck repeatedly appeared at a window, bowing.

While out riding, after leaving Prince Bismarck at the palace, Emperor William was wildly cheered by the throngs. On all sides were to be seen in the shop windows busts and photographs of Prince Bismarck, surrounded by palms.

Men and women held their children up in their arms to catch a glimpse of the iron chancellor, and had it not been for the lines of police and escort of cavalry there is no doubt the people would have taken the horses from the prince's carriage and dragged him in triumph to the castle.

After luncheon the imperial princes visited Prince Bismarck, and about 4 o'clock Prince Bismarck drove from the castle and visited the ex-empress of Germany.

Later in the day Prince Bismarck gave a dinner, at which 10 distinguished guests, including the emperor, empress and King of Saxony, were present.

Back to His Castle.

The train taking Prince Bismarck back to Friederichsruhe left this city shortly after 7:30 p. m. Emperor William accompanied the ex-chancellor to the railroad station, and they were escorted from the palace to the depot by a strong detachment of Cuirassiers, and by all the members of the general staff, as well as by a number of generals.

The same scenes of enthusiasm that occurred on the way to the palace were repeated during the passage back to the station. Upon parting with the prince, Emperor William repeatedly kissed the veteran upon both cheeks, and after the latter had entered the railroad carriage, the emperor turned to Count Herbert von Bismarck and addressed a few words to him, the first in a very long while.

The emperor then resumed his conversation with Prince Bismarck. The whole assemblage then joined in singing "Deutsch Uenber Alles."

There was a perfect storm of "Hochs," to which applause, when the train drew out of the station, Prince Bismarck smiled and bowed. Count Herbert von Bismarck and Count William von Bismarck, as well as Dr. Schweningen, accompanied the prince back to Friederichsruhe. A dozen of large bouquets of flowers were placed in the prince's carriage before it drew out of the depot.

At Ludwiglust there was an enthusiastic demonstration, and at Wittenberg there was another ovation. The express was rushed through the other stations, at each of which crowds of people assembled and cheered the ex-chancellor.

Some surprise was expressed at the fact that Prince Bismarck consented to travel on Friday, as it is known that he is somewhat superstitious.

THE TARIFF'S RIDER.

Belief That Internal Revenue Bill Will Surely Pass.

FIGHT ON INCOME TAX PROMISED.

Senate Will Talk on Hawaii and Federal Elections.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—The great tariff debate will close in the house next Thursday at 3 o'clock, when, according to the amended special order under which the house is operating, the vote will be taken on the pending amendments and the final passage of the bill. The debate during the week will relate entirely to the internal revenue bill, which the Democratic caucus decided to place upon the tariff bill as a rider.

Today and Tuesday will be devoted to general debate, and Wednesday to debate under the five minute rule, when the internal revenue features will be open to amendment. Of course the principal opposition will be directed against the income tax, which is being bitterly opposed by the eastern Democrats. The Republicans, however, will not vote with the Democratic opponents of the income tax, but will either refrain from voting, or else, if necessary to make a quorum, vote for it in order to incorporate it in the bill. The attempt to defeat it will therefore be hopeless.

When the bill is reported to the house on Thursday, three hours will be allowed for closing the debate, one and a half hours on a side. Mr. Reed will close for the Republicans and Mr. Wilson and Speaker Crisp for the Democrats. The indications are that when the bill is placed upon its final passage it will have a margin to carry it.

How Republicans Stand.

During the past week the movement to recommit the bill looked formidable, as at least 50 Democrats (counting the anti-income taxers), including all those dissatisfied with any portion of the measure, were counted upon to take this indirect method of compelling changes in their interest. With the Republican support, this plan might have succeeded.

But on Saturday some of the Republican leaders talked the situation over and came to the conclusion that it would not be policy to join a faction of the Democratic ranks in order to give the bill a setback which might not result in its ultimate defeat. They have informally decided, therefore, either to refrain from voting, or else to vote against the motion to recommit, but they will vote with the opposition against the passage of the bill, or for a motion to strike out the enacting clause, a motion which will place the opponents of the bill fairly and squarely on record against the entire measure.

This decision, if it is adhered to in the opening of the Democratic leaders, removes all doubt as to the final passage of the bill, as they believe that not more than 30 Democrats at the outside will carry their opposition to the extent of voting directly against the bill.

If the Republicans should poll their whole strength (124) this would only raise the vote against the bill to 154, as, with the income tax included, it is believed that the bill will command the entire Populist vote of nine. The full vote for the bill therefore could be 200, a majority of 46.

Senate Forecast.

The present indications are that the federal elections bill and the Hawaiian question will in a large measure divide the attention of the senate this week. If the tariff bill should pass the house according to the program, Thursday, and be sent immediately to the senate, nothing more would be done with it than to refer it to the finance committee, where it will rest for at least a few weeks, so that there is little or no prospect of this subject interfering in any way for the present with the consideration of the bills and resolutions already on the calendar.

The Hawaiian question has right of way for the morning hour and the elections bill after that time.

In case the judiciary committee makes its report upon the Peckham nomination there is likely to be considerable time devoted to executive business, and there may be in any event over other nominations.

Treasure Captured by Bandits.

DURANGO, Mex., Jan. 29.—Eighty-five miles west of here a band of brigands, led by the notorious outlaw, Francisco Reiseda, attacked a mule train loaded with silver ore from the Santa Maria mines, on its way to the reducing works, killing the foreman, who attempted to offer resistance. The other guards fled, leaving the burros with their precious cargoes in possession of the bandits.

A Queer Case.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 29.—At a wedding reception at the residence of Henry Mayer, 94 Astor avenue, Annie Cowen was accidentally shot by Louisa Mayer, who was playing with a small rifle. The bullet lodged in Miss Cowen's brain and she will die.

Lucky He Wasn't Killed.

BANGOR, Me., Jan. 29.—Charles Clerky, aged 16, became entangled in machinery at the Veazee pulp mills and was whirled several times around a shaft. His left arm was injured at the elbow, his wrist broken in two places and his flesh badly torn.

The Australian Won.

CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—George McKenzie, a recent arrival from Australia, and Charley Wheeler, a colored man from Omaha, fought a rattling six-round battle in the cellar of a South Side saloon. McKenzie was declared the winner.

OFFICIOUS MR. SMITH

Has Incurred the Displeasure of the Natives of the Island of Hayti.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—The Dutch steamer Prins Wilhelm I, from Port au Prince, reports that everything was quiet at the time the steamer left. There had been no talk of a disturbance and President Hippolyte holds everything well in hand.

There was much excitement in Port au Prince, caused by a letter written by the American minister, Smyth, to President Hippolyte, in which he gave his ideas as to how the country could and should be governed, and setting forth how it had been ruled in the past, urging reforms, etc. Mr Smyth, before sending his letter to the president, wanted the other resident foreign ministers to sign the letter, but they declined, and he sent it with only his own signature.

Hippolyte, on receipt of the document, invited Mr. Smyth to dine with him and talk over the contents of the letter, but he declined. It is reported that the minister's stay in the Hawaiian capital will be a brief one. His two predecessors were colored men. The Haytiens did not expect such a severe criticism at the hands of the newly appointed minister.

PRIEST VS. BISHOP.

Father Corbett Prefers Charges Against Bishop Bonacum.

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 29.—The city has been in fever of excitement, especially among the Catholic population.

This was caused by the arrest of the ordinary of this Catholic see, Rev. Thomas Bonacum, on a charge of criminal libel, preferred against the prelate by one of his priests, Father Corbett of Palmyra. The latter, with other priests, sent charges against the bishop some time ago to Mgr. Satolli.

Father Corbett said that he had got tired of the slowness of the ecclesiastical judicial proceedings. The particular charge on which the arrest was made was based on a letter sent to the parishioners of Father Corbett at Palmyra by Bishop Bonacum while the priest was in St. Louis.

This letter, it is said, was a notification to the parishioners of Father Corbett that the ecclesiastic was under the ban, suspended, and warning them not to hold spiritual communion with him in any way nor to take part in any religious exercises or celebration that the priest might hold or conduct.

CRASHED INTO A POLE.

Electric Car Crowded With Passengers Meets With an Accident.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 29.—There was a wreck in the outskirts of this city on the San Francisco and San Mateo electric line. As a result of the accident, six injured passengers are in the City and County hospital, seven in St. Luke's hospital and three in the city receiving care. It is believed three of the victims will not recover.

The wreck occurred on a curve at the foot of a steep grade. The motorman lost control of the trolley car on a down grade. So great was the momentum when the car swung around the sharp curve that the coach was overturned, the car being torn from the trucks, which remained on the tracks. Over 50 people were in the coach which crashed into a trolley pole and was broken in two.

Nearly all the passengers were buried under the wreck. The screams of men, women and children were terrible. Several who were more or less injured went direct to their homes.

DIED WITHOUT PAIN.

Miss Woolson Fell Through an Open Window While Delirious.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 29.—The statement that Miss Constance Fenimore Woolson's death at Venice last Wednesday night was due to suicide was unwarranted. Her nephew, Samuel Mather, of this city, on receipt of the news, sent a cable dispatch asking for particulars, and received a reply from his cousin, Miss Grace Carter, in substance as follows:

"Aunt Constance had severe influenza (grip) which had resulted, as it often does, in high fever. The night nurse left her for a moment for something which was needed. During her short absence, in a sudden access of delirium, she arose from her bed, and, while apparently wandering about the room, fell through the open window to the street below. She was picked up immediately and lived a short time, but never regained consciousness. She had no apparent pain, and her face looked very peaceful."

United States Company Has It All.

CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—Directors of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad company and the United States Express company held a secret meeting at which a 10-year contract between the two companies was ratified. The contract gives the United States Express company the business on the St. Paul lines to the exclusion of all other express companies.

Her Second Attack.

LOWELL, Mass., Jan. 29.—The pesthouse has been reopened to receive Miss Josie Ouirut, a smallpox patient. She volunteered to act as a nurse at the pesthouse during the recent epidemic, as she had previously suffered from the disease, but since the pesthouse was closed she was stricken with the disease.

Sized Up by Johnson.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 29.—Captain Johnson of the Yale university crew has issued a criticism of the crew's work up to the present time, which says: "As a whole the men fail to catch the water sharp enough, drop over at the catch, rush th slides, are irregular in time and careless in blade work."

Printing Office Burned.

AUBURN, Me., Jan. 29.—Fire last night nearly destroyed a building at the end of the bridge, owned by H. R. Smith and occupied by H. A. Bridge, job printer. Attached was a small building occupied by Lewis Harkway, confectioner. Loss on building, $1500; on printing office, $2000.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—The telegraph service with the state of Parana is suspended by order of the Brazilian authorities.

A PAPAL ALLOCUTION

Dealing With the Recent Disturbances in Italy.

STATESMEN SHOULD TURN ABOUT

And Recognize the Authority of the Pope.

ROME, Jan. 29.—Pope Leo XIII gave a reception yesterday in St. Peter's to the clergy and Catholic laity of this city. After saying mass in the Basilica at 9 o'clock the pope listened to the address of the senior parish priest of Rome. The pope then spoke a few words, after which the papal allocution was read by Mgr. Volpini. It was as follows:

"We are especially gratified by this testimony of the devotion of the people of Rome, for they stand first in our affections. You thus comprehend our grief when we consider the present afflicted condition of Rome, indirectly aggravated, as it is, by the general situation throughout the peninsula. We earnestly desire that man should be found to end the present misery and to re-establish order in disturbed places.

LEO XIII.

"In the meanwhile, however, Rome suffers. Formerly Rome was assured of reasonable prosperity. Today it is evidently otherwise. It is to be hoped that the people at least will profit by their bitter experience, see the first origin of evil and adopt the most efficacious remedy.

Should Look to the Pope.

"It is useless to dissimulate. The ruin of religion, designedly accomplished, has opened the way for moral and material ruin. Not only justice, but political common sense, demands that those responsible for this condition of affairs turn and retrace their steps and restore religion to where it was held by our ancestors. They should approach confidently and without suspicion him who holds from God his supreme religious magistracy for the world's eternal life, whereof the pope is the dispenser. They should also have the virtue of rendering ever prosperous our mortal existence."

Twelve thousand persons were present and greeted the pope with prolonged cheering.

Leo XIII looked well, except that he was a trifle paler than usual. He did not appear fatigued, although the ceremony lasted for two hours and a half.

Excited Over the Fight.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—When the Aurania arrived off Queenstown all of her passengers were assembled on deck. As the tender neared the steamship the passengers shouted, "Who won the fight?" When informed that Corbett was the winner a great many cheered. The passengers made a great rush for the newspapers. There was much betting on the result during the voyage.

Waiting For the Headsman.

PARIS, Jan. 29.—The pardons committee, after examining the appeal of Auguste Vaillant, the anarchist, has decided to let justice take its course. It is rumored that Vaillant will be executed directly after the return of Deibler, the Paris headsman, to the capital. Deibler has gone to Lyons, where he beheads Busseuil today.

Cheered For King Alexander.

BELGRADE, Jan. 29.—A large meeting, chiefly composed of workmen, was held here yesterday. Resolutions of sympathy with the Radicals were adopted. Afterward a procession was formed which marched through the streets cheering heartily for the king and the constitution. There were no disturbances.

A Grand Show.

NICE, Jan. 29.—The carnival was commenced here yesterday. The streets were thronged with animated spectators. The procession had many richly decorated cars. The maskers were unusually numerous. A second procession took place in the evening, and the whole town was brilliantly illuminated.

Strengthening the Bond.

BERLIN, Jan. 29.—Several papers say that Emperor William will return Bismarck's visit, proceeding to Friederichsruhe shortly. The date of the visit, it is said, has been fixed for April 1.

VIENNA, Jan. 29.—Prince Nicholas Esterhazy is dead. He was 77 years old and the wealthiest magnate in Hungary. His property consisted of 29 estates, 21 castles, 60 towns and 440 villages.

Influenza Has Many Victims.

ATHENS, Jan. 29.—Numbers of deaths from influenza have occurred here. One of those who died is General Koronaios, a notable figure in the Cretan rebellion of 1866.

Bismarck Celebrated.

BERLIN, Jan. 29.—Bismarck gave a dinner Saturday to 17 of his friends in honor of the emperor's birthday

ON THE INCREASE.

Thirty More Marriages in 1893 Than in 1892.

JUNE WAS THE BANNER MONTH

The Popular Age for the Grooms, 27; Brides, 21 and 23.

Notwithstanding the hard times last year, the number of people that sought happiness in marriage was considerably more than previous years. Evidently many who had nothing else to do, got married, for the record of the matrimonial ventures of 219, was an increase of 30 over the previous year. May the new life which they have entered be one of unalloyed happiness.

The largest number to be united on any one day was five which occurred on Jan. 1, June 7, and 14, and Oct. 28, while the longest interval between marriages was 10 days. The most popular month chosen by the misses to give their hearts in the keeping of their lovers was June, when 32 couples vowed to love and cherish each other as long as they lived.

The most popular month on other years is shown in the following summary:

	1893.	1892.	1891.	1890.	1889.
January,	22	8	16	9	13
February,	10	9	8	12	10

* Banner months.

Of this number, 192 of the grooms and 162 of the brides were residents of this city, while 27 grooms and 57 brides came from other places. Of the marriages, 149 were solemnized in Quincy, 41 in Boston, 3 in Weymouth, 3 in Brookline, 3 in Braintree, 2 each in Waltham and Milton and 1 each at Chelsea, Orleans, Cambridge, Newton, Medford, Plymouth, Lynn, Randolph, Boxford, Hingham, Hyde Park, Wakefield, Abington, Manchester, Me., and Quidnick, R. I.

Quincy the home of two Presidents, however, proved attractive to 8 out of town couples who came here to have the nuptial knot tied. Of these 8 couples, one came from Brockton to be united in a second venture, one from Cambridge, a groom from Boston and a maiden young and fair of 20 summers from Berwick, a groom from Barrington Centre, R. I., and a bride of the city of witches, a Braintree citizen and a 19 year old miss from Nova Scotia, a couple from Boston and one from Weymouth, and last but not least a couple from the Pine Tree State.

Last year was also a good year for second marriages as 22 gentlemen and 16 ladies for the second time in their lives decided that it were not best to live alone. Of the grooms one of 32 got a Chelsea dressmaker, one of 43 got a bride of 27, a man by occupation a nurse got as his second helpmate a widow of 33 who was also a nurse, a granite cutter of 52 also got a widowed nurse of 47, a quarryman of 45 got for his second bride a nurse of 37, while a blacksmith of 34 got a blushing bride of 19 summers, a carpenter of 50 got a charming widow of 26, a granite cutter of 38 got a maid of 21 who vowed she would love him just as much as though there was plenty of work and the hungry were not crying for bread; another of 37 put his hand into the matrimonial grab bag and fished out a dressmaker who owned up that she had been a loving wife once before, and so on through the whole list.

"Young man beware of the wiley widows," is an old saying and while it may be true that they set their nets for the young men there are those who prefer widows and the records of last year tell us that 10 got young men, for instance, one of 33 got a provision dealer of 40, one of 33 got a Weymouth shoemaker of her own age another of 33 got a quarryman of 27 who promised to find her in the necessities of life, another of 30 who had visions of a house of her own, captured a carpenter of 35, another of 36 who knew a good thing when she saw it captured a stone cutter of 37, one of 34 who wanted no boy for her second venture chose a heart of a young man of 38. The last mentioned lady was not alone in her views for we find that one of 30 took a husband of 39, and one of 30 got one of 37 both of whom were granite cutters.

The youngest brides were but 17 years of age. Two of them agreed to keep house and do the mending for clerks, one of whom was 18 and the other 19; another of 17 got a granite cutter of 25; another of 18 got a street car conductor of 21, who will doubtless forget to ring up her fare when she rides. A Nova Scotia miss of 19 cast her lot with a sailor of 25, and another of 19 to a 22-year old young man who had just finished his trade as a granite cutter, and still another of the same age agreed to make her own dresses while he painted carriages. Other make-ups were, a shoemaker and a hammock maker, a fisherman and a milliner, a clerk and school teacher, a hod carrier and a domestic, and a granite cutter and tailoress.

Those who performed these interesting ceremonies were: Rev. William Steele, 20; Rev. Edward Norton, 19; Rev. F. A. Friguglietti, 16; Rev. Charles Paulson, 13; Rev. Fr. Cunningham, 9; justices of the peace, 9; Rev. H. E. Cotton, 7; Rev. W. Sherman Thompson, 7; Rev. P. A. Englund, 5; Rev. J. H. Yeoman, Rev. D. M. Wilson and Rev. A. F. Roche, 4; Rev. W. R. Breed, Rev. Abbott, Rev. S. B. Duffield and Rev. W. S. Key 1 each, and out of town clergymen, 76.

The summary of the ages of the grooms and brides for the years 1892 and 1893 is as follows:

A New Industry for Quincy.

That the citizens of Quincy intend to accelerate the growth of the granite industry has been manifested by the interest they have taken in the organization of the Lyons Granite Company.

The company is to be incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts with a cash capital of forty thousand dollars divided into four hundred shares of one hundred dollars each. They intend to carry on a general granite business but make a specialty of cutting and polishing circular work. Heretofore nearly all work of this kind has been done in Barre and Concord, thus depriving Quincy of a large amount of business that ought to be done here.

The growth of this class of work for monumental and building purposes has increased very fast during the past year, and the granite dealers of Quincy are determined to advance their own interests by catering for this work in connection with their regular trade.

For this purpose the company will build the most complete plant in New England situated in West Quincy on the line of railroad in progress of construction by the Quincy Quarry Co. The cutting and polishing sheds will be fitted with modern and improved machinery, together with the ordinary machines for bed work, there will be three turning lathes capable of cutting and polishing a column or any form of circular work from two inches to six feet in diameter.

This will give Quincy a lathe able to turn a larger stone than can be handled now anywhere in New England. The company will also quarry rough stone for bridge and building work, being located so as to load on cars direct from quarry thus saving a large amount in transportation.

The industry will do much to promote Quincy granite, thus giving our city an advantage over all others in the granite business.

Milton and Quincy Balls.

Chief Ripley and others of the Quincy Firemen's Relief Association were at the annual ball of the Milton Association last Friday night, getting points as to how to make a grand success of the Quincy ball on Wednesday evening of this week. The Milton laddies will put about $400 into their treasury, and the Quincy laddies would like to do as well. About 125 couple participated at Milton, the grand march being led by Chief Choate and wife. Boston, Hyde Park and other departments were represented.

BATH'S BIG BLAZE.

Maine's Thriving City Suffers to the Extent of Half a Million Dollars.

BATH, Me., Jan. 29.—Fire yesterday forenoon destroyed the north side of Center street to and including the Sagadahoc House. Four blocks on the west side of Front street were also burned. On the east side the burned district extends from a point opposite the Sagadahoc House northward to about the same limit. Several other blocks on Front and Center street were damaged, as were also buildings in the rear as far as the northern division of the Bath iron works. The fire caught in a defective chimney of the Sagadahoc House. The water works failed, and assistance was summoned from Lewiston, Brunswick and Portland. Two banks fell. The loss is estimated at $500,000.

The heaviest losses are those of D. T. Percy & Sons, $100,000; Sagadahoc House, $75,000; Granite block, $40,000; Sagadahoc Real Estate association, outside of the Sagadahoc House, $75,000; John O. Shaw, $25,000. The Hyde Light Guards are on duty patrolling the burned district and several streams are being played on the ruins. Definite statements of the losses are hardly possible.

JONES, SINCLAIR AND M'LEOD

Said to Be Quietly Working Up a Little Railroad Scheme.

BOSTON, Jan. 29.—It is stated on the authority of men holding high official positions on New England railroads that a big deal is soon to take place involving a total change in the policy of the Boston and Maine. Frank Jones and Henry Sinclair are quietly at work endeavoring to secure control against the Pullman-Lawrence-American express faction, now in control.

The plan is to restore Jones on the Boston and Maine and Sewall on the Maine Central and to revoke the present affiliations with the Consolidated road, with which President Tuttle strongly sympathizes. The recent cut from 8 to 6 per cent in Boston and Maine dividends has hastened matters. The plan is to combine with the New England and Pennsylvania against the New Haven. Jones and McLeod have made peace, so as to fight the common foe.

The New Haven is having difficulty in securing sufficient business to pay for four tracking. Every effort has been made to keep the Jones-Sinclair-McLeod project a strict secret.

AN EARTHQUAKE HORROR.

Twelve Thousand Human Lives and Fifty Thousand Cattle Perished.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 29.—Advices from China announce the complete annihilation of the town of Kuchan, Persia. Twelve thousand persons were killed. Ten thousand bodies have been recovered. Fifty thousand cattle were also lost.

Objections to Waters.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 29.—It is generally believed at Harvard that the re-election of Waters as captain of the football team will not be approved by the athletic committee, which has declared against graduate captains. Professor Ames, chairman of the committee, told Waters before the election that he had better not run. He is strongly opposed to graduate captains and will object to Waters, who will be in the law school next year. The final outcome will probably be that Waters' election will be considered complimentary, and he will resign in favor of an undergraduate captain.

Lincoln's Mystery.

LINCOLN, Mass., Jan. 29.—Since the finding of the body of an unknown man lying in 1 1-2 feet of water at this place last Tuesday, the belief is general that the man was murdered and then placed in the water. An examination of the body revealed several bruises on the head. When the body was found it was minus coat and boots. The authorities have taken the matter up.

"Suicide by Accident."

TOLEDO, Jan. 29.—Fred Leab yesterday sought to frighten his wife on her return from church, and fastening a clothesline to a nail in the wall, put a loose coil about his neck. He accidentally tripped, and, the rope pulling taut, his neck was dislocated in the fall and death was instantaneous.

A Horrible Murder.

PITTSBURG, Kan., Jan. 29.—The body of William A. Chapman, one of the prominent men of the city, was found in his storeroom with his throat cut and his body fearfully cut and slashed. Robbery is the supposed motive. Bloodhounds have been sent for.

THE QUINCY TAKING.

A More Detailed Boundary of Land Taken for Blue Hills Reservation.

The Metropolitan Park Commissioners have filed their second taking of land in Norfolk county for the Blue Hills reservation, being a tract of 871 or more acres within the limits of the city of Quincy. Messrs. Charles F. Adams, Charles H. Porter and William B. Rice, park commissioners of the city of Quincy, approve and concur in the taking.

The lands taken are owned by the Adams Real Estate Trust and others, Adams Temple fund, L. Spear, Nightingale estate, Quincy Quarry Company, O. T. Rogers, Bass estate, R. Pierce, heirs of Job Faxon and Forsyth estate. The tract of land owned by the first named is a very extensive one, and constitutes the greater part of the taking.

The tract is bounded as follows: Beginning at a hemlock tree marking the town bound, so called in the division line between the city of Quincy and the town of Braintree; thence running northeasterly along the town line as above 5038 feet to a stone bound in the westerly line of Purgatory road, so called; thence running northeasterly and northwesterly along said side line of above road 1551 feet to bound at the intersection of said side line with the westerly side of Willard street; thence running northerly along the westerly line of the above street 2287 feet to a stone bound in the division line between the land of E. V. Trask and land of the Adams Temple and school fund; thence running westerly through the centre of a stone wall on above division line 486 5-10 feet; thence running northerly and bounding easterly on land of said Trask and others, as the wall stands, 765 5-10 feet to a drill hole in a large boulder; thence running westerly along the northern boundary line of said Adams Temple and school fund lands 808 6-10 feet to a point at the intersection of the centre lines of two stone walls; thence running northerly 17 feet to the centre of a pile of stones at the corner of the "Six hundred acre lot," so called;

Thence running northwesterly and bounding northeasterly on lands now or formerly of E. V. Trask, of the Granite Railway Company and of the Quincy Quarry Company, as marked by stone heaps and stone posts, 1286 8-10 feet to a stone bound at the corner of land now or formerly of O. T. Rogers; thence running westerly along said Roger's land, as marked by stone heaps, 1610 feet to a drill mark on the south side of a large boulder: thence running north seventy-five degrees forty-five minutes west, 4298 5-10 feet to a stone bound; thence running southwest by a curved line with a radius of 93 6-10 feet and 991 46-100 feet to a stone bound: thence south 42 degrees 23 minutes west, 162 87-100 feet to a stone bound at a point in the westerly boundary of the Quincy lot, so called, now owned by the Quincy Quarry Company and believed to be the dividing line between Quincy and Milton: thence running southerly in a nearly straight line about 3188 7-10 feet to a stone bound at a corner, marking the boundary between Quincy and Milton: thence running nearly southerly in a straight line 5481 feet to the place of beginning, the hemlock tree in the rock.

AN OLD STONECUTTER.

David Dustin Keniston, Who Worked at the Trade Before 1824.

The Globe today has an interesting sketch and portrait of David Dustin Keniston of Rumney, N. H., a veteran of 93 years, one of Quincy's veteran stonecutters. It is not uncommon to see the venerable man out among the townspeople, looking after his own business interests and chatting about affairs in general. He is regard with great reverence among his many friends and acquaintances.

Mr. Keniston was born in Sanbornton, now the town of Tilton, on the farm owned by his parents. His father, William Keniston was a well-to-do farmer and a much respected citizen.

His parents reared a family of 12 children—seven boys and five girls—and David was the seventh in age. All the children lived to grow up, and nearly all of them had families, so that the descendants of these children are many.

Mr. Keniston came to Quincy, Mass., learned the stonecutting trade, and remained in that occupation till 1824.

When John Quincy Adams was elected to the presidency he would have voted for him, had he not just previous to that event gone to South Carolina, where he engaged in building locks and canals.

After remaining in South Carolina a number of years, he returned to Quincy and followed his trade there.

At the laying of the corner-stone to the Bunker Hill monument he and a companion hired a man to drive them to Boston to hear Daniel Webster deliver the oration.

Of this occasion he relates the manner in which the cornerstone was proved to be level, by pouring wine in the drill hole, a scheme carried out at the suggestion of Gen. Lafayette.

He had been twice married—first in 1829, at Thornton N. H., to Miss Sarah Cone, by whom he had nine children, six of whom are living at the present time and all married.

His first wife died while he was living in Campton, N. H., in 1852. He was married again, Nov. 14, 1855, to Mrs. Susan S. Smith of Wilmot. From this union came six children, but only one of them is living.

Mr. Keniston now lives on a farm in Rumney, and in fact he has followed this occupation the greater part of his days. He has been successful, and has raised thousands of sheep, which netted him a good income. His farm is one of the best in Rumney.

He worked at haying last summer, does his own chores, looks after 1000 sugar trees, picks the apples from 100 apple trees, and cares for 100 acres of land.

Once a year he visits all his children, making a round trip before returning home. His children are scattered all over the state, and it takes him several weeks to go the rounds.

Mind Readers.

We realize that a man used well once knows where to trade again and where to recommend his friends. That's why we adopted the close margin policy on furniture when we entered the business. Henry L. Kincaide & Co.

PALMER'S BIG FIRE

Destroys the Opera House and Five Large Business Establishments.

PALMER, Mass., Jan. 29.—A blaze whose damage amounted to $60,000 cleared away the opera house in this town last night and with it destroyed all the machinery and stocks in trade of five of the town's most prosperous business firms. The fire caught in the lower story of the three-story block known as Holden's opera house, and when discovered at 10:30 was burning the partition between the drug store of O. P. Allen and the shoe store of E. J. Henry.

An alarm was rung, but as the block was one of wood the fire gained great headway before the department arrived. The efforts of the firemen were directed to saving the adjoining buildings. They were aided in their work by the conditions of a very light wind and the fact that the roofs were protected by a covering of snow. The Masonic block and the buildings on the Feeney estate were, however, in such danger that aid was summoned from Springfield and Monson.

The opera house proper occupied only the upper story of the main building, and its contents, consisting of scenery and furnishings, were totally destroyed, entailing a loss of about $32,000.

B. P. Morse & Co., printers and publishers, occupied the next story, and saved only the books and papers in the office. The lower part of the block was occupied by E. J. Henry, shoe dealer; O. P. Allen, druggist; Robinson & Taylor, grocers; E. L. Davis, fancy goods; G. A. Bill, meat market, and John McBride, barber. None of these firms were able to save any of their stock and their losses are total.

The only accident was the fall from a ladder of William Loiard, a fireman, who dislocated his shoulder. The fire was practically out at midnight.

THE DANBURY TROUBLE

Appears to Still Be in a Rather Unsatisfactory State.

DANBURY, Conn., Jan. 29.—At a meeting of Danbury hat manufacturers Saturday evening proprietors of six factories asked and received permission to open their shops today to the trade as concessions of trade unions were satisfactory to them. Later the six manufacturers met executive committees of four trade unions and yesterday morning agreements were arrived at whereby old shops crews in each of the factories would return to work today.

Negotiations nearly fell through, the leaders insisting on the return of all employes, which was granted reluctantly by the manufacturers. Concessions on the part of trimmers (girls) were given unwillingly. They were rejected three times. The men threatened them with desertion and the breaking of their union, and the fourth time concessions were granted by the opposition refusing to vote. Six factories employ 800 hands. The other 12 factories will attempt operations independent of trade unions.

One of them, C. H. Merritt & Son, has filled the factory with deserters from unions. It is said the other 11 have applications from old employes enough to man their factories. This trade leaders emphatically deny, and will continue the fight against them. It is said that permission to six manufacturers was conditional, and the old hands may be discharged in a few days.

Porter Will Enforce the Law.

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., Jan. 29.—According to advices brought per steamer Topeka, pretty much all of Alaska is up in arms over the recent edict of United States Marshal Porter regarding the enforcement of the Edmunds' act. The advices say that Porter means business; that he is backed up by the attorney-general, and that half the white population of Sitka and Juneau will be under arrest shortly unless they observe the law, and cease their unlawful relations with the Indians and half-breed women, who are practically their slaves.

Turf, Farm and Home Burned Out.

AUBURN, Me., Jan. 29.—Fire originated from causes unknown in the office of Turf, Farm and Home Publishing company and gutted the building. Loss on building and machinery, $5000. The loss on plates and other private property is heavy. The fire extended to the historic covered frame bridge connecting Auburn with Lewiston, about the oldest structure of the kind in the state. This was badly damaged, but was saved by the efforts of the Lewiston fire department.

Bell Telephone's Big Move.

BOSTON, Jan. 29.—The American Bell Telephone company is to petition the legislature for permission to increase their capital stock somewhere in the neighborhood of $30,000,000. The present stock represents $20,000,000, and the company desires to make it $50,000,000, ostensibly for the purpose of extending the service so as to place it beyond the reach of any competing company that may be organized to use the run out Bell patents.

Benham Can Take Care of It.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—It is impossible to obtain a confirmation or denial from either Secretary Gresham or Secretary Herbert of the report that two American vessels had been fired upon in Rio Janeiro bay. Secretary Herbert said that if such an affair had taken place Admiral Benham was competent to take care of it.

Dropped Dead on the Street.

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 29.—George W. Woodbury, aged 55, one of Portland's prominent citizens, dropped dead while returning from church yesterday. He was at one time superintendent of the Portland and Rochester railroad. He was chief clerk of the auditor's office of the Maine Central railroad.

A Painful Accident.

BANGOR, Me., Jan. 29.—H. H. Rich, of Brooks, while chopping wood, struck his right leg just above the ankle with the blade, and so nearly severed both bones that they broke under his weight. He reached home by crawling half a mile through the snow, dragging his maimed leg.

Union Pacific Employes Cut Down.

OMAHA, Jan. 29.—A new wage schedule has been adopted by the Union Pacific road. All the employes will suffer a reduction in wages, some of the cuts being very heavy. Judge Dundy orders the reduction. The adoption of the schedule may lead to trouble with the men.

But Little Hope of Recovery.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 29.—There has been no marked change in the condition of George W. Childs. He has periods of unconsciousness, but they are not necessarily regarded as symptoms of the approaching end. That his recovery is almost hopeless is generally conceded.

THEIR NAMES IN HISTORY.

A List of the Eminent Dead of the Year Just Closed.

Among the men who have died during the past year and whose names will figure in history are James G. Blaine, late secretary of state; Alexander of Battenberg, once the prince of Bulgaria; ex-President Hayes, General Benjamin F. Butler, Justices Lamar and Blatchford, Hamilton Fish; Beauregard and Smith, Confederate generals; the Earl of Derby; Miribel, chief of the French general staff; MacMahon, ex-president of France; Jules Ferry; Senator Stanford, the founder of Leland Stanford university; Sir A. T. Galt; Sir John Abbot, ex-premier of Canada; Uncle Jerry Rusk; Tirard, a former premier of France; Admiral Tryon of the Victoria, first of English naval officers of the day, and Ferdinand de Lesseps.

The church, in its various members, has lost Phillips Brooks, who is claimed by the church universal; Dr. A. P. Peabody, Dr. Philip Schaff; Frederick Evans, the Shaker; Bishops Kip and Bissell and Brother Azarias.

The ranks of the men of letters show few breaches, but among these are places once filled by Taine, Francis Parkman, Guy de Maupassant, John Addington Symonds, Lucy Stone, Mrs. Maria Lamb, founder of The Magazine of History; De Mille, Lucy Larcom, Professor Jewett and Dr. William Smith, the lexicographer.

Among the scientists who have been taken away the names of Tyndall, Charcot and Professor Horsford of Harvard are the most prominent. Others of this class are Craven, the inventor of the submarine cable; Lichtenthaler, the conchologist and marine botanist; Decandolle, a French botanist; Captain Anderson, who commanded the Great Eastern when laying the first Atlantic cable; Joseph Francis, the inventor of the lifeboat; Colton, the map publisher; Viner, the meteorologist; Stephenson, builder of the first street car; Rae, the great arctic explorer; Harvey, the inventor of the armor plate.

Few men have died in 1893 whose loss has been more severely felt and whose names have been more widely honored than General Armstrong, founder of the Hampton institute and friend of the negro and the Indian. In this category, among those who did much for their fellow men, may be mentioned also Anthony Drexel, George I. Seney and Colonel Auchmuty.

Last, but by no means least, in the ghostly procession we note Edwin Booth, greatest of American actors and a very rare character; Fanny Kemble, J. E. Murdock, Gounod, the composer, and Tschaikowsky, the Russian musician.—Buffalo Commercial.

A LOST OPPORTUNITY.

Comedian Joseph Jefferson Declined a Unique Money Making Proposition.

Several weeks ago when Mr. Jefferson was playing Rip Van Winkle at the Walnut Street theater he found among his mail one morning a letter from a furniture man. The epistle, which was written on a letter head adorned with a large cut of a folding bed "closed" and "opened," read as follows:

Mr. Jefferson:

SIR—I saw you play Rip Van Winkle last night, and I have a proposition to make to you. When the curtain goes up on the third act, and you rise all stiff and sore after your long sleep, you might say a few words something like this: "Oh, how stiff I am! If I had only slept last night on one of Blank's patent folding beds, warranted safe, durable and comfortable, how much better I would feel this morning!" I think it would bring down the house. Now, I am willing to pay you well for this, of course. Let me know what you think of it.

The owner of Blank's folding bed has not yet heard from Mr. Jefferson.—Philadelphia Record.

A Belated Newspaper.

A curious instance of delay in delivering a newspaper by post has been brought to light at the general postoffice. Some alterations are being made in the newspaper department, and on the removal of an iron girder which had supported the roof a few papers blackened with age were discovered. One was a a copy of the Wakefield Journal for Aug. 17, 1866. It was addressed to Buckingham Road, De Beauvoir Town, and as it was posted long before the halfpenny stamp was invented it bore the old red penny stamp. The paper had evidently reached London "in course of post," and by some unexplained chance had got into the hiding place where it had lain all these years. It has now been sent for delivery, but whether the addressee has been found after the long interval does not appear. Perhaps he or she, like the paper itself, has in the meantime died; at any rate, the Wakefield Journal has no place in recent press directories.—Blackburn (England) Times.

Boston's Gilded Dome In Danger.

Hartford's gilded dome is believed to be all right, but there are disquieting reports about the other and older dome that crowns the Sam Adams statehouse on Beacon hill, Boston. The statehouse superintendent reports that the life of the supporting timbers is gone, signs of dry rot have appeared, the whole dome structure has settled perceptibly from its original position, and in his opinion something should be done immediately. The suggestion is that unless something is done the gilded dome may tumble in presently on the legislators' heads.—Hartford Courant.

Grafted Chicken Claws For Finger Nails.

Frederick Stoga, a well known resident of Burlington, N. J., has been successful in performing an operation of great interest to medical men. A short time ago he clipped off the tops of two fingers with a pair of shears. In experimenting for a remedy he successfully grafted chicken claws on his disabled fingers. A couple of weeks ago the claws, which had been carefully bandaged to his fingers, began to grow, and since then they have shown a decided development. Stoga can now use his new fashioned finger nails with considerable effect.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtenances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

Victory.

He who, believing, strongly lays his hand
Unto the work that waits for him to do—
Though men should cavil, measures prove untrue,
Friends write their trusted promises on sand,
And failure mock him with its threatening brand.
Still in the end he, fearless, shall pursue,
Till crack of doom, will find a power which few
Or none with cause less righteous may command.

For conquest is not built on the defeat
Of any man whose aim is human good;
Who fights for justice hath already won,
Before no show of loss shall he retreat;
However crossed, maligned, misunderstood,
He knows but triumph in the work well done.

Her Birthday.

My darling, with eyes like October,
And heart that is young as the May,
What shall I wish thee, this day of days?
Bethink thee, sweetheart, and say.

I would that time could stand still for awhile,
And leave thee as now thou art,
As fresh as the early dawn is fresh,
As white as the snowdrop's heart.

Let the rest of the world grow old and cold,
But, oh! let me still keep thee—
The same forever, my girl of girls,
Forever a girl for me.

Till my life is old, and my heart is cold,
Let me wear thee upon my breast,
And then let me find thee and claim thee again
When I wake from the grave's long rest.

THE TEARLESS LIFE.

In the low moon's pensive splendor,
Not in day's flame,
Very soft and very tender
Breathe her dear name,
While the night wind's hymn is blending
With the near wave,
And the amaranths are bending
Above her grave.

For her thoughts and deeds were holy,
Friend, sister, wife.
Perfect did the lofty, lowly,
Behold her life.
Hers was charity the golden;
Hers sleepless love.
Oh, with all true ladies olden,
She glows above.

Yet from us she's not departed;
Yet in this sphere
Seems her true soul, so true hearted,
To dry grief's tear.
Saviour, whom she loved so fearless,
In all world strife,
May we with her know the tearless,
Starr'd heavenly life!
—New York Ledger.

MRS. 'GUSTE.

A couple of years ago my husband and I chanced to be spending a winter in Vicksburg. The house we rented was near a nice old fashioned market, where I went as much for an occasional chat with the proprietor as for the very good things she sold me. She was a stout, brisk old French woman, a widow, Mme. Auguste Dieulouard by name, rather German in appearance, but very French in her manners as she talked from behind her bars or bustled about her shop, directing and sometimes scolding her underlings. She was delighted, the first day I went to market, to have me speak French to her, and soon we were quite intimate. Before the winter was over and I had returned to New York she had told me, bit by bit, a great deal of the story of her life. Translated from her queer half German patois and pieced together, it ran somewhat as follows:

"I was born in 1830, in Lure, near Alsace, in the old Franche Comte. After my mother died I lived with my grandmother. When my grandmother died, I could not go back to my father, for he had married again, had a large family and was very poor. Some of our neighbors were coming to America, and I came with them. We took a sailing vessel to New Orleans, and the voyage lasted 44 days. Two years after reaching New Orleans I married a young Frenchman who had a nice little sum of money. Then my troubles began, for he would not have a settled home, as I wished, but wanted to travel all the time. I kept him in New Orleans most of the time for two years, but then he got too restless, and we began to gad about the country. We went up the river to Memphis and St. Louis, then we traveled through Kentucky and Tennessee. Later we went to California. When the war broke out, we were back in Kentucky. My husband enlisted in the southern army, leaving me in Columbus with very little money. I lived there until my money was nearly gone and then took a boat to Vicksburg. I reached Vicksburg just before travel was stopped. The siege lasted 48 days. I helped nurse in the hospitals, and one day, when I was sent out for drugs, was struck by a Yankee shell and wounded in the forehead. At the end of the siege Yankee doctors and nurses took charge of the hospitals, and I had no work and no money. Some of my neighbors were without money and food and came in to see me and said: 'Madame, what shall we do? We are starving.' I said, 'Go home and I will think what to do.' Then I was offered rations. 'Rations for what?' I asked. 'I am no Yankee soldier. Why should I take rations of you?' Then I said to the neighbors: 'We will make beer. Get me two barrels of water, some yeast, hops, molasses and corn. When the Yankee's whisky is gone, he will be glad to drink my beer and will have to pay for it.' Sometimes he did not pay, but mostly he did, and we lived a year by making beer.

"There was military law in Vicksburg. General D. was in command for a long time. There was a very strong feeling against him. I think he was the meanest man that ever lived. I knew everybody hated him. One day I said, 'I am going to General D. to get a permit to open a store.' Every one said, 'He is too mean to give you one.' I said, 'I will try.' I went to him and said very politely, 'General D., I want a permit to open a store.' He asked me, 'Why should I give you a permit?' I said, 'Because I must make some money to live.' He said, 'Are you Irish?' 'No.' 'Are you Dutch?' 'No.' 'Are you German?' 'No.' 'Are you French?' 'Yes.' 'Then go to Napoleon for a permit.'

"After awhile General D. left Vicksburg, and General S. was in command. One morning I went to see him. He was lying on a couch. I asked him for a permit. He said: 'My good woman, you shall have one if you will get me pen and paper from the next room. I have been at a ball all night and could not get up for the president.' General S. was not so bad for a Yankee. But General Grant was the nicest Yankee I ever saw. His headquarters were on the river, but we often saw him in Vicksburg, and he used to walk about and talk to the people. He was very kind, and every one liked him. One day he came into my store with a friend. He said: 'What kind of stuff is that in your window? I am hungry, and it looks very good.' 'Washington pie,' I answered. 'Why do you call it that?' said he. 'That pie is named after the great Washington whose memory all good Americans adore,' I replied. 'That is good,' said he; 'how much is a slice of Washington pie?' I said, 'Some slices are 10 cents, but some I cut are 5 cents.' He said to the officer: 'I am so hungry I believe I could eat a 10 cent slice, could not you? Madame, please cut me two 10 cent slices, and I will trouble you to wrap them up for me.' So I did, and he would not let the dandy young officer carry my Washington pie, but when he had paid me took the bundle himself out into the street. Then the neighbors came in and said, 'What did General Grant have in his paper?' I replied, 'Washington pie—a 10 cent slice for himself and one for that young officer.'

"The war was over, and I had never heard from my husband and thought he must be dead. I was doing well in my store. I bought all my things in great quantities and sold them well. I had many friends and was much respected. I remember very well that one day a nigger came into my store and said, 'Have you got any cheap cigars?' I gave him one and said, 'This is 5 cents.' He bit it and then threw it into my face, crying, 'Have you nothing better for me than that?' 'Yes, I have something better for you,' I said, and I hit him over the mouth and nose with a poker, and he rushed howling and bleeding into the street. In half an hour a corporal and two soldiers came in and arrested me. I laughed and said: 'You must allow me time to put on my bonnet and lock up my store. Then I will go with you with pleasure.' When we got to the provost, he said, 'Why, Mrs. 'Guste, I am surprised to see you. What possible complaint can there be against you?' When he had heard my story as well as the nigger's, he told me to go back to my store and said very severely to the nigger: 'Is this the use you make of your liberty? Go home and behave like a white man if you can.'

"Four years more went by, and I was sure my husband was dead. I was well off, had a large market where I employed six men and was fast growing rich. I had many offers to change my name, but I always gave the same answer to all, 'Thank you, sir, for the compliment, but I prefer to support only myself and do not care for the luxury of a husband.'

"One day a Mr. Paxton, whose wife I knew, came in and said, 'Come up to our house.' 'I have no time,' I said. 'What is the matter? Is your wife sick?' He said, 'No, she is not sick, but there is a man there who wants to see you.' I said, 'Well, then, let him come and see me.' Mr. Paxton begged so hard and I got so curious that I put on my bonnet—my old bonnet, for I would not dress up for any man who would not take the trouble to come and see me—and went home with him to his house. I grew cold and felt faint, for there, talking to Mrs. Paxton, was Auguste—my husband—looking just the same as when he left me eight years before. My heart beat like a hammer, but I just said: 'Well, so you are alive and have turned up at last, have you? Where have you been for eight years? Have you had a good time and been traveling all over the world?' 'Oh, Josephine,' he said and began to cry.

"Poor fellow, he had been wounded and taken prisoner and very ill. When the war was over and he was well again, he began to hunt for me. Not finding me in Columbus, he went to every place where he had ever been before, which meant a good many journeys for a man who had always traveled all the time. No doubt he enjoyed himself very much. He had been in Vicksburg the year before. Now he was on his way down the river from St. Louis to New Orleans. The boat was delayed for a few hours at Vicksburg, and Auguste was taking a walk when he met Mr. Paxton and began talking to him. He asked if there were many French people in Vicksburg. 'A good many,' said Mr. Paxton. Then Auguste asked about the women, and when he heard there was a Mrs. 'Guste who had a market, and whose name was such a hard one that everybody called her Mrs. 'Guste for short, he said he wanted to see her, and asked how to go to her store. When he started, he said his knees felt very queer, and he wondered if he could walk there, and if it was really his Mrs. 'Guste, and if I would be glad to see him.

"He reached, as he thought, the store to which Mr. Paxton had directed him, and there he found a man—a dreadful looking man, he said—weighing sugar. 'Is this your store?' asked Auguste. 'Yes, sir,' answered the man. 'What can I do for you?' Auguste did not say another word to the man, but rushed out into the street, crying: 'Mon Dieu! Josephine is married to another. I will travel and never return.' Then he hurried back to the boat and met Mr. Paxton, who said, 'Did you know Mrs. 'Guste?' Auguste answered, 'How can she be Mrs. 'Guste when she is married to another who is not 'Guste?' Auguste had gone into a wrong store—one not a quarter the size of mine. But he was too exhausted to go again to find me and said Mr. Paxton must bring me to his house.

"'Well, 'Guste,' said I, 'you may stay in my house, and if you are not going to try to make me travel I am really very glad to see you, but if you are going to travel you may travel alone as you have for eight years. While you remain in Vicksburg I will support you and will send you your coffee to your bed in the morning. I get up at 4 and will not have my business meddled with. And I will never travel.'"—New York Post.

Ancient Drinking Guilds.

It is gravely said by an authority that the Dutch guilds, the most ancient of workingmen's organizations, had their origin in drinking guilds which, although they did not, as in the case of the Greeks and Romans, exalt drink to the rank of a deity, made it a kind of civic dignitary. These drink guilds and drink brethren existed from the earliest times until the latter part of the sixteenth century, when their excesses led to their suppression. It is held that men who worked together drank together, and thus formed the primitive club which developed into the guild.—Notes and Queries.

Johnson and Millar.

When Johnson, in 1755, sent the conclusion of his dictionary to Millar, the publisher, that gentleman sent him the final payment and expressed thanks to God that he had done with him, whereupon Johnson made reply that he was glad to find that Millar had the grace to thank God for anything.—Minneapolis Housekeeper.

ANARCHISM RAMPANT

Said to Have Caused the Pennsylvania Mining Troubles.

SOLDIERS ARE MADE DEPUTIES.

Preparations for Meeting Further Trouble at Mansfield.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 29.—A quiet Sunday prevailed throughout the Mansfield coal region, the scene of Saturday's rioting. But few strikers were seen out of their houses, and the deputy sheriffs on guard at the various mines in the district had little to occupy their attention. By many, however, the calm was regarded as preceding the storm.

There are well-grounded fears of another outbreak and the law-abiding citizens are preparing to meet it. Trusted foreigners, who were supposed to be in sympathy with the rioters, were sent out yesterday by the coal operators. They circulated freely with the strikers, and last evening returned with the information that preparations were being made to attack the works at Bridgeville, Rosevale and Beadling.

The feeling among the rioters is very bitter against the Beadling brothers for the killing of Frank Stepitz, and they assert that they will have revenge. If another attack is made on the Beadling works the foreigners will meet with a still warmer reception than that accorded them Saturday. There are 12 men in the Beadling family and every one is as determined and brave as the three who put to flight a mob of several hundred.

Thomas Beadling says he and his two brothers fired at least 100 shots Saturday, and he is satisfied that if a search of the strikers' houses was made, at least a score of wounded men would be found. Frank Stepitz, who was shot through the body, died yesterday. He was a member of the Sons of St. George, and his family will receive a death benefit of $1500.

Sunday afternoon Squire C. P. Mayer, whose general store was attacked by the mob, made information against 16 men whom he recognized among the rioters. Posses will go after them. At present there are over 100 armed deputies on guard throughout the region, and this number will be doubled if possible.

Anarchists May Have Started It.

There are strong reasons for believing that the anarchists hereabouts are responsible for the disorder. It is known that the bulk of the insurgents came from Bower Hill, and upon the authority of Rev. Father Jacob Wertz, pastor of St. Joseph's German Catholic church at Mansfield, there are at least 100 families on Bower Hill who openly avow anarchism.

Their bible is a radically anarchist sheet printed in Wisconsin, and appropriately named "Lucifer," and the confession of faith is set forth in the specious sophistry of its publication. This sheet is written by an unfrocked priest named Michael Biron, a man of good education, who fell away from the church when in Mayence, Germany.

He is now publishing this sheet in Madison, Wis., and it has a considerable number of subscribers in this section and in the coke regions. In conversation yesterday Father Wertz said: "I have been unwilling to speak on this subject, but now feel that I should no longer remain silent. It is my firm conviction that the movement yesterday was of anarchistic conception and design.

"Not less than 100 families in this region avow teaching of anarchy and do not seek to disguise it. I had hoped to bring back these people into the church, but it now seems a hopeless task. There is really no religion among them. To reform them is almost impossible. They have no regard for law, as they are too ignorant to understand its meaning and are ripe seed for the agitator and leader who has his own ends to gain.

"I took the Wisconsin publication for a year, for the purpose and object of trying to influence these people against its teachings, but I was unsuccessful."

Father Wertz said further that they had a secret organization opposed to American law, but none but members could secure admittance or learn anything of the proceedings.

Looks Like More Trouble.

A dispatch from Mansfield says there is considerable excitement there and preparations are being made for trouble. Twenty members of company K, stationed at Mansfield, were sworn in yesterday afternoon as deputies, and fully as many more citizens qualified as such. Sheriff Richards of Allegheny county is in command and re-enforcements are being dispatched to the threatened points as fast as possible. The sheriff has his forces well in hand, and it is thought will be able to cope with any disturbances that may occur.

A meeting of strikers is said to have been held somewhere in Mansfield yesterday, but where, or what was done, could not be learned. After midnight a number of Italians and Frenchmen, with a sprinkling of Hungarians and Slavs, appeared on the hill above the burnt Tipple mine of the Pan-Handle Coal company and made threats of burning the company's houses. The deputies on guard fired several shots in the air and frightened them off. They returned several times between that and daybreak, but did not carry their threats into execution.

Did $35,000 Damage.

LYNN, Mass., Jan. 29.—Fire broke out yesterday in the five-story brick building 44 and 46 Central avenue here, for which a general fire alarm was rung in. The fire started on the third floor and extended to the upper stories. The fire was confined to the building. The damage is about $35,000.

Swindled to the Extent of $450,000.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 29.—Attorneys for the Bank of Commerce here state that the total swindlings of Bemis & Howell, the "lumbermen," will, according to their advices, reach a total of $450,000.

INCOME TAX TALK.

Representatives Give Their Views on the Subject.

THE HAWAIIAN QUESTION AGAIN.

Foreign Affairs Committee Upholds the President.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—At 11:15 the house went into committee of the whole on the income tax bill. Mr. McMillin offered it as an amendment to the tariff bill, and the amendment was read in full. After the reading Mr. McMillin addressed the committee in support of the bill.

Mr. McMillin began his speech with a discussion of the general tariff question, attacking the Republican policy of protection and declaring that the Democratic party, now in power for the first time in a generation, would reduce the tariff to a revenue basis; that it would impose taxes for public purposes and not for private gains. The law is to be rewritten in the interests of the government and of the taxpayers. Proceeding then to the discussion of the income tax, he declared that the rich should be made to pay their proper share in the expense of the government.

Toward the close of his speech, Mr. McMillin was coutinually plied with questions from all quarters of the house, which he parried with dexterity, his answers frequently evoking applause. When he concluded there was quite a demonstration on the floor and in the galleries.

Ray Against It.

Mr. Ray opened the debate in opposition to the internal revenue amendment of the bill. In bringing in the internal revenue features of the Wilson bill, he said, the Democrats recognized a condition which exists in this country. If he thought they were correct in charging this condition to the McKinley law, he knew his side of the house would concur in the Wilson bill and the income tax.

Mr. Ray sketched the beginning and progress of the financial panic which he attributed entirely to the threat of a tariff change. "And now," said he, "you propose to bring back confidence in the business world and to restore the shaken national credit by an income tax and an issue of government bonds. Twenty-five years ago the Democracy had characterized an income tax as the "most universally condemned of all taxes.

"Yet in time of peace the Democracy proposed to revive this tax which it had condemned even in the stress of war. An income tax," said he, "was the twin sister of free trade. They went hand in hand."

How Tarsney Views It.

Mr. Tarsney followed Mr. Ray. "The income tax was first resorted to," said he, "in the dark days of the civil war. When the war ended, and the people began demanding a reduction of their excessive burdens, instead of taking the taxes off the necessaries of life, the taxes which the rich were able to bear were repealed, and taxes of the poor were retained.

"This was unjust. Men should pay according to their wealth for the support and protection of the government. There was $70,000,000,000 of property in this country. If one man owned $1,000,000,000, would it not be just that he should be taxed his equitable share for the protection of his property?"

Mr. Dinsmore supported the income tax.

Mr. Daniels delivered a careful argument against the tax.

Mr. Williams, in support, said the tax was not a new thing. It has been resorted to by every Democracy since the day of Solon as the most equitable of all taxes.

Mr. Hall spoke in favor of the same.

"Incomplete and Unsatisfactory."

Mr. Culvert, in criticising the action of the ways and means committee, contended that the meaning of tariff reform was well understood during the campaign of 1892. Free trade was not spoken of except in condemnation of it. He believed that the work of the ways and means committee was incomplete and unsatisfactory. The bill had been framed in order to make an income tax a necessity, and was therefore just as objectionable and indefensible, in his opinion, as if this amendment had not been offered. He was therefore opposed to the pending bill.

At this point the hour of 5:30 arrived and the house took a recess until 8 o'clock.

The speakers at the night session were Messrs. Kilgore, McDonald, Stockdale, Lynch and Williams.

Hawaii Again.

The long deferred debate on the Hawaiian question will come up in the house next Friday unless the passage of the Wilson bill should be unexpectedly delayed. Mr. McCreary presented a favorable report on his resolution condemning the course of Minister Stevens and pronouncing against foreign interference. The report is signed by the Democratic members of the foreign affairs committee. The Republican members will make no minority report, but will confine their efforts to urging a substitute to the McCreary resolution which will sustain Minister Stevens and set forth an American policy of annexation.

In the Senate.

In the senate the Hawaiian resolutions were taken up and Mr. Teller made an address in criticism thereof, but saying he would vote for them. The Hawaiian government, he said, was in existence; whether wisely or unwisely, was not a question for the senate to determine.

Public opinion was averse to the destruction of that government, founded, professedly at least, on principles something like those on which the United States government was founded, in order to put a monarchical government in its place.

He said he expected to see in a few years the American flag floating from the extreme north to the line of Mexico; he expected to see it floating over the islands in the great gulf, and in the West Indian seas. He expected to see Canada come into the United States by its own consent.

The resolution, having exhausted its right to consideration in the morning hour, was, under the rules, placed on the calendar, from which it can only be taken on motion and by a majority vote.

Mr. Higgins spoke at length in opposition to the bill and it went over without action.

A Delaware election law discovered by Mr. Chandler caused him to start a new discussion of the federal elections bill. Mr. Hoar and Mr. Gray also spoke.

MORE TIME WANTED.

Senators Consider Peckham's Fitness For the Supreme Bench.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—For the first time in several months the entire membership of the senate committee on judiciary was present at the regular meeting yesterday. The subject which attracted the attendance was the nomination of Wheeler H. Peckham for associate justice of the supreme court of the United States.

WHEELER H. PECKHAM.

The majority of the committee were of the opinion that nomination was one of such general importance and the questions involved of such delicate character that it would n be wise to take immediate action.

Nor was anything said or done to indicate the position of the various members of the committee. The meeting was devoted to a general canvass of Mr. Peckham's fitness for the office and the reading of letters bearing upon his qualifications. The fact was made evident that the conditions of Mr. Peckham and the administration are very much in earnest in their effort to secure confirmation.

NOT ONE ESCAPED.

Twenty-Six Men Perish in Brandon Bay, Off Ireland.

BBITISH BARK WENT ASHORE.

Crew Exhausted Before Overcome by Death.

DUBLIN, Jan. 30.—Twenty-six lives have been lost by the wrecking of the British bark Port Yarrock, Captain Forbes, from Santa Rosalia, July 4, for Antwerp, which some days ago put into Brandon bay, county Kerry, in a disabled condition, and which, during a gale, dragged her anchors ashore. A very heavy sea was running in the bay, and when the bark struck the surf made a clean breach over her.

The bark struck almost broadside on, and the surf pounded her with terrific violence. As the tide rose the surf became stronger, and soon the sea was sweeping over the decks of the bark. Her hatches were evidently battened down and the companionways closed, for there were no signs of her filling. It was impossible, owing to the position of the stranded vessel, for any assistance to reach her, and in a short time she began to break up.

First her three masts went by the board, and the wreckage floated alongside, causing the hull to heel over at a sharp angle, thus affording a better mark for the sea. Soon the butts and seams on the weather side began to open, and in a short time the vessel began to break up. Some of those on board the bark attempted to reach shore by means of planks or spars, but they were swept off and disappeared almost as soon as they left the vessel. Not a person on the bark was saved.

Death Ended Much Suffering.

The loss of the Port Yarrock was one of the most distressing shipwrecks recorded for some time. The crew must have suffered terribly from want of food and exposure before death finally ended their sufferings in the waves. The Port Yarrock had been short of provisions for a long time, and the crew were greatly exhausted by exposure and privations.

For 22 days the doomed ship had been beating off the coast of Ireland, and two watches were required to work the vessel. After a long, desperate and wearisome struggle the ship, with most of her canvas blown away, her running rigging in almost useless condition, and her standing rigging so strained as to require a thorough setting up before she could be pronounced in a workable condition, managed to make Tralee bay.

But the vessel was so dismantled and her crew so exhausted that she was unable to come to anchor, until a number of local fishermen had boarded her and a tug had been sent for with the intention of towing her to Antwerp, her port of destination, as soon as the gale moderated.

Destruction Inevitable.

On Saturday evening the gale renewed its fury and the vessel dragged her anchors, while the tug already mentioned was forced to seek shelter in the nearest place of refuge. All the ship's boats were stove in by the seas which swept over her, and which washed away almost everything movable from her upper deck, forecastle and poop. In spite of the fact that Captain Forbes seems to have displayed good seamanship and to have run out kedges and sea anchors in order to stop the drifting, nothing, in the exhausted condition of her crew, seems to have been able to save her from destruction.

When she finally went ashore in Brandon bay, some of the seamen were so weak that they were unable even to make an attempt to climb into the fore rigging and were drowned like rats in the forecastle, where they had been helpless for many days.

The lifeboat from Tralee, it now appears, put out to the assistance of the endangered vessel, but the sea was so heavy that she was obliged to put back, and narrowly escaped swamping.

According to the latest dispatches the remains of the wrecked ship are still visible in the surf.

The Germans Fled.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 30.—An outbreak in the German Cameroons is said to have been caused by the flogging of the wives of the native soldiers by order of the governor. The Dahomeyans went to Berlitown and shot the judge dead. They mistook him for the governor. The mutineers gained the mastery over the Germans, who fled to their gunboats. The mutineers then seized 1500 magazine rifles and 500,000 rounds of ammunition.

Princess and Children Disappear.

PARIS, Jan. 30.—The Princess Colonna has disappeared from the Hotel Brighton with her children and her mother, Mrs. Mackey, and the prince has not seen the children, as agreed by his wife's lawyer in court last week. So far the prince's counsel have been unable to locate the princess, and they expect the court will revoke her provisional guardianship of the children.

Legislation Concerning Grain.

PARIS, Jan. 30.—The government has notified the customs commission of the intention to introduce a bill raising the import duty on wheat to 7 francs and also raising the duty on flour proportionately. Grain will not be allowed to remain in bonded warehouses for over a year, and temporary admission must pay interest at the rate of 5 per cent.

The German Army Scandals.

BERLIN, Jan. 30.—The court of honor is still inquiring into the cases of many of the officers who were compromised in the Hanover gambling trial. The emperor has withheld his sanction of some of the sentences on the ground that they were too lenient, and fresh trials have been ordered.

TELEPHONE, 213-3 QUINCY.

IT IS gratifying news that the State tax will probably be $500,000 less than last year. This would be one-fifth less, or $12,460 in 1894, against $15,575 in 1893. It is possible now to make an estimate of the tax rate in Quincy for 1894. The levy for the past two years was:

	1892	1893
City tax,	$159,918.00	$160,000.00
Debt maturing,	56,619.53	62,962.00
Interest,	13,500.00	16,000.00
State tax (net),	5,551.50	10,042.00
County tax (net),	7,977.24	7,795.24
Overlayings,	5,204 45	6,082.26
Totals,	$248,870.72	$262,881.50
Valuation,	$15,564,420.00	$16,638,070.00
Rate per $1,000	$16.00	$15.80

*Polls not included.

The only uncertain item in the levy for 1894 is the city tax. The maximum limit is about $197,000. This is $37,000 more than was found necessary in 1892 or 1893. If the city tax is not increased the levy would be practically as follows:

City tax	$160,000 00
Debt maturing	64,730 00
Interest	16,000 00
State tax (net)	7,000 00
County tax (net)	7,795 24
Overlayings	6,000 00
Total,	$261,525 24

The reduction in State tax will more than offset the increase in debt maturing, and the tax levy of 1894 may be less than in 1893. This being the case, the tax rate of this year may be a trifle less on the same valuation. If the valuation is increased the rate will be still less, but with the business depression, taxable land taken for playgrounds and the Blue Hills reservation, and loss of personal estate, an increase cannot be counted upon. If there is no increase in valuation, any material increase in the tax for city purposes would increase the tax rate over 1893. The course is plain.

WHEN THE second taking of lands for Blue Hills reservation, as published Monday, was announced we thought there was a mistake somewhere, as 871 acres from Quincy was a much smaller acreage than had been unofficially reported. But today the third taking of over 1200 acres, mostly in Quincy, is announced and there is no doubt but the city has lost 2000 or more acres. The owners of much of the land are unknown, and it is probable some of it has never been taxed.

ANOTHER GENERAL alarm at Brockton last night, and Lynn also had another scare.

NONE TOO SOON.

The Old Colony Plans at Boston—A New Depot.

Old Colony passengers have seen great changes at South Boston. By the middle of the summer, says the Globe, the public may expect to see the work of constructing the freight terminals well underway.

The immensity of the improvement can be conceived when it is considered that this will give the road some 17 acres of new freight yards, and by the abandonment of the present freight department along Federal street, between the Broadway bridge and the vicinity of the Kneeland street passenger station, will create eight acres of available land for the improvement of the passenger service.

With the removal of the freight business more toward South Boston the present freight houses must come down, and with the change from the freight to passenger department a new terminal station is the logical sequence.

A new passenger station in place of the old Kneeland street building, one capable of furnishing some 10 additional tracks and extending over a great part of the land now used for freight yards, will follow close upon the heels of the completion of this big extension of the freight yards from Broadway to the Dorchester avenue crossing.

—If the new Vanderbilt palace near Asheville, N. C., proves half as attractive as the announcements promise, pilgrimages to the picturesque banks of the Swannanoa will be "the thing every summer.

—The average life of a note of the bank of England is a little less than seventy days. Notes are never reissued.

WORK ON RESERVATION.

Quincy's Unemployed Cutting Roadways Through the Park.

Just now when nearly all lines of business in this city are at a standstill, a ray of sunshine pierces through the existing gloom. The Park reservation which has been described at length in the DAILY LEDGER may furnish the scene for considerable work during the winter. Monday a large number of West Quincy citizens were given employment there, cutting down trees along the line of the proposed driveway. The men receive $1.50 per day for the work.

It is expected that the work will take some time to finish as there arrived from Boston a large consignment of axes, hatchets, grinding stones and all the other implements necessary for the work. Most of the men at work were stone-cutters and quarrymen.

The latter will no doubt have plenty of opportunities for working at their own trade as it is expected that there will be considerable blasting to do in some of the hills. The men are on the outlook for rattlesnakes which abound in this vicinity, and if any are found they will be summarily dealt with, as it will be easier to handle them now in their half frozen state than in the summer.

Last night many of the men felt sore and tired as it was the first time that many of them had undertook to chop wood for a living.

AN IMPORTANT CASE.

A Suit for Damages Against a Quincy Granite Firm on Trial.

The case of James Quinn vs. James H. Elcock, et al, all of Quincy, was opened at Dedham on Monday. This is an action of tort to recover $10,000 damages for personal injuries received by the plaintiff Oct 20, 1892, while at work in the defendant's stone quarry at West Quincy, through the breaking of a guy rope of a derrick, which threw a boatload of stone against him, knocking him down and severely injuring him. The plaintiff claims that he was in the exercise of due care, and that the defendants were negligent, in that they allowed the derrick to be in an unsafe and defective condition. This the defendants deny.

The boys are happy today. Mr. Faxon probably realized that they want something to keep them out of mischief on stormy days, so this morning he sent in an elegant black walnut needle gun ten pin game, which reaches half across the game room. This surpasses anything in the way of games in the Association rooms, and is the next thing to a bowling alley.

Granite Shafts.

The mammoth shaft of granite for the battle monument at West Point is a monolith forty-one and one half-feet in length, is round and is six and one-half feet in diameter at its largest end. Its weight is ninety-two tons and it is said to be the largest single shaft in the United States. The original stone from which the column was cut weighed 135 tons when it was taken from the quarry.

Those of Quincy granite around the Boston custom house are 32 feet high and weigh 42 tons. Those in front of the old Suffolk county court house were 26 feet six inches, and those in front of the First Church Quincy are not to be sneezed at.

The next number on the programme was a horizontal bar exhibition by J. P. Mundy and William Donovan.

The entertainment closed with a sparring exhibition between Rudderham and Sullivan, J. McCarthy and James Dunn, and Henry Collins and T. Bowler.

The association will hold a social dance at its hall next Monday evening.

Cheating the Barbers.

A novel bet has been entered into by three young clerks in the centre. Each of the three has, after many trials of patent preparations, been unable to raise a mustache, although they have been enabled by standing in the sun and protecting their upper lips from the winter storms, to raise a little down, which, under the powerful glass of a microscope is discernible, and although they are becoming somewhat round-shouldered by carrying it about, they have entered into an agreement to let it grow, and the first one who is enticed into a barber's chair to have his lip shaved must pay for the suppers.

Meanwhile every one who walks down by Tirrell's block looks in to see how matters are progressing.

A MATRIMONIAL MUDDLE

Which Is Creating Much Interest Among Lowell Folks.

LOWELL, Mass., Jan. 30.—There is considerable talk in this city over the plight in which a well-known talented young musician finds herself, through the alleged duplicity of a married man. On Thanksgiving day last, Williston H. Traintor of New York took unto himself as a bride Miss Robin Dyke.

Now, it is asserted, Traintor's first wife and two children have come to this city from New York to live, and Mrs. Traintor No. 1 will make it warm for Williston if he returns. Wife No. 2 discovered the deception some weeks ago, and came back to the parental roof. She says that she would not marry Traintor even if he secures a divorce from his first wife.

The trouble appears to be that divorce proceedings instituted in the first matrimonial case were not legal, at least, not in this state, and bigamy, if it has been committed, was done under a misunderstanding. As the bride of Thanksgiving day is widely known as a singer and a pianist, considerable interest is taken in the matrimonial complication.

THE CREW SAVED.

Fishing Schooner Aberdeen Strikes Rocks Off Cape Ann.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Jan. 30.—Fishing schooner Aberdeen last night struck the rocks off Cape Ann at a point known as High Poples. The vessel was in charge of Captain John Davies and a crew of 14 men. John Viator, one of the crew, jumped overboard as soon as the vessel struck and swam 150 feet in a raging sea fully dressed and then walked four miles to secure assistance.

The Aberdeen is registered as being 68 tons, owned by E. B. Smith & Co. of Gloucester, and is insured in the Gloucester Mutual Marine company. She is 16 years old and had on board 8000 pounds of salt fish. The lifeboat went to her assistance, but owing to the heavy seas could not render any service. The captain and crew were finally brought to shore safely, and the sea is washing over the vessel, which will be a total wreck.

A DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.

Shoe Factory and Hotel at West Lynn Totally Destroyed.

LYNN, Mass., Jan. 30.—Shortly after midnight fire was discovered in the shoe factory of Wellman Osborne, West Lynn. The factory was a four-story brick building, having a one-story frame extension, and was completely gutted. The fire started in a blind cellar, and is supposed to be of incendiary origin. The loss on the factory is estimated at $30,000.

The fire again got beyond control at 1 a. m., and the West Lynn hotel was totally destroyed. This hotel was built in 1670 and was one of the landmarks in this section of the country. The fire was practically under control at 4:30, and the damage to the buildings will reach $100,000, partially insured.

Assistance was asked from Salem and adjacent cities.

Drifting On to Death.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Jan. 30.—A three-masted schooner, the name of which cannot be made out, was discovered two miles off shore displaying distress signals and evidently dragging her anchor and drifting slowly inshore. The wind was blowing a perfect gale, and the lifesaving crew did not attempt to launch a boat. The wind is blowing 65 miles an hour. If the schooner's anchor chains should part, nothing on earth can save her.

Corbett at the Hub.

BOSTON, Jan. 30.—More than 3000 people wedged their way into the Boston theater last evening to see Champion Corbett in his play "Gentleman Jack." The gathering was hardly less enthusiastic in its greeting to William Brady and John Donaldson, both of whom appeared in the cast.

Miss Small to Arrange the Course of Studies—Some Misstatements.

A Plymouth dispatch to the Journal says, It is expected that Miss Small will commence her new duties in Quincy sometime in February. Her first work will be the arrangement of a course of studies to be pursued and getting the institute ready to begin work not far from the 1st of March.

Miss Small was born in Lewiston, Me., not Nashua, N. H., though she was graduated from the High school in the latter place. She was graduated from Wellesley, and after a short term in the Nashua High school she came here 18 years ago in a similar position, and eight years ago was made principal of the High school. Under her management the school advanced to a high position. The school committee co-operated, and the result has been that the Plymouth High school has been used as a model school by the State Board of Education.

The statement that the graduates have always entered various colleges, etc., without conditions is untrue, for a number of them have been conditioned; but it is a fact that the pupils have been well prepared and have been highly complimented by various examining boards for their state of preparation.

In 1888 Miss Small was offered a candidacy for the presidency of Wellesley, but she declined. Her removal will be a serious loss to the town, socially as well as officially.

MORE FOR RESERVATION.

A Third Taking by the Metropolitan Park Commissioners.

The Metropolitan Park Commissioners have filed still another (the third) taking of lands for the east middle section of the Blue Hills reservation. The taking embraces a tract of 1212 4-10 acres of land in the town of Milton and city of Quincy, and is the largest yet made by the commission. The park commissioners for Milton and Quincy approve and concur in the taking of the lands for park purposes.

The lands taken are owned by C. L. Copeland estate, Milton and Quincy; Alice Babcock, Milton and Quincy; David W. Tucker estate, Milton and Quincy; Reed estate, Milton; Theodore T. Whitney, Milton; E. D. Wadsworth, Milton; a tract in Milton owned by several unnamed owners and J. A. Tucker, Quincy. The greater part of the land taken in Quincy is not credited on the plan filed to any owner or owners because, it is said, of no knowledge by the park commissioners as to whom the owner may be.

February Magazines.

There is no less that four articles bearing on political questions in The Chicago Magazine of Current Topics for February. That of W. C. Amos, upon Organization for Political Success, is one which is particularly noteworthy. Mr. Amos has had a wide experience in politics and is entirely fearless in his utterances. The article by E. W. Clement upon Japan's Political Progress for 1893, while it does not bear so directly upon home matters, is bristling with interesting facts regarding that fast developing empire, which we all should know.

Donahoe's Magazine for February has a discussion of President Cleveland's political character and acts, by James Jeffrey Roche and John Ford. Both are ardent Democrats, but the latter hauls the President most unmercifully over the coals, while the former defends his officials acts. A strong and lively article by James W. Clarke, on the ethics of boxing, shows how the golden rule is observed even in the prize ring, and how boxing promotes true manliness.

Current Literature for February seems even more than usually bright, entertaining and up to date, and has a sparkle and tone that is delightfully refreshing. It shows a keen grasp of the vital thought of the time in every department, and gives such a survey of the striking events of the world's progress that a study of its pages will keep one thoroughly abreast with the latest and best.

Among the papers in the hands of Z. Aaron French of Braintree is an old plan of a plot of land surveyed by Andrew Norwood in 1658.

The land was given by the town of Boston to William Thompson, pastor of the church in Braintree, January 27, 1640, and contained 120 acres. About 1658, this land came into possession of John Hull, Edmund Quincy and William Penn.

It consisted of plain, swamp and woodland. It is situated in Randolph, and bounded northerly on Great Pond, and northwesterly on Norroway Brook. It is triangular in form, and evidently extends from the pond to the other side of Main street. The brook was called "Norwood's River," probably afterwards handed down by tradition as Norroway. The cemetery on Oak street, Pond Lane and Orchard street are parts of that parcel of land.

The man who wrote "He never cares to wander from his own fire side" was inspired with his cosy home. Other men have been equally as much inspired when they furnished their home cosily and economically from the furniture store of Henry L. Kincaide & Co. Live and let live prices on everything.

CHICAGO'S GIRLS' CLUBS.

Distinction of the C. G. M. B. C. and Comforts of the Jane Club.

The Chicago Girls' Mutual Benefit club rejoices in the unique distinction of having a clubhouse all its own. The original conception of the club was only a thought that took root in the hearts and minds of some half dozen Chicago girls gathered together to discuss how a girls' club could be organized among the wage earners of the city. After some discussion the few formed themselves into a band of King's Daughters, and to gain funds for their scheme gave a concert, with the proceeds of which they rented a cottage and formed classes for the study of practical topics, like sewing, millinery, typewriting, embroidery and the rest.

These classes are taught by some two-score volunteers and one paid teacher. The club members pay dues of 5 cents per week, except the teachers, who pay 20 cents per week, to defray partially the expense of a carriage, as the street car lines do not run near the cottage. All this of course has been written over many times in the history of girls' clubs, but the distinctive and interesting thing about this organization is that when the small clubhouse became overcrowded the plucky girls determined to build a clubhouse of their own. By various entertainments and subscriptions they managed to raise enough money to secure a lot. A friend then came to their aid and made a generous offer to build the clubhouse, charging them 6 per cent on the investment, to be paid as rent, and giving them the privilege of paying the principal any time within five years.

The club took possession of the new house in May, 1892, and already nearly one-half the debt is paid. Even in New York, where the working girls' club movement began and is supported by wealthy patrons, none of the clubs has as yet attained the dignity of a clubhouse of its own. The Thirty-eighth Street club, of which Miss Dodge is president, has an entire house rented and sublets portions of it, but most of the societies meet in rented rooms. Sorosis, the great pioneer club, with its large membership, has no permanent home of its own and no headquarters for the keeping of its archives.

The Jane club, a protegee of Hull House and named in honor of Miss Jane Addams, is another interesting organization of 50 members, living together in communities in the club fashion established by men. It occupies a large flat, well lighted and heated, with hot and cold water and bathrooms on every floor. The parlors are prettily furnished, the libraries well stocked with books, the three dining tables well supplied with appetizing food prepared by the club steward, who is hired in the regular way by the committee. There is a general meeting of the members every two weeks to attend to the business affairs of the club and to regulate matters generally. This might be called the safety valve of the machine, for if one has a grievance or a suggestion of any kind this is the place at which she can be heard. Each member feels her responsibility as hostess and has the honor and interest of the club at heart. There are no rules and regulations, and each member spends her evenings according to her own inclination. As far as it is given to outsiders to know, the Jane club is a success, demonstrating clearly the fact that a number of women can be housed under one plan and be happy.

Speaking of this club to Miss Addams, the question was asked whether she approved of Mr. Stead's idea of co-operative clubs of this kind, with both men and women members, for Mr. Stead argues that there would be more marrying and giving in marriage of the right sort if young men and women had more opportunities for meeting and knowing each other. And Miss Addams said that she saw no reason why men and women might not live together in a club of this kind as well as in the boarding houses; that the matter had not come to them as yet, but when it did she should favor the formation of such clubs, and that there were men and women associated in the work at Hull House and sometimes in residence there together.—New York Sun.

Young, but Talented.

At the exhibition of sculpture which is now being held in the Fine Arts building few of the exhibits have attracted as much attention as the life sized figures of a boy and a girl, representing the forests of Michigan. They are the work of Mrs. Theo Ruggles-Kitson, the only woman admitted to the Sculpture society, which was formed last fall by the sculptors of New York for the purpose of encouraging the production of the ideal. Mrs. Kitson is only 23 years old and has had the most successful career for her age of any woman who has undertaken the profession of a sculptress.—New York Recorder.

Practical Training.

Miss Katharine Conan, who has charge of the political economy department of Wellesley, wants her pupils to be practical stateswomen. To this end she sends them into the bureau of associated charities in Boston, to labor unions, to tenement houses and to manufactories. She hopes that such methods will ultimately lead to a day when women will study the great questions of their times.—Boston Commonwealth.

In the Air.

Nova Scotia follows the lead of New Zealand, as Colorado followed the lead of Wyoming, in granting full suffrage to women. This thing must be in the air. The noise of it is heard all around—from Big Horn river to Long's peak, from the straits of Canso to the bay of Plenty. Even here it is talked of by many other people besides Mrs. Lillie Devereux Blake.—Exchange.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

"Mind" and "Heart."

Mind is a master that, ruthless, slays its noblest slaves;
Heart a loving savior, ador'd by ev'ry one it saves.
Mind is icy cold, calculating, harsh and severe;
Heart, tender and gentle, throbs but with hope and fear.
Mind, on Fancy's wings, flies high as fame can carry name;
Heart sighs for love, abash'd, blushing red with modest shame.
Mind, in rich mental finds, knows a strange, triumphant bliss;
Heart, ecstatic, trembles but beneath the lover's kiss.
Mind strives in brilliance to outshine brightness of a star;
Hearts are all contentment when they deeply loving are.
Mind seeks only knowledge wherever it may be sought;
Heart learns not a lesson save by little Cupid taught.
Mind boldly contemplates e'en the very throne of God;
Heart, submissive, bows subdued by woman's slightest nod.
Mind argues, that which is unknown, cannot be, forsooth;
Heart, though unable to expound, rightly feels the truth.
Mind is ever worried with the politics of states;
Hearts are never anxious save for happiness of mates.
Mind's lust is eternal as the palpitating air;
Heart oft is satisfied with a tress of silken hair.
Mind doubts and scorns the happiness of weak, joyous heart;
Heart laughs at and is bored by Mind's science lore and art.
Mind, sullen, reasons woe, darkness, hate come from above;
Heart's sweet heart beats thankful that God gives light, joy and love.
Mind, safe, traverses fathomless distances of space;
Heart, fatally entangled, trips in gauzy bits of lace.
Mind goes castle building wherever it can roam;
Heart, in hut, cottage or mansion, simply craves a home.
Mind is brave and able, dashing, selfish and conceited;
Heart is noble, loyal, gen'rous—my contrast is completed!

THE EAGLE'S SCREAM

Gives Brazilian Combatants Something to Think About.

ADMIRAL BENHAM TAKES ACTION

Which Means That American Vessels Will Be Protected.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 30.—Yesterday was one of the most exciting days that Rio de Janeiro has experienced since the commencement of hostilities between the insurgents and the Brazilian government.

The United States naval fleet in the harbor furnished the excitement. Provoked beyond the endurance of patience by the continued carelessness of the gunners aboard the rebel warship Aquidaban, and tired by the indifference shown on the part of the revolutionary admiral to all his protests that American vessels entering and leaving the harbor were not afforded proper protection by the rebel fleet, Admiral Benham made a demonstration with the American war vessels under his command which has taught a much needed lesson to the belligerents on both sides.

In the events of yesterday the foreign colony were particularly interested, and the action of Admiral Benham will probably furnish a precedent by which the commanders of the other foreign vessels in this port will be guided in the future.

Asked For Protection.

The cause of all the trouble was the treatment to which three American barks were subjected on last Saturday by the indiscriminate fusilade from the insurgent warship. The American vessels were the bark Amy, Captain Blackford; the bark Good News, Captain Myrick, and the bark Julia Rollins, Captain Kiehne.

On Saturday last, while lying at anchor, all three vessels were endangered by the chance shots fired by the insurgents. These whistled through the rigging and passed the men at work on the decks.

After suffering a great deal of annoyance and running great risks, the three captains held a conference and determined to appeal for protection to the United States warships and to request that the barks be given an escort to the wharves.

Captains Kiehne, Myrich and Blackford put off in small boats at great danger to themselves to the flagship New York, had a conference with Admiral Benham, who listened to their story, and promised that he would do everything in his power to afford them the fullest protection.

He said, however, that before making any display of force on the part of his fleet, or giving the captains the escort which they requested, he thought it only right to first notify the insurgent admiral, Da Gama, of the captains' complaints.

Da Gama's Curt Reply.

Accordingly Admiral Benham sent one of his officers to the Aquidaban with orders to acquaint Admiral Da Gama with the facts in the case and to ask him to have an end put to the reckless gunning.

When the American officer had finished making his statement Da Gama, with a shrug of his shoulders, said in a very sharp tone: "It is not my fault. The American ship captains should know enough to keep themselves and their crews out of the range of our guns. I shall not take any notice of this matter."

This curt response to his message aroused the ire of Admiral Benham, and he determined to make such a showing that it would produce a lasting effect upon the insurgents. He allowed Sunday to pass quietly. Early Monday morning, however, the greatest activity prevailed on board the fleet. Shortly after daybreak the decks of the flagship New York, of the Newark, San Francisco, Detroit and other United States war vessels here were cleared for action and their anchors were raised.

Admiral Benham then sent word to the captains of the Good News, Julia Robbins and the Amy that as soon as they were ready to proceed he would escort them to the wharves. At this moment Captains Kiehne of the Julia Robbins and Myrick of the Good News weakened. They did not care to embitter the insurgent admiralty by putting themselves under the escort of the United States naval fleet.

Not a Shot Fired.

Captain Blackford of the Amy, however, announced that he would accept the protection which Admiral Benham had offered him.

Accordingly the Amy took her position in the ranks of the United States war vessels, and the formidable procession started on its way up Rio harbor.

The Detroit took the leading part in the procession. The fleet, as it approached nearer to Rio, came quite close to the shore, causing great excitement among both the soldiers and civilians on land and the sailors on board the various vessels. The Amy proceeded on her way to the wharf and was safely moored there. Not until her captain had reported that he was fully satisfied did his powerful escort leave him.

Throughout the whole affair not a single shot was fired, but the scene was quite as impressive as if this had been done. After passing along Rio's water front the fleet returned out into the bay and anchored in nearly the same position as it had occupied previous to the demonstration.

Taught Them a Lesson.

The affair is the sole absorbing topic of conversation afloat and ashore tonight. The policy of non-interference so steadfastly pursued by Commander Picking has been absolutely reversed by this action of Admiral Benham. Full protection will be given from this time on to all American vessels, as Minister Thompson has all along requested.

There can be no doubt as to the good that has been done the American shipping in Brazilian ports by the demonstration in Rio yesterday. It has taught both sides in the present struggle in Brazil, that however indiscriminately they may bombard each other's property, the United States intends resolutely to defend the rights of every vessel which sails beneath the protection of the stars and stripes.

The American ship captains' complaints are only repetitions of what has been going on since hostilities first commenced here. Captains of all foreign ships have had the same experiences in visiting Rio while the insurgents and Peixoto's army have been peppering each other with shot and shell.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE.

Municipal Suffrage For Women Defeated in Committee—Tariff Resolutions.

BOSTON, Jan. 30.—The question of municipal suffrage for women was again opened by the legislative committee on woman suffrage and decided in the negative, as far as the committee is concerned.

Rev. J. W. Hamilton was the principal speaker. His strong argument was that the suffrage was a duty and a responsibility which rested upon woman as well as upon man. Jeremiah J. Donovan thought that female suffrage should be limited to widows with children. He said that most of the women who were clamoring for the right to vote were not married; if they were, they usually had no children.

Mrs. E. T. Hill asserted that the people in wards 6, 7 and 13, Boston, are priest-ridden. Mr. Donovan denied the statement, saying, "Our priests never interfere in politics; they spend all their time preaching salvation. This is all they have time to attend to. But it is not true of your ministers who go around among the voters and tell them how to cast their ballots."

The committee voted—5 to 5—leave to withdraw. Messrs. Brady of the senate, and Wood, Parry, Grant and Donohoe of the house voted in favor of this report, and Senators Gray and Neill and Representatives Roe, Shute and Eldredge against it. Mr. Sullivan of Fall River was absent.

Reports of Committees—Military affairs: resolve to renew the appointment of the state military and naval historian for a period not exceeding one year; bill to prevent persons from unlawfully wearing the insignia of the Union Veterans' union under penalty of $20 fine or 30 days' imprisonment, or both.

There was a debate upon the resolutions relating to carpets and to the Wilson tariff bill. They were adopted—28 to 6—on party lines.

The resolutions relative to the late Governor Gaston were adopted, after remarks by Senators Cronan and Kittredge of Boston.

A Bad Italian.

BOSTON, Jan. 30.—Domenico Fezzi, 35 years of age, was arrested by officers of station 1 on a serious charge. The officers found him in his rooms in Mechanics' court, in which were also nine young girls, ranging in age from 12 to 15, of various nationalities. Fezzi is charged with enticing the girls into his room. The young girls were immediately turned over to the custody of their parents by the police. They are mostly of respectable parentage. Fezzi was taken before Judge Ely. Bail was fixed at $20,000, the case being continued.

A HYPNOTIZING SERMON.

Frank Wilson Falls Asleep In Church and Slumbers Sixty Hours.

Frank Wilson attended the Hemenway Methodist church at Evanston Sunday night and fell asleep while the pastor, Rev. C. E. Wilkinson, was preaching. He did not thoroughly awaken until Wednesday morning at 8:30 o'clock. Drs. Palmer and Gray worked over the unconscious man the greater part of Sunday night without avail. When Wilson awoke, aside from a slight weakness he said he felt as well as ever.

Wilson is about 25 years old and is a student in the Garrett Biblical institute, Evanston. He is of slight build and of fair complexion, and of late has been complaining of not feeling well. He and Harry Boyes, another student, went to church together. Shortly after the pastor began speaking Wilson's eyes closed, and his head dropped on his companion's shoulder. He was apparently sound asleep. Boyes, knowing that Wilson had not been feeling well and thinking that on account of the excessive heat in the church he had become faint, did not attempt to arouse him. After the congregation had passed out at the close of the service he tried to awaken his companion. Repeated shakings seemed to make no impression on the sleeper, and Dr. Palmer, who was present, advised that Wilson be carried out to the fresh air. He was immediately taken outside and given a vigorous rubbing and restoratives administered.

At one time during the operation Wilson appeared to be regaining consciousness, and opening his eyes said: "What's the matter? Where am I?" Then he went back into a comatose condition. Seeing that the case was of a serious nature, Dr. Palmer called a cab, and the young man was taken to his room at Dr. Gray's home. Here both physicians continued to work over him. All Sunday night Wilson's respiration was low, but regular, and his pulse at times was very feeble. He came out of his unconciousness naturally and now appears to be all right. Neither Dr. Gray nor Dr. Palmer can give any explanation of Wilson's long sleep. They do not think that any serious results will follow.—Chicago Herald.

KILLED BY JOY.

Major William Downie Dies Under Pathetic Circumstances.

Major William Downie is dead, and no old pioneer of forty-nine ever passed away under more pathetic circumstances. He was on his way to rejoin his old associates of pioneer days at the forty-nine mining camp in the Midwinter exposition when he suddenly expired.

He had come all the way from Victoria, B. C., to occupy the same old cabin in the mining camp that had been his abode when he dug for gold in the days of the gold rush, and just as the steamer arrived in port and a representative of the mining camp was telling him of the grand old times that awaited him when the fair opened his heart swelled with joy and burst, and he fell over dead.

All this happened on the deck of the steamer City of Puebla, and as soon as it could be done his body was removed to the home of his son, W. J. Downie, 1322 Telegraph avenue, Oakland.

Major Downie was one of the best known pioneers of the state. He was the founder of Downieville, the one time thriving mining camp, and of which he was the patriarch.

His cabin at Downieville has long been a relic that was cherished by the inhabitants of that section of the state because of its old associations, and the promoters of the mining camp enterprise at the Midwinter exposition had it removed to the fair grounds as an attraction for fair visitors. As an additional attraction arrangements were made through Major Downie's son for him to come to San Francisco and occupy the cabin while the fair lasted.—San Francisco Examiner.

The Baby Didn't Cry.

An Albany couple have received a silver medal for their baby because it did not cry. The parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah D. Robertson of 522 Clinton avenue. In the autumn they went to the World's fair and took the baby along. They occupied berths in a sleeping car, and the baby endured the jolting without a whimper. In the morning a woman who occupied a berth adjoining asked Mrs. Robertson where she and the baby had taken the train. Mrs. Robertson said she had been on the train all night, in fact ever since leaving Albany. The woman and others were so surprised at having a baby in a sleeping car all night without hearing it cry that a subscription was taken up on the car, with the result that the silver medal for the baby arrived a few weeks ago.—Albany Correspondent.

American Ferryboats to Boulogne.

The Fairfield Shipbuilding company, at Govan, has just laid down in its works at Govan a new light draft paddle steamer, which is to be built on the American principle, with four decks. This vessel, ordered by Mr. Arnold Williams, and intended for a new company registered as the Palace Steamer company, will cost £90,000 and is intended for a new summer service either to Boulogne or to Ostend, or to both alternately, and her engines, capable of securing a continuous speed of 20 knots, will allow of the return journey being made to either place from London in a day. The ship will be completed by June.—Westminster Gazette.

Cremation In Pennsylvania.

The cremation of Sir Samuel Baker, the African explorer, calls attention to the fact that many prominent Philadelphians have been cremated, and others have provided by will for that disposition of their remains. All the Pennsylvania furnaces for burning up bodies are kept quite busy. This disposition of remains usually implies the absence of Christian burial, as few evangelical ministers will officiate at a cremation. It has been decided that a member of a lodge who is cremated cannot have a Masonic funeral in this state.—Philadelphia Times.

MUSKET SHOTS FIRED

May Lead Admiral Da Gama to Surrender to Admiral Benham.

FIRMNESS OF AMERICAN ADMIRAL

Brings Congratulations From Foreign Commanders.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 31.—The following statement has been made by Admiral Benham, commander of the United States fleet in this harbor:

"The insurgent forces on Cobras island, last Friday, fired upon a ship flying the United States flag. I protested to Admiral Da Gama against this action, and his response was that he had warned the commander of the ship when it was at the bar at Rio Janeiro as to the whereabouts of the danger line. I ordered Admiral Da Gama to cease the firing.

"Both the guns on the island of Cobras and the guns of the insurgent warship Trajano opened fire Saturday upon the bark Agate, a vessel hailing from New York. I warned Admiral Da Gama at once that if the fire was repeated I would fire back. I also warned him that if he touched an American ship or American goods, I would consider him a pirate. I told him that I would protect American property absolutely from the force of his guns, and that I should retaliate upon him for any damage done, unless it was entirely apparent that the damage was due to chance shots."

Da Gama Didn't Reply.

Admiral Benham says that he notified Admiral Da Gama unofficially that firing by the insurgents upon the wharves for the purpose merely of creating terror and to prolong a blockade would not be permitted so far as Americans and American vessels were concerned. To this communication the insurgent admiral made no answer.

The captains of three American vessels intimated that they wanted to go to the wharves, and the American admiral notified Admiral Da Gama that it was his intention to convey them at sunrise on Monday. Fearing trouble, Admiral Benham ordered that the vessels in his fleet be cleared for action.

The three ships referred to were the Amy, the Good News and the Julia Rollins. The captains of two of the ships weakened and failed to come into the harbor. The Amy was the only one that ventured in, and she was escorted by the United States cruiser Detroit.

Ready For Business.

As a precaution against any possible aggressive action on the part of the insurgents, the cruisers New York, Charleston, and Newark were assigned to watch the actions of Da Gama's ships, the Aquidaban and Tamandare, while the Detroit and San Francisco were signaled to take positions near the Trajano and the Guanabara. These precautions certainly proved effective and the insurgents made but the feeblest attempt to hinder the Amy's passage to her wharf.

The insurgent protest consisted of this: As the Amy got abreast of the Guanabara, a marine on the last named vessel aimed a musket at her and fired. Two musket shots were fired at the Guanabara and the Trajano from the Amy's escort, the Detroit, in return. This was all the firing done during the Amy's trip, and it was enough. All opposition ceased at once and the use of heavy guns was not considered necessary at any time.

Insurgents In a Bad Fix.

At a later hour Admiral Da Gama conferred with his officers upon the advisability of surrendering to the Detroit in consequence of the musket shots fired. He was dissuaded from doing so, but it is thought possible that he may yet decide to surrender to the American commander.

There is no doubt that Admiral Da Gama is in a bad way, and it seems to be only a matter of time when he will have to give up the struggle. The complications of the insurgent situation are increased by the absence of Admiral De Mello. The failure of the latter admiral to arrive here to the assistance of the insurgent fleet has given rise to the report that he is dead.

The commanders of 16 warships here, including five American and four English and French, have sent messages to Admiral Benham congratulating him upon his prompt action. The Austrian commander cleared ship and made ready to help the admiral, in case help was necessary.

Government Troops Routed.

Alarming reports have been received here of a government disaster at Couritaba, Paranagua and Antonina. It is stated that these places have been captured by the insurgents and that the government troops have fled, abandoning their arms and munitions of war.

The News at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Details from the official advices of the navy department concerning the incidents on the 29th at Rio de Janeiro say that two ships were conveyed to the wharves by the Detroit, the insurgent warships following them. When nearly at the wharf and while a tug was taking a cable ashore, the insurgent warships opened fire, sending a volley of musket shot under the bow of the tug. The Detroit answered with a warning shot and the insurgent ship then sent a shot over the Detroit. The Detroit in reply sent a shell which reached a portion of the stern of the insurgent ship, doing little damage.

Then the insurgent commander fired in warning a broadside to leeward in the opposite direction from which the Detroit lay. This being answered by another shot from the Detroit, the insurgents signaled that unless the Detroit ceased firing they (the insurgents) would sink the American ship.

The language which was used by the American admiral in answer to this signal was of such a nature that the incident closed for that day, and the ships were allowed to land.

The question as to what the United States government would do with Admiral Da Gama and his forces if he has surrendered to Admiral Benham is exciting considerable interest in official circles here. It is supposed that if he surrendered, he did so with some assurances or promises from the American admiral. Officials are wondering what promises may have been made and whether or not Admiral Benham may have promised too much. Admiral Da Gama, it is stated, has violated none of the laws of the United States and he could not be turned over to the Brazilian government by this government.

UNION VS. NON-UNION.

Cutdown in Wages Leads to Serious Trouble at Sharpsburg, Pa.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 31.—A riot occurred shortly after midnight at the Vesuvius iron works of Morehead Bros. & Co., Sharpsburg, near here, between the strikers and non-union men. One man was probably fatally shot and a number were injured.

Some time ago the company reduced wages 15 per cent, and the employes refused it. The plant was shut down, and a few days ago the finishing department resumed, with non-union men. Last night the strikers held a meeting and resolved to stand firm.

After their adjournment about 50 men started for the mill to drive the non-union men out. The men tore down the fence and made a rush for the finishing department. About a dozen men were at work. The men carried revolvers, clubs and stones. They fired several volleys, and at the first one a workman, whose name is not known, fell to the floor, shot through the back. He will probably die.

The workmen were then surrounded, and being outnumbered four to one fled precipitately from the mill. They were driven some distance and then escaped. Several were injured, but how seriously is not known. The plant was shut down and the furnaces banked.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH.

Relating to Poisons, Prescriptions, Physicians and Practice.

BROOKLYN, Jan. 31.—The Brooklyn Public Health society has completed a joint committee representing also the National Constitutional Liberty league, Boston, and the New York Public Health and Constitutional Liberty league, and declared in favor of legislation requiring: 1. Physicians to write prescriptions legibly and when possible in English (and Latin if they choose). 2. That medicines dispensed by physicians and others containing poisonous ingredients shall be by them legibly labeled "Caution. Take only as directed." 3. Restoring to every citizen the right to freely contract for the services of whomsoever he considers competent to treat or heal him or his family without rendering the person thus employed liable to prosecution, except for malpractice.

The joint committee calls upon all in sympathy with such legislation to address it at Room 18, 331 Madison avenue, New York city.

Quigg and Straus For Congress.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—The special election for members of congress in the Fourteenth and Fifteenth districts of this city was held yesterday. In the Fourteenth district Lemuel E. Quigg (Rep.) was elected. His plurality was 984. This is a Republican gain. In the Fifteenth district Isidor Straus (Dem.) was elected. Straus' plurality, 4687. Fitch (Dem.), in 1892, carried the district by a majority of 11,500.

NEWPORT, R. I., Jan. 31.—Major F. A. Whittle, evangelist, of Chicago, who has been conducting meetings here, fell on the ice, striking his head. Physicians forbid his using his eyes and he must give up work for some time. There is a possibility of his becoming blind.

SAME OLD SUBJECT.

House Hears More Argument on the Income Tax.

SENATORS TALK ABOUT BONDS

And Further Discuss Federal Elections Repeal Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Without wasting any time the house went into committee of the whole, and Mr. Covert resumed and finished his speech against the tariff bill.

Mr. Cox defended the income tax. W. A. Stone opposed the bill. Mr. Bartlett denounced the income tax. Mr. Pence spoke in favor of an income tax. Mr. Piggott, Mr. Williams, Mr. Dunn also spoke, and then Mr. Walker of Massachusetts.

Mr. Walker said that the men who would be reached by the income tax were only such men as those who controlled the manufacturing and transportation industries, and who did the most toward developing the resources and wealth of the country. They were the men who were making the country worth living in; and in doing so they had benefited the poor man more than themselves, for no man could accumulate a fortune who did not serve his fellow-men a thousand times more than he served himself.

But he maintained that even under existing circumstances the taxes were paid by the rich, and not by the poor. He said that large fortunes were taxed by natural means; but by attempting to tax the rich and exempt the poor, the poor were struck every time. The administration of taxes was like hitting a long bar of steel, with the poor man at the end—you hit the bar, but the poor man receives the blow. In warning the majority against the passage of the Wilson bill, he cautioned them that they were sowing the wind to reap the whirlwind.

"Tell the people the truth," he exclaimed, "and give up demagogy." He said the bill gave the tax collector power which no judge in the country possessed.

Mr. Breckinridge defended the income tax.

More Argument.

Mr. Johnson said he would vote for the income tax, but he should do it under protest and as the lesser of two evils.

Mr. Simpson declared himself in favor of an income tax.

Mr. Cockran said that while he and those who agreed with him on this question were willing to vote for a bill for revenue only, they had been asked to add to the revenue bill an income tax—a special tax levied at 85,000 people out of 65,000,000. It was proposed to deliberately create a tax class. He had always believed that the duty of this people is to support its government by a tariff levied for revenue only.

Mr. Bryan argued in favor of an income tax, and then the house took a recess.

The Night Session.

At the night session almost the entire evening was devoted to discussion of the income tax. Messrs. Coombs and Hendrix opposed it, while Messrs. Dearnod, Tucker, Maddox, Wheeler and Davis endorsed it. Mr. Lucas opposed the entire tariff measure, including the income tax feature.

In the Senate.

In the senate yesterday Mr. Aldrich presented a petition from the representatives of 600 woolen goods manufactories in 23 states and one territory, opposing the passage of the Wilson tariff bill.

Mr. Stewart's resolution declaring that the proposed issue of bonds is without authority of law was laid before the Senate and Mr. Stewart spoke in support of it.

Mr. Sherman then made a speech in support of the secretary's power and duty to issue and sell bonds. He expressed regret that anybody should be found now to question that authority. He felt like standing up for the honor of the country and for the power proposed to be exercised by the secretary. That power, he contended, was given by the law in the strongest, clearest and most direct language.

Mr. Quay offered an amendment to the resolution, limiting the use of the money to be received from the bonds to the redemption of the legal treasury notes presented at the New York sub-treasury.

Mr. Dubois offered as a substitute the resolution reported in the house.

Mr. Teller made a speech, taking much the same position as Mr. Sherman—that the secretary of the treasury had power to issue bonds to provide for the redemption of greenbacks, and for no other purpose.

The bill to repeal the federal elections law was then taken up. It was agreed that general debate on the bill should cease at 4 p. m. Tuesday next.

Mr. Chandler offered two amendments to the bill, the first providing that the flag of the United States and the words "for representative in congress" should be stamped on every box for congressional ballots in the elections in the states, and providing that a penalty of $100 fine or 30 days' imprisonment, or both, shall be imposed for any violation of this provision.

The second amendment requires election judges to make up and publicly declare the result of the congressional election in the precinct immediately after the close of the poll.

Mr. Turpie then made a speech in favor of the bill, and after an executive session the senate adjourned.

The Meyer Murder Case.

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 31.—In the Prawda trial the state rested its case yesterday. The general feeling is that the jury will fail to convict upon the evidence offered. The defense opened in the afternoon. Two witnesses will attempt to prove that it was scientifically impossible for Prawda to kill his mother-in-law.

Editorial Comment.

MAYOR HODGES undoubtedly experienced the same difficulty as his predecessors in obtaining the most desirable men for Assessors, and the new board announced today at once strikes one as not being very strong. Principal Assessor Adams should make as good a man for his position as any of his predecessors, or any man that might be named for the office. Although he has never served as Assessor, he is well acquainted with the taxable property from the fact that he has been Tax Collector for many years, both under the town and city government. Aside from this knowledge, Mr. Adams is an expert at land values, being a large property owner, a real estate agent and auctioneer. Few of the other gentlemen of the board can be said to be well acquainted with the city or its property, yet we find the granite firms with two representatives, the local stores with one, and a lawyer, jeweler and a salesman.

IN COMPUTING the possible tax levy of 1894 in yesterday's LEDGER the item of assessment for the Metropolitan park reservations was overlooked, which may increase the total to $265,000 or $270,000. The increase in the total of 1893 over 1892 was about $14,000. If the total is $170,000 this year the increase will be only $7,000. It is certain however that there must be an increase in valuation or the tax rate will be increased. Will there be an increase in valuation?

The large boat sleigh, City of Boston, owned by Crane Sons of Milton will leave the parish house at 7 o'clock for Hotel Belmont, Brockton, where supper will be served. A good time is expected as about thirty will take the ride.

Money Orders.

Persons who have had occasion lately to get money orders cashed at the Quincy Post Office have found that a change has been made in the form of the order. It is now no longer made payable "to the person named in the letter of advice," but to the person to whom it is sent, the name being given. The change was made to facilitate business, at the request of the banks through which a large part of the money order business is now carried on. There was no clue in the old form of the order by which the banks could tell whether the name signed to it, was really the person to whom the money had been sent. The change necessitates the exercise of greater care in the identification of persons presenting orders to be cashed, but it is said to be giving general satisfaction.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE.

Inspection of Steam Boilers—Cotton Mill Asks For More Capital.

BOSTON, Jan. 31.—The report of Chief Wade of the district police was before the committee on mercantile affairs, particularly the part relating to inspection of boilers. A bill was before the committee, which was presented by the chief, providing that every corporation, firm or individual owning or using a steam boiler shall cause an annual inspection of the boiler to be made. An exception is made in case of boilers which are insured by a boiler insurance company. Certificates are to be granted to owners whose boilers have been inspected. A fee of $5 is to be paid for the first inspection and $3 for every subsequent inspection. Every engineer who applies for a license must pay a fee of $2 at first and 50 cents for a renewal.

The mercantile committee heard the petition of the Dwight Manufacturing company of Chicopee for increase of its capital stock from $1,200,000 to $1,800,000. B. Fernald was counsel. He said that the par value of the stock was $500 and the market value $800. They are running 130,000 spindles. They want to build mills in the south for the manufacture of coarse cotton goods, using the present machinery for the manufacture of fine goods. Last year the legislature raised the capital of the Lowell mills from $1,800,000 to $3,000,000 for the same purpose as the advance is now asked for.

Treasurer Nichols of the company said that about 40 per cent of the mill's product in pounds is coarse goods which are largely sold for export. The Dwight mill has been driven out of home consumption by the mills of the south. The mill now exports to Turkey, South America, Africa and China—the last country taking a large amount. The agitation for shorter hours is a serious injury to manufacturing in this state. The present tariff is all right for the cotton manufacture. The 2400 shares of the stock are held by 350 persons and the average holding is seven shares. The company wants to increase so that present holders may have a chance to take stock at par, or sell their rights, as the rights will be valuable.

Unions Made Concessions.

Rate War Renewed.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—The Union Pacific road has made a cut in its Missouri river passenger rates to Portland, Or., and Puget sound points of 30 per cent. This is a renewal of the old war of rates, and reductions may be looked for all along the line.

ALDRICH FOR SECRETARY.

Quincy's Former Superintendent Endorsed by Boston Paper.

The Transcript endorses Mr. George I. Aldrich for the position of Secretary of the State Board of Education, in flattering terms:

The State Board of Education will probably soon select some one to fill the important position of its secretary, which has been vacant since the beginning of the year. It would seem that the choice should fall upon one who is thoroughly familiar, by practical experience, with all grades of our public school system, from the kindergarten to the normal school for the training of teachers; one who is in sympathetic touch with the school superintendents and all others charged with the administration of school affairs; one who is a close student of the rapidly shifting and progressive educational theories of the present day, and who possesses the judgment, ability and wisdom to enrich the school curriculum without overloading it.

There has never before been a time when so much was demanded of the public schools; never a time when a wise, conservative and practical embodiment of progressive theories was more necessary to the maintenance of the educational preeminence of the Commonwealth. It is no disparagement of any of the names that have been considered to say that Mr. George I. Aldrich, now superintendent of the schools of Newton, possesses the qualities that the times demand in a marked degree. His culture, training and experience have led to the spontaneous suggestion of his name in connection with the position by superintendents and school men from all sections of the State, and this fact should have much weight with the board in determining its choice.

Handy Books.

Blaine's Handy Manual of useful information is a wonderful little book chock full of useful facts. It is a compendium of things worth knowing, things difficult to remember, and tables of reference of great value to everybody, that it has never before been our good fortune to possess in such compact shape. It is handsomely bound in flexible cloth covers, and will be sent to any address, postpaid, on receipt of 25 cents in postage stamps, by the publishers, G. W. Ogilvie & Co., 276 Franklin street, Chicago, Ill.

The New York World Almanac and Encyclopedia makes its appearance with many new features. It is a book of over 500 pages, and has information seemingly on every subject; astronomical, political, educational, religious, military, sporting, postal, elections, foreign countries, etc., etc., etc. Published in Pulitzer Building, New York.

AT WORK IN EARNEST.

Blue Hill Reservation Will be Opened up Early in Spring.

The Globe today publishes a map of the Blue Hills reservation, showing the boundary, town boundaries, and existing paths within the reservation. Two-thirds, if not three-fourths, of the entire grounds are within the city of Quincy.

Prior to yesterday's fall of snow says the Globe the commissioners had more than 100 men at work clearing off the underbrush in the woods to prevent forest fires. The paths and the roads through the woods are also being cleared up. This work is being done under the direction of overseer Wilfred Rakeman, who is a competent gardener.

The working force of the commission is its secretary, Mr. Herbert S. Carruth, well known in municipal affairs as a member of the Boston board of aldermen from the Dorchester district.

The title of the commission, the Metropolitan park commission, is a misnomer in the general sense of the word "park," as it is used and understood by most people.

Secretary Carruth says that it never ought to have been thus styled. In his opinion it should have been called the Metropolitan reservation commission.

"These tracts of land," said he, yesterday, "are to be kept as natural as we find them, and aside from the foot paths and carriage ways which we propose to build, they will remain in their natural condition.

"There will be no attempt made to beautify them. We shall not even own a lawn mower.

"Of course it will be some time yet before we get around to the construction of roadways, but the paths on the Blue hills will be open to pedestrians and horseback riders, next spring.

"The idea of these public reservations is to permit a free and natural growth of the forest trees indigenous to New England."

The Blue Hills reservation is now open to the public. Its limits are indicated by large signs, lettered with the following inscription:

"Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Metropolitan park commission, Blue hills reservation."

These are distributed all over the property and generally erected by the roadside in plain view of passersby.

Rules have been formulated governing the grounds and will soon be posted. They prohibit the use of firearms, the lighting of fires, the breaking or carrying off of wood.

The commissioners have not got so far as to erect any buildings yet, but are considering plans for some out on the Blue Hills reservation. Sketches for a tool house and other buildings have been made. They will be built of stone, plenty of which can be had on the premises.

The annual report of the commissioners is now in the printer's hands, and will be sent to the legislature within a week, says Secretary Carruth.

He also says that he has experienced no difficulty in settling with owners of property taken, and has so far settled with owners of about 1500 acres of the Blue Hills reservation. He does not expect to have a lawsuit on his hands, and will do almost anything in fairness to avoid one.

Hon. Henry L. Pierce of Milton and Mrs. Augustus Hemenway of Canton, two large owners of the Blue Hills property, have aided the commissioners in various ways from the start, and very generously gave their land to the board outright in consideration of $1 to make the deeds valid.

While it is not definitely known just what the Blue Hills reservation is going to cost, good judges place the figures at $265,000.

In a short time the commissioners will acquire the Muddy pond woods and the Middlesex fells property.

The former tract is located in West Roxbury and Hyde Park, and comprises about 600 acres. The Middlesex fells property is located in the cities of Malden and Medford and the towns of Melrose, Stoneham and Wyoming, and contains about 3000 acres.

The commissioners have already acquired the Beaver brook property in Belmont and Arlington, containing 58 acres.

Before the commission ceases its operations in acquiring these reservations, under the bill which created the body, it will have acquired more than 9700 acres of land as public reservations.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

THE CUP THAT CHEERS DESERTED FOR CHOCOLATE.

Helpmeets In More Than Name—A Pioneer Newspaper Woman—The Modern Woman—Young Women Composers. Connecticut Educational Clubs.

Every one at all addicted to afternoon tea going—and who is not in a day given over to these delightfully economical and comprehensive entertainments?—is very well aware that at one end of the daintily laid table, yellow or pink or red, whichever it may be, sits a pretty girl presiding over a teapot, opposed at the other end by one equally charming, but devoted to the service of chocolate.

One would naturally suppose that on such an occasion the latter beverage would have small chance of popularity, for why should the affair be called a "tea" unless it includes the cup that cheers without inebriating?

In truth, when the Anglomaniacs first introduced this function the guests did invariably take orange pekoe for the best or reasons—nothing else was offered—but in course of time the longing to outdo her neighbor took possession of the hostess' mind, and an era in entertaining was inaugurated by the installation of a second pourer, whose success was instant not only as a novelty, but because the delicious concoction she offered tickled the most fastidious palate.

Even the men gave in. No enchantment of bright eyes and dimples had ever been sufficient to persuade them into tea drinking, and though they hovered around the divinity behind it the kettle steamed away in vain, only called into service by the women and a few middle aged professors or litterateurs who had traveled much in England and learned the national habit of imbibing there.

With the advent of the belle chocolatiere all was changed, and her office was and is no sinecure. Back and forth from the pantry fly the chocolate pots. Wedgwood, Coalport, Dryden in quick succession, and the cut glass bowl is many times, refilled with its snowy masses of whipped cream.

The beaux come and stay, as anxious to make a record of cups as the German student to become the bier koenig of his class, and a pretty bud who has just been going through the ordeal of "pouring," being of a statistical turn of mind, kept her wits about her sufficiently to remember just how many applicants she had served—"204," she announced triumphantly to her rival of the teapot, who opened the lid of a squatty silver Queen Anne heirloom, peeping in mournfully at her only too plentiful supply and admitting with visible reluctance that but 12 people had yearned for a fragrant draft from the fields of Ceylon.

A word to the wise is sufficient. Tea givers in future might just as well do away with the tea altogether and send out their cards instead inscribed, "Chocolate from 4 to 6."

Nowhere in the world is more delicious chocolate made than in America, where it is only beginning to be so widely popular. In Europe it is a staple article of manufacture. German chocolate is proverbial. In Switzerland every other shop has a supply in the windows, and being very cheap much is eaten by the poorer classes, for its well known nutritive qualities are held in great esteem.—Boston Herald.

Helpmeets In More Than Name.

The Rev. Matt S. Hughes of Portland, the pastor of the Chestnut Street church, has the reputation of being the most eloquent preacher of his church in Maine, and is always in demand as a speaker on all sorts of occasions, from a dinner given by the drummers to the annual banquet of those who cling to the old idea that Robert Burns was a real poet, even if he didn't belong to the modern achool. Mr. Hughes is a believer in woman suffrage, and with right good reason, for his wife is one of the leaders of the movement in this state, and is like her husband, a ready and accomplished speaker. Thursday Mr. Hughes was to have addressed the Children's Christmas club, but was unable to be present, and Mrs. Hughes took his place, and it is wafted up here that some of the children thought she spoke better than he would if he had been present.

Mrs. Hughes is not the only woman in Portland who is able to take the place of her husband as a public speaker. The Rev. Samuel F. Pearson is very sick, and Mrs. Pearson, in addition to watching over him, has taken charge of his work and is doing what she can to fill his place. Sunday she spoke twice, and in the evening the hall was simply packed. Mrs. Pearson has for years been her husband's best assistant and is thoroughly informed regarding every feature of his work. She is an easy speaker and has long been regarded by the people for whom they have labored as a partner with her husband in the ministry.—Lewiston (Me.) Journal.

A Pioneer Newspaper Woman.

Mrs. Etta S. Wilson is the pioneer newspaper woman of Grand Rapids. Since 1886 she has been continuously in her chosen field—an accurate and versatile reporter, quick to discern a fact, fearless and conscientious. She understands the intricacies of reporting and ran "make a dash" with the editorial pen. As a court reporter she is unsurpassed. She has taken notes acceptably for the circuit, probate and superior courts and understands all that pertains to the sheriff's department. She has, when necessary, reported baseball games and horse races with as much ease and grace as the social functions of the elite. She picks up scraps of news overlooked by many reporters. She was state editor for two years of a daily paper. She frequently contributes picturesque and graceful articles to magazines and other periodicals.

Once for several weeks in the intense heat of midsummer, during the illness of one of her fellow workers, she silently assumed, in addition to her own work, his duties of court reporting and sent the regular check for his salary to the sick man.

Mrs. Wilson has for two years been secretary of the Grand Rapids Press club, was the first president of the Michigan Woman's Press club and is a vice president of the Western Association of Writers. She has been on every programme of the association since its organization. She is an officer of the Woman's Relief corps and does much philanthropic work.—Boston Woman's Journal.

The Modern Woman.

The era of newly educated womanhood seems to be bearing fruit already in the endeavor to place the household in a more healthful condition than was possible while women possessed little more than a smattering of piano playing and French and Berlin work. The National Housekeepers' Economic association was instituted for the express purpose of rousing women to a sense of their responsibility not only as housekeepers, but also as housebuilders, for from the science of true nourishment we are now passing to the study of true sanitation as embodied in the knowledge of heating, lighting and ventilation, and from this knowledge on to the higher ethics of the close relation between morality and sound living in a healthy environment, with proper food and clothing.

It is an interesting fact that it is the younger women instructors in the colleges that are taking up these practical questions instead of the abstruse theories or dead and forgotten languages. Professor Lucy Salmon of Vassar is devoting much study to the subject of domestic service, and Miss Marion Talbot of Boston for several years made sanitary science in practical form her special subject of study, acquiring such a reputation for her investigations that when Chicago university made up its faculty she was called to be a professor of sanitary science, with both women and men in her department.—New York Letter.

Young Women Composers.

Two charming and talented young women composers who are making their mark are Helen Hood and Margaret Ruthven Lang. Both of them have for some years been known as writers of songs of far above average musical quality—songs which the Apollo club, whose stamp gives the hall mark, have delighted to sing, and songs which the best known musicians have hastened to praise.

Margaret Ruthven Lang, the daughter of the well known organist and composer, may be said to have directly inherited her musical gifts, yet in no less measure has Helen Hood, for her family, one of the oldest in New England, has always been noted for its musical ability.

It is not a little remarkable that both of these talented girls, whose gifts bear so close a resemblance to each other, can look back not only to a New England ancestry, but to ancestors whose lives touched closely in the same little Massachusetts town of Lynnfield three-quarters of a century ago, and it is not uninteresting to note that the first musical instruction which the grandfather of Margaret Lang received was given to him by the grandfather of Helen Hood.—Boston Herald.

Connecticut Educational Clubs.

The "bit" of franchise accorded to the women of Connecticut has aroused in many a desire to be part and parcel of the business world. Several societies have been formed in the state—not suffrage clubs, but more distinctively educational societies. Two have already been organized in Hartford.

The Woman's Parliamentary club was the outcome of a desire on the part of some progressive women to know more of parliamentary practice, municipal affairs and business methods. The organization is meeting regularly twice each month, with a membership of 60. A number of the public schoolteachers are members. The plan is to have a permanent organization with permanent officers, but for the experience members will get by actually filling these offices the permanent officers will "abdicate," the president calling different members to act as president and secretary at the different meetings.—Hartford Correspondent.

That Hateful Word "Male."

In a recent speech before a women's organization Miss Susan B. Anthony said: "I've worked for 40 years to get that little hateful word 'male' stricken out of the constitution, and we'll do it yet, because the men are ready to help us now. It is only the women I am afraid of. They love to lean back at their ease and have somebody take care of them and think for them and vote for them, even if that somebody classes all women with idiots, paupers and lunatics, to pay for it."

Had to Dress In Men's Clothes.

Miss Blennerhassett and Miss Sleeman, the hospital nurses who went into Mashonaland in the service of their profession and have since written a book about it, have since their return to England received $3,500 for a "claim" which they "pegged out" for a shilling. Before they got out of the bush at Umtali they had to dress in men's clothes and boots, their own having worn out.

London Women Indifferent.

Miss Constance Williams, who canvassed in a London county council election, says woman does not really want the vote. Here is her experience: Not 1 per cent of women having the municipal franchise use it. The canvass books tell the same hopeless tale. Out of 50 women voters whom she canvassed only three promised to vote either way.—London Tit-Bits.

Will Try Again.

A vigorous effort was made in Waltham to elect a woman on the school board. Mrs. Hudson secured the signatures of 50 legal voters to nomination papers for Miss Sarah Osborn, and Miss Osborn received over 700 votes, although she was not elected. The women will try again next year and hope to succeed.—Waltham (Mass.) Letter.

PATENTS
FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

A Song of the World.

"World ain't what it useter be," you'll hear a feller say,
As he crosses of his legs and heaves a sigh,
But it happens she's the best world that she's ever been today,
An she's whirlin like two-forty round the sky.

The stores give bigger measure;
The mines a sight o' treasure;
There's more o' love an pleasure
In the land.
The skies are mostly sunny;
You jingle more o' money,
An the brown bees bring their honey
To your hand!

"World ain't what it useter be." Of course it ain't, because It's cuttin out a newer kind o' way.
It ain't got time to worry 'bout the kind o' world it was,
For it keeps a-gittin happy on the way!

Brighter blossoms twinin;
Brighter suns a-shinin;
What's the use in pinin
An whinin through the land?
Skies are mostly sunny;
You jingle more o' money,
An the brown bees bring their honey
To your hand!

INJUNCTION DENIED.

Secretary Carlisle Will Go Ahead and Issue Bonds.

HUSTLING BY GOTHAM FINANCIERS

Results In $25,000,000 Worth Being Subscribed For.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Judge Cox denied the application of the Knights of Labor for an injunction to restrain Secretary Carlisle from issuing bonds. The principal ground of his decision was that the applicants had no proper standing in court.

The action of the house judiciary committee and the application of the Knights of Labor for an injunction against Secretary Carlisle to restrain him from issuing bonds at all, together with other statements from prominent Republicans as to the validity of the bonds to be sold, has had a very damaging effect on their prospective sale. Secretary Carlisle on his visit to New York found it necessary, he says, to explain the meaning of a resolution of the house judiciary committee concerning his authority to issue bonds.

The impression has gotten abroad that the committee denied the authority of the secretary to issue bonds under the resumption act, for any purpose, but the resolution merely declares that the proceeds of such bonds shall be used for none other than resumption purposes. Many persons here believe that the resolution was intended to exert an unfavorable influence and produce a scare, thus hoping to force the secretary to change his policy.

The bonds will be sold and the proceeds will be used as the needs of the government may require. If congress will do nothing toward providing for the current expenses of the government, the secretary says he will use such resources and appliances as are within his reach, and he believes the people will sustain him in doing so.

Not a Syndicate.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—President John A. Stewart of the United States Trust company, in company with President E. King of the Union Trust company, were very active yesterday in missionary work on behalf of Secretary Carlisle's new bond issue. They visited all the principal financial institutions down town, and influenced the bankers to subscribe for $25,000,000 worth of new bonds.

"This is not a syndicate," said Mr. Stewart to a reporter. "It is purely a matter of personal interest to all the subscribers who have come to the conclusion that the failure of the bond issue would reflect on the credit of the government. The statement that they were actuated to this by fears that Secretary Carlisle would have a bill passed authorizing the coinage of the silver bullion now in the treasury is not fair to Mr. Carlisle. If such a thing were attempted I am positive the secretary of the treasury would not be the person who would propose such a measure.

"We have been more successful than we anticipated and already we have an assurance of the purchase of half of the whole issue. We have not confined the amount of the proposed purchase, and it is possible that the remainder of the bonds may be bought in this city."

African "Witch Doctor" Was the Perpetrator of Many Horrible Crimes.

CAPE TOWN, Jan. 31.—Major Adams has reported to the government that he has captured a witch doctor, who has for a long time been the terror of the Matabeles in the vicinity of Shiloh. The most terrible tales are told of his cruelty and daring. He is said to have been in the habit of entering the kraals, where the people were so afraid of him that they dared not resist, and to have carried off women and children, whom he murdered, after first binding them by the hands and feet, afterward pricking out their eyes with needles. Then he would drag his victims to the river Khami, and would retire to a convenient spot, from which he watched the crocodiles pull the bodies of the helpless and blinded people to pieces.

The witch doctor has been tried on the charge of murder, found guilty and sentenced to be shot.

Boston Broker Held Up and Relieved of $2300 In Cash.

BOSTON, Jan. 31.—One of the most daring cases of highway robbery known in this city for years occurred at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon on one of the principal business streets of the city. A. L. One of them held a pistol to his head while another held his arms, and the third went through him and took his pocketbook, containing $2300. "STRONG ARMED RED" CONVERTED.

Hearing the Music In the Mission, He Abandoned a Murderous Errand.

The Florence mission is just now in the possession of an interesting and promising convert who will likely trouble the minds of these philanthropists who make the reclamation of criminals their especial hobby. It was just after 9 o'clock on Friday night, and the large meeting room of the mission house was filled with a crowd of worshipers, when the door slowly opened, and there entered a heavily built, slouching individual whose square jaw and lowering forehead somehow suggested a sandbag.

The organ was playing "Where Is My Boy Tonight?" and as the stranger, after a moment's pause, walked up the center aisle to the platform all eyes were turned toward him. He looked steadily for a moment at Mr. Hyatt, the exhorter, who had charge of the service, and then wheeled around and silently contemplated the audience. The chorus of voices had died away to a quiver, and there was an unbroken silence as the man's hand groped toward his hip pocket. Then in a casual way he drew out a big, self acting revolver.

The audience needed no second bidding to run out into the street, but in a minute they had returned, reassured by the voice of the stranger. Then they saw that the man had placed the revolver on the desk in front of George Paine, an ex-actor.

Cries of "Crank! He's a crank!" sounded through the rooms. But the man standing on the platform, raising his hand for silence, said: "Do not be frightened. My name is Robinson. I have been saved from crime tonight."

Then he proceeded to inform the audience how out west he had been known as "Strong Armed Red," how his real name was Abraham Robinson and how he had just been discharged from Joliet prison, Ills., after serving a five years' term for burglary. He had intended, he said, to get money that night, even if he had to commit murder to accomplish his purpose, and was on his way to Broadway to do a little stroke of business when he entered the Florence mission and was saved.

The mission people are trying to obtain employment for Robinson.—New York Tribune.

AN OBSTINATE WOMAN.

She Went to Jail Rather Than Give Up a Useless Bankbook.

Mrs. Bridget Sullivan, who was committed to the Ludlow street jail by Surrogate Ransom for refusing to give up a bankbook which belongs to the estate of Michael Adams, would not see reporters.

"Just tell them that this little matter needn't worry them," she told the keeper. "I'm all right."

"She seems to be very chipper," said the keeper. "She brought a bundle of things with her from her home and spends most of her time reading."

There is neither reason nor philosophy in this matter, nothing but sheer stubbornness. Mrs. Sullivan won't give up the bankbook, because she says that Adams owed her some money. Her lawyer told her that the bankbook would not help her and advised her to give it up, the surrogate advised her to give it up, and the counsel for the estate begged her to give it up, but—she—will—not—give—it—up—if—she—dies—for—it. Before she went to jail Mrs. Sullivan said: "Well, I'll stay there all winter if they want me to. Then I won't have to cook any meals or bother about housework."

Her husband called to see her, but did not seem to be anxious that she should come out.—New York Times.

Bavaria's Condition Unendurable.

In the lower house of the diet at Munich Prince Loewenstein read a declaration dwelling upon the immense burdens imposed by the military administration, which undoubtedly brought prejudice to the national prosperity. The present situation, he said, was almost unendurable, and the existing system was all the sadder as no guarantee could be given against further larger demands upon the people in view of the keen competition between European nations in making war preparations. The prince advocated an international court of arbitration as the sole means of salvation from the present situation. Dr. Buhl, however, contended that the best security for European peace was the maintenance of the preparedness of the army and the true observance of faithful alliances.—London Standard.

London Streets.

The chief engineer of the London Gas company has found that in some streets the pavement of wood blocks laid on concrete now forms a kind of arch capable of supporting traffic, while in many places the earth has settled away to such an extent that a man can crawl under the pavement. This is made a serious matter by the fact that the space between the soil and the concrete proves to be filled by a mixture of gas from leaky mains and air—a mixture very liable to reach explosive proportions and to be accidentally ignited, when the street might be blown into the air.—London Globe.

To Adopt the American System.

A London correspondent says the government will probably grant a strong petition recently presented for the appointment of a commission to consider the adoption of the American patent system in England. The chief point at issue is whether a system of preliminary examinations into the novelty of inventions should be introduced. Legal and scientific opinions are keenly and pretty evenly divided on the subject.

A good deal of attention has been attracted to a reported utterance by the queen regent of Spain, to the effect that the friendship which she must cultivate was that of France.
